Arkansas Nears New Race Crisis

ON HIGHWAY 80

Calhoun Boy, 13, Falls From Auto, Condition Serious

Tommy Butler, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Butler of Calhoun, was hospitalized yesterday after suffering a basal skull fracture when he fell from a truck.

The 13-year-old was riding in the back of a truck with a friend, Earl Williams, also of Calhoun. A gust of wind blew Tommy's cap off, and in attempting to retrieve it he lost his balance and fell out. The Williams youngster attracted the attention of his mother, Mrs. Earl Williams, who was driving the truck, and she stopped. The two ran back to the boy, just as a Shreveport physician, Dr. Mark Price, drove up.

He took the boy to St. Francis Hospital, picking up a State Police escort on the way. Tommy was being given oxygen last night, but so far blood transfusions had not been necessary.

Extent Undetermined

His mother said it would be at least 24 hours before the full extent of his injuries would be known. The mishap occurred about 3 p.m. yesterday on Highway 80 near Calhoun.

A great deal of mystery surrounded the boy's identity for more than an hour after he was brought to the hospital. The doctor who brought him in did not know his name, or the name of his parents, and the boy was unconscious. Both St. Francis and the Monroe Morning World were working to learn the boy's identity. Two letters found in his pocket addressed to R. B. Butler were the only clues. No Butler was listed in the Calhoun phone directory.

A phone call to Frank Golson of Calhoun revealed that he was the Butler's nearest neighbor, living about six miles away. Golson said that Butler did have a son about that age, and it might be his child. Golson then offered to drive to the Butler home to check. He did, but nobody was home. It was later learned that the Butlers had already been notified by Mrs. Williams shortly after the accident but had not been able to reach the hospital any sooner.

Tommy is a sixth-grade student at Choudrant school.

Girl, 17, Run Over By Car On Ark. Road

Miss Marion Williams, 17 - year-old resident of the Arkansas Road, last night was in St. Francis Hospital suffering from a fractured skull and leg injuries following an accident yesterday afternoon.

P. E. Williams, father of the girl, said she was standing in front of the Williams' Grocery and Service Station on the Arkansas Road near Drew School, putting air in the tires of her car, when another vehicle swerved off the road and hit her. He added that his daughter was standing "well off the road."

State Police identified the driver as Mrs. Nora Hobbs, 101 Linderman Ave., West Monroe, and charged her with reckless driving and driving without a driver's license.

Mother Saw Accident

The girl's mother also witnessed the accident. She called a Kilpatrick ambulance, and State Police were notified.

A 1957 graduate of West Monroe High School, Miss Williams is a secretary at the First National Bank in West Monroe. She was a beauty queen while in high school.

Williams said the car swerved into his daughter, but that she was not pinned between the two vehicles. The impact threw her clear of her car, he added, and she was dragged about 20 feet. The right wheel of the oncoming car ran over both her legs between the knees and thighs. X-rays showed she was not suffering from internal injuries, and neither leg was broken. Both, however, were severely cut and bruised.

The accident occurred about 4 p.m. yesterday.

Norway's Crown Placed On Head Of Prince Olav

OSLO, Norway, Sept. 21 (UP)—Crown Prince Olav, 54, became king of Norway today when he officially informed the cabinet of the death of his father, King Haakon VII, and swore allegiance to the Constitution.

The prince became King Olav V after the death this morning of the 85-year-old king who had reigned since 1905.

Among the last words of the old king, who remained lucid to the last, was his instruction to his son to "give my regards to the cabinet."

Rites Set For Oct. 1

Olav set Tuesday, Oct. 1, for his father's funeral. The entire nation was plunged immediately into mourning for the old king who became a hero with his opposition to Nazi Germany in World War II.

The new king, who lived in both the United States and Britain during his World War II exile from Norway, handed his written pledge of allegiance to the cabinet. The constitution provides that the successor to the throne should make this pledge to the parliament. But the cabinet accepted it instead because parliament is in recess.

4 Killed As Car Rammed By Train

PEARLAND, Tex., Sep. 21 (UP)— A crack Missouri-Pacific passenger train rammed an automobile at a grade crossing on the edge of Pearland today, killing three persons and injuring four others.

The dead were identified as Beverly Ann Webb, 13; Judy L. Kinser, 5, and Paul Kinser Jr., 8.

Three of the injured were taken to Jefferson Davis hospital in Houston, 20 miles to the north.

They were Mrs. Peter Webb, 36, of Pearland, mother of Beverly Ann Webb, and a son, Elmer Webb, 16, and Mrs. Helen Kinser, 28, mother of the other two dead children.

U. S. Airman Gets Life In Spy Attempt

SHREVEPORT, La., Sept. 21 (UP)—A decorated Air Force veteran of two wars was convicted at a super secret court martial of trying to sell American atomic secrets to Russia and sentenced to life imprisonment, the Air Force disclosed today.

Barksdale Air Force Base said Capt. George H. French, 36, of Mount Vernon, N. Y., was convicted by a seven-man court martial Friday.

The disclosure of the trial emphasized that French apparently "at no time actually made contact with a representative of the Soviet Union."

The Air Force said the espionage attempt occurred in Washington and New York last April while French was on leave from his post, Ramey Air Force Base in Puerto Rico.

An Air Force spokesman said in Washington that French "tried to deliver a letter personally to the Soviet embassy" there the night of April 5.

Counterspy Action Hinted

The letter, apparently dropped or deposited on the embassy property by French, likely was picked up by an alert counterspy or policeman.

"The letter was turned over to the FBI," the Air Force spokesman said. "It stated the kind of information he had to sell and said he could be contacted at a certain New York hotel.

"The next day, I believe, French was visited in his New York hotel room—by the FBI instead of the Russians."

He was convicted of trying to peddle secrets about atomic weapons in U. S. jet bombers.

Officers said French, father of three children and World War II bombardier, was the first man in the Strategic Air Command (SAC) to be convicted on such a charge. SAC mans America's arm which is equipped to strike back in event of enemy attack.

Officers cloaked the spy attempt in secrecy and revealed only that French attempted to

Enduring

A project that will endure indefinitely is that of the Monroe Exchange club which comprises the selection of men and women, heroes and heroines they call them, whose virtues have remained unsung until discovered through the efforts of this club.

It is the Exchange club's Book of Golden deeds that is unique and pays tribute to those to whom honor is due. It is a written commendation to be extended to living recipients.

Up to this time recognition has been given, one for each year, to the following who were commended by popular vote and committee action. They are Ernest L. Neville, James A. Noe, Dr. E. K. Means, and Miss Julia Wossman.

Oklahoma Crushes Pitt; Texas A&M In Close Call

By ED CORRIGAN
The Associated Press

Oklahoma, colossus of the nation's college football powers, ground Pitt—itself a formidable outfit—to a helpless 26-0 hulk yesterday as the 1957 season got under way with form holding up for the most part.

The only upset of any proportion—and it could not be classed as major—was North Carolina State's 7-0 victory over North Carolina in an Atlantic Coast Conference game.

The Tarheels were rated slight favorites, probably because Jim Tatum rarely gets beaten by the same team twice in a row. It was State that spoiled Tatum's debut at his alma mater last year and did the same thing this time around.

Texas A. and M., the favorite to win the Southwest Conference title, had no sinecure against Maryland in the NCAA televisior game of the week. The Aggies finally won, 21-13, but they could do no better than a 7-7 at the half.

Each team scored another touchdown in the fourth quarter, but Maryland missed its conversion. That's how it stood, 14-13 Texas A. and M., until the final minute of play when Charlie Milstead bulled over from the 1 with an insurance tally.

A handful of coaches made their debuts and at least two teams started their rebuilding programs auspiciously.

Jim Myers, who took over at Iowa State this year, got off on the right foot when his team whipped Denver, 10-0. But the news was bad for Bill Jennings at Nebraska and Milt Drewer at William and Mary.

Washington State unleased an aerial artist in Bob Newman and rolled over Nebraska, 34-12, in a major intersectional game, while George Washington made a solitary third period touchdown stand up for a 7-0 Southern Conference triumph over W&M.

Georgia Tech and Detroit both started rebuilding programs after poor '56 seasons. Bobby Dodd's during the term of the late Mayor C. C. Bell, Sr. He was active in business and civic affairs in West Monroe and Ouachita parish for many years.

Born in Downsville, October 1, 1896, Mims had lived in West Monroe since early boyhood. His residence was on the White's Ferry road.

He was also active in the Fair Park Baptist Church and a leader in the Gideons.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Katie S. Mims; three daughters, Mrs. James E. Fowler, West Monroe; Mrs. Garland Shell, Monroe; Mrs. Evelyn Fife, Houston, Tex.; three sisters, Mrs. Guy Holinsworth and Mrs. Jake Staples, both of West Monroe; Mrs. Elmer Thon, Cornell, Wisconsin, and four grandchildren.

Active pallbearers .. will be Smith Stevenson, Jeff Caldwell, Webb Goodlett, H. R. Woods, Ford Hines, and Horace Eyre.

Honorary pallbearers will be members of Mims' Sunday School class.

Girl, 17, Held For Slaying Dad During Argument

BROOKHAVEN, Miss., Sept. 21 (UP)—A 17-year-old high school girl, angered at her church-going father for switching her little brother and mother, shot and killed him today but said later she only meant to "scare him."

Alice Geraldine Buitt was jailed for questioning in the death of James Buitt, 45, a farmer and mechanic. Sheriff Carnie Smith said she probably would be charged in the shooting and placed under bond pending a preliminary hearing.

Officers said the girl was "pretty broken up" over it. He mother, who has 12 children, stayed with her in the jail.

Smith said Charles Britt, 6, accidentally knocked over the family television set and broke it last night while his father was in church.

Told about it at breakfast, the family said, Buitt threatened to "whip him to death." The boy ran from the house and Buitt followed and caught him.

Buitt was whipping the boy with a heavy switch, the family told officers, when Mrs. Buitt asked her husband to stop. Then he turned on his wife and began switching and beating her.

At that point Alice picked up a .22 caliber rifle, ran out on the porch and shot her father. She later said she did not mean to kill him but wanted to "scare him so he would stop."

The other 10 Buitt children were in the house at the time.

Suspicious Area Found In Atlantic

MIAMI, Sept. 21 (UP) — The Miami Weather Bureau reported today that an "area of suspicion" has developed between Haiti and Bermuda in the Atlantic Ocean. The area is about 850 miles east of southern Florida.

The weather bureau said special reports have been requested from ships in the area and that two planes are on the way to see if a tropical storm has developed.

The planes are from the hurricane research project at West Palm Beach. One took off from the Homestead Air Force Base and the other from the Palm Beach Air Force Base.

The weather bureau located the disturbance "equal distance" between Bermuda and the island of Hispaniola, on which is located Haiti and the Dominican Republic. The nearest land to the disturbance is the upper Bahama Island chain, and Florida, at least 800 or 850 miles away.

'Cotton Queen' Title Goes To Peggy Brantly

By RECA JASPER
State Editor

BASTROP (Special) — Weeping with happiness, shapely Miss Peggy Sharron Brantly was crowned queen of the North Louisiana Cotton Festival and Fair last night.

Chosen over 2 contestants, the 39-26-38 Homer beauty was granted the wish she had expressed when asked, "If you were given three wishes, what would they be?" Her first choice was "Cotton Queen."

Second place winner was Miss Jackie Smith, of Bastrop; while Miss Ann Nichols, of Monroe, placed third.

Miss Brantly, a dark - haired, creamy complexioned freshman at Tech, also holds the title of Miss Physical Culture of America. Miss Brantly displayed talent as well as beauty when she sang "Tammy." She was sponsored by the Homer Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Miss Smith, sponsored by the Bastrop Optimist Club, gave a humorous reading dealing with the subject of men. Miss Nichols' talent was baton twirling. She was sponsored by Northeast Louisiana State College.

Held In Auditorium

The beauty pageant was held in the auditorium of the "million dollar" Bastrop High School. The new school, completed several years ago, cost approximately $1,250,000. The auditorium was filled to the 1,200 seating capacity.

Miss Brantly will reign over the North Louisiana Cotton Festival and Fair activities for the year. Outgoing queen was Miss Betty Clyde Ratcliff.

Judges were Monroe Mayor W. L. Howard, Mrs Jeanette Kimball, 1957 Mrs. Louisiana; and James C. Ussery, of Monroe, past president of Monroe Jaycees and the state organization.

Miss Eleanor Cammack, state forestry queen, was present.

Horse show activities filled the morning program on the closing day of the four-day fair.

Despite threatening showers yesterday morning a large entry class turned out for the Quarter breeding and cutting division of the 4th annual Bastrop horse show.

Grand Championship

Entries from Arkansas walked off with grand championship honors at the show. Chosen as grand champion quarter horse stallion was Buddy's Joe, owned by W. G. Brown, Lake Village, Ark. Reserve stallion honors went to Poco Poco, owned by Albert Pakston, Vicksburg, Miss.

Grand champion in the mare class was Llano, owned by P. L Calloway, Dermott, Ark. Reserve champion mare was Inna's Domingo, owned by Ina Schuler, Eudora, Ark.

Selected as grand champion gelding of the show was Peppy's Hip, owned by Jean Hunter, Shreveport.

Winners in the other divisions were as follows:

1995 stallions: Stormy Rebel, owned by P. J. Spear, Sicily Island; Esso Pepe, owned by P. O. Clark, McDade; Spinner King, owned by Gerald Wallace, Bastrop.

1954 stallions: Buddy's Joe, owned by W. G. Brown, Lake Village, Ark.; Super Glide, owned by J. Z. Stutson, Harrisonburg.

RACE CRISIS

Ike Appeals For Arkansas Peace

NEWPORT, R.I., Sept. 21 (UP)—President Eisenhower stepped into the Little Rock School integration dispute today with an appeal to the city's white parents to vigorously oppose any violence by "extremists" seeking to keep Negroes out of the city's Central High School.

The President issued two statements on the Little Rock crisis. In the first, he said removal of troops from Central High Friday night was a "step in the right direction" and called for peaceful integration of the school.

In the second, the President outlined the events of the last 24 hours in Little Rock and then called for "sympathetic understanding" toward the nine Negro children who have been barred from Central High since the opening of the fall term Sept. 3.

Two-Sentence Statement

Eisenhower's first statement, consisting of two sentences, was issued by the summer White House shortly before the Little Rock school board met to issue an invitation to Negro children to enroll at Central High whenever they want to.

The school board action was taken as a result of removal of troops from the school by Gov. Orval E. Faubus, under a federal court injunction forbidding the further use of soldiers to prevent integration of the school.

The second White House statement was released by Press Secretary James C. Hagerty after the President finished a round of golf and conferred by long dis-

Kaiser Firm Walkout Ends At Chalmette

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 21 (AP)—A Five-day-old walkout at the Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Corp. plant at nearby Chalmette ended tonight.

Officials of Local 225 of the Aluminum Workers International urged the strikers to go back to work, saying their position was growing weaker and the company was prepared to make a long fight.

Forecast Indicates Weather 'In A Rut'

From all indications, the weather is in a rut.

More clouds, more scattered showers, more near - hot temperatures are in store for the Twin Cities today.

The high yesterday was 92, compared with the 91 of Friday, and yesterday's low was 75. The low Friday was a round 70.

Up in Arkansas, clouds and showers are also expected, with slightly cooler temperatures.

AFTER 25 CENTURIES

Ancient Biblical Pool Of Gibeon Rediscovered

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 21 (AP)—Archeologists have uncovered the biblical pool of Gibeon and the spring of ancient Israel is flowing again after 25 centuries, the University of Pennsylvania museum reported today.

The pool was discovered 82 feet down in hard limestone. A team headed by Dr. James B. Pritchard a research associate at the museum and professor at the Church Divinity School of the Pacific, Berkeley, Calif., made the find.

Restoration of the pool revealed one of the ancient world's remarkable engineering achievements, the museum said. The discovery confirms the biblical tradition that the men of Gibeon—now called El-Job—were "drawers of water." The archeologists also uncovered a mass of evidence indicating that wine-making was a flourishing industry before Gibeon and its environs were laid waste by King Nebuchadnezzar in 587 B.C.

The Bible refers to Gibeon as the place where the sun stood still and stones rained down from the sky as Joshua routed the invading Amorites.

The ancient engineers, in attempting to reach the water table, dug a cylindrical pit 37 feet in diameter to a depth of 33 feet. Then they carved a spiral stairway against the face of the pit. At the 33-foot level a tunnel was dug until water was found at 82 feet.

Dr. Pritchard said the work was probably done with slave labor and may have taken years. The work of clearing the pit and stairway was done by 80 men working two shifts a day for six weeks, he said.

The diggers found a water jar lying unbroken in the spring where it had been left by the last user more than 25 centuries ago.

Dr. Pritchard's team included Professor Fred V. Winnett of the University of Toronto; Asia G. Halaby of Jerusalem; Linda A. Witherill of Syracuse, N.Y.; and Dr. Claus-Hunno Hunzinger of the University of Goettingen, Germany.

Integration May Come Tomorrow

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 21 (AP) — Mayor Woodrow Wilson Mann said tonight that city police would deal firmly with any trouble-makers at Central High School Monday morning—and would not prevent integration—but he declined to give specific details of his plans.

After issuing a statement at a news conference here, Mann was asked flatly whether the police would be on hand to prevent integration if Negro students try to enter the school building.

"Our policy is one that will permit compliance with the law instead of obstructing it," the mayor said.

Asked if police would help a Negro student enter the 2,000-pupil white school, Mann said: "We're not running an escort service."

Pressed for clarification of that point, the mayor said he would have no further statement.

"We're expecting order on Monday," Mann said.

No Plans Revealed

He did not spell out his plans to keep order but it was learned authoritatively that the police department schedule calls for at least 35 policemen to be in the Central High area.

It was also reported that police strategy in controlling a possible crowd of white segregationists might be to keep onlookers constantly on the move—a step never taken by armed National Guardsmen who surrounded the school until last night.

"The eyes of the nation and the world will be on Little Rock Monday," the mayor's statement said. "We will be cast in a different light than during the past 18 days. Military force will be at an end."

The statement said, "Local law enforcement officers will be on hand to deal firmly with any individual or groups who might try to create trouble."

Asks Support

He asked Little Rock residents for cooperation and urged ministers of all faiths to pray tomor-

Bossier Woman Killed In Crash At Chipley, Fla.

CHIPLEY, Fla., Sept. 21 (AP)—A Louisiana woman was killed today in a three-car accident that also injured her year-old son and another woman.

She was Mrs. Winona Wilson Caraway, 24, of (931 Eastman St.) Bossier City, La.

Slightly injured were Ralph Dale Caraway, her son, and Mrs. Mary Williams Wilson, 41, of Avondale, Fla. The three were in a car driven by Mrs. Wilson.

State trooper E. W. Reeder gave this account of the mishap:

The car went on a shoulder of U.S. 90 three miles east of Chipley. Mrs. Wilson apparently pulled back too sharply and the vehicle crossed into the lane, where it was struck by an oncoming car driven by John Parmlee Sain, Bonifay High coach.

The Wilson car spun around and another car, driven by Thomas B. Webb Jr., 33, Marianna, Fla., crashed into it.

No one in the other two cars was injured.

Enduring

A project that will endure indefinitely is that of the Monroe Exchange club which comprises the selection of men and women, heroes and heroines they call them, whose virtues have remained unsung until discovered through the efforts of this club.

It is the Exchange club's Book of Golden deeds that is unique and pays tribute to those to whom honor is due. It is a written commendation to be extended to living recipients.

Up to this time recognition has been given, one for each year, to the following who were commended by popular vote and committee action. They are Ernest L. Neville, James A. Noe, Dr. E. K. Means, and Miss Julia Wossman.

Oklahoma Crushes Pitt; Texas A&M In Close Call

By ED CORRIGAN
The Associated Press

Oklahoma, colossus of the nation's college football powers, ground Pitt—itself a formidable outfit—to a helpless 26-0 hulk yesterday as the 1957 season got under way with form holding up for the most part.

The only upset of any proportion—and it could not be classed as major—was North Carolina State's 7-0 victory over North Carolina in an Atlantic Coast Conference game.

The Tarheels were rated slight favorites, probably because Jim Tatum rarely gets beaten by the same team twice in a row. It was State that spoiled Tatum's debut at his alma mater last year and did the same thing this time around.

Texas A. and M., the favorite to win the Southwest Conference title, had no sinecure against Maryland in the NCAA television game of the week. The Aggies finally won, 21-13, but they could do no better than a 7-7 at the half.

Each team scored another touchdown in the fourth quarter, but Maryland missed its conversion. That's how it stood, 14-13 Texas A. and M., until the final minute of play when Charlie Milstead bulled over from the 1 with an insurance tally.

A handful of coaches made their debuts and at least two teams started their rebuilding programs auspiciously.

Jim Myers, who took over at Iowa State this year, got off on the right foot when his team whipped Denver, 10-0. But the news was bad for Bill Jennings at Nebraska and Milt Drewer at William and Mary.

Washington State unleased an aerial artist in Bob Newman and rolled over Nebraska, 34-12, in a major intersectional game, while George Washington made a solitary third period touchdown stand up for a 7-0 Southern Conference triumph over W&M.

Georgia Tech and Detroit both started rebuilding programs after poor '56 seasons. Bobby Dodd's during the term of the late Mayor C. C. Bell, Sr. He was active in business and civic affairs in West Monroe and Ouachita parish for many years.

Born in Downsville, October 1, 1896, Mims had lived in West Monroe since early boyhood. His residence was on the White's Ferry road.

He was also active in the Fair Park Baptist Church and a leader in the Gideons.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Katie S. Mims; three daughters, Mrs. James E. Fowler, West Monroe; Mrs. Garland Shell, Monroe; Mrs. Evelyn Fife, Houston, Tex.; three sisters, Mrs. Guy Holinsworth and Mrs. Jake Staples, both of West Monroe; Mrs. Elmer Thon, Cornell, Wisconsin, and four grandchildren.

Active pallbearers will be Smith Stevenson, Jeff Caldwell, Webb Goodlett, H. R. Woods, Ford Hines, and Horace Eyre.

Honorary pallbearers will be members of Mims' Sunday School class.

Girl, 17, Held For Slaying Dad During Argument

BROOKHAVEN, Miss., Sept. 21 (UP)—A 17-year-old high school girl, angered at her church-going father for switching her little brother and mother, shot and killed him today but said later she only meant to "scare him."

Alice Geraldine Buitt was jailed for questioning in the death of James Buitt, 45, a farmer and mechanic. Sheriff Carnie Smith said she probably would be charged in the shooting and placed under bond pending a preliminary hearing.

Officers said the girl was "pretty broken up" over it. He mother, who has 12 children, stayed with her in the jail.

Smith said Charles Britt, 6, accidentally knocked over the family television set and broke it last night while his father was in church.

Told about it at breakfast, the family said, Buitt threatened to "whip him to death." The boy ran from the house and Buitt followed and caught him.

Buitt was whipping the boy with a heavy switch, the family told officers, when Mrs. Buitt asked her husband to stop. Then he turned on his wife and began switching and beating her.

At that point Alice picked up a .22 caliber rifle, ran out on the porch and shot her father. She later said she did not mean to kill him but wanted to "scare him so he would stop."

The other 10 Buitt children were in the house at the time.

Suspicious Area Found In Atlantic

MIAMI, Sept. 21 (UP) — The Miami Weather Bureau reported today that an "area of suspicion" has developed between Haiti and Bermuda in the Atlantic Ocean. The area is about 850 miles east of southern Florida.

The weather bureau said special reports have been requested from ships in the area and that two planes are on the way to see if a tropical storm has developed.

The planes are from the hurricane research project at West Palm Beach. One took off from the Homestead Air Force Base and the other from the Palm Beach Air Force Base.

The weather bureau located the disturbance "equal distance" between Bermuda and the island of Hispaniola, on which is located Haiti and the Dominican Republic. The nearest land to the disturbance is the upper Bahama Island chain, and Florida, at least 800 or 850 miles away.

'Cotton Queen' Title Goes To Peggy Brantly

By RECA JASPER
State Editor

BASTROP (Special) — Weeping with happiness, shapely Miss Peggy Sharron Brantly was crowned queen of the North Louisiana Cotton Festival and Fair last night.

Chosen over 2 contestants, the 39-26-38 Homer beauty was granted the wish she had expressed when asked, "If you were given three wishes, what would they be?" Her first choice was "Cotton Queen."

Second place winner was Miss Jackie Smith, of Bastrop; while Miss Ann Nichols, of Monroe, placed third.

Miss Brantly, a dark-haired, creamy complexioned freshman at Tech, also holds the title of Miss Physical Culture of America. Miss Brantly displayed talent as well as beauty when she sang "Tammy." She was sponsored by the Homer Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Miss Smith, sponsored by the Bastrop Optimist Club, gave a humorous reading dealing with the subject of men. Miss Nichols' talent was baton twirling. She was sponsored by Northeast Louisiana State College.

Held In Auditorium

The beauty pageant was held in the auditorium of the "million dollar" Bastrop High School. The new school, completed several years ago, cost approximately $1,250,000. The auditorium was filled to the 1,200 seating capacity.

Miss Brantly will reign over the North Louisiana Cotton Festival and Fair activities for the year. Outgoing queen was Miss Betty Clyde Ratcliff.

Judges were Monroe Mayor W. L. Howard, Mrs Jeanette Kimball, 1957 Mrs. Louisiana; and James C. Ussery, of Monroe, past president of Monroe Jaycees and the state organization.

Miss Eleanor Cammack, state forestry queen, was present.

Horse show activities filled the morning program on the closing day of the four-day fair.

Despite threatening showers yesterday morning a large entry class turned out for the Quarter breeding and cutting division of the 4th annual Bastrop horse show.

Grand Championship

Entries from Arkansas walked off with grand championship honors at the show. Chosen as grand champion quarter horse stallion was Buddy's Joe, owned by W. G. Brown, Lake Village, Ark. Reserve stallion honors went to Poco Poco, owned by Albert Pakston, Vicksburg, Miss.

Grand champion in the mare class was Llano, owned by P. L Calloway, Dermott, Ark. Reserve champion mare was Inna's Domingo, owned by Ina Schuler, Eudora, Ark.

Selected as grand champion gelding of the show was Peppy's Hip, owned by Jean Hunter, Shreveport.

Winners in the other divisions were as follows:

1995 stallions: Stormy Rebel, owned by P. J. Spear, Sicily Island; Esso Pepe, owned by P. O. Clark, McDade; Spinner King, owned by Gerald Wallace, Bastrop.

1954 stallions: Buddy's Joe, owned by W. G. Brown, Lake Village, Ark.; Super Glide, owned by J. Z. Stutson, Harrisonburg.

Aged stallions: Poco Poco, owned by Albert Pakston, Vicksburg, Miss.; Dempsey Beau,

RACE CRISIS

Ike Appeals For Arkansas Peace

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 21 (UP)—President Eisenhower stepped into the Little Rock School integration dispute today with an appeal to the city's white parents to vigorously oppose any violence by "extremists" seeking to keep Negroes out of the city's Central High School.

The President issued two statements on the Little Rock crisis. In the first, he said removal of troops from Central High Friday night was a "step in the right direction" and called for peaceful integration of the school.

In the second, the President outlined the events of the last 24 hours in Little Rock and then called for "sympathetic under standing" toward the nine Negro children who have been barred from Central High since the opening of the fall term Sept. 3.

Two-Sentence Statement

Eisenhower's first statement, consisting of two sentences, was issued by the summer White House shortly before the Little Rock school board met to issue an invitation to Negro children to enroll at Central High whenever they want to.

The school board action was taken as a result of removal of troops from the school by Gov. Orval E. Faubus, under a federal court injunction forbidding the further use of soldiers to prevent integration of the school.

The second White House statement was released by Press Secretary James C. Hagerty after the President finished a round of golf and conferred by long dis-

Kaiser Firm Walkout Ends At Chalmette

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 21 (AP)—A Five-day-old walkout at the Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Corp. plant at nearby Chalmette ended tonight.

Officials of Local 225 of the Aluminum Workers International urged the strikers to go back to work, saying their position was growing weaker and the company was prepared to make a long fight.

Forecast Indicates Weather 'In A Rut'

From all indications, the weather is in a rut.

More clouds, more scattered showers, more near-hot temperatures are in store for the Twin Cities today.

The high yesterday was 92, compared with the 91 of Friday, and yesterday's low was 75. The low Friday was a round 70.

Up in Arkansas, clouds and showers are also expected, with slightly cooler temperatures.

Ancient Biblical Pool Of Gibeon Rediscovered

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 21 (AP)—Archeologists have uncovered the biblical pool of Gibeon and the spring of ancient Israel is flowing again after 25 centuries, the University of Pennsylvania museum reported today.

The pool was discovered 82 feet down in hard limestone. A team headed by Dr. James B. Pritchard a research associate at the museum and professor at the Church Divinity School of the Pacific, Berkeley, Calif., made the find.

Restoration of the pool revealed one of the ancient world's remarkable engineering achievements, the museum said. The discovery confirms the biblical tradition that the men of Gibeon—now called El-Job—were "drawers of water." The archeologists also uncovered a mass of evidence indicating that wine-making was a flourishing industry before Gibeon and its environs were laid waste by King Nebuchadnezzar in 587 B.C.

The Bible refers to Gibeon as the place where the sun stood still and stones rained down from the sky as Joshua routed the invading Amorites.

The ancient engineers, in attempting to reach the water table, dug a cylindrical pit 37 feet in diameter to a depth of 33 feet. Then they carved a spiral stairway against the face of the pit. At the 33-foot level a tunnel was dug until water was found at 82 feet.

Dr. Pritchard said the work was probably done with slave labor and may have taken years. The work of clearing the pit and stairway was done by 80 men working two shifts a day for six weeks, he said.

The diggers found a water jar lying unbroken in the spring where it had been left by the last user more than 25 centuries ago.

Dr. Pritchard's team included Professor Fred V. Winnett of the University of Toronto; Asia G. Halaby of Jerusalem; Linda A. Witherill of Syracuse, N.Y.; and Dr. Claus-Hunno Hunzinger of the University of Goettingen, Germany.

Integration May Come Tomorrow

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 21 (AP) — Mayor Woodrow Wilson Mann said tonight that city police would deal firmly with any trouble-makers at Central High School Monday morning—and would not prevent integration—but he declined to give specific details of his plans.

After issuing a statement at a news conference here, Mann was asked flatly whether the police would be on hand to prevent integration if Negro students try to enter the school building.

"Our policy is one that will permit compliance with the law instead of obstructing it," the mayor said.

Asked if police would help a Negro student enter the 2,000-pupil white school, Mann said: "We're not running an escort service."

Pressed for clarification of that point, the mayor said he would have no further statement.

"We're expecting order on Monday," Mann said.

No Plans Revealed

He did not spell out his plans to keep order but it was learned authoritatively that the police department schedule calls for at least 35 policemen to be in the Central High area.

It was also reported that police strategy in controlling a possible crowd of white segregationists might be to keep onlookers constantly on the move—a step never taken by armed National Guardsmen who surrounded the school until last night.

"The eyes of the nation and the world will be on Little Rock Monday," the mayor's statement said. "We will be cast in a different light than during the past 18 days. Military force will be at an end."

The statement said, "Local law enforcement officers will be on hand to deal firmly with any individual or groups who might try to create trouble."

Asks Support

He asked Little Rock residents for cooperation and urged ministers of all faiths to pray tomor-

Bossier Woman Killed In Crash At Chipley, Fla.

CHIPLEY, Fla., Sept. 21 (AP)—A Louisiana woman was killed today in a three-car accident that also injured her year-old son and another woman.

She was Mrs. Winona Wilson Caraway, 24, of (931 Eastman St.) Bossier City, La.

Slightly injured were Ralph Dale Caraway, her son, and Mrs. Mary Williams Wilson, 41, of Avondale, Fla. The three were in a car driven by Mrs. Wilson.

State trooper E. W. Reeder gave this account of the mishap:

The car went on a shoulder of U.S. 90 three miles east of Chipley. Mrs. Wilson apparently pulled back too sharply and the vehicle crossed into the lane, where it was struck by an oncoming car driven by John Parmlee Sain, Bonifay High coach.

The Wilson car spun around and another car, driven by Thomas B. Webb Jr., 33, Marianna, Fla., crashed into it.

No one in the other two cars was injured.

Two Firms Plan Early Use Of Sublimal Advertising

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 21 — Two firms have announced plans to shoot off television commercials so fast and so dim you won't see them with your eyes — only with your subconscious mind.

[illegible] ... president of the firm yesterday said the development, properly controlled, would benefit mankind. [illegible]

[illegible] would be too fast and dim for your conscious mind to see them. But they would be received by your subconscious mind. Then, when you enter a store, the message inside your brain would guide you to the sponsor's product.

Last week the Subliminal Projection Co. of New York announced its plans for the new type of commercial. Today the Experimental Films Inc. of New Orleans [illegible]

The big question [illegible] messages be a danger to American freedom? and (2) will the Federal Communications Commission approve the plan.

Moore, president of the New Orleans firm and a former city councilman, likened the new process to atomic energy.

"It provides such a tremendous field for social benefit that it would be worth the trouble to regulate," he said.

Moore said he felt the Chinese communists used a similar process when they brainwashed American prisoners of war in Korea. He said it was not the movies that reached prisoners but the invisible messages that accompanied the movies.

"Obviously this shows it could be put to bad use," he said.

"But we also could use it in mental therapy," Moore added. "These messages could reach through the mixed-up conscious mind of a mentally ill person."

In the commercial field, Moore said he was sure the FCC would want to screen messages before they were televised. But he did not know what could be done about attaching invisible commercials to films in regular theaters. Moore said federal regulations at present don't control that and each community would have to figure out a way to make sure the invisible commercials were harmless.

Hal C. Becker, vice president of the New Orleans firm, said present FCC regulations only require that the product's name be clearly announced. But the message about the product, under current rules, still could remain invisible.

Tech Art Prof Guest Speaker At Art Show

COLUMBIA (Special) — Miss Mary Moffett, Professor of art at Louisiana Polytechnic Institute, Ruston, will be a featured speaker on the afternoon program of the Caldwell Art Festival in Columbia on October 12.

Miss Moffett will speak on the subject "Design in crafts, past and present." She will illustrate her talk with slides and student work in applied design. She is especially fitted to speak on this subject because of her study and interest in architectural interior and applied textile design.

Miss Moffett received her Bachelor of Design degree at Newcomb School of art and her Master of Arts degree at Columbia University. She has had further graduate study at the Art Students League, New York City, Art Institute, Chicago, Northwestern University, Evanston, Illinois, California College of Art and Crafts, Oakland, and Syracuse University.

Her paintings have been exhibited with the Shreveport art Club and the Louisiana Art Commission. Her portraits are owned in private collections in New Orleans, Baton Rouge, Monroe, Ruston, Bunkie, and Urania. She is former president of the Art Section, Louisiana Teachers Association and also member of the National Committee on art Education of the Museum of modern art, New York City and the International Design Conference, Aspen, Colorado.

Mrs. O. N. Reynolds, Co-chairman, Caldwell Art Festival, said, "The Caldwell Parish Library is honored by Miss Moffett's appearance on the Festival program. She contributed so much last year as chairman of the art show judges. Her cooperation in this project is deeply appreciated."

The Caldwell Art Festival will be in Columbia on October 12 at the Community Center. One of the features of the Festival is an art show which will be judged by Miss Elizabeth Bethea, Mrs. Drew N. Hays, and Mrs. Guy Bordelon.

Aged Man Dies Or Heart Attack

A 75-year-old Ruston Negro, Virgle Nelson, collapsed and died of a heart attack yesterday afternoon as he was preparing to fish at Brewster's Boat Dock on Black Bayou.

Dr. J. T. Franch, parish coroner, made a routine investigation, but said there had been no evidence at all of foul play.

He said the Negro was known to have had heart attacks before, and that some medicine for these attacks was found in his pockets.

Four Seek Farmerville Mayor Post

FARMERVILLE (Special) — Four candidates have entered the race for mayor of Farmerville, according to Sam Hartman of the Town Council.

Seeking the office will be Troy Nelan, L. B. Odom, R. R. James and Ben F. Post. The election is slated for Oct. 22.

The special election was called to fill the vacancy created by the death of R. L. Turnage in July. Turnage was to have taken office for his second term that month. Alderman John F. Ramsey has been acting mayor since July.

In the event a second primary is necessary, it will be held Nov. 12.

Oct. 8 has been set as the date for a preferential election in which voters of Ward 1 will name a successor to Police Juror Clarence W. Nyegaard, who died Sept. 3.

Deadline for filing for this position is 12 noon, Thursday, Sept. 26.

Nyegaard's death occurred at the start of his second year in a four-year term. There will be no run-off, under provisions of the election. The person receiving the largest number of votes will be formally appointed by the governor to fill out the unexpired term of Nyegaard.

Report Success In Launching Of 'Thor' Missile

MISSILE TEST CENTER, Cape Caaveral, Fla., Sept. 21 (AP) — A huge, flame-trailing missile was launched from here yesterday in what was believed to be the first successful firing of the Air Force Thor.

Authorities confirmed only that a missile had been fired—the third in two days—but their tone indicated they were satisfied with the performance.

The projectile rose with a flaming tail, traveling upward on an even keel for perhaps 15 or 20 miles before turning in a more horizontal direction.

At this point, a burst of white smoke indicated a booster had been fired. The gleaming white missile, still traveling evenly on its path, let a string of smoke like that from a skywriting airplane. It moved away toward the east.

A trail of vapor, like that left by a jet airplane, followed it far out over the Atlantic.

Heavy Roar

Observers three miles away heard the sound 20 to 30 seconds after the missile was airborne at 9:25 a.m. It came as a heavy roar like the sound of bombers flying high overhead. Windows rattled in downtown Cocoa 15 miles away.

Thursday's firing, believed to be of a Snark, was made in cloudy weather. The missile was visible only briefly. It vanished in a bank of heavy rainclouds. A Snark is essentially a pilotless bomber.

Yesterday's missile, launched from the same spot where three previous firings of the Thor reportedly had been made, climbed straight up and was clearly visible for two minutes before it became a dot on the horizon.

The Thor, 65 to 70 feet in length and designed to travel 1,500 miles, is an intermediate-range missile developed for the Air Force. The first two firings were unsuccessful. The third, set off on Aug. 30, traveled an estimated 13 to 17 miles before its booster apparently threw it off course.

It was believed Donald Quarles, assistant defense secretary, witnessed the firing.

Quarles arrived Wednesday. He may make a report on the launching to Defense Secretary Wilson who may decide before he leaves office next month whether the Thor, the Army's Jupiter, or a combination of both should go into production.

Both are 1,500-mile missiles. The Jupiter has been called a "spectacular success" by Army Secretary Wilber Brucker.

There were rumors that the mighty Atlas, an intercontinental ballistics missile with a 5,000-mile range, was being prepared for firing but a source here pointed out that since the economy wave began there is little activity on weekends because it involves paying civilian employes overtime.

Also on the evening program will be classes in beginning Spanish. These will be conducted on Wednesday evenings from 6:15 to 8:45 o'clock in room 147 of the Administration Building, with Miss Hazel Mitchell, faculty member, in charge.

Miss Moffett received her Bachelor of Design degree at Newcomb School of art and her Master of Arts degree at Columbia University. She has had further graduate study at the Art Students League, New York City, Art Institute, Chicago, Northwestern University, Evanston, Illinois, California College of Art and Crafts, Oakland, and Syracuse University.

Her paintings have been exhibited with the Shreveport art Club and the Louisiana Art Commission. Her portraits are owned in private collections in New Orleans, Baton Rouge, Monroe, Ruston, Bunkie, and Urania. She is former president of the Art Section, Louisiana Teachers Association and also member of the National Committee on art Education of the Museum of modern art, New York City and the International Design Conference, Aspen, Colorado.

Mrs. O. N. Reynolds, Co-chairman, Caldwell Art Festival, said, "The Caldwell Parish Library is honored by Miss Moffett's appearance on the Festival program. She contributed so much last year as chairman of the art show judges. Her cooperation in this project is deeply appreciated."

The Caldwell Art Festival will be in Columbia on October 12 at the Community Center. One of the features of the Festival is an art show which will be judged by Miss Elizabeth Bethea, Mrs. Drew N. Hays, and Mrs. Guy Bordelon.

Aged Man Dies Or Heart Attack

A 75-year-old Ruston Negro, Virgle Nelson, collapsed and died of a heart attack yesterday afternoon as he was preparing to fish at Brewster's Boat Dock on Black Bayou.

Dr. J. T. Franch, parish coroner, made a routine investigation, but said there had been no evidence at all of foul play.

He said the Negro was known to have had heart attacks before, and that some medicine for these attacks was found in his pockets.

Four Seek Farmerville Mayor Post

FARMERVILLE (Special) — Four candidates have entered the race for mayor of Farmerville, according to Sam Hartman of the Town Council.

Seeking the office will be Troy Nolan, L. B. Odom, R. R. James and Ben F. Post. The election is slated for Oct. 22.

The special election was called to fill the vacancy created by the death of R. L. Turnage in July. Turnage was to have taken office for his second term that month. Alderman John F. Ramsey has been acting mayor since July.

In the event a second primary is necessary, it will be held Nov. 12.

Oct. 8 has been set as the date for a preferential election in which voters of Ward 1 will name a successor to Police Juror Clarence W. Nyegaard, who died Sept. 3.

Deadline for filing for this position is 12 noon, Thursday, Sept. 26.

Nyegaard's death occurred at the start of his second year in a four-year term. There will be no run-off, under provisions of the election. The person receiving the largest number of votes will be formally appointed by the governor to fill out the unexpired term of Nyegaard.

South's Governors And Education Leaders Meet

ATLANTA, Sept. 21 (UP) — Southern governors met with educational leaders at an unsegregated conference here today on the eve of a annual gathering that could produce fireworks over the issues of racial integration and states' rights.

Governors of nine southern and border states attended a routine regional education board meeting that included three Negro college presidents.

The two-hour meeting of the non-partisan board brought no mention of the boiling integration controversy in southern schools but the presence of the Negroes sitting in conference with whites was a rare sight in strictly-segregated Georgia.

Sunday, the governors will gather at Sea Island, a fashionable resort off the Georgia coast, for the annual conference of chief executives of 16 southern and border states.

Faubus Central Figure

Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas, the central figure in the big integration-states' rights controversy raging in Little Rock, has indicated he will attend the four-day meeting at Sea Island. A state capitol source here said a brass band welcome for Faubus is being planned by a group of citizens at Brunswick, where the Arkansas governor would deplane en route to Sea Island.

The agenda for the Sea Island conference contains no hint of the racial and political turmoil that grew out of Faubus' stand against integration at Little Rock. However, one governor said privately that the integration and state sovereignty issues were bound to come up, if only in informal discussions.

Rumblings of discontent among elements of the Democratic party in the South in recent days added even more gravity to the 23rd annual meeting of southern governors. Democratic party chairmen in Georgia and South Carolina assailed the party advisory council's censure of Faubus and President Eisenhower for their roles in the Little Rock situation.

Talk Of A Third Party

Talk of a third party movement came from some state party leaders but no governor was willing to say that any actual bolt was in the making.

Only social events are scheduled Sunday at Sea Island but a Monday session is highlighted by discussion of the question, "can a southerner be elected president?"

One of the conference members, Gov. A. B. (Happy) Chandler of Kentucky, is an announced candidate for the democratic presidential nomination in 1960 and two others, Leroy Collins of Florida and Frank Clement of Tennessee, are freqently mentioned as political "comers."

14 Deaths Blamed On Asian Flu

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The U.S. Public Health Service said yesterday that Asian flu has caused 14 deaths in this country.

The 14 deaths have occurred since July 1, and include deaths in California and Louisiana. U.S. Public Healtn Service officials did not give a complete breakdown on the fatalities.

The PHS said it does not yet consider the Asian flu outbreak a serious epidemic.

The latest outbreak of Asian flu was confirmed in eastern Michigan. A state health official there said it is reasonable to assume that the disease will spread across the state.

Dr. F.S. Leeder, director of disease control for the Michigan Health Department, said laboratory tests of 12 to 16 specimens confirmed the presence of the illness in the Saginaw area. Most of the cases are in the 12-to-16 age group.

Toronto, Canada, reported what may nave been that city's first death from Asian flu.

Dr. Morton P. Shulman, assistant coroner, said a post-mortem examination of Reginald Charles Curtis, 57, showed he died of pneumonia. The doctor said the complication could have started with flu.

The U.S. Public Health Service estimated there have been 100,000 cases in the country to date.

The service said increasing absenteeism in schools indicates spread of Asian flu in Oregon, Colorado, Mississippi and Texas.

"Reports of influenza in several areas of Mississippi, Texas, Utah, Oklahoma and Tennessee also suggest an increasing incidence," the agency's report added.

Report New Unrest Near In Jordan

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21 (UP)— Well informed diplomats said today a new Middle East crisis may be touched off in Jordan by Syrian-inspired terrorism and impending home-front political decisions.

External and internal challenges to King Hussein's authority were causing anxiety here and in other allied capitals. But officials said trouble may be averted if the British-trained Army remains loyal to the king.

These diplomats see some stabilizing factors in the uneasy situation, including the king's determination to stand up to internal opposition as well as Syria and Egypt, the merchant class which fears Syrian pro-leftist control, and the steady flow of paychecks to the Jordanian army.

But the overall outlook is said officially to be uneasy and will continue to be so for a long time.

Designed To Help

Recent delivery of American arms was designed to discourage Jordan's political opportunists. A test of the king's popularity, however, will come next month when the Jordanian parliament must be called into session or dissolved.

The Unied State has a heavy political and strategic stake in Jordan's future. This country is providing Jordan with 10 million dollars in military aid, and 20 million dollars more in economic aid. The total is more than one-third of Jordan's budget.

Turbulent Haiti Votes On President

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, Sept. 21 (AP)—This turbulent Caribbeanrepublic, ruled since June by a three-man military junta, will vote for a president tomorrow for the first time in seven years. The outcome hangs by a million or more fingernails.

Of Haiti's 1½ million residents eligible to vote, 76 per cent are illiterate. They will mark ballots after dipping the little finger of their right hand into indelible ink. The fingernail then will be clipped by a clerk to prevent repeat voting. A voter will be disqualified if the fingernail is not long enough to be pared.

Voters also will ballot for 21 senators and 37 members of the Chamber of Deputies.

Two of the three presidential candidates, former Sen. Louis Dejoie and Clemeny Jumelle, charged that the election machinery opens the way for widespread fraud and irregularities. Dejoie claimed the ruling junta nas rigged the machinery to assure a victory for the third candidate, Dr. Francois Duvalier.

Not Honest

Jumelle insisted to foreign newsmen that there cannot be an honest election. He called for another postponement "until they can be organized on a free and honest basis." He predicted, "The country is heading for fresh trouble."

He said 15 of the 58 candidates his group put up for Congress have withdrawn in protest and said more may quit. He even hinted he mignt withdraw.

Gun-carrying guards patrolled the homes of the presidential candidates.

The army and police had special issues of tear gas grenades to supplement their arms.

The military trio ordered a halt to all campaigning last night to give voters a 36-hour breathing spell from a heated campaign.

The junta promised the armed forces will insure free and honest elections and alerted Haiti's 2,500-man army against disorder. Another 3,000 reserves can be called in

A fourth presidential aspirant, Daniel Fignole, was exiled to New York last June while in office as acting president. Rival candidates charged he was using the office to foster his own election. The junta took over in the midst of violence.

In six strife-ridden months prior to that, Haiti had five governments. The trouble erupted last December when President Paul Magloire tried to extend his term in office in violation of the constitution. He was ousted after a general strike.

Solon Fears Alteration Of Apportionment

HOLLY SPRINGS, Miss. (AP) — State Sen. George Yarbrough of Red Banks said he fears legislative reapportionment would result in control by big cities and city bosses, "plus labor union bosses which would surely arise."

Yarbrough made the statement in a full-page advertisement in this week's South Reporter. The ad was designed to answer last week's full-page ad by Gov. J. P. Coleman which criticized Yarbrough and state Rep. J. K. Hurdle of Holly Springs for their opposition to a constitutional convention.

Coleman has called a special legislative session for Nov. 4 to consider such a convention to rewrite the 67-year-old Constitution.

In Yarbrough's ad, the north Mississippi senator said he fears re-apportionment because the Legislature would then be "controlled by the big cities and city bosses, plus labor union bosses which would surely arise, and the voice of the farmer will speak in a whisper where it now roars."

Recent statistics by Mississippi State College have shown the state is losing its rural population while gaining in urban population.

Referring to Coleman's suggestion of one senator for each county, Yarbrough said each senator would have one vote in 82 where he now has one in 49.

Marshall County has three representatives and shares a senator with four other counties.

Under Coleman's proposed reapportionment, Marshall County would have one senator and two representatives on a basis of population.

Under state law, constitutions are written by convention delegates elected by the people and submitted to the people for ratification.

Because of this, Yarbrough said, Coleman could not guarantee anything in a constitutional convention "which he controls said delegates with an iron hand. So great a power no one man should have."

Gov. Coleman, recuperating in a Jackson hospital after surgical removal of his gall bladder, declined comment until he has read Yarbrough's statement.

Boost United Givers

In the fall of 1956 the people of Ouachita parish organized the United Givers, a combined system of providing funds for various community agencies.

Prior to that time, each agency conducted its own drive for funds and operated effectively if it raised enough money and ineffectively if it did not. The people of Ouachita parish were being asked for money approximately 15 times a year.

Today all agencies have been invited to join the United Givers Fund in making one annual drive for operating funds.

One drive means more of your dollar goes for charity and less for expenses.

Through the efforts of a voluntary committee, each agency is closely checked before the people are asked to contribute.

The following agencies are provided with operating funds through the United Givers Fund: American Red Cross, Boy Scouts of America, Colored Community Welfare, Carolyn Rose Strauss Rehabilitation Center, Girl Scouts of America, Louisiana Mental Health Association, Association for Retarded Children, Monroe Area Guidance Center, Salvation Army and Red Shield Club, Young Men's Christian Association, Young Women's Christian Association.

In considering your donation to the United Givers Fund it is well to remember that this amount is deductible in figuring your income tax. When contributing to the United Givers you can always know that a part of the contribution is paid by the federal government in the form of reduced income tax.

Take a look at the eleven member agencies. Think of the good works accomplished by each. Think of the economy in the elimination of ten fund drives. Think how much farther your gift goes when such a small part of it goes to the expense of fund-raising.

Think how much nicer it is to be asked to work or contribute to one drive instead of eleven. Think how easy it will be if everyone does his part. Think how the volunteer worker feels when you say, "Sure, we'll do our part. We appreciate your taking the time to call on us, so we are all ready for you. Our employes have joined in with the payroll deduction plan 100 per cent and here is our firm check."

The agencies listed above all work to make Ouachita parish a healthier and better place in which to live.

The big day is October 8, although some workers are out in advance.

Fewer Laws Needed

If we should sometime have a session of Congress that did not pass any laws at all, it might be the very best thing that could happen to us. There is certainly much to be said for Thomas Jefferson's philosophy that that nation is governed best which is governed least—and there is no question but that we are now burdened with a multiplicity of laws.

The first session of the 85th Congress has now adjourned. What happened? Not much to brag about—but some things were done, among them being the appropriation of money for the federal budget.

Someone might say that this is one action that must always be taken by every Congress, but even that could have been questioned this year. As of last July 1, there were unexpended funds already appropriated amounting to $70 billion—and that was plenty to run the Government for the year without any new money at all. Of course, some of this $70 billion was no doubt earmarked for certain departments and this would require bookkeeping transfers—but what Congress has the power to give, it should have the power to take away.

There is one thing we can brag about that happened last year; namely, the clamor for economy in governmental expenditures that swept over the country and the demand on the part of the people that the Congress cut drastically the largest peace-time budget that had ever been presented to the American people. We wish we could join those who are bragging about the efforts Congress made along this line, and would do so except for the fact that there is a great deal of vagueness as to what the cuts actually amounted to and as to what the effects will be on governmental spending.

The Congress claims it cut the President's original budget by $5 billion or more. In his final press conference after adjournment, the President claimed that all but about $1 billion of this was "bookkeeping" savings and that some of the claimed cuts were "almost eyewash" because, he said, they will have to be restored. We don't know about the bookkeeping savings—and nobody else seems to know—but as to whether other cuts will "have to be restored," the Congress will have the final say-so on this, not the President.

It is a sad but true fact, of course, that with all the cutting of appropriations—whether actual or bookkeeping—there may be no lessening of spending, due to the enormous backlog of appropriations on hand at the beginning of the year.

During the year, the Senate passed by voice vote a bill to require that Congress appropriate just the money actually to be spent by an agency in one year, as recommended by the Hoover Commission and by others over the years. However, the House took no action on it.

At one time during the last session of Congress, one of the Senators accused the President of having no "fiscal brains." It would almost seem sometimes as if neither the Administration nor a great part of the Congress have any fiscal brains, else they would recommend and pass legislation to place the budget of the nation on a sensible, cash basis.

At any rate, the Presidnt indicated there was no lessening of spending in sight that would warrant a tax cut next year, whereas the Congressional leadership of both parties—next year being an election year—will undoubtedly each propose tax cuts and will each try to get the credit for them if passed.

Certainly there should be tax cuts and there should be payment on the national debt. What we need is less governmental spending, whether it be brought about by the Administration, by the Congress or otherwise.

About the same situation described above which applies to the whole budget also applies to one of the big items of the budget; namely, foreign aid. Here again Congress cut the Administration request by about $1 billion—for which it is to be commended—but there was already $8 billion authorized but unspent as of July 1st—so what?

Real Showdown On Federal-State Conflict Is Expected In Virginia

Integration or Disintegration?—Official Washington continues to look for the real showdown on the Federal - State conflict on authority and responsibility to come in Virginia. The Arkansas outbreak was unexpected. That in Virginia has been expected all along. Old Dominion crisis drew nearer this week when Federal Judge Bryan ordered integration in Arlington schools, across Potomac from National Capital, but granted a stay until the Court of Appeals rules.

If higher courts uphold Judge Bryan the Virginia law provides that Governor shall close schools rather than allow them to be integrated. Governor Stanley has said he would go to jail rather than disobey the state law he is under oath to enforce. Obedience to state law could put him in contempt of court. Prediction is that show down in Virginia will come in February or March. Repercussions that will last for a long time can be expected.

Honeymooning Justice Stays — Newly married 71-year-old Associate Justice Hugo L. Black who a few months ago considered leaving the branch has given up any such ideas. A one-time member of the Ku Klux Klan who became the most liberal member of the Court, Black was once discouraged when he was more often than not in the minority is now considered the dominant figure in the Warren-Black - Douglas - Brennan foursome which usually finds a fifth Justice to comprise a majority. Justice Felix Frankfurter, at 76 the oldest member of the Court, also expects to continue. Prediction is that there will be no voluntary retirements from the Supreme Court during the Eisenhower second term.

GOP Looks South—Strange as it may seem Republican strategists think there is a possibility they can pick up Senate seats in Texas and Tennessee next year. If Senator Ralph Yarborough of Texas wins renomination an all-out effort will be made to defeat him in the fall. Ditto if Senator Albert Gore is renominated in Tennessee as expected. To illustrate the mixed-up nature of politics GOP think Yarborough and Gore hurt by their support of civil rights legislation which the Administration pushed in even harsher form. Prediction is that Thad Hutcheson of Houston will be certain Texas Republican nominee and strong effort made to induce Ray Jenkins of Knoxville, to accept Tennessee nomination.

Electric Power Fight — Public power Senators from the West are expected to come out fighting at the gong which will open January session of Congress. Occasion will be kickoff of attempt to pass measure limiting the Federal Power Commission's licensing authority. Bill to accomplish this was introduced by Magnuson and Jackson of Washington, Morse and Neuberger of Oregon, Murray and Mansfield of Montana and Church of Idaho. If such a measure had been law Commission could not have licensed Idaho Power Company to build three low dams on Snake River. Prediction is that the seven westerners will have strong Southern support. All of the seven except Morse and Neuberger went along with Southerners in efforts to water down civil rights legislation.

State Banks Protest — The once powerful office of Controller of the Currency which became obscure with the advent o' the Federal Reserve System is back in the spotlight because of the policy of high favors to national banks by Controller Ray M. Gidney. State banks see Gidney encouraging a new wave of mergers of big national banks.

Prediction is that state-chartered institutions will combine efforts and set up shop in Washington to fight their battle before Congress. Some legislators already drawing up measures intended to clip Controller's wings.

Anderson Problems Increase — As if the fact that he spends most of his waking hours in an effort to keep government spending down so that he will not have to ask Congress to increase the $275 billion debt limit were not enough, Secretary of the Treasury Robert A. Anderson will face some important international decisions when the annual meeting of the International Monetary Fund opens here Monday. Some IMF delegates will paint a dismal picture of a slump in world trade, ask the United States to put more dollars into the international system. British Chancellor of Exchequer Peter Thorneycroft is expected to point out possibility of an international liquidity problem, which unless dealt with promptly could set off a chain of insolvencies and lead to panic restrictions by government. Prediction is that IMF proceedings will be secret and the public will be told little about any decisions which are taken.

Policital Humphrey—The speech made by former Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey before the United Republican Fund at Chicago this week was frankly political. Coming from a man who shrunk from political activity before and during his tenure in the Cabinet it raised the question of whether or not Humphrey would be willing to head the Republican ticket in 1960.

Prediction is that Humphrey can get the Ohio favorite son designation in 1960 if he wants it. It could start merely as a holding operation for the big Ohio delegation until it discovered the lay of the convention land. And it could develop that the GOP, in convention assembled, could go further and do worse than make Humphrey the standard bearer.

Laws Are Applied After Play Becomes Mischief

I remember when the Fourth of July came to Tulsa, Okla., we used to experiment with firecrackers.

We would put them under tin cans and blow the cans as high as the roof. We would put them under pie tins and bulge the bottom.

Once I dropped one in the mailbox and blew the lid off. Once somebody dropped one in a glass bottle.

At this point the fun became foolishness. I don't know how he escaped that torrent of shrapnel.

As firecrackers got bigger . . . laws were passed to prohibit their use. Play had become mischief.

As with all excesses, somebody had to put a stop to it.

I've reflected often upon our childhood experiments as I've watched the progress of our bomb tests over Nevada.

This year we have touched off about a score of nuclear explosions over the Yucca flats.

Not to prove we can. We know that now. It's easy. But our military men have had to learn what would happen when you plant one underground . . .

When you drop one from the sky . . .

When — as was the case one recent morning—you dangle it from a balloon 500 feet over the desert floor.

I don't mean to minimize the importance of these scientific tests by comparing them with our childhood experiments.

Certainly if our military men ever have to use them we want them to know what to expect. We want them to know how to apply the most foot pounds of destructive energy to an enemy — with the least hazard to themselves.

But I shall continue to grasp for the thread of a higher hope. A hope that . . . and I speak figuratively here . . . we will discover what happens when one goes off "in a bottle."

Presently our research concentrates on perfecting a "clean, little bomb." Some military men believe we may need a nuclear weapon that can be confined and controlled so as to tear out a bridge without sterlizing a continent.

So they continue to experiment with "fractional shots." Well . . .

Where boys play with firecrackers or men play with weapons, there is always some irresponsible nut who overdoes it.

Because in 3,500 years of recorded history fewer than eight per cent of those years have been warless, I do not expect any voluntary reformation of the inhuman race.

I believe self - discipline is too much to count on and that, in any future conflagration, we must expect the worst.

If civilization survives it won't be because we limited our bombs to little ones. It will be because we made such big ones we had no choice.

Because then the result would be so hazardous to all concerned . . . reasonable men will realize . . .

There has to be a law.

That we can no longer afford the luxury of periodic military adventures.

Tha man's masochistic thirst for excitement must now be satisfied by other means.

That the "fun's" been spoiled by his own excesses.

That he can wage war no more.

House Investigators Prepare Probe Of Federal Regulatory Agencies

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22 (CQ)—House investigators are busily laying the groundwork for an election year probe of the Federal regulatory agencies that sit as judge and jury over so much of your economic life.

The public's vital stake in the way these powerful agencies are run makes the upcoming hearings rich in political ammunition. Democrats, who charge the Eisenhower Administration with violating the independence of the agencies, will try to substantiate their accusations during the public hearings scheduled to start in January.

The agencies were set up by Congress to watch over commerce between states. Congress writes the laws regulating such interstate businesses as aviation and trucking, electric power and gas companies and radio and television stations. The agencies, in safeguarding the public interest, see that the rules are obeyed and pass sentence when they are not. Agencies are bipartisan, but the President appoints the chairmen for most of them.

Because of the agencies' broad authority over everything from rates charged to tax writeoffs, their decisions affect the price you pay for a plane or railroad ticket or even a loaf of bread. They also largely decide what radio and television programs go to your neighborhood.

The House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee has given its Special Legislative Oversight Subcommittee the agency job. The House Democratic majority voted $250,000 for the investigation, the first Congress has made into how well the agencies are carrying out its wishes. The Subcommittee has narrowed the first part of its probe to the "big six" of the independent regulatory agencies: Civil Aeronautics Board, Federal Communications Commission, Federal Power Commission, Federal Trade Commission, Interstate Commerce Commission and Securities and Exchange Commission.

HOLMES ALEXANDER

Politicians Are Blamed When Big Budgets Asked

CANTON, Ohio — President Eisenhower's big budget drew an indignation barrage from the people, and if you want to know who got hurt — ask the 85th Congressmen, now in their foxholds back home.

"We politicians get the blame," says Congressman Frank Bow of Canton, Ohio. "Today I'm making three speeches — before the Lions, the Kiwanis and a group of students at the high school. I'll be trying to make them understand, first, that we did cut about $5 billion of bureaucratic waste and, second, that the high cost of government comes from the high cost of living. This means that the Labor leader and the Big Businessman are more to blame than the Congressman. I often say that Ben Fairless, who comes from Canton, raised taxes every time he signed another wage-hike contract with the Steelworkers."

In Bow's home-town office at the First National Bank Building, hang pictures of the President, Richard Nixon and George Washington. On another wall, wearing a firm look of confidence, a pink carnation and a white waistcoat, hangs former Congressman William McKinley, whose seat in the House is now occupied by Bow. The watchwords here, without apology, are Americanism and Republicanism. In this section of the Middle West, the words are often interchangeable. If the country is to have, in the promises of the Eisenhower campaign slogan, "peace, prosperity and progress," the Grand Old Party will deliver them. It was, after all, the "modern" Republican budget that got slashed.

Bow was instrumental, for example, in abolishing the funds for a rain-making survey by the Commerce Department. Not that weather control is not an important subject of national scope, but consider what happened.

For four years in a row, the rain-making team came back to the House Appropriations subcommittee asking for more time, more money and more payrollers. But never did they submit a report on weather control. This sort of investigation, however desirable, becomes a dispensable item when its costs are high and its results are nil.

Civil functions can be abandoned or postponed, but the inflationary prices are inexorable in military marketing. Should the Congressman be blamed because the B-36 bomber at $4 billion has been replaced by the B-52 at $8 billion? The aircraft carrier, when Eisenhower was elected, cost $91 million to build; today it costs $200 million. These essential weapons are larger and more complex than before, but the steepness of the cost rise is found in high Labor wages and in the profits-taking by the major industries.

This is Frank Bow's pitch, as he acts as attorney for the defense of budget-cutting Congressmen. His arguments are well understood in his District, which contains a Timken ball bearings plant, a Ford castings plant and a Hercules Motors factory. But these and other such industries of the Eisenhower Era are built amid the ruins, not too loosely speaking, of the once-flourishing glass and pottery industry which has been nearly done to death by low - wage competition from abroad. Shortly before Congress adjourned Bow, in a speech, reminded the lead and zinc producers of Oklahoma and New Mexico that it was the New Deal free traders, now aided by Modern Republicans who reduced their local producers to penury.

If you add together the Old Guard's hostility toward oversized budgets and its concern for the self-interest of local producers, you can see why old-fashioned Republicanism and old-fashioned Americanism are very much the same thing. The New Dealers of both parties have always been the big spenders and the free-for-foreigners traders. Today, the half-hundred entanglements by treaty and aid programs make it inevitable that we hover on the brink of war. Not only will there "always be an England," but there will always by a "Syria" or "Egypt" or "Formosa" or "Dienbienphu." It's a poor "brinksman" who can't find a crisis where he can enter an arms race with the next biggest power, or a death dance where he can't find a few partners to swing

Our people were clearly hoping to break out of these hateful and alien patterns when they voted the "change" in 1952. But it was a change of parties in name only, since the Modern Republicans are now outdoing the Fair Dealers in peace-time spending and global power politics. The wayfaring reporter comes to a place like Canton where McKinleyism still clings to the air, and he wonders if the country shouldn't make yet another change, a real one, back to fundamental Americanism. You get the feeling in the McKinley-Bow District that it might still happen in our time, if the people wake up.

STATES RIGHTS URGED

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

Permit me to congratulate your editors upon their fine editorials upon the present day problems, particularly the integration question. In fact, it is really not an integration but a question of the rights of the Sovereign States of the Union. Are we to maintain State Sovereignty or create one wast Federal State?

In my opinion, the Supreme Court of the United States, which is the judicial department of government has encroached upon the powers of the legislative department in that it has attempted to make law.

For many years I have been a student of law and government, and since the federal government is a creature of law, and its constitutional powers are those delegated to it by the several states, and these states retained as an inherent, sovereign right all powers are delegated to the federal government. Since the Federal Government is a legal concept it is apparent that there is no Federal Common Law, and its laws are statutory.

Judicial precedent or the doctrine of state decisis is a concept of the common law, often called Judge Made Law. I can't see how the Supreme Court of the United States can make law where Congress has not done so.

Many of the articles and amendments of the federal Constitution are inoperative unless Congress legislates upon them. Then such legislation is subject to interpretation by the courts.

Under our Civil or Roman Law system Stare Decisis is not as strong as in the Common Law, in that our courts interpret and act upon the Codified System.

The above are my personal views which I have expressed to high sources in Washington, and I believe in these principles.

We love our country, our National Government, and wish to see harmony, but you cannot enforce laws against long continued custom and emotional conflicts if the people object thereto.

Continue your good editorial policy for the good of our beloved country.

CHANGING SCHOOLS

Bastrop, La.

Editor, Morning World:

Now that the test has been made and the argument thoroughly settled, the people must face two alternatives: first, integration of races and a perpetual crime wave like the ones in Chicago, New York, and Brooklyn, the French quarter in New Orleans, and many other places where men's lives are continually in peril, and second, take the public schools out of state control, gerrymander school districts and give control of the schools to the patrons in each school district. It is now up to the people to take their choice between continuance of the progress of civilization, and retrograding into barbarism.

SWIM PROVES FATAL

PANAMA CITY, Fla. (UP) — A middle-aged Miami man was reported recovering today from a tragic night swim in which his wife drowned. John A. Armstrong, about 50, was hospitalized shortly after passersby rescued him as he struggled to keep his wife afloat in the choppy gulf waters. Mrs. Armstrong was given artificial respiration, but did not respond.

Always Near You

WHEN you go to church on Sunday . . . Though you know He's everywhere . . . Don't you feel that more than ever . . . God is really, truly there? . . . Isn't there a certain something . . . In that solemn atmosphere . . . That inspires you to thinking . . . God is somewhat extra near? . . . Don't you hear the angels singing . . . When you listen to the choir . . . And don't all your good intentions . . . Rise at least a little higher? . . . Yes, of course, you have that feeling . . . But it is not church on Sunday . . . For that's just a time for worship . . . You would seldom take on Monday . . . You could always be inspired . . . If you spoke to God each day . . . And remembered every moment . . . He is never far away.

Boost United Givers

In the fall of 1956 the people of Ouachita parish organized the United Givers, a combined system of providing funds for various community agencies.

Prior to that time, each agency conducted its own drive for funds and operated effectively if it raised enough money and ineffectively if it did not. The people of Ouachita parish were being asked for money approximately 15 times a year.

Today all agencies have been invited to join the United Givers Fund in making one annual drive for operating funds.

One drive means more of your dollar goes for charity and less for expenses.

Through the efforts of a voluntary committee, each agency is closely checked before the people are asked to contribute.

The following agencies are provided with operating funds through the United Givers Fund: American Red Cross, Boy Scouts of America, Colored Community Welfare, Carolyn Rose Strauss Rehabilitation Center, Girl Scouts of America, Louisiana Mental Health Association, Association for Retarded Children, Monroe Area Guidance Center, Salvation Army and Red Shield Club, Young Men's Christian Association, Young Women's Christian Association.

In considering your donation to the United Givers Fund it is well to remember that this amount is deductible in figuring your income tax. When contributing to the United Givers you can always know that a part of the contribution is paid by the federal government in the form of reduced income tax.

Take a look at the eleven member agencies. Think of the good works accomplished by each. Think of the economy in the elimination of ten fund drives. Think how much farther your gift goes when such a small part of it goes to the expense of fund-raising.

Think how much nicer it is to be asked to work or contribute to one drive instead of eleven. Think how easy it will be if everyone does his part. Think how the volunteer worker feels when you say, "Sure, we'll do our part. We appreciate your taking the time to call on us, so we are all ready for you. Our employes have joined in with the payroll deduction plan 100 per cent and here is our firm check."

The agencies listed above all work to make Ouachita parish a healthier and better place in which to live.

The big day is October 8, although some workers are out in advance.

Fewer Laws Needed

If we should sometime have a session of Congress that did not pass any laws at all, it might be the very best thing that could happen to us. There is certainly much to be said for Thomas Jefferson's philosophy that that nation is governed best which is governed least—and there is no question but that we are now burdened with a multiplicity of laws.

The first session of the 85th Congress has now adjourned. What happened? Not much to brag about—but some things were done, among them being the appropriation of money for the federal budget.

Someone might say that this is one action that must always be taken by every Congress, but even that could have been questioned this year. As of last July 1, there were unexpended funds already appropriated amounting to $70 billion—and that was plenty to run the Government for the year without any new money at all. Of course, some of this $70 billion was no doubt earmarked for certain departments and this would require bookkeeping transfers—but what Congress has the power to give, it should have the power to take away.

There is one thing we can brag about that happened last year; namely, the clamor for economy in governmental expenditures that swept over the country and the demand on the part of the people that the Congress cut drastically the largest peace-time budget that had ever been presented to the American people. We wish we could join those who are bragging about the efforts Congress made along this line, and would do so except for the fact that there is a great deal of vagueness as to what the cuts actually amounted to and as to what the effects will be on governmental spending.

The Congress claims it cut the President's original budget by $5 billion or more. In his final press conference after adjournment, the President claimed that all but about $1 billion of this was "bookkeeping" savings and that some of the claimed cuts were "almost eyewash" because, he said, they will have to be restored. We don't know about the bookkeeping savings—and nobody else seems to know—but as to whether other cuts will "have to be restored," the Congress will have the final say-so on this, not the President.

It is a sad but true fact, of course, that with all the cutting of appropriations—whether actual or bookkeeping—there may be no lessening of spending, due to the enormous backlog of appropriations on hand at the beginning of the year.

During the year, the Senate passed by voice vote a bill to require that Congress appropriate just the money actually to be spent by an agency in one year, as recommended by the Hoover Commission and by others over the years. However, the House took no action on it.

At one time during the last session of Congress, one of the Senators accused the President of having no "fiscal brains." It would almost seem sometimes as if neither the Administration nor a great part of the Congress have any fiscal brains, else they would recommend and pass legislation to place the budget of the nation on a sensible, cash basis.

At any rate, the Presidnt indicated there was no lessening of spending in sight that would warrant a tax cut next year, whereas the Congressional leadership of both parties—next year being an election year—will undoubtedly each propose tax cuts and will each try to get the credit for them if passed.

Certainly there should be tax cuts and there should be payment on the national debt. What we need is less governmental spending, whether it be brought about by the Administration, by the Congress or otherwise.

About the same situation described above which applies to the whole budget also applies to one of the big items of the budget; namely, foreign aid. Here again Congress cut the Administration request by about $1 billion—for which it is to be commended—but there was already $8 billion authorized but unspent as of July 1st—so what?

His arguments are well understood in his District, which contains a Timken ball bearings plant, a Ford castings plant and a Hercules Motors factory. But these and other such industries of the Eisenhower Era are built amid the ruins, not too loosely speaking, of the once-flourishing glass and pottery industry which has been nearly done to death by low - wage competition from abroad. Shortly before Congress adjourned Bow, in a speech, reminded the lead and zinc producers of Oklahoma and New Mexico that it was the New Deal free traders, now aided by Modern Republicans who reduced their local producers to penury.

If you add together the Old Guard's hostility toward oversized budgets and its concern for the self-interest of local producers, you can see why old-fashioned Republicanism and old-fashioned Americanism are very much the same thing. The New Dealers of both parties have always been the big spenders and the free-for-foreigners traders. Today, the half-hundred entanglements by treaty and aid programs make it inevitable that we hover on the brink of war. Not only will there "always be an England," but there will always by a "Syria" or "Egypt" or "Formosa" or "Dienbienphu." It's a poor "brinksman" who can't find a crisis where he can enter an arms race with the next biggest power, or a death dance where he can't find a few partners to swing

Our people were clearly hoping to break out of these hateful and alien patterns when they voted the "change" in 1952. But it was a change of parties in name only, since the Modern Republicans are now outdoing the Fair Dealers in peace-time spending and global power politics. The wayfaring reporter comes to a place like Canton where McKinleyism still clings to the air, and he wonders if the country shouldn't make yet another change, a real one, back to fundamental Americanism. You get the feeling in the McKinley-Bow District that it might still happen in our time, if the people wake up.

STATES RIGHTS URGED

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

Permit me to congratulate your editors upon their fine editorials upon the present day problems, particularly the integration question. In-fact, it is really not an integration but a question of the rights of the Sovereign States of the Union. Are we to maintain State Sovereignty or create one wast Federal State?

In my opinion, the Supreme Court of the United States, which is the judicial department of government has encroached upon the powers of the legislative department in that it has attempted to make law.

For many years I have been a student of law and government, and since the federal government is a creature of law, and its constitutional powers are those delegated to it by the several states, and these states retained as an inherent, sovereign right all powers are delegated to the federal government. Since the Federal Government is a legal concept it is apparent that there is no Federal Common Law, and its laws are statutory.

Judicial precedent or the doctrine of state decisis is a concept of the common law, often called Judge Made Law. I can't see how the Supreme Court of the United States can make law where Congress has not done so.

Many of the articles and amendments of the federal Constitution are inoperative unless Congress legislates upon them. Then such legislation is subject to interpretation by the courts.

Under our Civil or Roman Law system Stare Decisis is not as strong as in the Common Law, in that our courts interpret and act upon the Codified System.

The above are my personal views which I have expressed to high sources in Washington, and I believe in these principles.

We love our country, our National Government, and wish to see harmony, but you cannot enforce laws against long continued custom and emotional conflicts if the people object thereto.

Continue your good editorial policy for the good of our beloved country.

CHANGING SCHOOLS

Bastrop, La.

Editor, Morning World:

Now that the test has been made and the argument thoroughly settled, the people must face two alternatives: first, integration of races and a perpetual crime wave like the ones in Chicago, New York, and Brooklyn, the French quarter in New Orleans, and many other places where men's lives are continually in peril, and second, take the public schools out of state control, gerrymander school districts and give control of the schools to the patrons in each school district. It is now up to the people to take their choice between continuance of the progress of civilization, and retrograding into barbarism.

SWIM PROVES FATAL

PANAMA CITY, Fla. (UP) — A middle-aged Miami man was reported recovering today from a tragic night swim in which his wife drowned. John A. Armstrong, about 50, was hospitalized shortly after passersby rescued him as he struggled to keep his wife afloat in the choppy gulf waters. Mrs. Armstrong was given artificial respiration, but did not respond.

Always Near You

WHEN you go to church on Sunday . . . Though you know He's everywhere . . . Don't you feel that more than ever . . . God is really, truly there? . . . Isn't there a certain something . . . In that solemn atmosphere . . . That inspires you to thinking . . . God is somewhat extra near? . . . Don't you hear the angels singing . . . When you listen to the choir . . . And don't all your good intentions . . . Rise at least a little higher? . . . Yes, of course, you have that feeling . . . But it is not church on Sunday . . . For that's just a time for worship . . . You would seldom take on Monday . . . You could always be inspired . . . If you spoke to God each day . . . And remembered every moment . . . He is never far away.

House Investigators Prepare Probe Of Federal Regulatory Agencies

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22 (CQ)—House investigators are busily laying the groundwork for an election year probe of the Federal regulatory agencies that sit as judge and jury over so much of your economic life.

The public's vital stake in the way these powerful agencies are run makes the upcoming hearings rich in political ammunition. Democrats, who charge the Eisenhower Administration with violating the independence of the agencies, will try to substantiate their accusations during the public hearings scheduled to start in January.

The agencies were set up by Congress to watch over commerce between states. Congress writes the laws regulating such interstate businesses as aviation and trucking, electric power and gas companies and radio and television stations. The agencies, in safeguarding the public interest, see that the rules are obeyed and pass sentence when they are not. Agencies are bipartisan, but the President appoints the chairmen for most of them.

Because of the agencies' broad authority over everything from rates charged to tax writeoffs, their decisions affect the price you pay for a plane or railroad ticket or even a loaf of bread. They also largely decide what radio and television programs go to your neighborhood.

The House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee has given its Special Legislative Oversight Subcommittee the agency job. The House Democratic majority voted $250,000 for the investigation, the first Congress has made into how well the agencies are carrying out its wishes. The Subcommittee has narrowed the first part of its probe to the "big six" of the independent regulatory agencies: Civil Aeronautics Board, Federal Communications Commission, Federal Power Commission, Federal Trade Commission, Interstate Commerce Commission and Securities and Exchange Commission.

ATLANTA MEETING

Gremillion To Protest Range

BATON ROUGE, Sept. 21 (UP)—Louisiana Attorney Gen. Jack Gremillion said he will attend a meeting in Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 2 to protest a Navy proposal to establish a gunnery practice range in Vermilion parish.

Gremillion declared he will register an official protest at the hearings conducted by the Civil Aeronautics Administration. He said he would make the complaint on behalf of the state in general and the mineral board in particular.

The Navy announced this week it had undertaken a preliminary study to determine if it was feasible to establish a bombing range in a 1,000 square mile area in Vermilion parish. The target range would be built in conjunction with a proposed Navy Training Center near New Iberia, La.

Area Is Valuable

The tract of land, 25 by 40 miles, contains two wild life preservations, a multi-million dollar dairy industry. Eight oil companies are also carrying out exploration in the area.

The Navy proposal of the gunnery range drew strong protests from Louisiana interests this week.

Wade W. Hollowell, president of the Mississippi Valley Association, called the proposal "the most ill-advised program I have ever heard of."

Hollowell said the tract involved about 25 miles of the Gulf intracoastal waterway through which more than 45 million tons of freight moved annually.

Hollowell said the "country's need is for a larger and more efficient waterway in the area rather than a bombing and target area that would disrupt the movement of vital cargo, agricultural pursuits, the proper utilization of fish and wild life refuges and preserves, and already extensive oil and gas exploration and production."

The Navy, in its application to the Civil Aeronautical Administeration, petitioned to have the proposed bombing range closed to air traffic from sunup until sundown.

Gen. T. B. Herndon, head of the aeronautics division of the public works department, said he planned to protest against the route being closed to oil company and private plane traffic.

However, Roy R. Theriot, mayor of Abbeville, La., said he conferred with Navy officials from the Corpus Christi, Tex., air station, and said no plans were proposed to close the area to private or commercial air lanes.

Navy Won't Condemn Area

Theriot said he was told by Navy officials they did not plan to condemn the area, and that Navy cadets would use the tract for simulated bombing attacks without explosive bombs.

The mayor quoted Navy authorities as saying all live practice bombing would be done in the Gulf of Mexico, and that private and oil company planes would be allowed to fly over the area by checking clearance with the control tower at New Iberia.

'WILL FLY IN'

Industry Hunters Urged To Build City Airports

JACKSON, Miss., Sept. 21 (AP)—Advice to Mississippi's municipalties: If you want an industry, build an airport.

C.A. (Bud) Moore, director of the State Aeronautics Commission, advises:

"If there is an industry in your future, it will arrive at the airport. A community without an airport can offer little to the industrialist looking for new locations for plant expansion."

For many years, the commission has been encouraging airport construction on its budget of $23,000 a year from state gasoline taxes.

"Our real big need today," Moore said, "is for land and facilities to provide local communities with airports as an inducement to industrial development."

Some communities have decided upon the airport as a solution to their industrial problem, he said.

Collins probably is the best example of community co-operation on this problem, he said, explaining, "They have chosen a site and an airport with a 5,000-foot runway is under construction."

Corinth and West Point are building airports under the federal aid program. Kosciusko and Aberdeen are at work. Ripley is improving its airport on account of industrial demands.

Pickens has an airport, "not much more than a cow pasture with a landing area, but it serves the purpose," Moore said.

Starkville has five industrial prospects who require an airport before they will choose a plant site.

Illustrating his point, Moore says commercial airplanes are outnumbered 15 to one by the private craft.

Commercial service already is available to a dozen towns—Jackson, Greenwood, Greenville, Vicksburg, Natchez, Laurel, Meridian, Columbus, Tupelo, Hattiesburg, Gulfport and Biloxi.

Corinth and Pascagoula have requested commercial service but the Civil Aeronautics Board has not completed its study of the request.

And Mississippi is one of the nation's largest users of crop dusting airplanes, Moore said.

Burglary Case Suspect Jailed

James L. Swarn, 24 - year - old Negro, last night was in the Parish Jail charged with burglary after being apprehended by the Sheriff's Department yesterday about 1:30 a.m.

The sheriff's office said Swarn is charged with entering the J. Guyton home on the Garrett Road and taking two billfilds, it was reported.

Guyton awoke and the Negro became scared and fled — without his shoes officers said. Sheriff's deputies caught Swarn at the intersection of Garrett Road and Milhaven and recovered the billfolds.

No bond had been set for the suspect.

Switch Engine Smashes Truck

COLUMBUS, Miss., Sept. 21 (AP)—A Gulf, Mobile and Ohio switch engine today struck a truck at a local crossing and dragged it 30 feet.

Police said the truck driver, Fred Stokes, Columbus, received only minor injuries, but a plank hurled from the truck caused ankle and scalp injuries to Mrs. Frank Curtis, 48, of Columbus.

Mrs. Curtis stopped at the crossing to let the train pass just before the collision, officers said.

Six-Day Fair In Jackson Opens Monday

JONESBORO (Special) —The 1957 edition of the Jackson Parish fair gets under way tomorrow with the Greater Dixieland Exposition presenting the concessions and the Jackson Parish Fair Association unveiling the annual rodeo which accompanys the fair each year. The six days will end Saturday.

An elaborate parade will precede the redeo Thursday afternoon. It will run through the town of Jonesboro and will include highlights of the fore-coming show. The Jonesboro - Hodge Riding Club and the Jonesboro - Hodge Band and majorettes, clowns, and riders will climax this great troupe in the afternoon.

Rodeo will start at 8 p.m. Thursday through Saturday.

Arrangements for exhibits will take place on Monday and Tuesday the preliminary judging begins on all articles. Livestock judging will be held on Wednesday.

2,500 Seating Capacity

For several years, the rodeo has been a part of the Jackson Parish Fair. The newly constructed stadium is a sample of the finest and newest planned designing in such architecture. The lighting and public address systems are clear and distinct. The huge stadium will seat an estimated 2,500 persons. Last year capacity crowds jammed the arena for this spectacler. Reports came this week that the interior of the stadium is in tip top shape for the initial performance Thursday night, which will be the first of three performances to run through Saturday night.

Riding clubs from everywhere come here each year to take part in this western revival and the Jackson Parish Fair. Also many individuals follow the show as fans of this troupe.

Two school days have been set aside at this year's fair. Wednesday will be the annual Colored School Day and Friday will be the School Day for all White schools in the parish.

Hoffa Heads Into Stretch Of Campaign

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21 (AP) —James R. Hoffa today headed into a stretch drive for the presidency of the Teamsters Union with a Senate committee, the courts and the AFL-CIO baying at his heels.

It still was considered possible the 44-year-old Midwest Teamsters boss might bow out as a candidate for the $50,000 a-year union presidency, although Hoffa said he is confident of election despite mounting misconduct charges against him.

"I still think I'll win," Hoffa said in Florida.

During the week ahead, Hoffa faces new congressional hearings into his labor career, two court appearances, and a possible new blast from AFL-CIO leaders.

All this is scheduled before the opening of the Teamsters convention at Miami Beach, Fla., on Sept. 30. The convention is expected to elect union officers Oct. 3 or 4. Dave Beck, the giant truck union's current president, is retiring. Like Hoffa, Beck has been deeply involved in charges of misusing union funds and powers.

Court Actions Set

In one of the pending court actions, a group of Teamsters members is seeking to block elections at the coming convention. They contend Hoffa and Beck have rigged the proceedings to make sure of Hoffa's election as president.

On Monday Hoffa is due in New York for arraignment on a federal wiretapping conspiracy indictment. He is charged with wiring his Detroit union headquarters to check up on Teamsters subordinates.

On Tuesday, new public hearings into Hoffa's affairs will start here before the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee. On that same day in New York, the AFL-CIO Executive Council is expected to give a final verdict on the federation's corruption charges against Hoffa and some of his Teamsters cohorts.

The rank-and-file move to block Teamsters elections for the present is expected to come to a head at a U.S. District Court hearing here next Friday.

The group of rebellious members is seeking a preliminary injunction to delay the elections on grounds more than 80 per cent of delegates to the union's coming convention were illegally handpicked by Hoffa and his supporters. The suit seeks court appointment of a referee to decide when new delegates have been chosen by democratic means.

Hoffa has three announced rivals for the Teamsters presidency—Thomas J. Haggerty, Chicago; Rep. John F. Shelley (D-Calif), and Thomas L. Hickey, New York.

Hoffa apparently is well ahead in delegate strength. The convention will be attended by 1,846 delegates.

Evangelist Jailed Again

PANAMA CITY, Fla., Sept. 21 (AP)—A Negro evangelist was jailed today for the second time for failing to send her 14-year-old son to school.

"The Lord has commanded me not to allow my son to associate with other children and I cannot break his commandment, even if you send me to jail forever and ever," the Rev. Ethel Richardson told County Judge Joseph W. Bailey after he sentenced her to 30 days in jail.

"One woman cannot defy the school laws of this state and I would be derelict in my duties if I did not send you to jail," he told her.

Bailey had imposed a similar sentence on her a year ago but withdrew it a few days later when she agreed to send the boy to school.

She was charged with failing to comply with Florida's compulsory school attendance law.

The woman described herself as a Holiness evangelist. She said she had no church.

Hondurans Set Election Today

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, Sept 21 (AP)—Hondurans try again in national balloting tomorrow to give their country an elected government and eventually a president. The last election erupted into violence and was declared a fraud. On this election eve, there was a strange calm.

At stake are 58 seats in a national assembly to draft a constitution and decide on the formation of a government. The assembly could do one of two things:

1. Declare itself the legislative body (Congress) and elect a president itself.

2. Call for congressional and presidential elections.

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, Sept 21 (AP)—Hondurans try again in national balloting tomorrow to give their country an elected government and eventually a president. The last election erupted into violence and was declared a fraud. On this election eve, there was a strange calm.

At stake are 58 seats in a national assembly to draft a constitution and decide on the formation of a government. The assembly could do one of two things:

1. Declare itself the legislative body (Congress) and elect a president itself.

2. Call for congressional and presidential elections.

Detroit was founded in 1701 by French traders headed by Antoine Cadillac who wanted to control the entry from Lake Erie to Lake Huron.

Department Of Highways Seeks Soil Studies

BATON ROUGE, Sept. 21 (AP)—The Louisiana Highway Department will open bids Tuesday for making soil explorations and foundation studies for the proposed Mississippi River bridge between Delta Point, La., and Vicksburg, Miss.

Highway Director R. B. Richardson said simultaneous bids on the project will be received by the Mississippi Highway Department at Jackson.

The proposed bridge, located less than a mile south of the present railroad-auto structure, will carry auto traffic only and be part of the federal interstate U.S. 80 east-west route.

Louisiana will assume three-fourths of the project cost, with Mississippi paying the remainder. Both states will receive federal aid.

Louisiana will pay the larger share, Richardson said, because approaches on the Louisiana side will be longer and more extensive.

4-State Meet Of Y's Men's Clubs To Meet

Delegates from four southwestern states including Texas, Mississippi, Arkansas and Louisiana will be in Monroe on September 28 and 29 for the annual regional convention of the Y's Men's Club.

Convention headquarters will be in the Penn Hotel which is providing all its convention facilities for the event.

Highlights of the convention program will include an address on Sunday noon by Gordon H. Stow of Lansing, Mich., immediate vice president of the Y's Men's International. A boat ride and barbeque on the Ouachita River will be held Saturday at 5:30 p.m.

A tea for the ladies is planned for 3 to 4 p.m., Saturday in the penthouse of the Penn Hotel.

Also on the program will be workshops Saturday afternoon from 1:30 to 4:30. Topics and discussion leaders will be:

"What the Y's Men's Club Means to the YMCA, Charles A. Wood, Jr., of Monroe; "World Outlook and Bishop Fund," J. Burney Durham of Shreveport; "Young Adult Work," William J. Sidner of Shreveport; "YMCA Membership Service," George Reiker of Houston, Tex., and "Youth Work," Bill Robinson of Monroe.

C. G. Pearce, president of the Monroe Y's Men's Club, said that the entire membership of the local organization is responsible for the planning of the convention, and would serve as hosts to the visiting delegates.

Realtor - Banker Dies In Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 21 (P)—John Dane Sr., 66, realtor and investment banker, died at a local hospital today.

Chairman of Dane and Northrop, Inc., he had been associated with the investment banking business since 1928, and had begun his banking career in 1907 when he joined Hibernia Bank and Trust Co., as a stenographer.

During World War I, he served as an ensign in the U.S. Navy.

Survivors include his widow, two sons, two brothers, and a sister.

Lakeshore PTA Cub Pack Gets Year's Charter

Highlight of the Lakeshore Parent-Teacher Association's initial meeting Thursday night was presentation of the Cub Scout charter to Pack 230 for the 1957-58 year.

The presentation was made by Jack Pankey, executive secretary of the Boy Scouts of America, to John V. Craft, president of the P.-T. A. in the presence of more than 200 P.-T. A. members.

Recognition for interest in the organization and accomplishments in its behalf were extended by Pankey to Mrs. John P. Zoll, principal of the school; Craft, Leroy Barnridge, Leroy Avery, Walter Dunn, Victor Martin, L. G. McCain, F. E. Mabry, Boyce W. Gibson, H. W. "Buddy" Tolson and Virginia Dunn.

Mrs. Zoll introduced the home representatives of the 17 class rooms and the teachers. Four of the latter are new members of the faculty.

Mrs. G. B. Wilson, Mrs. Earl Cox and Mrs. Louise Thacker conducted a recreation period, during which Mrs. James Ezell and Allen Green were prize winners.

The budget presented by Howard Monzingo, was accepted by the group.

Drunk Driving Charges Decline

Drunk driving took a back seat in this week's report of arrests made by the members of Troop "F" of the Louisiana State Police with headquarters in Monroe.

There were only four arrests made for that offense, as compared with 21 for reckless driving, seven for speeding in automobiles, six for speeding in trucks, six for operating a motor vehicle without a driver's license, and six for disturbing the peace.

Charged with drunken driving were the following listed persons: Francis D. Meadows, 31, of 1408 South Sixth Street, Monroe; Carter Roebuck, 33, Route 5, Union, Miss.; John F. Courtney, 58, Route 1, Lillie, La., and Alex Jackson, 32, Route 1, Newellton, La.

Other offenses registered included two charges for obstructing a highway, one for operating a motor vehicle with improper brakes, and one for failure to surrender driver's license.

Israel Holds Maneuvers In Desert Area

JERUSALEM, Sept. 21 (UP)—Israeli troops, jet planes and cannon-firing tanks have been staging military maneuvers in an area described only as "somewhere in Israel," it was disclosed yesterday.

In Jerusalem itself Israeli official quarters welcomed Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' recent U.N. statement on the Middle East as an implied warning to neighboring Arab states to keep hands off Israel.

(In Damascus, Syrian Premier Sabri Assali angrily denounced Dulles' speech, charging it contained "disturbing intentions" against Syria. Moscow and Cairo radios also attacked Dulles' statements as an attempt to disguise U.S. "designs" on the Middle East.)

Correspondents who witnessed the Israeli military exercices saw a co-ordinated air-and-ground simulated attack on an enemy" fortified hill position.

Jet planes dived down to strafe "enemy" columns with live ammunition while tanks fired their guns to support infantry moving in for the kill.

Israeli sources, meanwhile, said Dulles' U.N. speech showed that the secretary of state was obviously aware of Arab threats against Israel. Officials said Dulles cannot fail to be aware of a Jordanian declaration to use U.S. arms against Israel if necessary.

The sources said, however, that they appreciate that Dulles is being compelled to "soft pedal" or even ignore Israel's case in order to make a last-minute bid to save the Arabs from Soviet domination.

(A Damascus newspaper report quoted Syrian Foreign Minister Salah Bitar today as saying that King Saud of Saudi Arabia will visit Damascus this Saturday for talks on the tense Middle East situation.. A previous report had said that Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser would go to Syria at the same time for three-nation Arab talks.)

Two Killed In Crash At Bonham, Tex.

BONHAM, Tex., Sept. 21 (UP)—Jerry Lemon Hunter, 17, and his sister, Lillian Mae Hunter, 8, were killed today when the automobile they occupied collided with a truck two miles south of Bonham.

Corry Lee Hunter, 8, Lillian Mae's twin, was critically injured. Less seriously hurt were Clyde Kimbell Huskey, 22, and Donald Ray Atkinson 34, of Durant, Okla., the truck's occupants.

Huskey was driving the truck, a panel vehicle, and Hunter was driving the car. Parents of the Hunters are Mr. and Mrs. Orval Hunter of Windham, Tex.

The fatalities brought to four Fannin county's total for the year.

Highway Patrolman Bob Walker said the two vehicles sideswiped and parted, but in doing so the steel top of the car was ripped off.

Lebanon Valley College of Annville, Pa., won only one football game in 1956. It beat Wilkes, its first rival, 39 to 6, then lost seven straight.

State Farm Cash Income Declines

By KAY RAY
(Special Correspondent)

WASHINGTON — A $5 430,000 drop in cash income was felt by Louisiana farmers during the first seven months of this year in comparison with the same period last year, according to the Department of Agriculture.

The decrease in income resulted from increased costs and lower volume, the department said.

According to a new USDA report, Louisiana farmers sold $67,567,000 worth of livestock and livestock products and $51,551,000 worth of crops for a January-July total of $119,118,000. This was substantially below the cash receipts of $124 518,000 for the same period last year and compared with a general national upward trend of about one per cent.

Louisiana's realized gross income per farm in 1956 was $3.782, however, highest in three years. In 1955, the average was $3.766, and in 1954, $3,700.

Realized net income per farm in the state in 1956 was $1,616, lowest in three years. In 1955 it had been $1,716 and in 1954, $1,700. The Louisiana net income per farm in 1956 was well below the national average of $2,432, and the eight-state South Central region area average of $1,700.

Cash Receipts

According to the department, Louisiana farmers last year had cash receipts of $383,270,000, which included $117,136,000 for livestock and products; $253,016,000 for crops, and $13,118,000 in government payments for soil bank and conservation reserve acreage. This was substantially below the $386,238,000 in cash receipts in 1955, of which only $10,325,000 was in government payments.

Cash receipts, by commodities, for 1955 and 1956, in Louisiana were as follows:

Cattle and calves, 1955, $51,240,000; 1956, $48,898,000; dairy products, 1955, $33,658,000; 1956, $35,958,000; eggs, 1955, $9,418,000; 1956, $9,996,000; hogs, 1955, $8,650,000; 1956, $9,966,000; broilers, 1955, $8,854,000; 1956, $9,549,000; chickens, 1955, $729,000; 1956, $427,000.

Cotton lint, 1955, $94,517,000; 1956, $95,143,000; rice, 1955, $72,544,000; 1956, $57,584,000; sugarcane for sugar, 1955, $36,015,000; 1956, $37,218,00; cottonseed, 1955, $9,389,000; 1956, $11,324,000; sweet potatoes, 1955, $7,360,000; 1956, $9,134,000; soybeans, 1955, $4.177,00; 1956, $4,585,000; corn 1955, $4,403,000; 1956, $4,185,000; sugar cane syrup, 1955, $2,572,000; 1956, $1,681,000; hay, 1955, $1,333,000, and 1956 $1,249,000.

Potatoes, 1955, $606,000; 1956, $958,000; snap beans, 1955, $550,000; 1956, $843,00; shallots, 1955, $1,084,000; 1956, $796,000; tung nuts, 1955, $57,000; 1956, $790,000; wheat, 1955, $300,000; 1956, $763,000; green peppers, 1955, $516,000; 1956, $700,000; tomatoes, 1955, $376,000; 1956, $588,000; oats, 1955, $892,000, 1956, $552,000; cabbage, 1955, $502,000, 1956, $438,000.

U. S. Asserts Syria Must Make Move

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21 (AP)—American officials said today any formal moves to improve U. S.-Syrian relations will have to come first from Syria.

This attitude apparently reflected the tough stand Secretary of State Dulles took in his United Nations speech last Thursday. The speech—denouncing Russian intervention in the Middle East and declaring Syria's buildup of Soviet bloc arms menaces Turkey and her other neighbors—already has aroused angry outbursts in Syria.

Elsewhere in the Arab world, leaders friendly to America are reported concerned at the seeming hardening of U.S. - Syrian relations on a plane of ill feeling. They also are reported confused by recent Dulles statements which alternately blew hot and cold on the Syrian situation.

No Intent

Jawdat Mufti, Syria's U.N delegate, denied in New York that his country had any intention of harming her neighbors. Other Arab delegates questioned whether the present U. S. line might serve only to drive Syria closer to Moscow.

In Damascus, Syria's acting defense minister, Khaled Azem, challenged the United States two days ago to make direct contact with his government to smooth out their difficulties. He said U. S. warships could call at Syrian ports just as Soviet naval units are doing now.

But American officials said no response is planned. They said Azem appeared to be speaking only for himself, not the government, and has issued many conflicting statements recently.

It was Azem who paved the way for Soviet aid and trade agreements during a trip he made to Moscow.

Six Miners Escape From Elevator

DETROIT, Sept. 21 (AP)—Six salt miners spent a fear-filled cramped five hours last night trapped in an elevator on which a lift cable broke 200 feet underground.

A plunge to the bottom of the 1,250-foot shaft was stopped by a pair of spring operated safety brakes.

All six were uninjured, but shaken and taken to a hospital for a physical checkup.

The mine, in Detroit, is operated by the International Salt Co., Inc.

A 250-foot cable weighing 1½ tons fell on the elevator cage, and it was feared its weight might be too much for the brakes.

The cable first was removed, then the men were removed one at a time. An escape hatch had to be enlarged with an acetylene torch for one pudgy miner.

The tube-like elevator has two compartments, about three feet in diameter.

Two men were en route home from overtime work; four on the way up to get Asian flu shots.

"All of us thought a little about prayers," said Arnold Bullock, 38, "and we thank the Lord the safety device worked.

Orleans Realtor Finally Hits Tin Pan Alley Trail

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 21 (UP)—A New Orleans realtor whose wife called him "The World's Greatest Writer of Unpublished Songs," has finally hit Tin Pan Alley with "All I Am Is You," after 200 unsuccessful attempts to peddle his tunes.

Lester Bayhi began writing songs at the age of 15 and 35 years later all he nad to show for his perseverance were 200 rejection slips from all of the nation's music publishing houses. That was until he penned the tuneful "All I am Is You."

Once during the years he spent clerking, selling pianos, and real estate, Bayhi decided he was too far south of the music publishers in the north. So he headed for New York with a sackful of tunes. A year later all he had was worn out shoe leater and a sackful of rejection slips.

"I tried for a definite psychological effect with the words" he said. "Many songs have been written about love, but I tried to say the ultimate, the highest way of expressing love—'I am you.' It could be a boy saying it to a girl, a mother to a baby, a couple saying it on their golden wedding anniversary."

Of his new song, his 201st, he says the public will be the judge. "It could be a dog, or it could be a terrific hit. The public decides. They are the ones who have to buy it and play it for it to be a success."

Seven members of the London Philharmonic Orchestra recorded the new Bayhi tune. Laura Leslie sings the words. New Orleans organist Ray McNamara composed the music.

Bayhi, now a real estate salesman, said he is really inspired with the sale and he will continue to turn out more lyrics, and maybe later he would like to do a musical show.

"I love my work," Bayhi said, "but I would rather have a few hit songs on Broadway tnan be the real estate man in the Louisiana Purchase."

Two Men Give $200,000 Grant

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 21 (AP)—Two non-Catholic Arkansas insurance executives today pledged $100,000 each to St. Vincent's Infirmary here for a nurse's home in honor of a Little Rock physician.

The sole condition is that the nurse's home is to be designated as a memorial to Dr. R. E. McLouchlin, former chief of staff at St. Vincent's.

The donors are W. E. Darby of Little Rock, president of the National Old Line Insurance Co., and T. F. Taylor Jr., of Eupora, Miss., and Little Rock, chairman of the board of National Old Line.

The pledges were tendered directly to Sister Margaret Louise, who accepted on behalf of the Sisters of Charity. The Sisters of Charity order operates the hospital.

Dr. McLochlin, a practicing physician at Little Rock since 1934, is medical director of the insurance company.

Two Men Give $200,000 Grant

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 21 (AP)—Two non-Catholic Arkansas insurance executives today pledged $100,000 each to St. Vincent's Infirmary here for a nurse's home in honor of a Little Rock physician.

The sole condition is that the nurse's home is to be designated as a memorial to Dr. R. E. McLouchlin, former chief of staff at St. Vincent's.

The donors are W. E. Darby of Little Rock, president of the National Old Line Insurance Co., and T. F. Taylor Jr., of Eupora, Miss., and Little Rock, chairman of the board of National Old Line.

The pledges were tendered directly to Sister Margaret Louise, who accepted on behalf of the Sisters of Charity. The Sisters of Charity order operates the hospital.

Dr. McLochlin, a practicing physician at Little Rock since 1934, is medical director of the insurance company.

AFTER 200 FAILURES

Orleans Realtor Finally Hits Tin Pan Alley Trail

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 21 (UP)—A New Orleans realtor whose wife called him "The World's Greatest Writer of Unpublished Songs," has finally hit Tin Pan Alley with "All I Am Is You," after 200 unsuccessful attempts to peddle his tunes.

Lester Bayhi began writing songs at the age of 15 and 35 years later all he nad to show for his perseverance were 200 rejection slips from all of the nation's music publishing houses. That was until he penned the tuneful "All I am Is You."

Once during the years he spent clerking, selling pianos, and real estate, Bayhi decided he was too far south of the music publishers in the north. So he headed for New York with a sackful of tunes. A year later all he had was worn out shoe leater and a sackful of rejection slips.

"I tried for a definite psychological effect with the words" he said. "Many songs have been written about love, but I tried to say the ultimate, the highest way of expressing love—'I am you.' It could be a boy saying it to a girl, a mother to a baby, a couple saying it on their golden wedding anniversary."

Of his new song, his 201st, he says the public will be the judge. "It could be a dog, or it could be a terrific hit. The public decides. They are the ones who have to buy it and play it for it to be a success."

Seven members of the London Philharmonic Orchestra recorded the new Bayhi tune. Laura Leslie sings the words. New Orleans organist Ray McNamara composed the music.

Bayhi, now a real estate salesman, said he is really inspired with the sale and he will continue to turn out more lyrics, and maybe later he would like to do a musical show.

"I love my work," Bayhi said, "but I would rather have a few hit songs on Broadway tnan be the real estate man in the Louisiana Purchase."

U. S. Asserts Syria Must Make Move

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21 (AP)—American officials said today any formal moves to improve U. S.-Syrian relations will have to come first from Syria.

This attitude apparently reflected the tough stand Secretary of State Dulles took in his United Nations speech last Thursday. The speech—denouncing Russian intervention in the Middle East and declaring Syria's buildup of Soviet bloc arms menaces Turkey and her other neighbors—already has aroused angry outbursts in Syria.

Elsewhere in the Arab world, leaders friendly to America are reported concerned at the seeming hardening of U.S. - Syrian relations on a plane of ill feeling. They also are reported confused by recent Dulles statements which alternately blew hot and cold on the Syrian situation.

No Intent

Jawdat Mufti, Syria's U.N. delegate, denied in New York that his country had any intention of harming her neighbors. Other Arab delegates questioned whether the present U. S. line might serve only to drive Syria closer to Moscow.

In Damascus, Syria's acting defense minister, Khaled Azem, challenged the United States two days ago to make direct contact with his government to smooth out their difficulties. He said U. S. warships could call at Syrian ports just as Soviet naval units are doing now.

But American officials said no response is planned. They said Azem appeared to be speaking only for himself, not the government, and has issued many conflicting statements recently.

It was Azem who paved the way for Soviet aid and trade agreements during a trip he made to Moscow.

Six Miners Escape From Elevator

DETROIT, Sept. 21 (AP)—Six salt miners spent a fear-filled cramped five hours last night trapped in an elevator on which a lift cable broke 200 feet underground.

A plunge to the bottom of the 1,250-foot shaft was stopped by a pair of spring operated safety brakes.

All six were uninjured, but shaken and taken to a hospital for a physical checkup.

The mine, in Detroit, is operated by the International Salt Co., Inc.

A 250-foot cable weighing 1½ tons fell on the elevator cage, and it was feared its weight might be too much for the brakes.

The cable first was removed, then the men were removed one at a time. An escape hatch had to be enlarged with an acetylene torch for one pudgy miner.

The tube-like elevator has two compartments, about three feet in diameter.

Two men were en route home from overtime work; four on the way up to get Asian flu shots.

"All of us thought a little about prayers," said Arnold Bullock, 38, "and we thank the Lord the safety device worked.

Social Problem Develops Over Rush To Disasters

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21 (P) — Are you one of the people who make a bee-line for the scene of disaster? Well, don't.

A couple of researchers for the National Academy of Sciences said today that one of the major problems created by tornadoes, floods, explosions and other calamities is the people who flock around.

They've written a book about it, a book with the jaw-breaking title of "Convergence Behavior in Disasters—a Problem in Social Control."

What they are talking about is made clear enough, though, by a few examples. Here is their description of the traffic moving toward the scene of a tornado that struck in White County, Ark., in 1952.

"Cars were lined bumper to bumper for 16 miles on either side of Judsonia. Eighty per cent of the State Patrol was used to unsnarl the jam."

Similarly, they say, a "sky-traffic jam" was reported over the rubble of Waco, Tex., tornado of 1953, with "airplanes buzzing over the ruins like buzzards."

The authors say this problem of people thronging to the scene of a catastrophe is not receiving adequate attention in current disaster-control planning.

Their study, undertaken at the request of the surgeons general of the armed forces, was concerned not only with natural disasters but with disasters that might arise from enemy action.

Publication of the book was announced by the National Academy of Sciences. Charles E. Fritz, research associate of its committee on disaster studies, and J. H. Mathewson, assistant director of the Institute of Transportation and Traffic Engineering at the University of California, are the authors.

They said their findings were based on a detailed study of a large number of major disasters.

One common misconception, they said, is that the major disaster problem is the control of a panicky population when, actually, disaster victims are "normally passive, cooperative and subject to control."

"The major problem of control and the major hindrance to organized relief efforts," they write, "usually arises from the convergence of thousands of anxiety-motivated, help-motivated, curiosity-motivated and occasionally gain-motivated persons who enter the disaster-struck area from the outside."

Iraq Fears No Syrian Attack

BAGHDAD, Iraq, Sept. 21 (P)—A Foreign Office source said today Iraq is telling Syria "buying arms from Russia for legal defense is one thing, and exploiting Arab nationalism for international communism is another."

But this pro-Western nation does not believe Syria "will launch an attack against another Arab state," the source reported. And Iraq was described ready to cooperate with Syria against any danger, particularly from Israel.

This was in response to an inquiry from Syria to Iraq and other Arab neighbors whether they are worried by recent developments in Syria.

father's official duties for the last two years. Haakon broke his hip in a fall in 1955 and had been in failing health ever since.

The new king spent several months each year in the U.S. during World War II to be with his family who lived in exile there. He lived with his family at "Pooks Hill," outside Bethesda, Md. During his visits to the U.S. he looked after Norwegian interests, participated in meetings supporting the Allied cause and met political and business leaders.

Friend Of FDR

Among his closest friends was President Franklin D. Roosevelt. Olav visited the White House several times and with his family joined the President's family for Christmas dinner every year. The President was a popular dinner guest at "Pooks Hill."

Olav's wife, Crown Princess Martha, died in 1955. Olav's heir to the throne is Crown Prince Harold, born in 1937. His other children are Princess Ragnhild and Princess Astrid.

1954 SLAYING

Miami Police To Launch New Probe In Girls' Death

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 21 (P)—Miami police will go to Baltimore next week to launch a new investigation into the 1954 slaying of a Maryland girl.

Dade County State's Atty. Richard Gerstein said today his office, the sheriff's office and Miami police Department are combining forces to attempt to solve the case.

The girl sexually molested and slain three years ago was 7-year-old Judith Ann Roberts, blonde-haired daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James T. Roberts of Dundalk, Md., an eastern suburb of Baltimore.

Judith Ann was visiting her grandparents here when she disappeared from her bed the night of July 6, 1954. Her mutilated body was found next morning in underbrush on the shore of Biscayne Bay.

Beaten, Strangled

She had been beaten and strangled. A piece of cord was knotted about her neck. She was gagged with a handkerchief and dish towel.

In Maryland, State's Atty. Frank H. Newell III said the 14 persons to be questioned in the Baltimore suburb of Towson would include Mr. and Mrs. Roberts.

Newell said Miami authorities would arrive in Maryland Monday but questioning would not begin until Tuesday.

The child's father was indicted for the murder in September, 1954, but charges were dismissed in December of the same year on recommendation of then State's Atty. George Brautigam. Robert is a 46-year-old attorney and former labor organizer.

Gerstein, who took office here last January, said today:

"This is the first time that various investigators have been consolidated. We are starting from scratch to investigate the brutal murder of this child, and that means we will have to talk again with all witnesses questioned by various law enforcement agencies following the crime."

The Roberts girl was slain only two days after she and her parents arrived here to visit the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rosenberg. Gerstein said today that Rosenberg submitted to lie detector tests here Sept. 13 at his own request, but the findings were not announced.

Dr. L. C. Pierce, director of Church Relations at Texas Christian university in Fort Worth, Tex., will deliver morning and evening sermons in the First Christian church here today and will participate actively in the fellowship supper Monday night.

He is a man long active in civic and community affairs; has numerous important pastorates and taught Bible courses in Millsaps college Jackson, Miss. Has traveled widely in recent years in Europe and North America. His addresses here will be heard with unusual interest.

Changes

The charming and highly original home of Emma Lou Biedenharn, Riverside at Forsythe avenue, is again undergoing changes such as a person like its owner is able to imagine. An old - fashioned solarium with modern touch is being created.

Attracting the center of attraction is to be a 200-year-old fountain which originated centuries ago in France and this will be the alluring background for both exotic and tropical plant life.

The garden at the rear of this charming home is probably the most delightful and unusual of any hereabouts. There is a sunken garden, flowers that have been secured from the ends of the earth in many cases. Miss Emma Lou, a singer of wide fame, on special occasions in the past has delighted to invited her friends, and the general public, to visit and inspect the grounds that add charm to her unusual home.

TORNADO ALERT

Thunderstorms Sweeping Texas

By UNITED PRESS

A wave of thunderstorms churned across Texas from the South Plains to the mid-section Saturday night, dumping more than two inches of rain in some areas.

A large portion of Central and Northern Texas was put under severe thunderstorm and possible tornado alert until 11 p.m. Saturday.

Strong winds accompanied the line of storm which rolled across the upper half of the state in advance of a cold front which started pushing slowly to the south east again late Saturday.

Flash Flooding

A heavy thunderstorm hit Abilene late in the afternoon, dumping up to two and one-half inches of rain on the downtown section. Flash flooding hit several sections of the city.

The Abilene weather bureau, located several miles from the down town area, recorded only .78-inch of rain, but clocked gusts of wind up to 50 miles an hour.

Flash Floods hit numerous streets in south Abilene.

Three automobiles were trapped under two overpasses which flooded, but the occupants escaped without injury. The cars were completely submerged for a time.

Streets Inundated

Several businesses on Pine Street, Abilene's main street, reported water seeping into front doors. Most downtown streets were inundated for a brief time following the downpour. Some flooding also was reported for a brief time in northern Abilene.

The severe storm warning area was bounded by Lake Texoma, Abilene, McCamey, Del Rio, Waco, and Atlanta.

The thunderstorms formed at mid-afternoon in the South Plains area along and ahead of the cold front. They gradually spread until by 7 p.m. they covered a wide area of upper Texas.

More than an inch of rain fell in Dallas in less than two hours. Carswell Air Force Base at Fort Worth reported 1.60 inches, although the weather bureau at Ft. Worth recorded only .03-inch.

At dark, showers and thunderstorms covered a large area bounded by Ardmore and Broken Bow, Okla., to Sulphur Springs, Terrell, Midlothian, Cleburne, Stephenville, Possum Kingdom Lake and near Bowie.

Some other official 24-hour rainfall reports included Mineral Wells .37, Beaumont .02 and Brownsville .01. Temperatures ranged from a high of .112 at Presidio to 68 at Wichita Falls.

Temperatures were expected to be 10 to 15 degrees lower Sunday in areas where the cold front passes.

Hornblower, The Cat, Has Lengthy Walk

OMAHA, Sept. 21 (P)—Horrnblower, exhausted and footsore, is home again following a 455-mile trip to a home he had never seen in a city he had never heard of.

Quite an accomplishment for a 2-year-old cat.

While en route to Offutt Air Force Base from Barksdale Air Force Base at Shreveport, La., Chief W.O. Donald Moore and his family, along with Hornblower, stopped to visit a Civil War shrine at Gravette, Ark.

When the Moores returned to the car, Hornblower was missing.

After a search, the family continued on its way thinking Hornblower was gone forever.

Wednesday evening Robert Moore 13, recognized a familiar form outside the Moore apartment here. It was Hornblower.

Nobody knows how Hornblower got here.

The family doesn't figure Hornblower perched under the car. The family had halted 17 hours at Platte City, Mo., Moore said, and the cat would have left his place there for food.

In addition, Moore had the car on a rack for repairs to the underside, Sept. 4.

People's Homestead

We, at People's Homestead, hope you are enjoying our Carillon Bells, which we have recently installed to serve as a constant reminder that People's Homestead is here to serve you . . .

Soon, the "Weather Bell" Carillon will sing a forecast of the weather in melodies familiar to all . . .

For a summer hot spell, the melody, "Summertime" will ring forth, followed by the proper hour strike. A "Clear" forecast may be sounded by "Blue Skies"; cold will be promised by "Button Up Your Overcoat," and "Stormy Weather" is an obvious warning for rainy weather.

On special occasions and holidays, Carillon recitals may be played by local musicians, providing a magnificent addition to the cultural and spiritual life of our community.

The new king spent several months each year in the U.S. during World War II to be with his family who lived in exile there. He lived with his family at "Pooks Hill," outside Bethesda, Md. During his visits to the U.S. he looked after Norwegian interests, participated in meetings supporting the Allied cause and met political and business leaders.

Friend Of FDR

Among his closest friends was President Franklin D. Roosevelt. Olav visited the White House several times and with his family joined the President's family for Christmas dinner every year. The President was a popular dinner guest at "Pooks Hill."

Olav's wife, Crown Princess Martha, died in 1955. Olav's heir to the throne is Crown Prince Harold, born in 1937. His other children are Princess Ragnhild and Princess Astrid.

1954 SLAYING

Miami Police To Launch New Probe In Girls' Death

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 21 (AP)—Miami police will go to Baltimore next week to launch a new investigation into the 1954 slaying of a Maryland girl.

Dade County State's Atty. Richard Gerstein said today his office, the sheriff's office and Miami police Department are combining forces to attempt to solve the case.

The girl sexually molested and slain three years ago was -7year-old Judith Ann Roberts, blonde-haired daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James T. Roberts of Dundalk, Md., an eastern suburb of Baltimore.

Judith Ann was visiting her grandparents here when she disappeared from her bed the night of July 6, 1954. Her mutilated body was found next morning in underbrush on the shore of Biscayne Bay.

Beaten, Strangled

She had been beaten and strangled. A piece of cord was knotted about her neck. She was gagged with a handkerchief and dish towel.

In Maryland, State's Atty. Frank H. Newell III said the 14 persons to be questioned in the Baltimore suburb of Towson would include Mr. and Mrs. Roberts.

Newell said Miami authorities would arrive in Maryland Monday but questioning would not begin until Tuesday.

The child's father was indicted for the murder in September, 1954, but charges were dismissed in December of the same year on recommendation of then State's Atty. George Brautigam. Roberts is a 46-year-old attorney and former labor organizer.

Gerstein, who took office here last January, said today:

"This is the first time that various investigators have been consolidated. We are starting from scratch to investigate the brutal murder of this child, and that means we will have to talk again with all witnesses questioned by various law enforcement agencies following the crime."

The Roberts girl was slain only two days after she and her parents arrived here to visit the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rosenberg. Gerstein said today that Rosenberg submitted to lie detector tests here Sept. 13 at his own request, but the findings were not announced.

Iraq Fears No Syrian Attack

BAGHDAD, Iraq, Sept. 21 (AP)—A Foreign Office source said today Iraq is telling Syria "buying arms from Russia for legal defense is one thing, and exploiting Arab nationalism for international communism is another."

But this pro-Western nation does not believe Syria "will launch an attack against another Arab state," the source reported. And Iraq was described ready to cooperate with Syria against any danger, particularly from Israel.

This was in response to an inquiry from Syria to Iraq and other Arab neighbors whether they are worried by recent developments in Syria.

Book of Golden Deeds is being preserved as a document of historical value at the Ouachita Public Library in Monroe for the enlightment of generations to come.

The Exchange club asks that the public name persons whose careers and acts are entitled to Golden Deed recognition and these names should be mailed to Golden Deeds, care of Exchange club, Monroe, La. before November 21.

A committee will weigh the nominations made and decide who will be accorded this recognition for 1957. Its a highly worthy cause and the public is asked to aid with recommendations.

Sermons

Dr. L. C. Pierce, director of Church Relations at Texas Christian university in Fort Worth, Tex., will deliver morning and evening sermons in the First Christian church here today and will participate actively in the fellowship supper Monday night.

He is a man long active in civic and community affairs; has numerous important pastorates and taught Bible courses in Millsaps college Jackson, Miss. Has traveled widely in recent years in Europe and North America. His addresses here will be heard with unusual interest.

Changes

The charming and highly original home of Emma Lou Biedenharn, Riverside at Forsythe avenue, is again undergoing changes such as a person like its owner is able to imagine. An old - fashioned solarium with modern touch is being created.

Attracting the center of attraction is to be a 200-year-old fountain which originated centuries ago in France and this will be the alluring background for both exotic and tropical plant life.

The garden at the rear of this charming home is probably the most delightful and unusual of any hereabouts. There is a sunken garden, flowers that have been secured from the ends of the earth in many cases. Miss Emma Lou, a singer of wide fame, on special occasions in the past has delighted to invited her friends, and the general public, to visit and inspect the grounds that add charm to her unusual home.

Scholarships

Thirty - nine Centenary college scholarships have been granted to aid persons who are studying for the ministry or other religious work. In each case the sum is $150.

A number are from the Twin Cities and are as follows: Oscar Cloyd, Paul Durbin, Charles R. Fleming, Gwen H. John, William S. Milton, Charles P. Strong, Grayson B. Watson, and Charles L. Wilder of Eros.

Birthdays

Birthdays this week will be observed as follows: September 23—Mrs. J. R. Freeman, Mrs. Frank Williams. September 24 — Carolyn Freeman, George E. Oskoian, Mrs. Kenneth Day, Mrs. M. J. Hortman, Mrs. R. L. Gibbs, Carrie Dee Drew, Mrs. Stanley Passman, Mrs. L. H. McElroy. Sept. 25 — Kay Gilliland, Paul D. Johnston, Charles A. Jones. Sept. 26 — Mrs. Jessie Thompson, Steve Rader, Mike Solomon. Sept. 27 — Johnny Maroney, Mrs. J. D. Reeves. Sept. 28 — Mrs. J. E. Howell, Mary Alice Shaw, S. S. Black, Don Corbin, Miss Dee Morgan. Sept. 29 — C. E. Bates, Mary E. Davidson, Carolyn Harris, Mrs. Marvin M. Hill.

TORNADO ALERT

Thunderstorms Sweeping Texas

By UNITED PRESS

A wave of thunderstorms churned across Texas from the South Plains to the mid-section Saturday night, dumping more than two inches of rain in some areas.

A large portion of Central and Northern Texas was put under severe thunderstorm and possible tornado alert until 11 p.m. Saturday.

Strong winds accompanied the line of storm which rolled across the upper half of the state in advance of a cold front which started pushing slowly to the southeast again late Saturday.

Flash Flooding

A heavy thunderstorm hit Abilene late in the afternoon, dumping up to two and one-half inches of rain on the downtown section. Flash flooding hit several sections of the city.

The Abilene weather bureau, located several miles from the downtown area, recorded only .78-inch of rain, but clocked gusts of wind up to 50 miles an hour.

Flash Floods hit numerous streets in south Abilene.

Three automobiles were trapped under two overpasses which flooded, but the occupants escaped without injury. The cars were completely submerged for a time.

Streets Inundated

Several businesses on Pine Street, Abilene's main street, reported water seeping into front doors. Most downtown streets were inundated for a brief time following the downpour. Some flooding also was reported for a brief time in northern Abilene.

The severe storm warning area was bounded by Lake Texoma, Abilene, McCamey, Del Rio, Waco, and Atlanta.

The thunderstorms formed at mid-afternoon in the South Plains area along and ahead of the cold front. They gradually spread until by 7 p.m. they covered a wide area of upper Texas.

More than an inch of rain fell in Dallas in less than two hours. Carswell Air Force Base at Fort Worth reported 1.60 inches, although the weather bureau at Ft. Worth recorded only .03-inch.

At dark, showers and thunderstorms covered a large area bounded by Ardmore and Broken Bow, Okla., to Sulphur Springs, Terrell, Midlothian, Cleburne, Stephenville, Possum Kingdom Lake and near Bowie.

Some other official 24-hour rainfall reports included Mineral Wells .37, Beaumont .02 and Brownsville .01. Temperatures ranged from a high of .112 at Presidio to 68 at Wichita Falls.

Temperatures were expected to be 10 to 15 degrees lower Sunday in areas where the cold front passes.

Hornblower, The Cat, Has Lengthy Walk

OMAHA, Sept. 21 (AP)—Horrnblower, exhausted and footsore, is home again following a 455-mile trip to a home he had never seen in a city he had never heard of.

Quite an accomplishment for a 2-year-old cat.

While en route to Offutt Air Force Base from Barksdale Air Force Base at Shreveport, La., Chief W.O. Donald Moore and his family, along with Hornblower, stopped to visit a Civil War shrine at Gravette, Ark.

When the Moores returned to the car, Hornblower was missing.

After a search, the family continued on its way thinking Hornblower was gone forever.

Wednesday evening Robert Moore 13, recognized a famil[illegible] form outside the Moore apartment here. It was Hornblower.

Nobody knows how Hornblower got here.

The family doesn't figure Hornblower perched under the car. The family had halted 17 hours at Platte City, Mo., Moore said, and the cat would have left his place there for food.

In addition, Moore had the car on a rack for repairs to the underside, Sept. 4.

from

People's Homestead

We, at People's Homestead, hope you are enjoying our Carillion Bells, which we have recently installed to serve as a constant reminder that People's Homestead is here to serve you . . .

Soon, the "Weather Bell" Carillon will sing a forecast of the weather in melodies familiar to all . . .

For a summer hot spell, the melody, "Summertime" will ring forth, followed by the proper hour strike. A "Clear" forecast may be sounded by "Blue Skies"; cold will be promised by "Button Up Your Overcoat," and "Stormy Weather" is an obvious warning for rainy weather.

On special occasions and holidays, Carillon recitals may be played by local musicians, providing a magnificent addition to the cultural and spiritual life of our community.

Little Theatre Curtain Call

By SANDRA JOHNSON

"Busy, busy, busy." That's what the director and cast of "The Reluctant Debutante" are beginning to think. The Little Theatre is already echoing the first week of rehearsals. An improvised set has been arranged on stage for the rehearsal period, while plans for the real set are being made. Everyone is having a lot of fun working in "The Reluctant Debutante" . . . it is such a delightful play. It is a two act play in an English setting, written by William Douglas Home. The story revolves around the trials and tribulations of two English mothers and their debutante daughters, giving parties for the purpose of finding a man.

Visitors with us at the rehearsal last night were: Lovell Hayden and Julius Cahn.

Something wonderful has happened in Shreveport. A smash hit at the Marjorie Lyons Playhouse "The King and I" has been presented there and from all reports, was a tremendous success.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Cummings and Bill Cummings, Mrs. J. J. Potts, Ivan Uttal and Mrs. S. Kennedy Brown went as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charlton Lyons, who donated the Playhouse.

Mrs. Carl McHenry and Mrs. C. C. Boardman also journeyed to Shreveport to see "The King and I", and said they thoroughly enjoyed it.

Traveling to New Orleans to attend a Florists' convention are Mr. and Mrs. Henry Haas, Jr.

Ivan has informed us that for the production of "The Reluctant Debutante," he will be needing two white formals. If you know of some, give Ivan a call at FA 3-4263 or FA 3-8413.

See you Wednesday!

Gochenour Rites In Washington

R. M. Gochenour was summoned Saturday to Washington, D. C. to attend the funeral of his mother, Mrs. Bettie Gochenour, who was well known in Monroe. She had frequently visited here as guest of her son.

Death occurred Friday after a brief illness. She leaves five sons and twenty grandchildren.

The funeral will be held Monday and interment will be in Cedar Hills cemetery, Washington, D. C.

Drive-in movie theaters are mushrooming throughout Turkey.

The Monroe City Council Has Appealed The Gas Rate Case To A Higher Court

Your City Government is doing and will continue to do everything possible to convince the Courts that United Gas should be required to honor and fullfill the 25-year contract which the gas company themselves asked you to approve in 1947.

Photostatic copies of United Gas advertisements published in 1947 are reproduced below.

1. Preserving the present rate for residential and commercial users.
2. Granting the franchise to a company that can guarantee, by acceptance the franchise, dependable gas service to the City of Monroe.

The assurance of "preserving the present low rate for residential and commercial users" was a part of each advertisement published immediately prior to the election by United Gas as they solicited your support and asked your approval of the 25-year franchise, beginning in 1947.

Accepting this assurance at face value and acting in good faith, our citizens approved the 25-year franchise 976 to 10 on April 22, 1947, and United Gas followed with an advertisement saying "Thank You for your vote of confidence."

VICTORY BAPTIST CHURCH

Church Dedication Set In Afternoon

Two Baptist churches here will throw open their fine new sanctuaries today. Both church plants represent much effort and often self - sacrifice. The membership is pleased to have the public attend today. The first one of these is Victory Baptist Church, South Tenth and Pecan streets in Monroe, while the other is Rocky Branch Baptist Church. It represents an expenditure of fully $40,000 and was built for less than this sum as church members furnished a large share of the labor.

Both churches will have revivals that will doubtless prove specially impressive in their new surroundings.

The Victory Baptist Church will hear the Rev. L. L. (Skinner) Morris, pastor of Green Acres Baptist Church in Bastrop. Music will be directed by Donald McGough. Services will be at 7:30 p. m. each night during the week and the public is urged to attend.

The dedication exercises are set this afternoon at 2:30 p. m. The sermon of dedication will be delivered by the Rev. O. P. Bazor, pastor of Edgewood Baptist Church, West Monroe. The public is urged to attend.

Rocky Branch is extremely proud of its fine sanctuary and of all who gave time and effort in its erection. There will be al. day services and preparations are being made for the feeding of 1,000 persons at the noon time dinner.

Music will be featured and all are invited.

REV. H. L. SAMPSON

REV. WALTER MANGHAM, JR.

Fair Park Will Open Revival; Sampson Leader

The Fair Park Baptist Church, White's Ferry Rd. in West Monroe, will open a revival today which will extend daily through the week and will conclude September 29.

The Rev. H. L. Sampson, pastor of Parkview Church in Monroe, will serve as evangelist and music will be in charge of John Oldenburg.

The morning services are set at 7 a.m. and night services at 7:30 p. m.

The public is cordially invited to attend these services and hear inspiring messages in sermons and music.

Rev. Mangham To Fill Pulpit Here On Sunday

Rev. Walter Mangham, Jr., well known here in his native city, and who who has been invited to become pastor of the First Baptist Church in Albany, N. Y., will fill the pulpit of College Place Baptist Church this evening, and the public is cordially invited to attend the service.

He was graduated last May at the Eastern Baptist Seminary, Philadelphia, Pa. He is visiting for a short stay with his parents and friends here before he assumes his new duties in Albany.

The first war risk insurance was written in 1861 during the Civil War.

Today's YOUR GUIDING STAR Message:

0. Obad. 1:15. As you have done, it shall be done to you.
1. Obad. 1:3. The pride of your heart had deceived you.
2. Is. 27:4, 5. I have no wrath. Let them make peace with me.
3. Is. 30.21. Your ears shall hear a word behind you, saying, "This is the way, walk in it," when you turn to the right or the left.
4. Is. 30.28. You shall have a gladness of heart.

REV. ROY GARRETT

So. Side Church Plans Revival Old Time Style

The Southside Methodist Church, 1623 South Fourth Street, Monroe, will conduct an old fashioned revival September 22-29.

Everyone is welcome and of special interest is the fact that a minister of prominence, deep devotion to the cause and a past record of unusual successes in the pulpit will bring messages. He is the Rev. Roy Garrett, minister of the First Methodist Church in Quitman.

Music director will be R. L. Jones and organists will be Mrs. W. P. Stewart and Mrs. L. S. Chapman. Pete Medak will be evangelism chairman and the Rev. Lea Joyner, minister of this growing church, will assure that every effort is directed toward the greatest possible success of the meeting.

Services are planned at 9:30 a.m., Monday and Friday mornings and at 7:30 p.m. for Sunday. Additional services will be as follows: Youth services, 7 p.m. led by the Reverend Garrett at the same hour there are to be children's services led by Mrs. Carl Cheatham and Mrs. Edwin Fuller. At this same hour, 7 p.m. the adult group led by Mrs. Jack Dana and Mrs. Mae Goode will be in charge and invite all adults.

Reverend Garrett is a highly successful minister and has held many revivals in this state. His father is a retired Methodist minister and his brother is a successful minister in the church conference. The Southside Church group feels that it is highly successful in getting him to come to Monroe to help make the revival a success.

B' Nai Israel Youth Meet To Plan New Year

The Temple B'Nai Israel Youth Group, has just held its first official meeting when extensive plans were formulated f r the year. The president, Charles Snyder, presided.

Reports were submitted by Sidney Greenblatt, secretary, on the former meeting last May and Sandra Doernberg, treasurer, read her report which included the 1957-58 budget.

Members who attended the three institutes gave short talks and at the close, the president read the scheduled year's program. There was discussion of business affairs and the session ended with an informal social time.

Last Sunday the religious committee composed of Fl rette Snyder, chairman; Sandra Doernberg and Claire Solomon met and made plans for their work. The schedule includes: Yom Kippur service for the Sunday school; an interfaith service; two Temple services, conclave services and aid to the upper Sunday school classes in their services. Plans for the Yom Kippur service were made and the interfaith service discussed.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: I have been a Christian for a short time, but my husband shows little interest in becoming one. In fact, since I became a Christian he not only refuses to attend Church with me, but tries to find many things to keep me from attending. Do you think I should go with him, or that we should each go to the place of his choice? T. K.

ANSWER: Remember, you are still married to this man and in many ways you must respect his wishes. While church attendance is most important for every one who is a Christian, yet perfunctory attendance is not to be confused with spiritual living. If you refuse to go with your husband, you may lose him. Unless his choice of entertainment and amusement is contrary to Christian living, you would do well to go with him. Be the very best wife, and the most agreeable wife you can possibly be, but make it known to him how much you desire his salvation and how much you would like to have him accompany you to church to hear the Word of God. Pray for his conversion. I am confident that you will win him in time, if you do not, in your impatience, alienate him. The Bible says the unbelieving husband may "without the word be won by the behavior of the wife".

DR. LEE C. PIERCE

Dr. Pierce Of Christian Univ. Guest Speaker

Dr. Lee C. Pierce, director of church relations of Texas Christian University, will be guest speaker this week end at First Christian Church of Monroe. Dr. Pierce will be active in the current stewardship campaign of the church. A native of El Reno, Okla., Dr. Pierce spent most of his life in Texas.

He attended Texas Christian University where he received a B. A. degree in 1938 and a Doctor of Divinity in 1954.

Dr. Pierce will bring both sermons Sunday and will be guest speaker at a fellowship supper Monday night.

DR. SAM REEVES

Dr. Sam Reeves Will Lead In Church Revival

Dr. Sam Reeves of Baton Rouge will be the evangelist in revival services to begin today, September 22nd at the Central Baptist Church of Monroe. Dr. Reeves was formerly pastor of the Emmanuel Baptist Church of Alexandria, and of the First Baptist Church of El Dorado, Ark., but is now associated with the Relief and Annuity Board of the Southern Baptist Convention.

Rev. Charles B. Littleton, associate pastor of the Central Baptist Church, will be in charge of the music program during the revival and will be supported by the various choirs of the church. Special music will be rendered at each service. The W. M. U. will have their Week of Prayer for

Church Dedication Set In Afternoon

Two Baptist churches here will throw open their fine new sanctuaries today. Both church plants represent much effort and often self - sacrifice. The membership is pleased to have the public attend today. The first one of these is Victory Baptist Church, South Tenth and Pecan streets in Monroe, while the other is Rocky Branch Baptist Church. It represents an expenditure of fully $40,000 and was built for less than this sum as church members furnished a large share of the labor.

Both churches will have revivals that will doubtless prove specially impressive in their new surroundings.

The Victory Baptist Church will hear the Rev. L. L. (Skinner) Morris, pastor of Green Acres Baptist Church in Bastrop. Music will be directed by Donald McGough. Services will be at 7:30 p. m. each night during the week and the public is urged to attend.

The dedication exercises are set this afternoon at 2:30 p. m. The sermon of dedication will be delivered by the Rev. O. P. Bazor, pastor of Edgewood Baptist Church, West Monroe. The public is urged to attend.

REV. S. MORFIS

REV. ROY GARRETT

So. Side Church Plans Revival Old Time Style

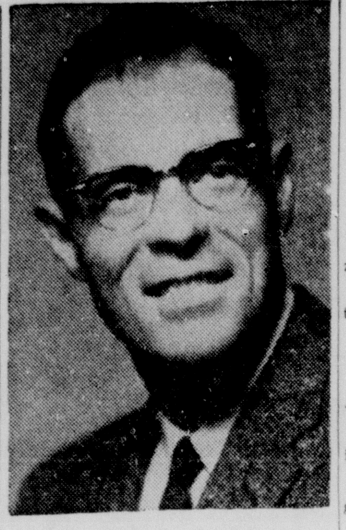
The Southside Methodist Church, 1623 South Fourth Street, Monroe, will conduct an old fashioned revival September 22-29.

Everyone is welcome and of special interest is the fact that a minister of prominence, deep devotion to the cause and a past record of unusual successes in the pulpit will bring messages. He is the Rev. Roy Garrett, minister of the First Methodist Church in Quitman.

Music director will be R. L. Jones and organists will be Mrs. W. P. Stewart and Mrs. L. S. Chapman. Pete Medak will be evangelism chairman and the Rev. Lea Joyner, minister of this growing church, will assure that every effort is directed toward the greatest possible success of the meetings.

Services are planned at 9:30 a.m., Monday and Friday mornings and at 7:30 p.m. for Sunday. Additional services will be as follows: Youth services, 7 p.m. led by the Reverend Garrett at the same hour there are to be children's services led by Mrs. Carl Cheatham and Mrs. Edwin Fuller. At this same hour, 7 p.m. the adult group led by Mrs. Jack Dana and Mrs. Mae Goode will be in charge and invite all adults.

Reverend Garrett is a highly successful minister and has held many revivals in this state. His father is a retired Methodist minister and his brother is a successful minister in the church conference. The Southside Church group feels that it is highly successful in getting him to come to Monroe to help make the revival a success.



DR. LEE C. PIERCE

Dr. Pierce Of Christian Univ. Guest Speaker

Dr. Lee C. Pierce, director of church relations of Texas Christian University, will be guest speaker this week end at First Christian Church of Monroe. Dr. Pierce will be active in the current stewardship campaign of the church. A native of El Reno, Okla., Dr. Pierce spent most of his life in Texas.

He attended Texas Christian University where he received a B. A. degree in 1938 and a Doctor of Divinity in 1954.

Dr. Pierce will bring both sermons Sunday and will be guest speaker at a fellowship supper Monday night.

DR. SAM REEVES

Dr. Sam Reeves Will Lead In Church Revival

Dr. Sam Reeves of Baton Rouge will be the evangelist in revival services to begin today, September 22nd at the Central Baptist Church of Monroe. Dr. Reeves was formerly pastor of the Emmanuel Baptist Church of Alexandria, and of the First Baptist Church of El Dorado, Ark., but is now associated with the Relief and Annuity Board of the Southern Baptist Convention.

Rev. Charles B. Littleton, associate pastor of the Central Baptist Church, will be in charge of the music program during the revival and will be supported by the various choirs of the church. Special music will be rendered at each service. The W. M. U. will have their Week of Prayer for

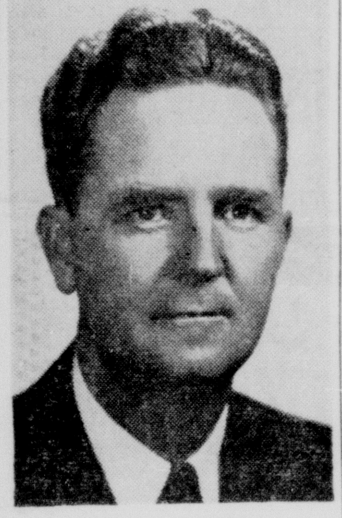
B' Nai Israel Youth Meet To Plan New Year

The Temple B'Nai Israel Youth Group, has just held its first official meeting when extensive plans were formulated for the year. The president, Charles Snyder, presided.

Reports were submitted by Sidney Greenblatt, secretary, on the former meeting last May and Sandra Doernberg, treasurer, read her report which included the 1957-58 budget.

Members who attended the three institutes gave short talks and at the close, the president read the scheduled year's program. There was discussion of business affairs and the session ended with an informal social time.

Last Sunday the religious committee composed of Fl rette Snyder, chairman; Sandra Doernberg and Claire Solomon met and made plans for their work. The schedule includes: Yom Kippur service for the Sunday school; an interfaith service; two Temple services, conclave services and aid to the upper Sunday school classes in their services. Plans for the Yom Kippur service were made and the interfaith service discussed.



REV. H. L. SAMPSON

Fair Park Will Open Revival; Sampson Leader

Today's YOUR GUIDING STAR Message:

0. Obad. 1:15. As you have done, it shall be done to you.
1. Obad. 1:3. The pride of your heart had deceived you.
2. Is. 27:4, 5. I have no wrath. Let them make peace with me.
3. Is. 30.21. Your ears shall hear a word behind you, saying, "This is the way, walk in it," when you turn to the right or the left.
4. Is. 30.28. You shall have a gladness of heart.

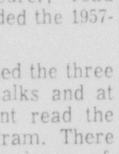
MY ANSWER by Billy Graham



QUESTION: I have been a Christian for a short time, but my husband shows little interest in becoming one. In fact, since I became a Christian he not only refuses to attend Church with me, but tries to find many things to keep me from attending. Do you think I should go with him, or that we should each go to the place of his choice? T. K.

ANSWER: Remember, you are still married to this man and in many ways you must respect his wishes. While church attendance is most important for every one who is a Christian, yet perfunctory attendance is not to be confused with spiritual living. If you refuse to go with your husband, you may lose him. Unless his choice of entertainment and amusement is contrary to Christian living, you would do well to go with him. Be the very best wife, and then perhaps make it known to him how much you desire to see his salvation and how much you would like to have him accompany you to church to hear the Word of God. Pray for him constantly, [illegible] alienate him from you or the Lord. The Bible says the unbelieving husband may "without the word be won by the behavior of the wife".

Ike Appeals For Arkansas Peace

tance telephone with Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr.

Hagerty said there was no "direct evidence" that violence might occur when Negro students are allowed to enter the school Monday, if they want to.

'Reports Of Violence'

"But there are reports of such violence in some quarters," Hagerty said.

In his statement, the President said:

"The sincere and conscientious efforts of the citizens of Little Rock prior to Sept. 2 show that they are persons of good will and feel a responsibility to preserve and respect the law — whether or not they personally agree with it. I am confident that they will vigorously oppose any violence by extremists.

All parents must have a sympathetic understanding of the ordeal to which the nine Negro children who have been prevented from attending Central High School have been subjected. They and their parents have conducted themselves with dignity and restraint.

"As I said this morning, I am confident that the citizens of the City of Little Rock and the State of Arkansas will welcome this opportunity to demonstrate that in their city and in their state proper orders of a United States court will be executed promptly and without disorder."

Kept Fully Informed

Eisenhower was kept fully informed of the Little Rock developments in several telephone conferences with Brownell, who called from his Washington office to the vacation White House on Narragansett Bay.

Brownell telephoned the President's headquarters here Friday night right after Faubus complied with the federal court injunction ordering him to call off the troops.

Shortly after :30 a.m. edt. Hagerty issued the President's first statement of the day.

It said:

"The action by the governor of Arkansas in withdrawing the detachment of Arkansas National Guard' troops from the Little Rock High School is a necessary step in the right direction.

"I am confident that the citizens of the City of Little Rock and the State of Arkansas will welcome this opportunity to demonstrate that in their city and in their state proper orders of a United States court will be executed promptly and without disorder."

The statement was the President's first official reaction to the withdrawal of Arkansas National Guardsmen from the school in compliance with a temporary injunction issued by Federal District Judge Ronald N. Davies.

Decline To Comment

Officers at Second Air Force headquarters at Barksdale refused to comment on reports French was trapped by American counter-spies.

The court martial was kept a secret until announcement of the verdict handed down by three generals, two colonels and two lieutenant colonels. French received the maximum sentence.

Barksdale said the court martial was held in Barksdale because the north Louisiana base is headquarters for the Second Air Force, which controls Ramey base.

Pleads Innocent

French, a B-36 bombardier, pleaded innocent at his court martial and may appeal the sentence. It is subject to review by the Second Air Force commander, a board of review and the judge advocate general of the Air Force. The court of military appeals is the final authority.

Announcement of the four-day trial came in a printed release given to newsmen in Shreveport through normal news release channels.

"To the best of our knowledge he was a lone operator," an Air Force spokesman said. "There is no indication of any Communist connection, sympathies or otherwise in French's background."

The highly decorated officer was cleared to handle top secret information.

"We are sure there is no connection with a Soviet spy ring," the spokesman said.

The top secret data he was convicted of trying to sell included documents and diagrams on handling of atomic weapons in jet bomber aircraft. The information revealed component parts of the bomb and fusing methods and power yields of atomic-type bombs.

Top British Conductor To Resume Work

ST. JEAN CAP FERRAT, France, Sept. 21 (P—Sir Thomas Beecham, Britain's most famous conductor, disclosed today plans to begin his career again at the age of 79. He has been in retirement since March.

Sir Thomas broke the news of his own activities while discussing the death of his long-time friend, Finnish composer Jean Sibelius.

"With Sibelius, I have lost a friend of 50 years," he said in a chat at his retirement villa here. "I have always passionately loved his music. Just last July he sent me a copy of a new work.

"I leave for Paris tomorrow where I have agreed to conduct two concerts, at the Salle Peleyl, on the 17th and 18th of October. Naturally I shall devote much of these concerts to the work of Sibelius."

Sir Thomas, who said he would never conduct again when he retired last March, chuckled today as he disclosed he had not been able to resist appeals to take up the baton again.

After Paris, he will go to Switzerland for seven weeks, then to Vienna and finally to London. He will conduct in all these places.

"Don't call it a 'second career,'" he said. I'm to old for that. I have just missed music too much to stay away from it."

The name of ragweed, which caused so much discomfort to hay fever sufferers, is ironically derived from the Greek ambrosia, meaning food for the gods.

First Flu Shots Given In Monroe

A few Twin Cities residents received inoculations against flu during the past week, but only a very limited amount of vaccine was available, it was learned yesterday.

As the week ended, it was reported that the demand for vaccine here was greater than the available supply.

During the past two weeks, small quantities of vaccine have been released for use in Louisiana.

row "for our respect for the dignity of all God's children."

The mayor said, in answer to a question, that he had heard of no organized attempt to create trouble at the school Monday.

Asked if it were possible that the Mayor would ask for help if necessary from state police, Mann said: "That could be possible." He did not elaborate.

Earlier today at Newport, R.I., President Eisenhower expressed confidence that Little Rock residents "will vigorously oppose any violence by extremists" in the integration situation.

A few hours before Mann's statement, Amis Gutheridge, legal adviser of the Assn. of Citizens Councils of Arkansas, said here that "If violence comes the blame will be on a small clique of white revolutionaries."

Meantime it was not known if the nine Negro students who have been kept out of the white high school would attempt to enter Monday morning.

Yesterday most of them said in an interview that they would show up after the troops left.

But today, Thelma Mothershed, one of the students, said "I don't know and I don't think the others have decided."

The school board, after a meeting this morning, reiterated that Central High was open to both white and Negro students as it has been since the federal court order to integrate immediately.

Gov. Orval Faubus, who pulled out National Guardsmen after an injunction against him was issued yesterday by U.S. Dist. Judge Ronald Davies, flew this afternoon in murky weather to the Southern Governors' Conference at Sea Island, Ga.

Guardsmen who had ringed the governor's mansion for weeks, apparently as a protective measure, were replaced today by a few state policemen at Faubus orders.

No Instructions

He left no apparent instructions for state police intervention in case of an emergency here.

At nearby Morrilton, Lt. Gov. Nathan Gordon said he does not intend to come to Little Rock "unless there is an emergency."

Gordon will be acting governor during Faubus' absence.

He said he assumes he is permitted to use state police "to control violence" but he did not specify if, in that eventuality, they would be used to help Negroes enter the school or keep them out.

A few hours after President Eisenhower voiced confidence in Little Rock's intention to integrate peacefully, Guthridge charged that "Mayor Mann has advised his colored friends that his city police are going to escort the Negro students into school Monday morning."

"It seems that the stage is set for the Communist party's finest hour in trying to incite trouble," Guthridge said.

He said citizens council are "proud" of their nonviolence record but that "if the Communists and the NAACP are to be our overlords and masters under a police state we might as well find out now as a little later."

Faubus, whose mobilization of the National Guard touched off the crisis nearly three weeks ago, said today his attorneys walked out of the federal court hearing yesterday to "prevent the governor from waiving his constitutional and sovereign powers.

The governor said he would have "enjoyed" attending the court session, but that he had been advised against it.

Lacks Jurisdiction

Kay Matthews, one of Faubus' attorneys, said the injunction ruling would be appealed on grounds the federal court lacked jurisdiction.

Attorneys in Little Rock expressed the belief that Faubus' four attorneys may be liable, technically, for a citation of contempt of court by U.S. Dist. Judge Ronald Davies for having left the hearing.

"I don't think Davies will cite them," a lawyer said, "but in all probability, he could."

Legal authorities said that by arguing a total of five motions, the governor's attorneys tacitly accepted the jurisdiction of the U.S. District Court.

After blasting the decision by Judge Davies, the governor said in a televised address last night:

"Now is the time for the utmost precaution, forebearance and tolerance on the part of all citizens, both Negro and white, else the disorder and violence, which has so far been prevented, will occur."

Bethlehem Has Destroyer Plan

QUINCY, Mass., Sept. 21 (P — Bethlehem Steel Co. has developed a feasible design for the world's first atomic-powered destroyer, a company official said tonight.

The official, who declined to be quoted by name, said Bethlehem engineers "can see the consummation of plans to overcome the problems of integrating a nuclear-power plant into a ship the size of a destroyer."

Two Negroes Die In Wreck

DALLAS, Sept. 21 (UP)— Two Negroes were killed tonight and three other persons injured in a smashing head-on collision on Central Expressway.

First reports said that one southbound automobile jumped the dividing island on the rain-slick Expressway at Henderson Street and crashed into a northbound automobile. Two other automobiles were damaged.

The dead were identified only as a "middle aged couple" by a spokesman at Parkland Hospital. The three injured were Mr. and Mrs. Francis E. Schnabel, 38 and 37 years old, and Jean Elizabeth Houston, 35.

A police officer said about 20 or 30 accidents occurred in Dallas during and after a driving rainstorm that hit the city around 5 p. m.

Heavy traffic, some of it going home from the Texas A&M-Maryland football game in the Cotton Bowl, clogged the expressway for an hour following the accident.

Oklahoma Crushes Pitt; Texas A&M In Close Call

Ramblin' Wrecks turned back Kentucky, 13-0, with 19-year-old sophomore Fred Brazelton handling most of the offense. Detroit shut out Marquette, 14-0. The loss was Marquette's 11th straight.

With the defeat of Pitt, Navy found itself in a good position to make a bid for eastern honors. The Middies, proclaimed the strongest team in the academy's history by many observers, crushed Boston College, 46-6.

Virginia recorded a minor reversal by coming back in the fourth period to tie West Virginia, 6-6, while Clemson rolled up its highest score since 1949—a 66-0 shellacking of Presbyterian.

As for those Oklahomans, they now have won 41 games in a row. Pitt, in fact, was the last team able to even tie the Sooners. That was a 7-7 stand off in the second game of the '53 season. These days, every time Oklahoma wins a game, a new record is set.

Clendon Thomas, the Sooners' No. 1 candidate for All-America honors, sliced 13 yards for one score. The other three were on passes from three different pitchers to three different receivers — a tip off on Oklahoma's vast manpower and talent.

Child Saved From 40-Foot Well Shaft

LYMAN, S.C., Sept. 21 (P—A 3½-year-old boy was rescued unharmed from a 40-foot well here this afternoon 45 minutes after plunging into it through a wire mesh cover.

Doctors said the child, Chris Dumas, son of Mr. and Mrs. O'Neil Dumas of Greer, apparently suffered no ill effects from the ordeal.

The child told his visibly shaken rescuers that he was trying to find a croquet set when he fell into the well.

The well opening, about two feet square, was covered with wire mesh, and the well enclosed in a small building with a latched door. Chris apparently pried open the door, walked across the mesh and plunged through it. His screams brought members of the family and neighbors.

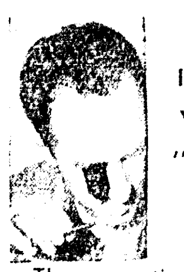
Police said the well contained more than 6½ feet of water and that the plucky boy survived by clinging to a pipe.

A neighbor, Earl Wilson, was lowered into the well with a windlass. He emerged a few minutes later clutching the wide-eyed, muddy but unharmed child.

Chris' only comment later was: "Mama, let me up. I don't want to stay in this old bed."

The total cost of all accidents in the United States in 1956 is equal to the total number of dollars in Social Security benefits paid in 1953, 1954 and 1955.

Coins of pure platinum were issued by Russia during the early part of the 19th century.



IS YOUR WATCH "ON THE BUM"?

There are times, I think, when our American slang is the most expressive of all languages. So when I say "Is your watch on the bum?", you know what I'm talking about.

You know that I'm asking you if your watch is out of repair. So you say "Yes, the darn thing hasn't been keeping time correctly for weeks and I've just been postponing a trip to the jeweler's to have it fixed".

Here is where I enter your life. For I hasten to tell you that our Watch Repair Department does excellent work. No matter how ailing your watch may be—whether it needs a new main spring or a thorough cleaning and oiling—our conscientious watchmakers take it in hand, scrutinize it through that mysterious eye glass of theirs and then go to work on it. Lo, in no time at all, your watch is as good as new.

There's one thing to remember in connection with watches. You cannot abuse your watch or neglect it and expect it to remain a faithful timepiece. When it needs a "doctor", it needs a doctor.

Bring your watch in to us. We'll tell you quickly what it will cost to put it back in perfect working condition. And we'll try earnestly to have it back in your pocket or on your wrist when you need it. Faithful service has built our business.

A few hours after President Eisenhower voiced confidence in Little Rock's intention to integrate peacefully, Guthridge charged that "Mayor Mann has advised his colored friends that his city police are going to escort the Negro students into school Monday morning."

"It seems that the stage is set for the Communist party's finest hour in trying to incite trouble," Guthridge said.

He said citizens council are "proud" of their nonviolence record but that "if the Communists and the NAACP are to be our overlords and masters under a police state we might as well find out now as a little later."

Faubus, whose mobilization of the National Guard touched off the crisis nearly three weeks ago, said today his attorneys walked out of the federal court hearing yesterday to "prevent the governor from waiving his constitutional and sovereign powers.

The governor said he would have "enjoyed" attending the court session, but that he had been advised against it.

Lacks Jurisdiction

Kay Matthews, one of Faubus' attorneys, said the injunction ruling would be appealed on grounds the federal court lacked jurisdiction.

Attorneys in Little Rock expressed the belief that Faubus' four attorneys may be liable, technically, for a citation of contempt of court by U.S. Dist. Judge Ronald Davies for having left the hearing.

"I don't think Davies will cite them," a lawyer said, "but in all probability, he could."

Legal authorities said that by arguing a total of five motions, the governor's attorneys tacitly accepted the jurisdiction of the U.S. District Court.

After blasting the decision by Judge Davies, the governor said in a televised address last night:

"Now is the time for the utmost precaution, forebearance and tolerance on the part of all citizens, both Negro and white, else the disorder and violence, which has so far been prevented, will occur."

Bethlehem Has Destroyer Plan

QUINCY, Mass., Sept. 21 (AP) — Bethlehem Steel Co. has developed a feasible design for the world's first atomic-powered destroyer, a company official said tonight.

The official, who declined to be quoted by name, said Bethlehem engineers "can see the consummation of plans to overcome the problems of integrating a nuclear-power plant into a ship the size of a destroyer."

Two Negroes Die In Wreck

DALLAS, Sept. 21 (UP)— Two Negroes were killed tonight and three other persons injured in a smashing head-on collision on Central Expressway.

First reports said that one southbound automobile jumped the dividing island on the rain-slick Expressway at Henderson Street and crashed into a northbound automobile. Two other automobiles were damaged.

The dead were identified only as a "middle aged couple" by a spokesman at Parkland Hospital. The three injured were Mr. and Mrs. Francis E. Schnabel, 38 and 37 years old, and Jean Elizabeth Houston, 35.

A police officer said about 20 or 30 accidents occurred in Dallas during and after a driving rainstorm that hit the city around 5 p. m.

Heavy traffic, some of it going home from the Texas A&M-Maryland football game in the Cotton Bowl, clogged the expressway for an hour following the accident.

Oklahoma Crushes Pitt; Texas A&M In Close Call

Ramblin' Wrecks turned back Kentucky, 13-0, with 19-year-old sophomore Fred Brazelton handling most of the offense. Detroit shut out Marquette, 14-0. The loss was Marquette's 11th straight.

With the defeat of Pitt, Navy found itself in a good position to make a bid for eastern honors. The Middies, proclaimed the strongest team in the academy's history by many observers, crushed Boston College, 46-6.

Virginia recorded a minor reversal by coming back in the fourth period to tie West Virginia, 6-6, while Clemson rolled up its highest score since 1949—a 66-0 shellacking of Presbyterian.

As for those Oklahomans, they now have won 41 games in a row. Pitt, in fact, was the last team able to even tie the Sooners. That was a 7-7 standoff in the second game of the '53 season. These days, every time Oklahoma wins a game, a new record is set.

Clendon Thomas, the Sooners' No. 1 candidate for All-America honors, sliced 13 yards for one score. The other three were on passes from three different pitchers to three different receivers — a tipoff on Oklahoma's vast manpower and talent.

Child Saved From 40-Foot Well Shaft

LYMAN, S.C., Sept. 21 (AP)—A 3½-year-old boy was rescued unharmed from a 40-foot well here this afternoon 45 minutes after plunging into it through a wire mesh cover.

Doctors said the child, Chris Dumas, son of Mr. and Mrs. O'Neil Dumas of Greer, apparently suffered no ill effects from the ordeal.

The child told his visibly shaken rescuers that he was trying to find a croquet set when he fell into the well.

The well opening, about two feet square, was covered with wire mesh, and the well enclosed in a small building with a latched door. Chris apparently pried open the door, walked across the mesh and plunged through it. His screams brought members of the family and neighbors.

Police said the well contained more than 6½ feet of water and that the plucky boy survived by clinging to a pipe.

A neighbor, Earl Wilson, was lowered into the well with a windlass. He emerged a few minutes later clutching the wide-eyed, muddy but unharmed child.

Chris' only comment later was: "Mama, let me up. I don't want to stay in this old bed."

The total cost of all accidents in the United States in 1956 is equal to the total number of dollars in Social Security benefits paid in 1953, 1954 and 1955.

Coins of pure platinum were issued by Russia during the early part of the 19th century.

IS YOUR WATCH "ON THE BUM"?

There are times, I think, when our American slang is the most expressive of all languages. So when I say "Is your watch on the bum?", you know what I'm talking about.

You know that I'm asking you if your watch is out of repair. So you say "Yes, the darn thing hasn't been keeping time correctly for weeks and I've just been postponing a trip to the jeweler's to have it fixed".

Here is where I enter your life. For I hasten to tell you that our Watch Repair Department does excellent work. No matter how ailing your watch may be—whether it needs a new main spring or a thorough cleaning and oiling—our conscientious watchmakers take it in hand, scrutinize it through that mysterious eye glass of theirs and then go to work on it. Lo, in no time at all, your watch is as good as new.

There's one thing to remember in connection with watches. You cannot abuse your watch or neglect it and expect it to remain a faithful timepiece. When it needs a "doctor", it needs a doctor.

Bring your watch in to us. We'll tell you quickly what it will cost to put it back in perfect working condition. And we'll try earnestly to have it back in your pocket or on your wrist when you need it. Faithful service has built our business.

LEGISLATIVE PROBE

Virginia Court Demands NAACP Lawyer's Accounts

ARLINGTON, Va., Sept. 20 (AP)—A state court has ordered an attorney for the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People to turn over to a Virginia legislative committee records dealing with his fees.

The committee, investigating racial activities, had demanded the financial records from Edwin C. Brown, regional counsel for the NAACP. Judge William H. Medley of Arlington Circuit Court backed up the demand, which Brown had rejected.

Samuel W. Tucker, another NAACP attorney who represented Brown, argued that the committee had no right to delve into an individual's private papers. He said the legislators were authorized only to investigate groups.

Committee counsel Leslie Hall told the judge that the Supreme Court has held that legislative committees have the power to go into such matters as long as their actions are limited to legislative needs.

One of the stated purposes of the Virginia committee is to determine whether any organizations are soliciting legal business, stirring up litigation, and providing fees for clients.

The whole matter ties in with lawsuits over desegregation of schools in Virginia.

Some witnesses before the committee, which has been sitting in closed sessions, have said they were asked whether the NAACP influenced them to become parties to an integration suit.

Medley said from the bench that he believes the committee is not so much interested in the amount of fees received by Brown, as in their source.

Brown is under indictment in Baltimore on a charge of income tax evasion. The reading from the committee record showed he was told he would not be required to produce the fee records if he was claiming Fifth Amendment protection against possible self-incrimination.

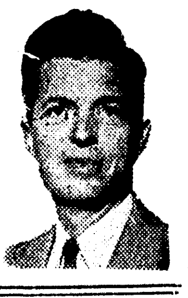
Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over



Consider the dilemma of the Louisiana followers of the Milwaukee Braves and the St. Louis Cardinals in the National League pennant chase. Many of these southland fans have never seen the Cardinals or Braves play a ball game and just as many have never seen a major league contest, but they'll pull for "their club 'til their dyin' day."

The Braves are strengthening their position steadily and that satisfies a lot of folks in this area. But the Cardinal fans aren't giving up and they're still envisioning the Red Birds before the TV cameras of the World Series.

As one fan put it: "Regardless of who plays the Yankees in the series we're going to see Louisiana products playing important roles."

Such customer appeal in our area includes Joe Adcock of the Braves, and Billy Muffett and Alvin Dark of the Cardinals.

Adcock, former L.S.U. ace and native of Coushatta, is well known in this area. He played baseball for Olla in the old North Louisiana League (semi-pro) and has annually been an instructor for the Twin City Boys Baseball Clinic sponsored by the North Monroe Lions Club, a February event for the past three years.

Muffett is a solid favorite of Monroe Cardinal fans in particular. He's the lad who used to pitch for the Monroe Sports of the Cotton States League, posting a 22-won 9-lost record for Al Mazur's 1951 club. Muffett was also named "most valuable player" in the Cotton States that year. Billy spent most of the current season at Houston in the Texas League but went up to the Cardinals a few weeks ago, becoming something of a stopper for the Cards as starter and relief man. Muffett was not on the original series roster, if they make the grade, but was admitted to the series list only the past week.

Then there's Alvin Dark, the Lake Charles flash, who was a standout athlete at L.S.U. before going to the big leagues. He's a big figure with the Cardinals, too.

Nothing but another late collapse can hardly keep the Braves out now, but it would be nice for the old followers of Mazur's Sports to park in front of their TV sets (if they can't go to the series) and watch Muffett work much as he did at Legion Memorial Stadium before minor league baseball interest went into eclipse here.

Austin Field Goal Defeats Indians, 10-7

NATCOGDOCHES, Tex. (Special) Stephen F. Austin College quarterback Votto Gaddis kicked a fourth down field goal from the Northeast Louisiana State eight here last night to break a stalemate and enable the Lumberjacks to defeat the Louisiana invaders, 10 to 7.

Northeast, which had a touchdown nullified by a penalty in the third quarter, scored the first time the Redskins gained possession of the ball, but S.F.A hammered right back to tie up the game and it was a hard scramble the rest of the way until Gaddis got in his payoff kick.

STATISTICS

	NE	Austin
First downs	14	19
Yards rushing	166	189
Yards passing	64	79
Passes comp.	6-13	8-13
Passes intercep. by	0	1
Fumbles lost	2	3
Punting av.	3-30	3-32 7
Penalties	6-69	6-93

Austin took the opening kickoff, ran three plays and had to punt, Northeast downing the kick on the Indian 31. Quarterback Nathan Zametta passed to halfback Tony Hartsell for 40 yards the first time Northeast ran from scrimmage to the 'Jack 29. Don Reynolds ran to the 13. Zametta got two on a keeper, and Zametta again lost eight which Don Reynolds picked up in bringing up fourth down. Then Zametta, on a rollout pass, fired to end Claxton Mayo in the endzone for the touchdown. Halfback Jim Laudadio kicked the point with ten minutes left in the quarter.

S.F.A. gathered in the ensuing kickoff and hammered back 69 yards to score with halfback Wade Turner going around left end from the 2 with a pitchout from Gaddis. Fullback Ed Roberson kicked the tying point. Two long Gaddis passes to end "Bo" Johnston for 19 and 11 yards sparked the drive.

It was late in the fourth quarter with the field clock "haywire" and the press box unable to determine how much time was left when Austin hammered to the Indian eight faced with fourth down. Gaddis then backed up to kick his game-winning field goal.

Early in the third quarter Northeast had marched the kickoff to the Lumberjack seven from where Hartsell sliced over the goal line, but a 15-yard holding penalty was called against the Tribe.

Northeast also missed a great chance just before the half ended. The Tribe covered a Lumberjack fumble on the S.F.A. 20 and drove to the eleven from where Don Reynolds' kick for a field goal was low.

Score by quarters:

Northeast	7	0	0	0— 7
S. F. Austin	7	0	0	3—10

Northeast scoring: Touchdown-Mayo (pass from Zametto). Point after-Laudadio.

Rice Roars From Behind In 4th To Humble LSU, 20-14

BATON ROUGE, Sept. 21 (AP)—Favored Rice, its offense blunted by fumbles and a determined Louisiana State squad, roared from behind in the fourth quarter tonight for a 20-14 victory in the season's football opener for both teams.

Some 50,000 fans saw the Southwest Conference squad win in Tiger Stadium for the first time since 1935.

Trailing 14-7 as the final period began, Rice combined the passing of quarterbacks Frank Ryan and King Hill with the power-running of Pat Bailey, Raymond Chilton and Davie Kelley for the victory.

Ryan punched over the tying touchdown on a two-yard quarterback sneak, ending a 52-yard drive that began just before the third period ended.

The winning score came with dismaying speed late in the final quarter. With less than three minutes to go, Rice sped 51 yards in two plays. A pass from Hill to end Buddy Dial covered 35 yards and Chilton slashed 16 yards for the score.

STALISTICS

	Rice	LSU
First downs	20	8
Rushing yardage	251	191
Passing yardage	164	34
Passes	10-15	2-7
Passes intercepted by	1	0
Punts	3-42	9-36
Fumbles lost	3	0
Yards penalized	60	70

LSU moved ahead quickly in the first half as fullback Jimmy Taylor, 1956 Southeastern Conference scoring champion, scored twice and kicked both extra points. Taylor went over from one yard out in the first quarter to end a 67-yard drive. In the second quarter, he dashed 13 yards for a touchdown, set up by a 42-yard run by halfback Don Purvis.

The first Rice touchdown just before the first half ended.

The Owls marched 42 yards, with a 31-yard Hill-Dial pass setting up the tally. Hill scored from one yard out on a quarterback sneak.

Rice fumbled twice inside the LSU 10-yard line and again on the Tiger 26. On two other scoring threats, the Owls drove inside the LSU 10-yard line, but lost the ball on downs.

LSU, with some 22 squad members afflicted with Asian flu in the last two weeks, started off strongly but wilted in the second half. Taylor, the team's most potent running threat, who caught the virus Thursday, gained most of his yardage in the first half and was relatively ineffective after the intermission.

Highlights for LSU were the fine play of sophomores. Center Doug Skinner, tackle Lynn LeBlanc, fullback Max Fugler and end Scotty McClain made key plays to halt Rice scroing threats.

Halfback Billy Cannon was the top ground gainer for LSU with 71 yards in six attempts. He broke loose once for 42 yards.

Taylor was the workhorse for LSU, carrying 13 times for 42 yards. Purvis, sophomore halfback, gained 43 yards in two attempts, one a 42-yard run, setting up the second LSU touchdown.

Chilton was the top ground gainer for Rice, carrying 16 times for 84 yards. Kelley had 78 yards in 11 attempts and Bailey chalked up 59 yards in nine attempts.

Halfback J. W. Brodnax completed one of two running passes for 15 yards and sophomore quarterback Warren Rabb hit one of three for 19 yards. LSU completed only two of seven passes.

For Rice, Hill connected on eight of 13 passes for 144 yards while Ryan had two for two and 20 yards.

SCORE 3 IN 4TH

Ole Miss Crushes Trinity U., 44-0

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Sept. 21 (UP)—Mississippi's powerful Rebels overwhelmed Trinity University tonight with a hard-hitting ground game to win their season-opener by a top-heavy 44-0 score before 11,500 fans in Alamo Stadium.

Coach Johnny Vaught's Rebels scored with ease in every period, including a three-touchdown surge in the fourth quarter.

Ole Miss hopelessly outclassed Trinity, seldom using the acrial game, as a fleet of speedy backs paced by Bobby Franklin, Raymond Brown, Kent Lovelace, Cowboy Woodruff and Dewey Partridge led the running attack.

Brown opened the parade of touchdowns with a six-yard counter in the first period, and ran 18 yards to score in the third quarter. Woodruff also scored two, on a 20-yard run and a 39-yard pass from Franklin, and Lovelace. Franklin and Partridge scored once each.

However, Mississippi faltered in the conversion department, as alert Trinity linemen blocked all tries. The Rebels' two conversions out of seven tries were kicked by Leroy Reed and Robert Khayat.

Mississippi scored twice in the opening period, single touchdowns in the second and third quarters and three in the final period.

Score by periods:

Mississippi	13	6	6	19—44

Touchdowns, Brown 2 (6, run; 18, run) Franklin (9, run). Lovelace (33, run) Woodruff 2 (20, run; 39 pass-run from Franklin. Partridge (9, pass from Brewer). Conversions, Reed, Khayat.

TEXAS' STAR RISES

Longhorns Tear Georgia Apart For 26-7 Verdict

ATLANTA, Sept. 21 (AP)—Slippery Walt Fondren, a split-T magician, and bulldozing sophomore fullback Mike Dowdle reintroduced Texas to football high society tonight by leading the Longhorns to a 26-7 opening game football victory over much-improved Georgia.

Versatile Fondren, a dazzling runner and superb faker, scored one touchdown and sent the 210-pound Dowdle hurtling for two more as Texas equaled its 1956 victory output in its first game under Coach Darrell Royal.

With success assured, the lithe 170-pound senior Fondren handed the controls to sophomore Bobby Lackey, who treated the sweltering shirt-sleeved crowd of 33,000 to a fourth Texas tally in the waning minutes of the fourth quarter.

Charley Britt, much-publicized Georgia sophomore quarterback, directed the lone touchdown drive for the Bulldogs—a 50-yard journey which he capped with a five-yard scoring pass to halfback Jimmy Orr. Britt, a glittering glamor boy in spots, also looked much like a soph in others. He fumbled twice and twice overthrew open receivers badly.

Texas	7	6	0	13—26
Georgia	0	0	7	0— 7

Texas scoring — touchdowns: Dowdle 2 (4, run; 3, run; Fondren (3, sweep); Lackey (1, sneak). Conversions: Fondren, Smith.

Georgia scoring — Touchdown: Orr (5, pass from Britt). Conversion: Cooper.

BULLDOGS THREA TEN IN 4TH

Southern Beats Tech, 7-0, With 1st Period Touchdown

RUSTON, La. (Special)—Mississippi Southern struck through the air for a quick first quarter score and held off stubborn Louisiana Tech in the final period to edge past the Bulldogs, 7-0, here Saturday night.

Southern scored the first time it got control of the ball in the first period when quarterback Ollie Yates passes 38 yards to halfback J. C. Arban in the end zone. The scoreboard clock said the battle was only four minutes old. Yates kicked the point after touchdown and that was all the scoring for the night.

Tech's greatest scoring threat came in the closing minutes of the game when the Bulldogs put together a 79-yard drive tha' was finally stopped on the Southern 15. A fourth down pass from quarterback James McCabe was dropped by fullback Wayne Bourgeois on the MS 10. That was as close at Tech came to a score all night.

Southern put on a drive in the second quarter that was finally stopped on the Tech 8. It looked as if another scor was certain but two incomplete passes by Yates gave Tech the ball on downs.

Early in the third period another Southern drive reached the Tech 18 but Bulldog halfback George Sumlin stopped it when he recovered a fumble by Yates.

Tech outgained the visitors on the ground, racking 204 yards rushing to 168 for the Southerners. However Southern passed for 60 yards to Tech's 19. Tech racked up 18 first downs to Southern's 11.

Tech's surprising ground attack gave the visitors plenty of trouble in the fourth quarter. Big guns in Tech's rushing department were Billy Hughes of West Monroe who got 49 yards in 12 carries and Wayne Bourgeois who was credited with 43 yards in 8 carries.

Statistical leaders for Southern were fullback Bo Dickinson who got 57 yards in a dozen attempts and George Sekul with 43 yards in only 4 carries.

Shea Plasters Flam In Upset Pacific Match

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 21 (UP)—Unseeded Gil Shea of Los Angeles upset defending champion Herbie Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., in five sets today to move into the finals of the Pacific Southwest Tennis Tournament against second-seeded Vic Seixas of Philadelphia.

Shea, showing near-perfect service control, downed the recently selected Davis Cupper, 6-4, 6-3, 3-6, 8-10, 6-2. Seixas had an easy time with Sammy Giammalva of Houston Tex., winning 6-4, 6-4, 6-3.

In the women's semi-finals, Louise Brough, Beverly Hills, defeated Beverly Baker Fleitz, Belmont Shore, Calif., 8-6, 6-3.

Other results:

Junior men's singles — semi final — Robert Delgado, Los Angeles, def., Edward Sledge, Dallas, Tex., 6-4, 6-2; junior women's singles — semi-final — Sally Moore, Bakersfield, Calif., def. Lorna Raymond, Covina, Calif., 4-6, 6-2, 10-8; boys' singles — semi-final — Robert Siska, San Francisco, def. Dennis Ralston, Bakersfield, 9-7, 6-2, and Charles Robmeau, Los Angeles, def. David Reed, Los Angeles, 2-6, 8-6, 6-1.

Oklahoma Shows Muscles In 26-0 Pasting Of Pitt

Pittsburgh, Sept. 21 (UP)—The devastating Oklahoma Sooners rolled to a surprisingly easy 26-0 rout over the stumbling Pittsburgh team today to serve notice they intend to keep their No. 1 national football ranking.

Coach Bud Wilkinson's wrecking crew, running its record winning streak through 41 games, struck for one touchdown in the second period and three more in the third.

Oklahoma's deceptive offense first paid off early in the second period when junior Jackie Sandefer took a pitchout from quarterback Carl Dodd and passed 12 yards to end Joe Rector in the end zone to climax a 51-yard drive. Dodd converted.

Two Pitt fumbles set up a pair of Sooner touchdowns with less than four minutes gone in the second half. Oklahoma wound up the scoring with its fourth touchdown later in the third quarter.

Dennis Morris, Sooner fullback from Tulsa, dropped on quarterback Bill Kaliden's fumble on the Pitt 19 and three plays later classy Clendon Thomas, the country's top scorer last year, knifed off-tackle of 13 yards and a score. Thomas shook off three potential tacklers on his way. Dodd, first-string quarterback from Norman, kicked the second of his two conversions.

On the first scrimmage following the kickoff, Pitt halfback Dick Haley fumbled and Dodd recovered. In four plays Oklahoma had its third touchdown as Dodd fired a 17-yard strike to co-captain Don Stiller as 58,942 predominantly Pitt fans wailed.

The two quick toucndowns apparently bewildered the heft Panthers. Before the period ended, Oklahoma boosted the score to 26-0 when second string quarterback David Baker of Bartlesville, Okla., combined with halfback Dick Carpenter of Breckenridge, Tex., for a 31-yard scoring pass.

Wilkinson, who said earlier he was stressing defense this year, made good his promise. The Sooners displayed a solid defense to blend with their shock-troop offense that went four teams deep.

So powerful was the Oklahoma defense that Pitt crossed the midfield stripe only twice and never penetrated beyond the 47-yard line.

The final outcome could have been much worse for Pitt because Oklahoma had two touchdowns called back by penalties and blew two other scoring chances.

The statistics favored the Sooners, 20 first downs to nine and 310 net yards to 87.

Oklahoma	0	7	19	0—26

Lamar Tech Wins Over NSC, 20-10

NATCHITOCHES, La., Sept. 21 (AP)—Lamar Tech defeated Northwestern State 20-10 tonight to spoil the debut of NSC coach Jack Clayton before home fans.

NSC took the lead in the first period on a six yard field goal by end Jim Bruning but Tech went ahead to stay in the second period on the first of two touchdowns by quarterback George Parks, both on one-yard plunges. Tech ended its scoring in the fourth period on a six yard run by Charles Starcke. Dudley Rench and Glen Green made the Tech conversions.

End Kent Gordon raced 35 yards in the third period for NSC's touchdown. Bruning sonverted.

'Jacks Down Tribe

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

Consider the dilemma of the Louisiana followers of the Milwaukee Braves and the St. Louis Cardinals in the National League pennant chase. Many of these southland fans have never seen the Cardinals or Braves play a ball game and just as many have never seen a major league contest, but they'll pull for "their club 'til their dyin' day."

The Braves are strengthening their position steadily and that satisfies a lot of folks in this area. But the Cardinal fans aren't giving up and they're still envisioning the Red Birds before the TV cameras of the World Series.

As one fan put it: "Regardless of who plays the Yankees in the series we're going to see Louisiana products playing important roles."

Such customer appeal in our area includes Joe Adcock of the Braves, and Billy Muffett and Alvin Dark of the Cardinals.

Adcock, former L.S.U. ace and native of Coushatta, is well known in this area. He played baseball for Olla in the old North Louisiana League (semi-pro) and has annually been an instructor for the Twin City Boys Baseball Clinic sponsored by the North Monroe Lions Club, a February event for the past three years.

Muffett is a solid favorite of Monroe Cardinal fans in particular. He's the lad who used to pitch for the Monroe Sports of the Cotton States League, posting a 22-won 9-lost record for Al Mazur's 1951 club. Muffett was also named "most valuable player" in the Cotton States that year. Billy spent most of the current season at Houston in the Texas League but went up to the Cardinals a few weeks ago, becoming something of a stopper for the Cards as starter and relief man. Muffett was not on the original series roster, if they make the grade, but was admitted to the series list only the past week.

Then there's Alvin Dark, the Lake Charles flash, who was a standout athlete at L.S.U. before going to the big leagues. He's a big figure with the Cardinals, too.

Nothing but another late collapse can hardly keep the Braves out now, but it would be nice for the old followers of Mazur's Sports to park in front of their TV sets (if they can't go to the series) and watch Muffett work much as he did at Legion Memorial Stadium before minor league baseball interest went into eclipse here.

Ole Miss Crushes Trinity U., 44-0

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Sept. 21 (UP)—Mississippi's powerful Rebels overwhelmed Trinity University tonight with a hard-hitting ground game to win their season-opener by a top-heavy 44-0 score before 11,500 fans in Alamo Stadium.

Coach Johnny Vaught's Rebels scored with ease in every period, including a three-touchdown surge in tne fourth quarter.

Ole Miss hopelessly outclassed Trinity, seldom using the aerial game, as a fleet of speedy backs paced by Bobby Franklin, Raymond Brown, Kent Lovelace, Cowboy Woodruff and Dewey Partridge led the running attack.

Brown opened the parade of touchdowns with a six-yard counter in the first period, and ran 18 yards to score in the third quarter. Woodruff also scored two, on a 20-yard run and a 39-yard pass from Franklin, and Lovelace. Franklin and Partridge scored once each.

However, Mississippi faltered in the conversion department, as alert Trinity linemen blocked all tries. The Rebels' two conversions out of seven tries were kicked by Leroy Reed and Robert Khayat.

Mississippi scored twice in the opening period, single touchdowns in the second and third quarters and three in the final period.

Score by periods:

Mississippi	13	6	6	19—44

Mississippi scoring: Touchdowns, Brown 2 (6, run; 18, run) Franklin (9, run). Lovelace (33, run) Woodruff 2 (20, run); 39 pass-run from Franklin. Partridge (9, pass from Brewer). Conversions, Reed, Khayat.

TEXAS' STAR RISES

Longhorns Tear Georgia Apart For 26-7 Verdict

ATLANTA, Sept. 21 (AP)—Slippery Walt Fondren, a split-T magician, and bulldozing sophomore fullback Mike Dowdle reintroduced Texas to football high society tonight by leading the Longhorns to a 26-7 opening game football victory over much-improved Georgia.

Versatile Fondren, a dazzling runner and superb faker, scored one touchdown and sent the 210-pound Dowdle hurtling for two more as Texas equaled its 1956 victory output in its first game under Coach Darrell Royal.

With success assured, the lithe 170-pound senior Fondren handed the controls to sophomore Bobby Lackey, who treated the sweltering shirt-sleeved crowd of 33,000 to a fourth Texas tally in the waning minutes of the fourth quarter.

Charley Britt, much-publicized Georgia sophomore quarterback, directed the lone touchdown drive for the Bulldogs—a 50-yard journey which he capped with a five-yard scoring pass to halfback Jimmy Orr. Britt, a glittering glamor boy in spots, also looked much like a soph in others. He fumbled twice and twice overthrew open receivers badly.

Texas	7	6	0	13—26
Georgia	0	0	7	0—7

Texas scoring — touchdowns: Dowdle 2 (4, run; 3, run; Fondren (3, sweep); Lackey (1, sneak). Conversions: Fondren, Smith.

Southern Beats Tech, 7-0, With 1st Period Touchdown

RUSTON, La. (Special)—Mississippi Southern struck through the air for a quick first quarter score and held off stubborn Louisiana Tech in the final period to edge past the Bulldogs, 7-0, here Saturday night.

Southern scored the first time it got control of the ball in the first period when quarterback Ollie Yates passes 38 yards to halfback J. C. Arban in the end zone. The scoreboard clock said the battle was only four minutes old. Yates kicked the point after touchdown and that was all the scoring for the night.

Tech's greatest scoring threat came in the closing minutes of the game when the Bulldogs put together a 79-yard drive tha' was finally stopped on the Southern 15. A fourth down pass from quarterback James McCabe was dropped by fullback Wayne Bourgeois on the MS 10. That was as close at Tech came to a score all night.

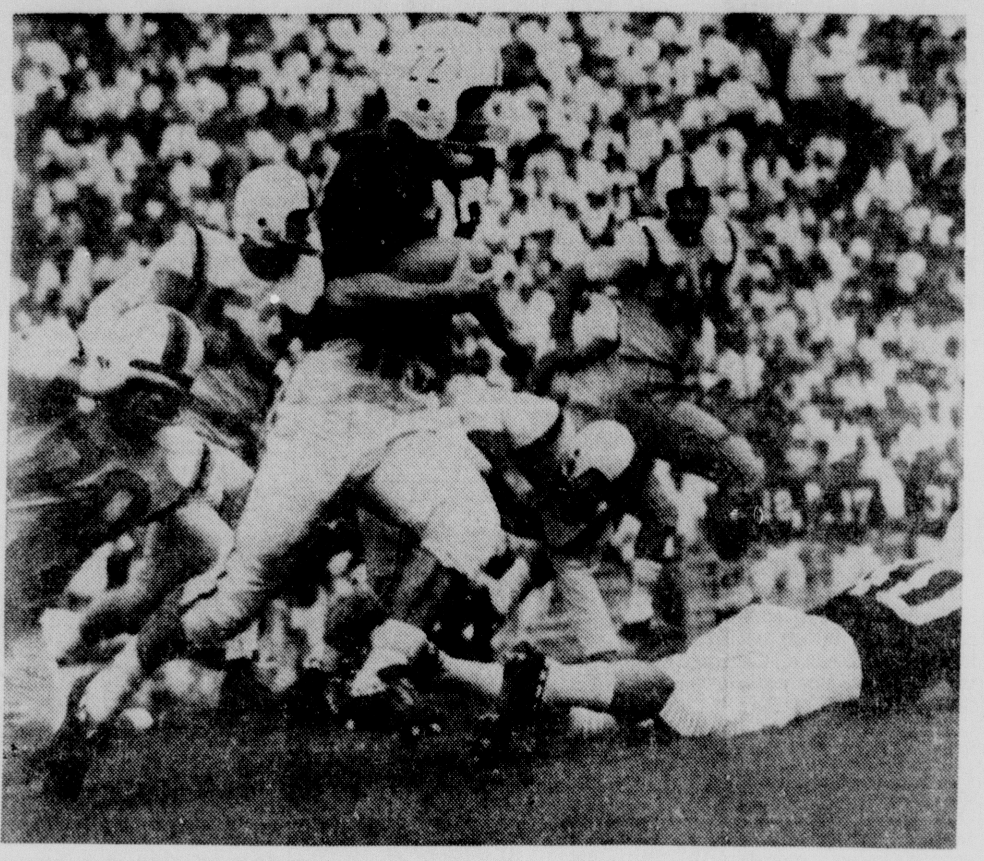
Southern put on a drive in the second quarter that was finally stopped on the Tech 8. It looked as if another scor was certain but two incomplete passes by Yates gave Tech the ball on downs.

Early in the third period another Southern drive reached the Tech 18 but Bulldog halfback George Sumlin stopped it when he recovered a fumble by Yates.

Tech outgained the visitors on the ground, racking 204 yards rushing to 168 for the Southerners. However Southern passed for 60 yards to Tech's 19. Tech racked up 18 first downs to Southern's 11.

Tech's surprising ground attack gave the visitors plenty of trouble in the fourth quarter. Big guns in Tech's rushing department were Billy Hughes of West Monroe who got 49 yards in 12 carries, J. W. Slack who got 56 yards in 12 carries and Wayne Bourgeois who was credited with 43 yards in 8 carries.

Statistical leaders for Southern were fullback Bo Dickinson who got 57 yards in a dozen attempts and George Sekul with 43 yards in only 4 carries.



OFF TO A FLYING START—Dick Hunter, North Carolina State's left halfback, takes the opening kickoff and shakes away from North Carolina's Phil Blazer (70) and Ronnie Koes (53) to return it 30 yards in yesterday's game at Chapel Hill, N.C. Daley Goff and Buddy Payne tackled him. N. C. State won, 7-0. (AP Wirephoto)

Rice Roars From Behind In 4th To Humble LSU, 20-14

BATON ROUGE, Sept. 21 (AP)—Favored Rice, its offense blunted by fumbles and a determined Louisiana State squad, roared from behind in the fourth quarter tonight for a 20-14 victory in the season's football opener for both teams.

Some 50,000 fans saw the Southwest Conference squad win in Tiger Stadium for the first time since 1935.

Trailing 14-7 as the final period began, Rice combined the passing of quarterbacks Frank Ryan and King Hill with the power-running of Pat Bailey, Raymond Chilton and Davie Kelley for the victory.

Ryan punched over the tying touchdown on a two-yard quarterback sneak, ending a 52-yard drive that began just before the third period ended.

The winning score came with dismaying speed late in the final quarter. With less than three minutes to go, Rice sped 51 yards in two plays. A pass from Hill to end Buddy Dial covered 35 yards and Chilton slashed 16 yards for the score.

STALISTICS

LSU moved ahead quickly in the first half as fullback Jimmy Taylor, 1956 Southeastern Conference scoring champion, scored twice and kicked both extra points. Taylor went over from one yard out in the first quarter to end a 67-yard drive. In the second quarter, he dashed 13 yards for a touchdown, set up by a 42-yard run by halfback Don Purvis.

The first Rice touchdown just before the first half ended.

The Owls marched 42 yards, with a 31-yard Hill-Dial pass setting up the tally. Hill scored from one yard out on a quarterback sneak.

Rice fumbled twice inside the LSU 10-yard line and again on the Tiger 26. On two other scoring threats, the Owls drove inside the LSU 10-yard line, but lost the ball on downs.

LSU, with some 22 squad members afflicted with Asian flu in the last two weeks, started off strongly but wilted in the second half. Taylor, the team's most potent running threat, who caught the virus Thursday, gained most of his yardage in the first half and was relatively ineffective after the intermission.

Highlights for LSU were the fine play of sophomores. Center Doug Skinner, tackle Lynn LeBlanc, fullback Max Fugler and end Scotty McClain made key plays to halt Rice scroing threats.

Halfback Billy Cannon was the top ground gainer for LSU with 71 yards in six attempts. He broke loose once for 42 yards.

Taylor was the workhorse for LSU, carrying 13 times for 42 yards. Purvis, sophomore halfback, gained 43 yards in two attempts, one a 42-yard run, setting up the second LSU touchdown.

Chilton was the top ground gainer for Rice, carrying 16 times for 84 yards. Kelley had 78 yards in 11 attempts and Bailey chalked up 59 yards in nine attempts.

Halfback J. W. Brodnax completed one of two running passes for 15 yards and sophomore quarterback Warren Rabb hit one of three for 19 yards. LSU completed only two of seven passes.

For Rice, Hill connected on eight of 13 passes for 144 yards while Ryan had two for two and 20 yards.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 21 (UP)—Unseeded Gil Shea of Los Angeles upset defending champion Herbie Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., in five sets today to move into the finals of the Pacific Southwest Tennis Tournament against second-seeded Vic Seixas of Philadelphia.

Shea, showing near-perfect service control, downed the recently selected Davis Cupper, 6-4, 6-3, 3-6, 8-10, 6-2. Seixas had an easy time with Sammy Giammalva of Houston Tex., winning 6-4, 6-4, 6-3.

In the women's semi-finals, Louise Brough, Beverly Hills, defeated Beverly Baker Fleitz, Belmont Shore, Calif., 8-6, 6-3.

Other results:

Junior men's singles — semi final — Robert Delgado, Los Angeles, def., Edward Sledge, Dallas, Tex., 6-4, 6-2; junior women's singles — semi-final — Sally Moore, Bakersfield, Calif., def. Lorna Raymond, Covina, Calif., 4-6, 6-2, 10-8; boys singles — semi-final — Robert Siska, San Francisco, def. Dennis Ralston, Bakersvield, 9-7, 6-2, and Charles Robmeau, Los Angeles, def. David Reed, Los Angeles, 2-6, 8-6, 6-1.

Austin Field Goal Defeats Indians, 10-7

NATCOGDOCHES, Tex. (Special) Stephen F. Austin College quarterback Votto Gaddis kicked a fourth down field goal from the Northeast Louisiana State eight here last night to break a stalemate and enable the Lumberjacks to defeat the Louisiana invaders, 10 to 7.

Northeast, which had a touchdown nullified by a penalty in the third quarter, scored the first time the Redskins gained possession of the ball, but S.F.A hammered right back to tie up the game and it was a hard scramble the rest of the way until Gaddis got in his payoff kick.

STATISTICS

Punting av.	3-30	3-32.7
Penalties	6-69	6-93

Austin took the opening kickoff, ran three plays and had to punt, Northeast downing the kick on the Indian 31. Quarterback Nathan Zametta passed to halfback Tony Hartsell for 40 yards the first time Northeast ran from scrimmage to the 'Jack 29. Don Reynolds ran to the 13. Zametta got two on a keeper, and Zametta again lost eight which Don Reynolds picked up in bringing up fourth down. Then Zametta, on a rollout pass, fired to end Claxton Mayo in the endzone for the touchdown. Halfback Jim Laudadio kicked the point with ten minutes left in the quarter.

S.F.A. gathered in the ensuing kickoff and hammered back 69 yards to score with halfback Wade Turner going around left end from the 2 with a pitchout from Gaddis. Fullback Ed Roberson kicked the tying point. Two long Gaddis passes to end "Bo" Johnston for 19 and 11 yards sparked the drive.

It was late in the fourth quarter with the field clock "haywire" and the press box unable to determine how much time was left when Austin hammered to the Indian eight faced with fourth down. Gaddis then backed up to kick his game-winning field goal.

Early in the third quarter Northeast had marched the kickoff to the Lumberjack seven from where Hartsell sliced over the goal line, but a 15-yard holding penalty was called against the Tribe.

Northeast also missed a great chance just before the half ended. The Tribe covered a Lumberjack fumble on the S.F.A. 20 and drove to the eleven from where Don Reynolds' kick for a field goal was low.

Score by quarters:

Oklahoma Shows Muscles In 26-0 Pasting Of Pitt

Pittsburgh, Sept. 21 (UP)—The devastating Oklahoma Sooners rolled to a surprisingly easy 26-0 rout over the stumbling Pittsburgh team today to serve notice they intend to keep their No. 1 national football ranking.

Coach Bud Wilkinson's wrecking crew, running its record winning streak through 41 games, struck for one touchdown in the second period and three more in the third.

Oklahoma's deceptive offense first paid off early in the second period when junior Jackie Sandefer took a pitchout from quarterback Carl Dodd and passed 12 yards to end Joe Rector in the end zone to climax a 51-yard drive. Dodd converted.

Two Pitt fumbles set up a pair of Sooner touchdowns with less than four minutes gone in the second half. Oklahoma wound up the scoring with its fourth touchdown later in the third quarter.

Dennis Morris, Sooner fullback from Tulsa, dropped on quarterback Bill Kaliden's fumble on the Pitt 19 and three plays later classy Clendon Thomas, the country's top scorer last year, knifed off-tackle of 13 yards and a score. Thomas shook off three potential tacklers on his way. Dodd, first-string quarterback from Norman, kicked the second of his two conversions.

On the first scrimmage following the kickoff, Pitt halfback Dick Haley fumbled and Dodd recovered. In four plays Oklahoma had its third touchdown as Dodd fired a 17-yard strike to co-captain Don Stiller as 58,942 predominantly Pitt fans wailed.

The two quick toucndowns apparently bewildered the heft Panthers. Before the period ended, Oklahoma boosted the score to 26-0 when second string quarterback David Baker of Bartlesville, Okla., combined with halfback Dick Carpenter of Breckenridge, Tex., for a 31-yard scoring pass.

Wilkinson, who said earlier he was stressing defense this year, made good his promise. The Sooners displayed a solid defense to blend with their shock-troop offense that went four teams deep.

So powerful was the Oklahoma defense that Pitt crossed the midfield stripe only twice and never penetrated beyond the 47-yard line.

The final outcome could have been much worse for Pitt because Oklahoma had two touchdowns called back by penalties and blew two other scoring chances.

The statistics favored the Sooners, 20 first downs to nine and 310 net yards to 87.

Oklahoma	0	7	19	0—26

Oklahoma scoring: Touchdowns, Rector (12, pass from Sandefer), Thomas (13, run), Stiller (17, pass from Dodd), Carpenter (31, pass from Baker). Conversions, Dodd 2.

Lamar Tech Wins Over NSC, 20-10

NATCHITOCHES, La., Sept. 21 (AP)—Lamar Tech defeated Northwestern State 20-10 tonight to spoil the debut of NSC coach Jack Clayton before home fans.

NSC took the lead in the first period on a six yard field goal by end Jim Bruning but Tech went ahead to stay in the second period on the first of two touchdowns by quarterback George Parks, both on one-yard plunges. Tech ended its scoring in the fourth period on a six yard run by Charles Starcke. Dudley Rench and Glen Green made the Tech conversions.

End Kent Gordon raced 35 yards in the third period for NSC's touchdown. Bruning sonverted.

BOWLING

With Tommy Higgins

SPALDING SHOWS 'EM

Jim Spalding, a soft-spoken 39-year-old civil engineer from Louisville, Ky., and much-decorated veteran of two wars, is considered by many the greatest bowling champion of 1957.

Spalding took on 10,608 other contestants in tournament play and bested them all. He broke a 20-year-old scoring record and in so doing topped the best efforts of more than a half-million contestants who preceded him during a half century of competition in that tourney.

Jim Spalding is the 1957 American Bowling Congress tournament all-events champion.

His 2,088 pin total—an average of 232 for nine games—was established in competition against the nation's best ten-pin stars who were among those ten thousand trying for the title. Based on past experience, the Brunswick star's record score may stand unchallenged for some years to come.

The s... Louisville bowler with the shy ... is the best example of the universal appeal of bowling to come along in many a year. Spalding is not a professional bowler. He bowls in two leagues a week—strictly for fun. There's no doubt about his bowling ability. Records show he ended the season with a 199 average in one league and a 196 in the other.

SPARE STUFF

Lynn Morrow, bowling for Standard Office Supply, posted his first "600" series of the new season, a nice 609.

Art Smith also fired a 603 series for Continental Labs in the Major League. Congratulations!

Charlie Walker, A. and C. Music Company bowler, took high game and series honors for the Kegler League with his 211-579.

Everyone is concerned over the bad starts of Theo "300" Finkbeiner and E. B. Eddy, City Match Game Champion. Theo is about fourteen pins off his usual high average—however, E. B. bowled a hundred pins or better over last week's series.

One complete bowling lane requires about 8,258 nails to hold the 3,176 feet of maple and pine together—No wonder that ten-pin seems like it's nailed down.

Johnny King of Cleveland, O., was the leading money winner on televised bowling shows last season. King earned more than $25,000 to head the eight men who took home more than $10,444 apiece on the TV bowling circuit.

David McKenzie, bowling for Schlitz Beer, tossed two games over 200 and ended with a big 588 series to head the Pioneer League scoring the past week.

The American Junior Bowling Congress has grown from 16 boys at one Chicago high school in 1937 to a nation-wide program with 131,000 boys and girls participating in 1957.

It was a pleasant surprise to see that the Metropolitan Bowler, a New Orleans publication, saw fit to reproduce one of my columns. I want to thank them for finding my efforts worthy and our own readers and bowlers for making this column possible.

Follow Form In Twin City

Defending champion E. E. Lawson and medalist Roy Nash won first round matches in the annual Twin City Amateur Golf Tournament at Municipal Golf Club here yesterday to gain semi-final berths this morning.

Lawson who defeated Wayne Woods yesterday, 4 and 2, moves against Dan Nevils, the former Northeast State football player, this morning, and Nash will square away against his dad, Clyde Nash. Roy beat Max Pennington yesterday afternoon, 2 and 1.

Clyde Nash had to go 19 holes to beat Louis Whitfield, 1 up, in their first round match, while Nevils eased through on default from W. A. "Bill" Jones.

This morning's winners come back this afternoon for the finals, beginning at 12:30 o'clock for the championship flight.

Hugh A. Britt, professional at Municipal, last night said his course will be closed all day today to all play except those participating in the tournament. Spectators are welcome, and the "bigger the gallery the better," said Britt.

Yesterday's sumary::

Championship — Lawson beat Wayne Woods, 4-2; Nevils won on default from Bill Jones; R. Nash beat Pennington, 2-1; C. Nash beat Whitfield, 1 up in 19.

First flight — Tony Danna beat Charles Armistead, 2-1; John Lacy beat Jim Williams, 1 up; Mark Womack beat Guy DuPriest, 1 up; Al Gallagher beat Walter Ernst, 5-4.

Second — Amos Shelton beat Tex Polson, 6-4; Joe Coats beat Sam Correro, 1 up in 19; Frank Cascio beat Branton Kellogg, 2 up; Ray Garrett beat Jim Pettit, 4-3.

Third — Jack Windnam, bye; Jerry York beat Tex Kilpatrick, 1 up; Paul Brooks beat W. H. Throop, 1 up; Pete Haddad, bye.

Fourth — Willard Fisher beat Tom Hyland, 3-2; Frank Smith beat F. X. Shaughnessy, 3-2; Fred Lowry beat L. M. Irving, 2-1; Fred Brownlee, bye.

Today's pairings and foursome starting times:

Champion — Lawson vs. Nevils and R. Nash vs. C. Nash, 8 a.m. Consolation: Woods vs. Jones and Pennington vs. Whitfield, 8:05.

First — Danna vs. Lacy and Womack vs. Gallagher, 8:15. Consolation: Armistead vs. Williams and DuPriest vs. Ernst, 8:20.

Second — Shelton vs. Coats and Cascio vs. Garrett, 8:25. Concolation: Polson vs. Correro and Kellogg vs. Pettit, 8:30.

Third — Windham vs. York and Cascio vs. Garrett, 8:25. Consolation: Kilpatrick vs. Throok in finals, 8:40.

Fourth — Fisher vs. Smith and Lowry vs. Brownlee, 8:45. Consolation: Hyland vs. Shaugnnessy; Irving, bye, 8:50.

Stanford Crushes Little San Jose State, 46 To 7

STANFORD, Calif., Sept. 21 (UP)—The Stanford Indians frolicked to a 46-7 victory over San Jose State today in what amounted to no more than a dress rehearsal for Stanford's national TV appearance next Saturday.

Some 26,000 sun-washed fans watched the Indians run up a decisive 34-0 halftime advantage and then depend exclusively on reserves in the second half as Stanford "worked out" for next Saturday's game-of-the-week with Northwestern.

At the final gun the true caliber of the Indians' play remained a mystery to both the Northwestern scouts and the crowd. Coach Chuck Taylor used his regulars for little more than one quarter of play.

The second half was given over entirely to Stanford's third and fourth teams, and, even against them, San Jose was no test.

The only San Jose score came in the waning moments on a perfectly executed 25-yard pass play Marv McKean to halfback Jim Riley. Stanford scored twice in the final quarter, once on a 28-yard end sweep by Al Napoleon and on a one-yard buck by Dick Childs.

The first half was pretty much a two-man show with one big exception. That was a 67-yard pass interception and runback by second string halfback Jackie Taylor for Stanford's fourth touchdown.

The two-man performance was put on by sweet-swinging halfback Lou Valli and quarterback Jon Douglas.

Score by periods:

Stanford	6	28	0	12	—46
San Jose State	0	0	0	7	— 7

Stanford scoring: Touchdowns—Valli (2, plunge), Harrington (6, run), McMillin (10, pass from Douglas), Taylor (67, pass interception-run), B. Robinson (14, pass-run from Nicolet), Childs (1, plunge), Napoleon (28, run). Conversions — Harrington, DeWeese, Taylor 2. San Jose scoring: Touchdow—Riley (25, pass from McKean). Conversion—McKean.

Yank Ryder Cuppers Top Challengers

BUFFALO, N.Y., Sept. 21 (UP)—America's Ryder Cup golfers displayed razor-sharp form over the rainswept Wanakah Country Club course today as they took a 4-1 lead in a series of exhibitions with a picked team of challengers.

Led by Sam Snead, who failed to make the Ryder Cup team for the first time in the past seven selections, the team of challengers could win only the first of five four-man best-ball matches over a sodden course which gave absolutely no roll ti the long hitting pros.

The eighth annual North American big game competition has been announced by the Boone and Crockett Club, to obtain records of outstanding trophies produced in the U.S. and Canada.

Although Boone and Crockett medals are highly prized as evidence of hunting prowess, the documenting of the continent's best and biggest animals is the serious object of the contests.

Antlers and horns of any animal not previously listed in the records of North American big game can be entered. And in recent years some ranking trophies have come out of the attic to gain recognition.

Since the forms and regulations are comparatively strict and measurements exact, hunters who have or shoot a head they're particularly proud of might best get in touch with their state conservation agency.

The first of the nation's hunting seasons have arrived, and so have the first of the hunting stories. Some of them are trophies, too, in their own way.

Item: The ingenuity of Francis Wharton of Little Fort, B.C., is cited by the British Columbia Wildlife Agency. Francis bagged his deer last year, but was unable to use the meat because he had no serviceable teeth. With venison steak hanging in the balance, Wharton extracted the teeth from his deer, filed and ground them to what appeared a handy size. He then chewed up a wad of plastic wood, molding it to the shape of his own gums, and thre to affixed the teeth, using household cement for binder.

Thereafter, Francis sat down to a hearty meal of venison that scarcely had time to age, and ate the deer with its own teeth.

The U.S. Bureau of Wildlife recently spoke up so positively in forbidding the use of electronic devices to reproduce waterfowl calls that some hunters may be overdoing the curtailment. Old fashioned duck and goose calls that you blow yourself and that depend for their effectiveness on your own skill can still be used, the bureau says. It doesn't add what every veteran knows: A waterfowl call in the hands of any but the most expert is really a game-saving device. It frightens more birds out of range than the experts can call in . . . and by the way, you can still use electronic reproductions for the calling of crow and other predator or non-game species.

Arizona game managers, sorting through the suggestions they get from amateur enthusiasts, have a couple they're willing to share with professionals elsewhere. A fellow who'd heard that browsing moose control aquatic vegetation in northern streams thought the idea could be adapted to deeper waters of reservoirs and impoundments. Just stock a few giraffs instead of moose.

The California Fish and Game Commission will consider later this week the state's first regulations to cover hunting by falcon. Proposed rules for this sport of the middle ages which is arousing as much interest in some places as the bow and arrow did in the early years of its revival nearly two decades ago may be the subject of some unusual discussion. During its heyday, this sport of kings was a little short of regulations, since the kings could do no wrong.

Pennsylvania game protector Bruce Yeager reported to headquarters this summer that he was worried about a black duck hen that lost its own clutch of eggs and forthwith took over a nest of 14 pheasant eggs . . . If anyone sees pheasants swimming around in Montour county, Pa., waterfowl areas there'll be more to worry about than ducks.

Ladies' Event For Muny Club

The Northeast Louisiana Ladies Golf Association holds its annual tournament at Municipal Golf Club here Wednesday with the Muny women as hostesses of the event.

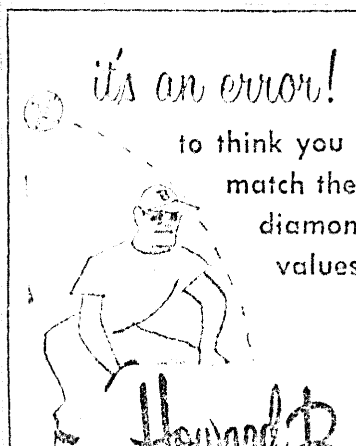
Clubs represented will be Bastrop, Jonesboro - Hodge, Ruston, Highland of West Monroe, and Bayou DeSiard and Municipal of Monroe.

The Municipal club's organization is also extending an invitation to other women on this area to join their club and participate in the meet which begins at 8:30 o'clock Wednesday morning. The noon program will include lunch and awarding of prizes.

Ducks' Field Goal Defeats Idaho, 9 To 6

MOSCOW, Idaho, Sept. 21 (UP)—Fullback Jack Morris kicked a 22-yard field goal the first for Oregon in eight years, to give the highly favored Ducks a 9-6 victory over Idaho today in a Pacific Coast Conference football game.

Morris' boot came shortly before the end of the third period. It broke a 6-6 tie and kept Oregon in the four-team race for the Rose Bowl. It was a game marked by staunch defensive play.



Huskies Use Long Pass To Deadlock Colorado

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 21 (UP)—A 58-yard pass play from Bobby Dunn to Dick Payseno and two goal line stands enabled the Washington Huskies to battle Colorado to a 6-6 stalemate in an intersectional football opener here before 32,500 fans.

The Husky touchdown pass came early in the second quarter, about four minutes after Colorado's Orange Bowl champions opened the scoring with a 38-yard touchdown march in the opening period.

The Colorado drive consumed seven plays and ended when Buffalo halfback Leroy Clark scooped up his own fumble and powered 11 yards over right tackle into the end zone.

Ellwin Indorf's conversion attempt was wide.

Rich Brandt's try for the extra point after the Washington touchdown was partly blocked and fell short.

That ended the scoring, although Colorado goofed two golden opportunities in the second half.

The Buffaloe's recovered a fumble on the Washington 35 in the third period and marched to the Washington five. But the Husky defense stiffened and Washington stopped four Colorado running plays inside the five yard line.

The Buffs were back pounding on the door two plays later after Jack Himelwright, Colorado's 217-pound right tackle pounced on Dunn's fumble on the Washington six.

A 15-yard penalty sent Colorado to the 16 and another five-yarder four plays later placed the ball on the Washington 22. Indorf missed a field goal attempt and Washington had the Buffs stopped again.

Colorado had another chance in the final period when halfback Howard Cook returned Dunn's 41-yard punt 25-yards to the Washington 45. The Buffs marched to the nine yard line, but the attack bogged down again.

Washington moved up to its own 17 and Dunn attempted to pass with less than a minute to go but Cook intercepted the toss and returned the ball to the 6-yard stripe, once again setting up a scoring opportunity. But the Buffs failed to call a time-out and the game ended before they could get their play off.

Score by periods:

Washington	0	6	0	0	—6
Colorado	6	0	0	0	—6

Washington scoring: Touchdown — Peysano (58 yard pass from Dunn).

Colorado scoring: Touchdown — Clark (11-yard run).

BOWLING

With Tommy Higgins

SPALDING SHOWS 'EM

Jim Spalding, a soft-spoken 39-year-old civil engineer from Louisville, Ky., and much-decorated veteran of two wars, is considered by many the greatest bowling champion of 1957.

Spalding took on 10,608 other contestants in tournament play and bested them all. He broke a 20-year-old scoring record and in so doing topped the best efforts of more than a half-million contestants who preceded him during a half century of competition in that tourney.

Jim Spalding is the 1957 American Bowling Congress tournament all-events champion.

His 2,088 pin total—an average of 232 for nine games—was established in competition against the nation's best ten-pin stars who were among those ten thousand trying for the title. Based on past experience, the Brunswick star's record score may stand unchallenged for some years to come.

The sandy-haired Louisville bowler with the shy grin is the best example of the universal appeal of bowling to come along in many a year. Spalding is not a professional bowler. He bowls in two leagues a week—strictly for fun. There's no doubt about his bowling ability. Records show he ended the season with a 199 average in one league and a 196 in the other.

SPARE STUFF

Lynn Morrow, bowling for Standard Office Supply, posted his first "600" series of the new season, a nice 609.

Art Smith also fired a 603 series for Continental Labs in the Major League. Congratulations!

Charlie Walker, A. and C.. Music Company bowler, took high game and series honors for the Kegler League with his 211-579.

Everyone is concerned over the bad starts of Theo "300" Finkbeiner and E. B. Eddy, City Match Game Champion. Theo is about fourteen pins off his usual high average—however, E. B. bowled a hundred pins or better over last week's series.

One complete bowling lane requires about 8,258 nails to hold the 3,176 feet of maple and pine together—No wonder that ten-pin seems like it's nailed down.

Johnny King of Cleveland, O., was the leading money winner on televised bowling shows last season. King earned more than $25,000 to head the eight men who took home more than $10,444 apiece on the TV bowling circuit.

David McKenzie, bowling for Schlitz Beer, tossed two games over 200 and ended with a big 588 series to head the Pioneer League scoring the past week.

The American Junior Bowling Congress has grown from 16 boys at one Chicago high school in 1937 to a nation-wide program with 131,000 boys and girls participating in 1957.

It was a pleasant surprise to see that the Metropolitan Bowler, a New Orleans publication, saw fit to reproduce one of my columns. I want to thank them for finding my efforts worthy and our own readers and bowlers for making this column possible.

Follow Form In Twin City

Defending champion E. E. Lawson and medalist Roy Nash won first round matches in the annual Twin City Amateur Golf Tournament at Municipal Golf Club here yesterday to gain semi-final berths this morning.

Lawson who defeated Wayne Woods yesterday, 4 and 2, moves against Dan Nevils, the former Northeast State football player, this morning, and Nash will square away against his dad, Clyde Nash. Roy beat Max Pennington yesterday afternoon, 2 and 1.

Clyde Nash had to go 19 holes to beat Louis Whitfield, 1 up, in their first round match, while Nevils eased through on default from W. A. "Bill" Jones.

This morning's winners come back this afternoon for the finals, beginning at 12:30 o'clock for the championship flight.

Hugh A. Britt, professional at Municipal, last night said his course will be closed all day today to all play except those participating in the tournament. Spectators are welcome, and the "bigger the gallery the better," said Britt.

Yesterday's sumary::

Championship — Lawson beat Wayne Woods, 4-2; Nevils won on default from Bill Jones; R. Nash beat Pennington, 2-1; C. Nash beat Whitfield, 1 up in 19.

First flight — Tony Danna beat Charles Armistead, 2-1; John Lacy beat Jim Williams, 1 up; Mark Womack beat Guy DuPriest, 1 up; Al Gallagher beat Walter Ernst, 5-4.

Second — Amos Shelton beat Tex Polson, 6-4; Joe Coats beat Sam Correro, 1 up in 19; Frank Cascio beat Branton Kellogg, 2 up; Ray Garrett beat Jim Pettit, 4-3.

Third — Jack Windnam, bye; Jerry York beat Tex Kilpatrick, 1 up; Paul Brooks beat W. H. Throop, 1 up; Pete Haddad, bye.

Fourth — Willard Fisher beat Tom Hyland, 3-2; Frank Smith beat F. X. Shaughnessy, 3-2; Fred Lowry beat L. M. Irving, 2-1; Fred Brownlee, bye.

Today's pairings and foursome starting times:

Champion — Lawson vs. Nevils and R. Nash vs. C. Nash, 8 a.m. Consolation: Woods vs. Jones and Pennington vs. Whitfield, 8:05.

First — Danna vs. Lacy and Womack vs. Gallagher, 8:15. Consolation: Armistead vs. Williams and DuPriest vs. Ernst, 8:20.

Second — Shelton vs. Coats and Cascio vs. Garrett, 8:25. Concolation: Polson vs. Correro and Kellogg vs. Pettit, 8:30.

Third — Windham vs. York and Cascio vs. Garrett, 8:25. Consolation: Kilpatrick vs. Throok in finals, 8:40.

Fourth — Fisher vs. Smith and Lowry vs. Brownlee, 8:45. Consolation: Hyland vs. Shaugnnessy; Irving, bye, 8:50.

Stanford Crushes Little San Jose State, 46 To 7

STANFORD, Calif., Sept. 21 (UP)—The Stanford Indians frolicked to a 46-7 victory over San Jose State today in what amounted to no more than a dress rehearsal for Stanford's national TV appearance next Saturday.

Some 26,000 sun-washed fans watched the Indians run up a decisive 34-0 halftime advantage and then depend exclusively on reserves in the second half as Stanford "worked out" for next Saturday's game-of-the-week with Northwestern.

At the final gun the true caliber of the Indians' play remained a mystery to both the Northwestern scouts and the crowd. Coach Chuck Taylor used his regulars for little more than one quarter of play.

The second half was given over entirely to Stanford's third and fourth teams, and, even against them, San Jose was no test.

The only San Jose score came in the waning moments on a perfectly executed 25-yard pass play Marv McKean to halfback Jim Riley. Stanford scored twice in the final quarter, once on a 28-yard end sweep by Al Napoleon and on a one-yard buck by Dick Childs.

The first half was pretty much a two-man show with one big exception. That was a 67-yard pass interception and runback by second string half-back Jackie Taylor for Stanford's fourth touchdown.

The two-man performance was put on by sweet-swinging halfback Lou Valli and quarterback Jon Douglas.

Score by periods:

Stanford	6	28	0	12	—46
San Jose State	0	0	0	7	— 7

Stanford scoring: Touchdowns—Valli (2, plunge), Harrington (6, run), McMillin (10, pass from Douglas), Taylor (67, pass interception-run), B. Robinson (14, pass-run from Nicolet), Childs (1, plunge), Napoleon (28, run). Conversions — Harrington, DeWeese, Taylor 2. San Jose scoring: Touchdow—Riley (25, pass from McKean). Conversion—McKean.

Yank Ryder Cuppers Top Challengers

BUFFALO, N.Y., Sept. 21 (UP)—America's Ryder Cup golfers displayed razor-sharp form over the rainswept Wanakah Country Club course today as they took a 4-1 lead in a series of exhibitions with a picked team of challengers.

Led by Sam Snead, who failed to make the Ryder Cup team for the first time in the past seven selections, the team of challengers could win only the first of five four-man best-ball matches over a sodden course which gave absolutely no roll ti the long hitting pros.

OUTDOORS

The eighth annual North American big game competition has been announced by the Boone and Crockett Club, to obtain records of outstanding trophies produced in the U.S. and Canada.

Although Boone and Crockett medals are highly prized as evidence of hunting prowess, the documenting of the continent's best and biggest animals is the serious object of the contests.

Antlers and horns of any animal not previously listed in the records of North American big game can be entered. And in recent years some ranking trophies have come out of the attic to gain recognition.

Since the forms and regulations are comparatively strict and measurements exact, hunters who have or shoot a head they're particularly proud of might best get in touch with their state conservation agency.

The first of the nation's hunting seasons have arrived, and so have the first of the hunting stories. Some of them are trophies, too, in their own way.

Item: The ingenuity of Francis Wharton of Little Fort, B.C., is cited by the British Columbia Wildlife Agency. Francis bagged his deer last year, but was unable to use the meat because he had no serviceable teeth. With venison steak hanging in the balance, Wharton extracted the teeth from his deer, filed and ground them to what appeared a handy size. He then chewed up a wad of plastic wood, molding it to the shape of his own gums, and thre to affixed the teeth, using household cement for binder.

Thereafter, Francis sat down to a hearty meal of venison that scarcely had time to age, and ate the deer with its own teeth.

The U.S. Bureau of Wildlife recently spoke up so positively in forbidding the use of electronic devices to reproduce waterfowl calls that some hunters may be overdoing the curtailment. Old fashioned duck and goose calls that you blow yourself and that depend for their effectiveness on your own skill can still be used, the bureau says. It doesn't add what every veteran knows: A waterfowl call in the hands of any but the most expert is really a game-saving device. It frightens more birds out of range than the experts can call in .. and by the way, you can still use electronic reproductions for the calling of crow and other predator or non-game species.

Arizona game managers, sorting through the suggestions they get from amateur enthusiasts, have a couple they're willing to share with professionals elsewhere. A fellow who'd heard that browsing moose control aquatic vegetation in northern streams thought the idea could be adapted to deeper waters of reservoirs and impoundments. Just stock a few giraffs instead of moose.

The California Fish and Game Commission will consider later this week the state's first regulations to cover hunting by falcon. Proposed rules for this sport of the middle ages which is arousing as much interest in some places as the bow and arrow did in the early years of its revival nearly two decades ago may be the subject of some unusual discussion. During its heyday, this sport of kings was a little short of regulations, since the kings could do no wrong.

Pennsylvania game protector Bruce Yeager reported to headquarters this summer that he was worried about a black duck hen that lost its own clutch of eggs and forthwith took over a nest of 14 pheasant eggs ... if anyone sees pheasants swimming around in Mountour county, Pa., waterfowl areas there'll be more to worry about than ducks.

The Northeast Louisiana Ladies Golf Association holds its annual tournament at Municipal Golf Club here Wednesday with the Muny women as hostesses of the event.

Clubs represented will be Bastrop, Jonesboro - Hodge, Ruston, Highland of West Monroe, and Bayou DeSiard and Municipal of Monroe.

The Municipal club's organization is also extending an invitation to other women on this area to join their club and participate in the meet which begins at 8:30 o'clock Wednesday morning. The noon program will include lunch and awarding of prizes.

Ducks' Field Goal Defeats Idaho, 9 To 6

MOSCOW, Idaho, Sept. 21 (UP)—Fullback Jack Morris kicked a 22-yard field goal the first for Oregon in eight years, to give the highly favored Ducks a 9-6 victory over Idaho today in a Pacific Coast Conference football game.

Morris' boot came shortly before the end of the third period. It broke a 6-6 tie and kept Oregon in the four-team race for the Rose Bowl. It was a game marked by staunch defensive play.

Adcock Powers Braves To 6-2 Triumph Over Bruins

CHICAGO, Sept. 21 (UP)—Big Joe Adcock powered Milwaukee a step closer to the National League pennant today with a pair of mighty home runs that gave the Braves a 6-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs, and put them in a position to clinch by Monday night.

Right-hander Bob Buhl scattered eight hits in registering his 18th victory, his ninth in a row, while extending the Braves' winning streak to five games and reducing their pennant-clinching "magic number" to four.

Adc.ck's homers accounted for three of Milwaukee's runs and both wallops came at the expense of Moe Drabowsky, who suffered his 15th loss.

BEAT INDIANS, 7-6

White Sox Stay Alive With Win

CLEVELAND, Sept. 21 (UP)—The Chicago White Sox remained faintly "alive" in the American League pennant race today when they overcame a 6-1 deficit to edge the Cleveland Indians, 7-6, on a clutch single by Ted Beard in the eighth inning.

The Indians held a 6-2 lead entering the seventh, but the Sox scored three times in that frame off Early Wynn and Ron Jackson then tied the score with a lead-off homer in the eighth. Jim Landis drew a walk off Vito Valentinetti and Beard singled later off Bud Daley to score Landis with the winning run.

Detroit Hands Marquette 14-0 Licking

DETROIT, Sept. 21 (UP)— The University of Detroit today handed sophomore studded Marquette University a 14-0 whipping for its 11th straight defeat.

The Titans roamed up and down the field almost at will but didn't score until late in the second quart.r, when Bruce Maher dashed 11 yards around right end.

Detroit, chalking up its third consecutive victory over Marquette, had two touchdowns called back. But the Warriors' deepest penetration was to the Detroit 14 in the third quarter, and a holding penalty on the play pushed Marquette back to the 33.

Maher, who outgained the whole Marquette squad by himself in the first half, had 75 yards on eight carries. In the second half he was slowed by an injury.

Midshipmen Smash Boston College, 46-6

NEWTON, Mass., Sept. 21 (UP)—Navy unleashed a withering ground and air attack today, scoring in every period, to smash Boston College 46-6, and completely sour dedication of the hosts' spanking new stadium.

The powerful Middies, rated the team to beat in the East, rolled up 212 yards rushing — largely via halfback Ned Oldham — and 216 yards along the overland route — with quarterbacks Tom Forrestal and Pat Flood doing the throwing.

A 28,000 capacity crowd at Alumni stadium saw Oldham, a stocky, 5-10 blonde from Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, tally twice and add three extra points for the 1957 debuting M i d s h i p m e n. Oldham carried 11 times and chalked up 64 yards in personal offense.

Boston's T. J. Sullivan gave the partisan crowd its only thrill on the first play of the second period when he made a leaping catch of junior quarterback Don Allard's long pass from his own seven yard line. Sullivan took it on the Navy 45 and went the rest of the way untouched.

Alabama Boy Critically Hurt In Grid Contest

SYLACAUGA, Ala., Sept. 21 (AP)—William Earl Dodd, 17, is in critical condition in a hospital here of head injuries suffered last night in the Calera-Winterboro high school football game.

The youth has been unconscious since the accident.

Dodd collapsed on the field and was brought to Sylacauga.

He lives at Sycamore, Ala., and plays for the Winterboro team.

Cancels Game

COMMERCE, Tex., Sept. 21 (UP)—Tonight's football game between Abilene Christian College and East Texas State was called off after a heavy three-hour rain and a threat of more severe weather to come.

Coach J. V. Sikes of East Texas, the home team, and N. L. Nicholson of ACC agreed to call off the game after players were in uniform and fans began to gather.

Capps Presses Inman For 1st In Pro Event

BIRMINGHAM, Sept. 21 (AP) — Bill Capps of Bainbridge, Ga., became the first contender to break par and moved into second place in the Southeastern Professional Golfers Assn. tournament today.

Capps' one under par 70 gave him a 54-hole total of 217, two strokes behind Walker Inman of Eglin Air Force Base, Fla. After par rounds Thursday and Friday, Inman went two strokes over with a 73.

The final round of the 72-hole, $3,000 competition will be played tomorrow. The meet is being held on the 6,700-yard, par 71 west course of the Birmingham Country Club.

Inman had held a three-stroke margin over the field until Capps moved up today. Capps was out in 33 and bck in 37 while Inman was touring the course in 35-38.

Amateur Gene Dahlbender Jr., of Atlanta took over the lead among the amateurs with a round of 73 which gave him a total of 218 for three days of competition. Scores include:

Buck White, Greenwood, Miss. 74-71-75—220
Ballard Beasley, Hattiesburg, Miss. 75-76-225.

SMU Upsets California On Coast Invasion, 13-6

BERKELEY, Calif., Sept. 21 (UP)—The lean and hungry Mustangs of Southern Methodist, who are expected to finish in the Southwest Conference basement this season, upset favored California 13-6 today to mark their seventh straight victory in history over a West Coast team.

Billy Dunn, a converted halfback making his first start at quarterback, sparked his team most of the day in a battle of split-T formations that gave Bill Meek a triumph in his debut as SMU coach while ruining the coming-out party of Bear coach Pete Elliott.

With California leading 6-0 early in the second period, Dunn marshalled a 66-yard drive, then plunged over from close up and kicked the conversion which put the Methodists ahead for the day.

Southern Methodist scored again late in the third period when Charlie Jackson, an explosive halfback, went over from the three-yard line to climax a short march from the California 25.

This second touchdown came after the Bears had failed for the third time during the half to make enough yardage while gambling on a fourth down situation.

The Mustangs line, although outweighed by an average of 16 pounds per man, fought Cal's heavier troops to a standoff most of the day which was a disappointing one to many in the crowd of 45,000.

However, the Bears started off in the first period as if they had a cinch. One of Dunn's few errors came when he bobbled the ball while attempting a handoff to fullback Ray Masters and Art Forbes recovered on California's 49. The Bears then drove consistently through the lighter Mustang line and Jack Hart put them ahead by scoring from two yards out.

But Gary Weber, a 192-pound Mustang guard, slipped through to block quarterback Joe Kapp's attempted conversion.

After the ensuing kickoff, Dunn took his club on the 66-yard march which put the Mustangs ahead for keeps.

Score by periods:

California	6	0	0	0—6
SMU	0	7	6	0—13

California scoring: Touchdowns — Hart (2, end run). Southern Methodist scoring: Touchdowns—Dunn (1, Buck), Jackson (3, Buck). Conversion — Dunn.

Mysterious Link Meets Bill Barney At Kallio's

The Mysterious Link, recovered from a slash from a knife wielding fan in another city a few weeks ago, returns to Kallio's Arena tomorrow night when he faces Bill Barney in the main event of the weekly wrestling show.

A tag team bout provides the semi - final entertainment with George Curtis and Earl Guess tackling Leo Wallick and the Golden Terror in a two-out-of - three falls match over the hour or less route.

Allen "Sailor" Parker will again be the ring official for the night.

Monday's main event will be a 90 minute or less affair with two falls needed to win. It will be the first meeting of the huge Mysterious Link with West Monroe's Barney. Wild Bill wrestled to the local ring last week for the first time in a month or two, teaming with Earl Guess against Jules LaRance and the Golden Terror.

Barney and Guess defeated their opponents with Bill and Earl winning a fall each. The mustached Barney has been grappling around here for a long time and is a capable wrestler and really rough when aroused.

A tall, 250 pounder, the Link has made only one appearance in the local ring, defeating LaRance in a one fall preliminary bout when the pair butted heads and Jules rebounded out of the ring. Jules claimed the Link had a steel plate under his hood but to no avail.

The Link was scheduled to fight here the week after his match with LaRance but had his misunderstanding with the fan and couldn't make it. He claims that the man who beats him can unmask him.

George Curtis and Leo Wallick will get a chance to renew their feud in the semi-final match. This will be the third consecutive week the two have traded holds with each other, either in tag matches or regular bouts. Curtis has won on both occasions when Wallick was disqualified for rough stuff or grappling with the referee.

Guess and the Golden Terror met each other last week in the tag match. It was not love at first sight and the pair will undoubtedly be at each other's throats tomorrow night.

Clemson Socks Presbyterians By 66-0 Count

CLEMSON, S. C., Sept. 21 (UP)—Clemson coach Frank Howard put his sophomores to their first test today and they romped over underdog Presbyterian 66-0 to wind up a series between the two teams.

Howard fielded a sophomore backfield and substituted more sophomores throughout the game and yearlings George Usry, Sonny Quesenberry, Rabbit Chatlin, Bill Mathis, and Doug Cline crossed the goal line to tally Clemson scores.

Adcock Powers Braves To 6-2 Triumph Over Bruins

CHICAGO, Sept. 21 (UP)—Big Joe Adcock powered Milwaukee a step closer to the National League pennant today with a pair of mighty home runs that gave the Braves a 6-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs, and put them in a position to clinch it by Monday night.

Right-hander Bob Buhl scattered eight hits in registering his 18th victory, his ninth in a row, while extending the Braves' winning streak to five games and reducing their pennant-clinching "magic number" to four.

Adcock's homers accounted for three of Milwaukee's runs and both wallops came at the expense of Moe Drabowsky, who suffered his 15th loss.

BEAT INDIANS, 7-6

White Sox Stay Alive With Win

CLEVELAND, Sept. 21 (UP)—The Chicago White Sox remained faintly "alive" in the American League pennant race today when they overcame a 6-1 deficit to edge the Cleveland Indians, 7-6, on a clutch single by Ted Beard in the eighth inning.

The Indians held a 6-2 lead entering the seventh, but the Sox scored three times in that frame off Early Wynn and Ron Jackson then tied the score with a lead-off homer in the eighth. Jim Landis drew a walk off Vito Valentinetti and Beard singled later off Bud Daley to score Landis with the winning run.

Detroit Hands Marquette 14-0 Licking

DETROIT, Sept. 21 (UP)—The University of Detroit today handed sophomore studded Marquette University a 14-0 whipping for its 11th straight defeat.

The Titans roamed up and down the field almost at will but didn't score until late in the second quarter, when Bruce Maher dashed 11 yards around right end.

Detroit, chalking up its third consecutive victory over Marquette, had two touchdowns called back. But the Warriors' deepest penetration was to the Detroit 14 in the third quarter, and a holding penalty on the play pushed Marquette back to the 33.

Maher, who outgained the whole Marquette squad by himself in the first half, had 75 yards on 8 carries. In the second half he was slowed by an injury.

Midshipmen Smash Boston College, 46-6

NEWTON, Mass., Sept. 21 (UP)—Navy unleashed a withering ground and air attack today, scoring in every period, to smash Boston College 46-6, and completely sour dedication of the hosts' spanking new stadium.

The powerful Middies, rated the team to beat in the East, rolled up 212 yards rushing — largely via halfback Ned Oldham — and 216 yards along the overland route — with quarterbacks Tom Forrestal and Pat Flood doing the throwing.

A 28,000 capacity crowd at Alumni stadium saw Oldham, a stocky, 5-10 blonde from Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, tally twice and add three extra points for the 1957 debuting Midshipmen. Oldham carried 11 times and chalked up 64 yards in personal offense.

Boston's T. J. Sullivan gave the partisan crowd its only thrill on the first play of the second period when he made a leaping catch of junior quarterback Don Allard's long pass from his own seven yard line. Sullivan took it on the Navy 45 and went the rest of the way untouched.

Alabama Boy Critically Hurt In Grid Contest

SYLACAUGA, Ala., Sept. 21 (AP)—William Earl Dodd, 17, is in critical condition in a hospital here of head injuries suffered last night in the Calera-Winterboro high school football game.

The youth has been unconscious since the accident.

Dodd collapsed on the field and was brought to Sylacauga.

He lives at Sycamore, Ala., and plays for the Winterboro team.

Cancels Game

COMMERCE, Tex., Sept. 21 (UP)—Tonight's football game between Abilene Christian College and East Texas State was called off after a heavy three-hour rain and a threat of more severe weather to come.

Coach J. V. Sikes of East Texas, the home team, and N. L. Nicholson of ACC agreed to call off the game after players were in uniform and fans began to gather.

Capps Presses Inman For 1st In Pro Event

BIRMINGHAM, Sept. 21 (AP) — Bill Capps of Bainbridge, Ga., became the first contender to break par and moved into second place in the Southeastern Professional Golfers Assn. tournament today.

Capps' one under par 70 gave him a 54-hole total of 217, two strokes behind Walker Inman of Eglin Air Force Base, Fla. After par rounds Thursday and Friday, Inman went two strokes over with a 73.

The final round of the 72-hole, $3,000 competition will be played tomorrow. The meet is being held on the 6,700-yard, par 71 west course of the Birmingham Country Club.

Inman had held a three-stroke margin over the field until Capps moved up today. Capps was out in 33 and bck in 37 while Inman was touring the course in 35-38.

Amateur Gene Dahlbender Jr., of Atlanta took over the lead among the amateurs with a round of 73 which gave him a total of 218 for three days of competition.

Scores include:
Buck White, Greenwood, Miss. 74-71-75—220
Ballard Beasley, Hattiesburg, Miss. 75-76-225.

SMU Upsets California On Coast Invasion, 13-6

BERKELEY, Calif., Sept. 21 (UP)—The lean and hungry Mustangs of Southern Methodist, who are expected to finish in the Southwest Conference basement this season, upset favored California 13-6 today to mark their seventh straight victory in history over a West Coast team.

Billy Dunn, a converted halfback making his first start at quarterback, sparked his team most of the day in a battle of split-T formations that gave Bill Meek a triumph in his debut as SMU coach while ruining the coming-out party of Bear coach Pete Elliott.

With California leading 6-0 early in the second period, Dunn marshalled a 66-yard drive, then plunged over from close up and kicked the conversion which put the Methodists ahead for the day.

Southern Methodist scored again late in the third period when Charlie Jackson, an explosive halfback, went over from the three-yard line to climax a short march from the California 25.

This second touchdown came after the Bears had failed for the third time during the half to make enough yardage while gambling on a fourth down situation.

The Mustangs line, although outweighed by an average of 16 pounds per man, fought Cal's heavier troops to a standoff most of the day which was a disappointing one to many in the crowd of 45,000.

However, the Bears started off in the first period as if they had a cinch. One of Dunn's few errors came when he bobbled the ball while attempting a handoff to fullback Ray Masters and Art Forbes recovered on California's 49. The Bears then drove consistently through the lighter Mustang line and Jack Hart put them ahead by scoring from two yards out.

But Gary Weber, a 192-pound Mustang guard, slipped through to block quarterback Joe Kapp's attempted conversion.

After the ensuing kickoff, Dunn took his club on the 66-yard march which put the Mustangs ahead for keeps.

Score by periods:

California	6	0	0	0—6
SMU	0	7	6	0—13

California scoring: Touchdowns — Hart (2, end run). Southern Methodist scoring: Touchdowns-Dunn (1, Buck), Jackson (3, Buck). Conversion — Dunn.

Yanks' Pennant Clinching Delayed By Bosox Victory

NEW YORK, Sept. 21 (UP)—The New York Yankees' pennant-clinching party was delayed for at least one day today when Ted Williams hit the 15th grand slam home run of his career to help give the Boston Red Sox an 8-3 victory.

Williams clouted his homer during a six-run second inning uprising against Bob Turley. The Red Sox slugger's grand slam total is second only to the major league record of 23 hit by Lou Gehrig.

Wildlife Unit To Award Top Fishermen

The awarding of the grand prizes in the Ouachita Wildlife Federation Unit fishing contest will highlight Tuesday night's monthly meeting of the organization at the Virginia Hotel.

Special guest for the meeting, to be held in the Cameo Room at 7:30, will be C. L. Houston, in charge of duck blinds on Wham brake. Houston will give details and answer questions on duck hunting at the brake. Unit president Arthur "Bud" Tidwell extends a special invitation to duck hunters to attend the meeting.

First, second and third place winners in the fishing contest will be awarded their prizes in the divisions, bass, bream and sacc. The contest has been going since June with monthly prizes being awarded.

All persons who contributed prizes for the contest were invited to come to the meeting by Tidwell.

Two recent movies will be shown, one entitled "Wood Duck" and the other "Reptiles." Door prizes will be given away as usual.

Tidwell said that, among other matters, the unit's coming hunting resolutions would be discussed Tuesday night.

North Carolina State Upsets Tar Heels, 7-0

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Sept. 21 (AP)—North Carolina State struck 76 yards for a first period touchdown and held favored North Carolina at bay to upset the Tar Heels 7-0 today before a sweltering crowd of 30,000 in their Atlantic Coast Conference football opener.

State, which last year spoiled Coach Jim Tatum's debut with a 26-6 win, sent captain and halfback Dick Hunter over from the five on the last play of the first period for the score. Hunter then placekicked the extra point.

Georgia Tech Nails Down 13-0 Win Over Kentucky

ATLANTA, Sept. 21 (AP)—Georgia Tech's rebuilding Yellow Jackets fund a master carpenter today in sophomore quarterback Fred Braselton and they nailed down a 13-0 season opener victory over Kentucky.

The tall, lean, 19-year-old Texan came up with the key call, pass or run when Tech needed it most, and he showed no weakness on defense. Braselton, from Corpus Christi engineered both scoring drives, passing six yards to end Jerry Nabors in the end zone for the clincher in the third quarter.

Stan Flowers, a Memphis senior and the only non-soph in Tech's young backfield, got the first score late in the first period, powering over from the 7.

Kentucky also unveiled a smart signal caller in Lowell Hughes. But some fine Tech kicking and swift, solid line play prevented Hughes from putting together a scoring march.

Not until the fourth period was Kentucky able to move into Engineer territory. Jack Gallagher and Bobby Cravens were the prime figures in a Wildcat drive which carried to the Tech 28. Cravens unreeled a nifty 27-yard sprint during this thrust.

Tech moved 60 yards or 13 plays for its first touchdown and its second score was set up at the start of the second half when Cravens fumbled the kick off and Tech's Leon Askew recovered on the Kentucky 24.

Reds Deal Cards' Pennant Hopes Blow With 9-8 Win

CINCINNATI, Sept. 21 (UP)—Roy McMillan's first home run of the year, a two-run two-out blow in the 10th inning, gave the Cincinnati Redlegs a 9-8 victory today over St. Louis, all but killing the Cards' pennant hopes.

The defeat dropped St. Louis five games behind Milwaukee, with only seven games to go. The "magic number" for Milwaukee was reduced to three — any combination of Milwaukee victories or Cardinal defeats which add to three.

The Cardinals fought bitterly all the way and had taken a one-run lead in the top of the 10th inning before McMillan's blow turned Herm Wehmeier from hero to victim. Wehmeier, the eighth Card pitcher, opened the 10th with a single, took second when Don Blasingame walked, and went to third on Al Dark's sacrifice. Bobby Smith was walked purposely and then Del Ennis scored Wehmeier with a long fly.

Wildlife Unit To Award Top Fishermen

The awarding of the grand prizes in tne Ouachita Wildlife Federation Unit fishing contest will highlight Tuesday night's monthly meeting of the organization at the Virginia Hotel.

Special guest for the meeting, to be held in the Cameo Room at 7:30, will be C. L. Houston, in charge of duck blinds on Wham brake. Houston will give details and answer questions on duck hunting at the brake. Unit president Arthur 'Bud" Tidwell extends a special invitation to duck hunters to attend the meeting.

First, second and third place winners in the fisning contest will be awarded their prizes in the divisions, bass, bream and spec. The contest has been going since June with monthly prizes being awarded.

All persons who contributed prizes for the contest were invited to come to the meeting by Tidwell.

Two recent movies will be shown, one entitled "Wood Duck" and the other "Reptiles." Door prizes will be given away as usual.

Tidwell said that, among other matters, the unit's coming hunting resolutions would be discussed Tuesday night.

North Carolina State Upsets Tar Heels, 7-0

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Sept. 21 (AP)—North Carolina State struck 76 yards for a first period touchdown and held favored North Carolina at bay to upset the Tar Heels 7-0 today before a sweltering crowd of 39,000 in their Atlantic Coast Conference football opener.

State, which last year spoiled Coach Jim Tatum's debut with a 26-6 win, sent captain and halfback Dick Hunter over from the five on the last play of the first period for the score. Hunter then placekicked the extra point.

Texas Aggies Defeat Terps In 21-13 Game

DALLAS, Sept. 21 (AP) — Texas A&M fought a rugged Maryland and crippling penalties for most of four periods today before crashing through to a 21-13 victory in a game that wound up in a driving rain.

Roddy Osborne, the busy Aggie quarterback, scored one touchdown, passed for another then crashed through to block the extra point try on Maryland's second touchdown that prevented the Terps from pulling into a tie.

Georgia Tech Nails Down 13-0 Win Over Kentucky

ATLANTA, Sept. 21 (AP)—Georgia Tech's rebuilding Yellow Jackets fund a master carpenter today in sophomore quarterback Fred Braselton and they nailed down a 13-0 season opener victory over Kentucky.

The tall, lean, 19-year-old Texan came up with the key call, pass or run when Tech needed it most, and he showed no weakness on defense. Braselton, from Corpus Christi, engineered both scoring drives, passing six yards to end Jerry Nabors in the end zone for the clincher in the third quarter.

Stan Flowers, a Memphis senior and the only non-soph in Tech's young backfield, got the first score late in the first period, powering over from the 7.

Kentucky also unveiled a smart signal caller in Lowell Hughes. But some fine Tech kicking and swift, solid line play prevented Hughes from putting together a scoring march.

Not until the fourth period was Kentucky able to move into Engineer territory. Jack Gallagher and Bobby Cravens were the prime figures in a Wildcat drive which carried to the Tech 28. Cravens unreeled a nifty 27-yard sprint during this thrust.

Tech moved 60 yards or 13 plays for its first touchdown and its second score was set up at the start of the second half when Cravens fumbled the kickoff and Tech's Leon Askew recovered on the Kentucky 24.

Uncertainties In Business Cloud Economic Future

By WALTER BREEDE JR.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21 (AP)—New uncertainties popped up on the nation's business scene this week as many indicators pointed lower.

Long-range forecasts were still on the sunny side. Some industrialists professed to see signs of an upturn that would kick the boom upward again by New Year's.

But the immediate picture was one of slowdown.

Stock prices sagged on a broad front.

Producers and refiners of crude oil scheduled new cutbacks. Allowable oil production in Texas next month will be at the lowest rate in two years.

Steel output, freight carloadings, soft coal production and retail sales dipped below year - ago levels.

Caterpillar Tractor Co. said it will lay off 3,000 of its 27,000 employes in East Peoria, Ill., next month because of high inventories and lagging sales. The company makes bulldozers and other earth moving equipment for use on construction jobs.

Copper output continued in the doldrums. Prices of sulphur were cut $2.50 to $3 a ton.

Britain's action in boosting the Bank of England's discount rate posed new problems. The new bank rate—7 per cent—is the highest since the 1920s. This is the interest charged on money borrowed from Britain's central banking system.

The net effect in Britain will be costlier borrowing, a lower rate of spending by government and business, and more austerity all along the line. Its chief purpose is to prevent collapse of the British pound. Many businessmen on this side of the Atlantic fear it will discourage British buying of U. S. goods.

Grave questions were raised, too, by Secretary of State Dulles' plea that the United Nations counter Soviet moves in Syria.

Even so, there was no lack of confidence this week among the nation's business leaders.

Looking into the future, Norman W. Foy, vice president of Republic Steel Corp., declared: "The short-range view for business is good, the mid-term view is better and the long-term view is the best that any nation has ever been privileged to anticipate."

Farm equipment makers, reporting substantial sales gains this year, predicted further increases in 1958. Chief reason for their rosy forecasts: Farmers' incomes are expected to swell in the coming months, thanks to the rising flow of government checks mailed to farmers who withhold land from cultivation under the soil bank program.

Retail merchants were told to set their sights on a record high in Christmas sales.

William Burston, manager of the merchandising division of the National Retail Dry Goods Assn., said Christmas business "should at least be equal to, or slightly higher than, a year ago.

But, he warned, stores will have to push extra hard. Because of the later Thanksgiving Day, there will be five fewer shopping days this year in what most retailers consider their normal Christmas season — from the day after Thanksgiving until Christmas Eve.

Less encouraging to retailers were reports that their credit customers are not paying their bills on time. Collecting overdue accounts is shaping up as a major problem for merchants in many of the larger cities, notably Chicago, Los Angeles and New York. Retailers blame it on factory cutbacks which have resulted in some unemployment and less overtime pay.

The Federal Reserve Board reported that department store sales in the week that ended Sept. 14 were down from a year ago in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Richmond and Atlanta, and up in Chicago, St. Louis, Minneapolis, Kansas City, Dallas and San Francisco. The nationwide total was unchanged.

Texas Drillers Bring In 289 New Oil Wells

AUSTIN, Sept. 21 (AP)—Texas drillers brought in 289 oil wells this week, the Railroad Commission said today. This brought the year total to 11,465 compared with 12,071 a year ago.

Drillers completed 41 gas wells, making a total of 1,423 for the year compared with 1,299.

Wells plugged totaled 239, including 160 dry wells. There have been 8,042 wells plugged this year, about 400 less than last year.

The daily allowable increased 10,045 to 3,202,182 barrels from last Saturday's 3,192,137.

NO COMMENT

By JAMES W. DOUTHAT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21 (Special) — Sentiment is increasing in Washington for enactment of legislation directed at racketeering by union bosses and at the monopoly power of union labor.

The revelations of the investigating committee headed by Sen. McClellan have convinced many members of Congress that legislation is necessary to:

1. Place unions, like business, under the antitrust laws in order to curtail monopolistic practices. It is becoming more and more recognized that the power of giant unions to paralyze a plant or an entire industry by mere refusal to work must be curbed. The Justice, Labor and Commerce Departments have been studying this subject for months.

2. Outlaw compulsory membership in labor unions. Growth of union membership should be based on merit — not compulsion. A worker should have as much right to join a union or not—if he so desires.

3. Prohibit the expenditure of union funds for political candidates. Dues paid by Democratic union members should not be used to elect Republicans to public office. And dues paid by Republican union members should not be used to elect Democrats. By using the funds politically, many union bosses already dominate many officeholders — contrary to public interest.

These requirements are regarded as basic. Definite need for Federal action in at least seven areas is seen by Robert F. Kennedy, committee counsel, after considerable experience in this field.

He listed these as: Misuse of pension and welfare funds, misuse of union funds, misuse of trusteeships, lack of democratic procedures, use of violence and terrorism, use of boycotts, and use of members' dues for political purposes.

Present indications are that there is more likelihood of big strikes next year than at any time since 1946.

If the atmosphere then should be surcharged with strikes, and if there should continue to be startling revelations by the McClellan committee, the chances of labor legislation may be more favorable next year than at any time since the Taft-Hartley Act was passed in 1947. And it was passed as a direct result of labor irresponsibility.

The McClellan committee already has enough good tips to justify continuing the investigation for at least two years. (One committee member said five years.)

Approximately 60,000 letters complaining about malpractices in labor unions have been received by the committee during the eight months it has been investigating union activities.

The committee estimates that 30 per cent of the letters came from rank-and-file union members.

One of the most prominent witnesses the committee may examine in the near future is Walter Reuther, head of the United Automobile Workers Union. The committee is especially interested in his strike and boycott activities against the Kohler Company of Wisconsin.

The UAW-CIO started the strike on April 5, 1954, and it still continues even though the company has been operating steadily except for the first 54 days when the plant was closed by mass picketing.

When the strike failed, a nationwide boycott was started in September, 1954, against Kohler products and against concerns doing business with Kohler. This, too, was called unsuccessful by Kohler.

The company contends that the union wants to take over the function of management. Its demands include:

A union shop under which union membership is compulsory.

No increase or reduction of hours without the union's agreement.

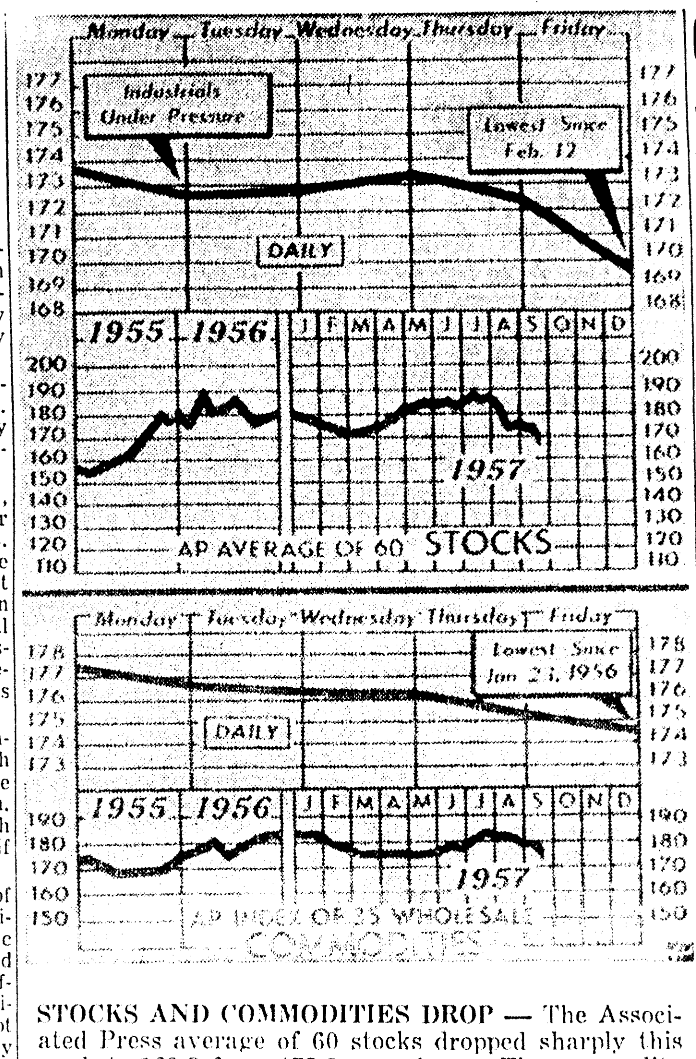
No sub - contracting of work without the union's permission.

Automatic wage progression with no merit increases.

Promotion on a strict seniority basis without regard to fitness.

No shop rules without the union's agreement.

Reuther has spent millions of dollars of union funds in the unsuccessful battle against Kohler. His testimony before the committee should be interesting.



STOCKS AND COMMODITIES DROP — The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dropped sharply this week to 169.8 from 173.8 a week ago. The commodity index reached the lowest point since Jan. 23, 1956, when it closed this week at 174.5 from 177.3 in the preceding period. Livestock was conspicuous on the decline. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

BUSINESS BRIEFS

The first of a new feature column, "Bayou Browsing," by Grits Gresham, appears in today's Monroe Morning World sports section.

Gresham is a nationally known outdoor writer and photographer whose work has been published in True, Sports Illustrated, Field and Stream, Outdoor Life, Sports Afield and The Fisherman.

He received a Master's degree in wildlife management from LSU in 1950, and has been active in this field ever since. The columnist served as refuge manager for the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, division chief for the Arizona Game and Fish Commissioner, editor of the Louisiana Conservationist for three years, and owner and operator of a hunting and fishing resort for two years.

"Bayou Browsing" will give a full coverage of outdoor recreational happenings of interest to the people of Louisiana, and will carry full and accurate coverage of seasons, bag limits and field conditions.

The column is being published in The World with compliments of Howard Griffin.

Two Twin Cities concerns were the basis of the lead article appearing in the August issue of Oilways magazine, official publication of Esso.

The two firms are Cotton States Chemical Company of West Monroe, and its parent company, Tyner-Petrus of Monroe, whose production is concentrated on development of insect killing compounds.

The Monroe Orkin office is sending eight of its representatives to Baton Rouge on Tuesday to attend the annual Orkin regional conference at Bellmont Motel. A team of experts on pest control from the Atlanta headquarters will conduct the meeting. These conferences are designed as a part of the continuous training program carried on by Orkin.

The 113-year-old State Mutual Life Assurance Company of Worcester, Mass., fourth oldest and twenty-fourth largest of the nation's 1,144 life insurance companies, becomes officially "State Mutual Life Assurance Company of America," tomorrow.

Announcement of the name change was made by Andrew L. Gates, who heads the State Mutual office in New Orleans, and H. Ladd Plumley, president.

Managers of the apparel departments of the Monroe Sears, Roebuck and Company store were off to Atlanta today to attend Sears' semi - annual apparel market where they will see and make plans to buy goods for spring.

Thirteen members of the local store will view the parade of new merchandise to be presented by the company's staff of buyers from New York and Chicago.

Those attending the market are R. T. Bahl, soft - lines merchandise manager; and Mrs. Cloteene Augspurger, Mrs. Ruby Sourcel, Mrs. Dorothy Williams, Doris Brown, Richard Clark, Mrs. Eva English, Charles Marx, Mrs. Mary Beavers, Mrs. Pauline Spinks, Mrs. Agnes Bamburg, Wilber Sisson and James Eley, department manager.

Stocks Drop As Trading Gets Nervous

NEW YORK, Sept. 21 (AP)—Nervousness over the international situation and the business outlook sent the stock market lower this week.

The Associated Press average fell $4 to $169.80. That was the widest loss since the week ending Aug. 24.

The major disturbance was the U.N. debate between the United States and Russia over the Middle East. Then there were such discouraging items as a drop in sulphur prices, an easing in the steel production rate, cuts in the armed forces and disappointing demand for oil products.

Oils, steels, metals and sulphurs were under most pressure. Tobaccos showed strength.

The five most active issues this week were General Motors off ⅞ at 40⅛, Texas Gulf Sulphur off 2⅞ at 21⅛, Bethlehem Steel off 1¾ at 43, Texas Gulf Producing up ¼ at 35⅛, and Royal Dutch off 2½ at 51½.

French Premier In Compromise Over Algeria

PARIS, Sept. 21 (AP)—Premier Maurice Bourges-Maunoury won a delaying compromise for the horned Algerian self-rule bill today. The way was cleared for a vote in Parliament next week and the shaky Cabinet was strengthened.

Under the compromise the exact powers to be given a proposed Federal Council in Algiers will not be defined until a later bill, to be presented 18 months after local legislative assemblies have been elected in the various territories into which Algeria will be divided. That takes the heat off the French government right now and gives the Algeria bill a chance of getting through Parliament.

The compromise was reached only after more than 12 hours of sometimes heated argument at a conference of 32 elder statesmen, which the Premier had summoned when he saw what severe opposition the bill was encountering.

Within hours of the solution, the Cabinet met to approve the necessary textual changes. Floor debate is scheduled to start Monday, but may be delayed pending completion of committee action.

Each of the parties represented at the talks in the Premier's office — the right - wing Poujadists and the Communists were excluded—has given a tacit promise to do its best now to get the bill approved.

Oil Industry Benefits From Road Program

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21 (AP)—The oil industry is beginning to benefit from the nation's new highway building program—through a steadily increasing demand for asphalt.

Signs point to a growing demand for asphalt—a by-product of the oil refining process—for 10 to 15 years. The great bulk of this country's supply of asphalt comes from crude oil.

Elmer Erickson, president of Northwestern Refining Co., touched on the situation in his testimony at this week's hearings on oil imports. In a plea for an increase in his company's import quota under the government's program for voluntary reduction of the flow of foreign crude oil to U.S. refineries, Erickson said:

"There has been deterioration in our district's supply situation for domestic crude, particularly with respect to asphaltic crude, resulting primarily from the government's stepped-up road program."

William C. Choitz Recruiter Here

William C. Choitz, chief ship's serviceman, has reported to the Monroe Navy Recruiting substation as a recruiter. Prior to reporting to Monroe, Choitz served aboard the USS Piedmont and the aircraft carrier USS Bennington.

A veteran of 16 years of naval service, Choitz is a survivor of the sinking of the aircraft carrier Wasp, CVA. His duties in Monroe will include weekly visits to Ruston and Jonesboro. He was accompanied to Monroe by his wife who is a qualified girl scoutmaster and sunday school teacher, and their children, Pamela, 11, and Paula 9. They are living at 2300 Racine Drive.

Cotton Future Prices Hold Small Gains

NEW YORK, Sept. 21 (AP)—Cotton futures prices were mostly steady this week, finishing out the week with small net gains despite a flurry of late selling.

Active futures contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange closed at prices which ranged from 70 cents to $1.10 a bale higher than at the end of the week before.

The week started off on a note of firmness. Prices advanced on mill and trade price fixing, short covering, and scattered buying attributed to a lack of any appreciable hedge selling and to reports of unwanted rains in the belt.

Subsequently the market turned soft on profit taking and some increase in hedging.

The U.S. Census Bureau reported Friday that mills used 667,000 bales of the staple in the four weeks from Aug. 4-31. This compared with a previous estimate of 630,000 bales by the New York Cotton Exchange Service Bureau.

The official report of 667,000 bales compared with mill use of 637,000 bales in the preceding five-week period, and 686,000 in the corresponding four weeks of 1956.

Last month's consumption was equal to a rate of 33,300 bales per day, vs. only 25,500 bales a day in July and a daily rate of 34,300 in the corresponding period a year ago.

It was noted in the trade that while the daily rate for August was down 1,000 bales from the same month last year, it showed a larger - than - usual increase over July.

22.5 Million Bales

The New York Cotton Exchange Service Bureau estimated stocks of cotton in all hands as of Aug. 31 totaled 22½ million bales, of which approximately 5,100,000 were in government hands. One year ago, it noted, total stocks amounted to 26,200,000 bales of which 9,700,000 were held by the U.S.

The Commodity Credit Corp. announced it sold 17,672 bales of government-held cotton under the Federal export program against bids opened Sept. 17. At a similar sale two weeks ago, the CCC sold 32,274 bales.

The average price received by the CCC at the latest sale was 27.24 cents a pound, basis middling one-inch at average locations. This compared with an average price of 27.23 cents at the previous auction.

Actual exports of cotton for the week ended Tuesday were estimated by the New York Cotton Exchange Service Bureau at 111,000 bales, vs. 71,000 bales the previous week and 84,000 in the year-ago week.

Exports for the current season through Sept. 17 were estimated at 527,000 bales. This would compare with a total of 657,000 bales at approximately the same time last season.

Dates Set For Livestock Exposition

DELHI (Special) — Directors of the Northeast Louisiana Livestock Show this week set the dates for the 1958 district show here for February 24 through 28 inclusive.

The show will officially be opened with the grand parade at 2:00 p.m. on Monday, February 24.

New Feature

The directors decided that there will be three performances of the quarter horse show, a new feature this year, on the evenings of February 25, 26 and 27. The group head Lee Berwick, chairman of this department, forecast that some eighty or more quarter horses may take part in the show. W. P. Martin, show president, reported that stalls for the horses had already been completed and that, if more were needed, they could be constructed in a short time.

J. H. Martin, secretary, reported that nearly $1,000 worth of advertising in the show catalog had already been ordered by individuals and business firms who regularly give loyal support to the district show. The secretary said that he hopes to get the catalog copy into the hands of the printer within the next week.

The meeting was attended by directors from Tensas, West Carroll, East Carroll and Richland parishes.

West Germany now has her first U-boat submarine for its new armed fleet. It is a holdover from World War II when it was scuttled. It has been raised and refitted.

WORSE NEED CITED

Independents Seek Lines To Transport Texas Oil

HOUSTON, Sept. 21 (AP)—The Suez crisis added fuel to a fight by Texas independent oil operators seeking pipeline connections for 8,394 oil wells.

The independents say over 31 million barrels of oil had to be carried to market by truck last year. They say a need for increased pipeline capacity is particularly critical in West, North and West Central Texas.

The campaign began to boil during the Suez crisis when officials faced the problem of moving a tremendous volume of oil to seaports.

Independents contend inadequate pipeline facilities kept over 16 days of crude production from moving out of West Texas alone during the Middle East emergency.

Five independent producer associations petitioned the Railroad Commission to order pipelines to serve the 8,394 unconnected wells and increase trunk line capacities.

During the February congressional investigations of the oil-for-Europe program, Ernest Thompson, senior member of the state's oil and gas regulatory commission, told a House committee the capacities were inadequate.

"Perhaps the Suez incident will be a good example for us to show how inadequate the existing pipeline system is for today's requirements," he said.

Four days later the commission signed an order directing all pipeliners in Texas to show cause why they should not be ordered to offer connections to all wells requesting connections.

The commission hearing was held April 1 and the five independent groups this week filed their written brief.

Specifically, the independents want sufficient pipeline capacity for movement of crude oil production out of West Texas both now and later.

They also want a cushion or margin of capacity for crude that could be produced in West Texas in the event of a national emergency.

As an alternative, the independents suggest that all crude oil purchasers pay all gathering costs, whether the transportation be by pipeline or truck.

Grains Drift Listlessly In Week's Prices

CHICAGO, Sept. 21 (AP)—Favorable and unfavorable weather news, lack of export business and liquidation of expiring September futures contracts featured an otherwise dull grain market this week.

The entire grain list drifted along rather listlessly on the Board of Trade, lacking any real incentive to attract price movements.

As a result, all grains and soybeans ended the week lower compared with a week ago. With the exception of wheat, the greatest losses occurred in the September contracts, which expired at the close of business Thursday.

At the end of the week new style wheat was 1⅝ to 3 cents a bushel lower than Friday a week ago. Corn was down ⅛ to 1 cent, oats ¼ to ⅝ lower, rye 3½ to 5 cents lower, soybeans 1¾ to 9¾ cents down, and lard was off 47 to 82 cents a hundred pounds.

BAYOU BROWSING

by Grits Gresham

With this first state-wide Bayou Browsing column we feel that a vacant nitch in the Louisiana outdoor picture has been filled. For some years there has been a growing realization that newspaper coverage of outdoor recreation such as hunting, fishing, and boating was lagging badly behind that of the spectator sports—baseball, football, etc. Editors, publishers, and other outdoor people have all been aware of this but just like "Topsy," it "growed" and continued to become more unbalanced.

This outdoor column will appear in Louisiana papers from one end of the state to the other, from Arkansas to the Gulf and from Texas to Mississippi. It's a Louisiana column designed and written for Louisiana people. It's the end result of excellent cooperation from your newspaper editors and publishers and, in some instances, a local business firm which sponsors the column. It is their effort to provide you with current and accurate information about your outdoors.

And just who are "you"? You are probably the biggest group of people in this state. You're not just the half a million Louisiana people who hunt or fish or boat, but you're all those others who are interested in the many aspects of our tremendous Louisiana outdoor resources. You're the nature lovers and bird watchers, and you're the trappers and the shrimpers. You may be a filling station owner who is none of these, but who is still interested in HIS economic share of the 25 billion automobile miles driven by hunters and fishermen each year. That's BILLION miles, friend—25,000,000,000 miles driven in pursuit of fur, fin, and feather. Yes, we're a big group of people, you and I, and still growing.

There are many things which we plan to offer for your information and entertainment in Bayou Browsing. Details of seasons, bag limits, and other regulations will be there, of course. From time to time there will be tips passed along which we hope will either add heft to your game bag or fish stringer, or add to your enjoyment while in the field—or both. Regional problems around the state will be reported, and some columns will be devoted to the outdoor resources of a particular section or town. We think that this interchange of ideas and information will result in knitting together the "you" we talked about above. With knowledge and understanding, we feel, will come sympathy and support — for the people of the marsh country with their nutria problem, for the people of the northeast with their dam on the Ouachita, for the people of the southeast with their ship channel which will be so destructive of wildlife, and for the people of the northwest with their need for an early dove season. We could go on and on listing problems which are peculiar to one area, but which deserve and must have the consideration of the entire state.

Above all we intend to constantly promote the economic potential which we have in the outdoor tourist trade. It can become one of our state's biggest income producers. Equally important, when it begins to become this we will have a big stick to wield in protecting our remaining wildlife resources.

I invite you to become a Bayou Browsing correspondent in your area. Pass along to me any tips on hunting or fishing, any unusual catches, kills, or experiences; or any questions or suggestions. Just send them to Grits Gresham, Natchitoches, La. In traveling around the state gathering material I hope to meet many of you personally, and I want you to stop by for coffee whenever you're through here.

The first section (quarter) of the dove season expired gracefully last Sunday at sunset, with reports from most areas indicating fine hunting during the 15 days. This was particularly true for north Louisiana, for which area this early season is especially necessary.

Let's review quickly the hunting calendar that's before us. Next comes rails and gallinules, legal from Oct. 1—Dec. 9, although they get little attention from our gunners. Squirrels: Oct. 18—Jan. 15. Ducks, geese, & coots: Nov. 2—Jan. 10. Rabbits: Nov. 13 — Feb. 10. Doves (second section hunt): Nov. 27—Jan. 10. Quail: Nov. 28—Feb. 10. Woodcock: Dec. 12—Jan. 20. Deer: In general begins Dec. 1 and runs for various periods of time. Check your particular locality, since there are many variations and exceptions.

This breather between seasons is a good time to hit the fish. September weather is usually cooperative, and so are the fish. Baton Rouge Sportsmen's League fishing rodeo on False River Sept. 8 produced some fine bass—topped by a 6-1 lunker.

Are you a collector of money?

We're referring not to Spanish doubloons but to the lively modern kind of money known as dollars. Different kinds of people have different degrees of success collecting them.

There is one thing, however, that the most successful collectors seem to have in common: they take extra money left over after their living expenses are paid and family emergencies provided for and put it to work to earn still more money.

They do this by investing it, and more than 8,600,000 of them have money invested in common stock. You can do the same—once you've read the answers to the following questions…

Question: How can ownership of common stock help me become a more successful collector of money?

Answer: When you own a share of stock you own a share of the company. As an owner you can share in profits through dividends and share in company growth through increase in the value of your stock. Dividends give you extra income from sources other than your job—income that can continue after you've drawn your last paycheck.

Question: How do I know which stocks will always grow and pay dividends?

Answer: You can't know with certainty. A company may not make a profit, may not pay dividends, may lose ground in our competitive economy. That's why it's important to use the old noggin. Act only on facts, not tips or rumors. And get to know without delay a friendly broker—make sure he's with a nearby Member Firm of the New York Stock Exchange. He'll share his knowledge and experience with you at no cost, help you buy and sell, and he will be glad to look over your securities with you from time to time. He may recommend bonds instead of stocks, depending on your circumstances.

Question: How much money will I need to start?

Answer: Through the Monthly Investment Plan you can buy stock in America's most famous and reliable companies for as little as $40 every three months, up to $1000 a month. More than 300 companies whose stock is listed on the New York Stock Exchange have paid dividends every year from 25 to 109 years. You'll find their records listed in our valuable booklet, "DIVIDENDS OVER THE YEARS," which also describes the Monthly Investment Plan. Ask your broker for a copy. Or send the coupon now. It's free. Isn't it time you thought about investing as so many successful collectors do?

Uncertainties In Business Cloud Economic Future

By WALTER BREEDE JR.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21 (AP)—New uncertainties popped up on the nation's business scene this week as many indicators pointed lower.

Long-range forecasts were still on the sunny side. Some industrialists professed to see signs of an upturn that would kick the boom forward again by New Year's.

But the immediate picture was one of slowdown.

Stock prices sagged on a broad front.

Producers and refiners of crude oil scheduled new cutbacks. Allowable oil production in Texas next month will be at the lowest rate in two years.

Steel output, freight carloadings, soft coal production and retail sales dipped below year - ago levels.

Caterpillar Tractor Co. said it will lay off 3,000 of its 27,000 employes in East Peoria, Ill., next month because of high inventories and lagging sales. The company makes bulldozers and other earth moving equipment for use on construction jobs.

Copper output continued in the doldrums. Prices of sulphur were cut $2.50 to $3 a ton.

Britain's action in boosting the Bank of England's discount rate posed new problems. The new bank rate—7 per cent—is the highest since the 1920s. This is the interest charged on money borrowed from Britain's central banking system.

The net effect in Britain will be costlier borrowing, a lower rate of spending by government and business, and more austerity all along the line. Its chief purpose is to prevent collapse of the British pound. Many businessmen on this side of the Atlantic fear it will discourage British buying of U. S. goods.

Grave questions were raised, too, by Secretary of State Dulles' plea that the United Nations counter Soviet moves in Syria.

Even so, there was no lack of confidence this week among the nation's business leaders.

Looking into the future, Norman W. Foy, vice president of Republic Steel Corp., declared: "The short-range view for business is good, the mid-term view is better and the long-term view is the best that any nation has ever been privileged to anticipate."

Farm equipment makers, reporting substantial sales gains this year, predicted further increases in 1958. Chief reason for their rosy forecasts: Farmers' incomes are expected to swell in the coming months, thanks to the rising flow of government checks mailed to farmers who withhold land from cultivation under the soil bank program.

Retail merchants were told to set their sights on a record high in Christmas sales.

William Burston, manager of the merchandising division of the National Retail Dry Goods Assn., said Christmas business "should at least be equal to, or slightly higher than, a year ago.

But, he warned, stores will have to push extra hard. Because of the later Thanksgiving Day, there will be five fewer shopping days this year in what most retailers consider their normal Christmas season — from the day after Thanksgiving until Christmas Eve.

Less encouraging to retailers were reports that their credit customers are not paying their bills on time. Collecting overdue accounts is shaping up as a major problem for merchants in many of the larger cities, notably Chicago, Los Angeles and New York. Retailers blame it on factory cutbacks which have resulted in some unemployment and less overtime pay.

The Federal Reserve Board reported that department store sales in the week ended Sept. 14 were down from a year ago in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Richmond and Atlanta, and up in Chicago, St. Louis, Minneapolis, Kansas City, Dallas and San Francisco. The nationwide total was unchanged.

Texas Drillers Bring In 289 New Oil Wells

AUSTIN, Sept. 21 (AP)—Texas drillers brought in 289 oil wells this week, the Railroad Commission said today. This brought the year total to 11,465 compared with 12,071 a year ago.

Drillers completed 41 gas wells, making a total of 1,423 for the year compared with 1,299.

Wells plugged totaled 239, including 160 dry wells. There have been 8,042 wells plugged this year, about 400 less than last year.

The daily allowable increased 10,045 to 3,202,182 barrels from last Saturday's 3,192,137.

NO COMMENT

By JAMES W. DOUTHAT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21 (Special) — Sentiment is increasing in Washington for enactment of legislation directed at racketeering by union bosses and at the monopoly power of union labor.

The revelations of the investigating committee headed by Sen. McClellan have convinced many members of Congress that legislation is necessary to:

1. Place unions, like business, under the antitrust laws in order to curtail monopolistic practices. It is becoming more and more recognized that the power of giant unions to paralyze a plant or an entire industry by mere refusal to work must be curbed. The Justice, Labor and Commerce Departments have been studying this subject for months.

2. Outlaw compulsory membership in labor unions. Growth of union membership should be based on merit — not compulsion. A worker should have as much right to join a union or not—if he so desires.

3. Prohibit the expenditure of union funds for political candidates. Dues paid by Democratic union members should not be used to elect Republicans to public office. And dues paid by Republican union members should not be used to elect Democrats. By using the funds politically, many union bosses already dominate many officeholders — contrary to public interest.

These requirements are regarded as basic. Definite need for Federal action in at least seven areas is seen by Robert F. Kennedy, committee counsel, after considerable experience in this field.

He listed these as: Misuse of pension and welfare funds, misuse of union funds, misuse of trusteeships, lack of democratic procedures, use of violence and terrorism, use of boycotts, and use of members' dues for political purposes.

Present indications are that there is more likelihood of big strikes next year than at any time since 1946.

If the atmosphere then should be surcharged with strikes, and if there should continue to be startling revelations by the McClellan committee, the chances of labor legislation may be more favorable next year than at any time since the Taft-Hartley Act was passed in 1947. And it was passed as a direct result of labor irresponsibility.

The McClellan committee already has enough good tips to justify continuing the investigation for at least two years. (One committee member said five years.)

Approximately 60,000 letters complaining about malpractices in labor unions have been received by the committee during the eight months it has been investigating union activities.

The committee estimates that 80 per cent of the letters came from rank-and-file union members.

One of the most prominent witnesses the committee may examine in the near future is Walter Reuther, head of the United Automobile Workers Union. The committee is especially interested in his strike and boycott activities against the Kohler Company of Wisconsin.

The UAW-CIO started the strike on April 5, 1954, and it still continues even though the company has been operating steadily except for the first 54 days when the plant was closed by mass picketing.

When the strike failed, a nationwide boycott was started in September, 1954, against Kohler products and against concerns doing business with Kohler. This, too, was called unsuccessful by Kohler.

The company contends that the union wants to take over the functions of management. Its demands include:

A union shop under which union membership is compulsory.

No increase or reduction of hours without the union's agreement.

No sub - contracting of work without the union's permission.

Automatic wage progression with no merit increases.

Promotion on a strict seniority basis without regard to fitness.

No shop rules without the union's agreement.

Reuther has spent millions of dollars of union funds in the unsuccessful battle against Kohler. His testimony before the committee should be interesting.

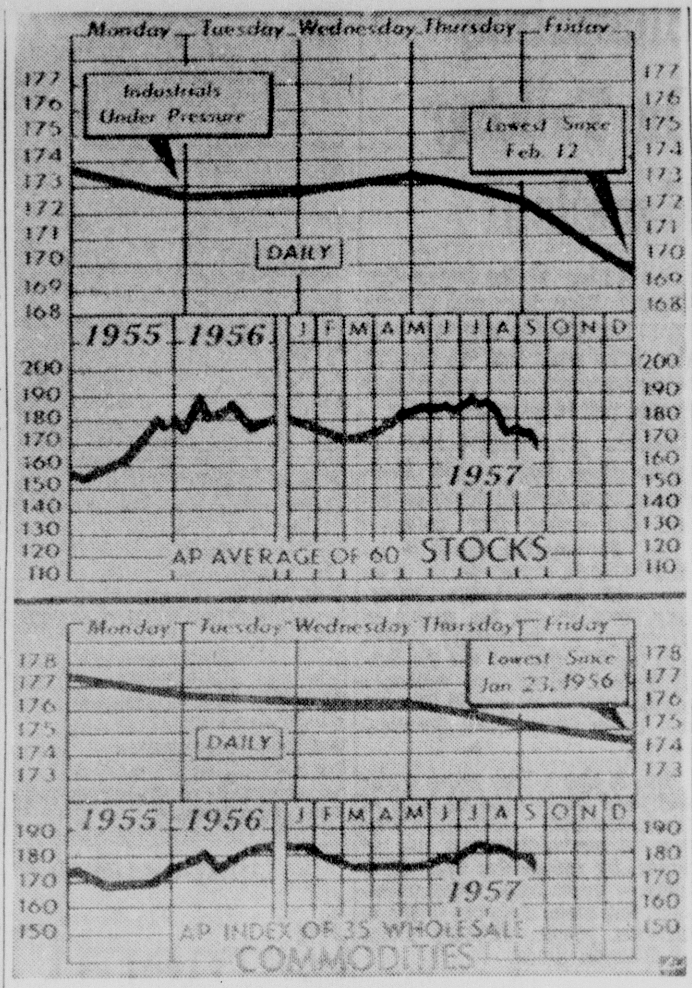
Oil Industry Benefits From Road Program

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21 (AP)—The oil industry is beginning to benefit from the nation's new highway building program—through a steadily increasing demand for asphalt.

Signs point to a growing demand for asphalt—a by-product of the oil refining process—for 10 to 15 years. The great bulk of this country's supply of asphalt comes from crude oil.

Elmer Erickson, president of Northwestern Refining Co., touched on the situation in his testimony at this week's hearings on oil imports. In a plea for an increase in his company's import quota under the government's program for voluntary reduction of the flow of foreign crude oil to U.S. refineries, Erickson said:

There has been deterioration in our district's supply situation for domestic crude, particularly with respect to asphaltic crude, resulting primarily from the government's stepped-up road program."



STOCKS AND COMMODITIES DROP — The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dropped sharply this week to 169.8 from 173.8 a week ago. The commodity index reached the lowest point since Jan. 23, 1956, when it closed this week at 174.5 from 177.3 in the preceding period. Livestock was conspicuous on the decline. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

BUSINESS BRIEFS

The first of a new feature column, "Bayou Browsing," by Grits Gresham, appears in today's Monroe Morning World sports section.

Gresham is a nationally known outdoor writer and photographer whose work has been published in True, Sports Illustrated, Field and Stream, Outdoor Life, Sports Afield and The Fisherman.

He received a Master's degree in wildlife management from LSU in 1950, and has been active in this field ever since. The columnist served as refuge manager for the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, division chief for the Arizona Game and Fish Commissioner, editor of the Louisiana Conservationist for three years, and owner and operator of a hunting and fishing resort for two years.

"Bayou Browsing" will give a full coverage of outdoor recreational happenings of interest to the people of Louisiana, and will carry full and accurate coverage of seasons, bag limits and field conditions.

The column is being published in The World with compliments of Howard Griffin.

Two Twin Cities concerns were the basis of the lead article appearing in the August issue of Oilways magazine, official publication of Esso.

The two firms are Cotton States Chemical Company of West Monroe, and its parent company, Tyner-Petrus of Monroe, whose production is concentrated on development of insect killing compounds.

The Monroe Orkin office is sending eight of its representatives to Baton Rouge on Tuesday to attend the annual Orkin regional conference at Bellmont Motel. A team of experts on pest control from the Atlanta headquarters will conduct the meeting. These conferences are designed as a part of the continuous training program carried on by Orkin.

The 113-year-old State Mutual Life Assurance Company of Worcester, Mass., fourth oldest and twenty-fourth largest of the nation's 1,144 life insurance companies, becomes officially "State Mutual Life Assurance Company of America," tomorrow.

Announcement of the name change was made by Andrew L. Gates, who heads the State Mutual office in New Orleans, and H. Ladd Plumley, president.

Managers of the apparel departments of the Monroe Sears, Roebuck and Company store were off to Atlanta today to attend Sears' semi - annual apparel market where they will see and make plans to buy goods for spring.

Thirteen members of the local store will view the parade of new merchandise to be presented by the company's staff of buyers from New York and Chicago.

Those attending the market are R. T. Dahl, soft - lines merchandise manager; and Mrs. Cloteene Augspurger, Mrs. Ruby Soureal, Mrs. Dorothy Williams, Doris Brown, Richard Clark, Mrs. Eva English, Charles Marx, Mrs. Mary Beavers, Mrs. Pauline Spinks, Mrs. Agnes Bamburg, Wilber Sisson and James Eley, department manager.

Stocks Drop As Trading Gets Nervous

NEW YORK, Sept. 21 (AP)—Nervousness over the international situation and the business outlook sent the stock market lower this week.

The Associated Press average fell $4 to $169.80. That was the widest loss since the week ending Aug. 24.

The major disturbance was the U.N. debate between the United States and Russia over the Middle East. Then there were such discouraging items as a drop in sulphur prices, an easing in the steel production rate, cuts in the armed forces and disappointing demand for oil products.

Oils, steels, metals and sulphurs were under most pressure. Tobaccos showed strength.

The five most active issues this week were General Motors off ¾ at 40⅝, Texas Gulf Sulphur off 2⅛ at 21⅛, Bethlehem Steel off 1¾ at 43, Texas Gulf Producing up ¼ at 35⅞, and Royal Dutch off 2½ at 51½.

French Premier In Compromise Over Algeria

PARIS, Sept. 21 (AP) — Premier Maurice Bourges-Maunoury won a delaying compromise for the most controversial part of his Algerian self-rule bill today. The way was cleared for a vote in Parliament next week and the shaky Cabinet was strengthened.

Under the compromise the exact powers to be given a proposed Federal Council in Algiers will not be defined until a later bill, to be presented 18 months after local legislative assemblies have been elected in the various territories into which Algeria will be divided. That takes the heat off the French government right now and gives the Algeria bill a chance of getting through Parliament.

The compromise was reached only after more than 12 hours of sometimes heated argument at a conference of 32 elder statesmen, which the Premier had summoned when he saw what severe opposition the bill was encountering.

Within hours of the solution, the Cabinet met to approve the necessary textual changes. Floor debate is scheduled to start Monday, but may be delayed pending completion of committee action.

Each of the parties represented at the talks in the Premier's office — the right - wing Poujadists and the Communists were excluded—has given a tacit promise to do its best now to get the bill approved.

William C. Choitz Recruiter Here

William C. Choitz, chief ship's serviceman, has reported to the Monroe Navy Recruiting substation as a recruiter. Prior to reporting to Monroe, Choitz served aboard the USS Piedmont and the aircraft carrier USS Bennington.

A veteran of 16 years of naval service, Choitz is a survivor of the sinking of the aircraft carrier Wasp, CVA. His duties in Monroe will include weekly visits to Ruston and Jonesboro. He was accompanied to Monroe by his wife who is a qualified girl scoutmaster and sunday school teacher, and their children, Pamela, 11, and Paula 9. They are living at 2300 Racine Drive.

Cotton Future Prices Hold Small Gains

NEW YORK, Sept. 21 (AP) —Cotton futures prices were mostly steady this week, finishing out the period with small net gains despite a flurry of late selling.

Active futures contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange closed at prices which ranged from 70 cents to $1.10 a bale higher than at the end of the week before.

The week started off on a note of firmness. Prices advanced on mill and trade price fixing, short covering, and scattered buying attributed to a lack of any appreciable hedge selling and to reports of unwanted rains in the belt.

Subsequently the market turned soft on profit taking and some increase in hedging.

The U.S. Census Bureau reported Friday that mills used 667,000 bales of the staple in the four weeks from Aug. 4-3-1. This compared with a previous estimate of 650,000 bales by the New York Cotton Exchange Service Bureau.

The official report of 667,000 bales compared with mill use of 637,000 bales in the preceding five-week period, and 686,000 in the corresponding four weeks of 1956.

Last month's consumption was equal to a rate of 33,300 bales per day, vs. only 25,500 bales a day in July and a daily rate of 34,300 in the corresponding period a year ago.

It was noted in the trade that while the daily rate for August was down 1,000 bales from the same month last year, it showed a larger - than - usual increase over July.

22.5 Million Bales

The New York Cotton Exchange Service Bureau estimated stocks of cotton in all hands as of Aug. 31 totaled 22½ million bales, of which approximately 5,100,000 were in government hands. One year ago, it noted, total stocks amounted to 26,200,000 bales of which 9,700,000 were held by the U.S.

The Commodity Credit Corp. announced it sold 17,672 bales of government-held cotton under the federal export program against bids opened Sept. 17. At a similar sale two weeks ago, the CCC sold 32,274 bales.

The average price received by the CCC at the latest sale was 27.24 cents a pound, basis middling one-inch at average locations. This compared with an average price of 27.23 cents at the previous auction.

Actual exports of cotton for the week ended Tuesday were estimated by the New York Cotton Exchange Service Bureau at 111,000 bales, vs. 71,000 bales the previous week and 84,000 in the year-ago week.

Exports for the current season through Sept. 17 were estimated at 527,000 bales. This would compare with a total of 657,000 bales at approximately the same time last season.

Dates Set For Livestock Exposition

DELHI (Special) — Directors of the Northeast Louisiana Livestock Show this week set the dates for the 1958 district show here for February 24 through 28 inclusive.

The show will officially be opened with the grand parade at 2:00 p.m. on Monday, February 24.

New Feature

The directors decided that there will be three performances of the quarter horse show, a new feature this year, on the evenings of February 25, 26 and 27. The group head Lee Berwick, chairman of this department, forecast that some eighty or more quarter horses may take part in the show. W. P. Martin, show president, reported that stalls for the horses had already been completed and that, if more were needed, they could be constructed in a short time.

J. H. Martin, secretary, reported that nearly $1,000 worth of advertising in the show catalog had already been ordered by individuals and business firms who regularly give loyal support to the district show. The secretary said that he hopes to get the catalog copy into the hands of the printer within the next week.

The meeting was attended by directors from Tensas, West Carrol, East Carroll and Richland parishes.

WORSE NEED CITED

Independents Seek Lines To Transport Texas Oil

HOUSTON, Sept. 21 (AP)—The Suez crisis added fuel to a fight by Texas independent oil operators seeking pipeline connections for 8,394 oil wells.

The independents say over 34 million barrels of oil had to be carried to market by truck last year. They say a need for increased pipeline capacity is particularly critical in West, North and West Central Texas.

The campaign began to boil during the Suez crisis when officials faced the problem of moving a tremendous volume of oil to seaports.

Independents contend inadequate pipeline facilities kept over 16 days of crude production from moving out of West Texas alone during the Middle East emergency.

Five independent producer associations petitioned the Railroad Commission to order pipelines to serve the 8,394 unconnected wells and increase trunk line capacities.

During the February congressional investigations of the oil-for-Europe program, Ernest Thompson, senior member of the state's oil and gas regulatory commission, told a House committee the capacities were inadequate.

"Perhaps the Suez incident will be a good example for us to show how inadequate the existing pipeline system is for today's requirements," he said.

Four days later the commission signed an order directing all pipeliners in Texas to show cause why they should not be ordered to offer connections to all wells requesting connections.

The commission hearing was held April 1 and the five independent groups this week filed their written brief.

Specifically, the independents want sufficient pipeline capacity for movement of crude oil production out of West Texas both now and later.

They also want a cushion or margin of capacity for crude that could be produced in West Texas in the event of a national emergency.

As an alternative, the independents suggest that all crude oil purchasers pay all gathering costs, whether the transportation be by pipeline or truck.

Grains Drift Listlessly In Week's Prices

CHICAGO, Sept. 21 (AP)—Favorable and unfavorable weather news, lack of export business and liquidation of expiring September futures contracts featured an otherwise dull grain market this week.

The entire grain list drifted along rather listlessly on the Board of Trade, lacking any real incentive to affect price movements.

As a result, all grains and soybeans ended the week lower compared with a week ago. With the exception of wheat, the greatest losses occurred in the September contracts, which expired at the close of business Thursday.

At the end of the week new style wheat was 1⅝ to 3 cents a bushel lower than Friday a week ago. Corn was down ¼ to 1 cent, oats ¼ to ¾ lower, rye 3½ to 5 cents lower, soybeans 1¼ to 9¾ cents down, and lard was off 47 to 82 cents a hundred pounds.

Question: How much money will I need to start?

Answer: Through the Monthly Investment Plan you can buy stock in America's most famous and reliable companies for as little as $40 every three months, up to $1000 a month. More than 300 companies whose stock is listed on the New York Stock Exchange have paid dividends every year from 25 to 109 years. You'll find their records listed in our valuable booklet, "DIVIDENDS OVER THE YEARS," which also describes the Monthly Investment Plan. Ask your broker for a copy. Or send the coupon now. It's free. Isn't it time you thought about investing as so many successful collectors do?

BAYOU BROWSING

by Grits Gresham

With this first state-wide Bayou Browsing column we feel that a vacant nitch in the Louisiana outdoor picture has been filled. For some years there has been a growing realization that newspaper coverage of outdoor recreation such as hunting, fishing, and boating was lagging badly behind that of the spectator sports—baseball, football, etc. Editors, publishers, and other outdoor people have all been aware of this but just like Topsy, it "growed" and continued to become more unbalanced.

This outdoor column will appear in Louisiana papers from one end of the state to the other, from Arkansas to the Gulf and from Texas to Mississippi. It's a Louisiana column designed and written for Louisiana people. It's the end result of excellent cooperation from your newspaper editors and publishers and, in some instances, a local business firm which sponsors the column. It is their effort to provide you with current and accurate information about your outdoors.

And just who are "you"? You are probably the biggest group of people in this state. You're not just the half a million Louisiana people who hunt or fish or boat, but you're all those others who are interested in the various aspects of our tremendous Louisiana outdoor resources. You're the nature lovers and bird watchers, and you're the trappers and the shrimpers. You may be a filling station owner who is none of these, but who is still interested in HIS economic share of the 25 billion automobile miles driven by hunters and fishermen each year. That's BILLION miles, friend—25,000,000,000 miles driven in pursuit of fur, fin, and feather. Yes, we're a big group of people, you and I, and still growing.

There are many things which we plan to offer for your information and entertainment in Bayou Browsing. Details of seasons, bag limits, and other regulations will be there, of course. From time to time there will be tips passed along which we hope will either add heft to your game bag or fish stringer, or add to your enjoyment while in the field—or both. Regional problems around the state will be reported, and some columns will be devoted to the outdoor resources of a particular section or town. We think that this interchange of ideas and information will result in knitting together the "you" we talked about above. With knowledge and understanding, we feel, will come sympathy and support — for the people of the marsh country with their nutria problem, for the people of the northeast with their dam on the Ouachita, for the people of the southeast with their ship channel which will be so destructive of wildlife, and for the people of the northwest with their need for an early dove season. We could go on and on listing problems which are peculiar to one area, but which deserve and must have the consideration of the entire state.

Above all we intend to constantly promote the economic potential which we have in the outdoor tourist trade. It can become one of our state's biggest income producers. Equally important, when it begins to become this we will have a big stick to wield in protecting our remaining wildlife resources.

I invite you to become a Bayou Browsing correspondent in your area. Pass along to me any tips on hunting or fishing, any unusual catches, kills, or experiences; or any questions or suggestions. Just send them to Grits Gresham, Natchitoches, La. In traveling around the state gathering material I hope to meet many of you personally, and I want you to stop by for coffee whenever you're through here.

The first section (quarter) of the dove season expired gracefully last Sunday at sunset, with reports from most areas indicating fine hunting during the 15 days. This was particularly true for north Louisiana, for which area this early season is especialy necessary.

Let's review quickly the hunting calendar that's before us. Next comes rails and gallinules, legal from Oct. 1—Dec. 9, although they get little attention from our gunners. Squirrels: Oct. 18—Jan. 15. Ducks, geese, & coots: Nov. 2—Jan. 10. Rabbits: Nov. 13 — Feb. 10. Doves (second section hunt): Nov. 27—Jan. 10. Quail: Nov. 28—Feb. 10. Woodcock: Dec. 12—Jan. 20. Deer: In general begins Dec. 1 and runs for various periods of time. Check your particular locality, since there are many variations and exceptions.

This breather between seasons is a good time to hit the fish. September weather is usually cooperative, and so are the fish. Baton Rouge Sportsmen's League fishing rodeo on False River Sept. 6-8 produced some fine bass—topped by a 6-1 lunker.

Book Groups Plan Drive To Make Everybody 'Wake Up And Read'

By W. G. ROGERS
Associated Press Arts Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — Do you go to school or college, or does your child? Do you belong to a church? Do you listen to radio or look at TV? Are you a member of a trade union, a veterans' organization, a ladies' club, a men's group? Do you read magazines or newspapers? Do you frequent libraries and stores, or even look in store windows? Do you wear a uniform? Do you not wear a uniform? Do you live in the city? Do you live in the country?

If you do, then watch out! Through one of these groups, by one of these means of communication, the world is booby-trapped, it is laid out everywhere with mines, snares and pitfalls triggered to make you read, read and read.

"People who read some can read more, people who don't read at all can read some."

That's straight from the director of the National Library Week, scheduled for next spring.

Won't Miss A Trick

Director John S. Robling, a hard reading young man himself, is in charge of the first united reading campaign ever instituted by the entire book industry, and it won't miss a trick in reaching for your attention through church, club, radio and the like.

This is to be a "really concerted effort to make the community book conscious," says Robling.

There will be state and local committees. After a presidential proclamation, mayors will make proclamations. During the big week, there will be open house in your library, street exhibits, and endless other activities to din into you the pleasure and profit offered by the written world.

"We have all the leisure and wealth required for a new Renaissance," says enthusiastic Robling, and he speaks in behalf of the two chief sponsoring agencies, the American Library Assn. and the National Book Committee, headed by Gilbert Chapman, president of the Yale & Towne Manufacturing Co. Also participating directly in this war to keep the printing press humming are numerous other organizations, including the American Book Publishers Council, the American Booksellers Assn., and the Children's Book Council.

"Wake Up And Read"

"Wake up and read!" is the theme of the campaign.

The sponsors point with shame to figures like these:

Sixty per cent of us grownups read no book, except the Bible, in 1955.

Half of us live within a mile of a public library but only a fifth of us visit it.

The habit of reading, they warn, is losing ground to other leisure-time activities.

Do you want to get along in this world? Then read a book, they say. Do you want fun? Then read a book. Do you want to make friends and influence people? Then read a book again.

There are too many homes, and wealthy ones, too, in which there is hardly shelf space for the Bible and the cook book, let alone less specialized works, so the wake-up-and-read campaign is aimed also at decorators and architects.

NINON OF FRANCE

Brilliant Novel About A Courtesan Of Quality

NINON A Courtesan of Quality By Lillian Day (Doubleday, $4.50).

This is the brilliant story of a risque Cinderella—Ninon de Lanclos, who became the most desired woman in France ruled by Louis XIV.

Ninon de Lanclos possessed neither avarice nor frigidity, two qualities considered necessary for a courtesan's success. Nevertheless, she became the most famous and captivating symbol of seduction of the seventeenth century. This was no easy distinction to come by . . .

Intelligent kindhearted, and gaily entertaining, Ninon conducted a "salon for love and conversation" where wit was the watchword. Among her close friends were the brilliant men and women of her day, luminaries of the Sun King's century: Mazarin, Richelieu, Moliere, Racine, Mesdames Montespan and Maintenon, Scarron, La Rochefoucauld, Louis de Bourbon, and many others. Not quite all of them were her lovers . . .

There was the wealthy Marquis de Villarceaux, by whom Ninon had a son. Ninon actually lived with Villarceaux in his chateau—and lived in a secret closet when his wife was at home.

They never quarreled over me wrote Ninon of her admirers. They had confidence in my inconstancy. Each one waited his turn. After one jealous lover, La Chastre, demanded a note from Ninon pledging her faithfulness to him while he went away to war, un bon billet de La Chastre became the synonym for any worthless document.

Ninon was a brilliant and profilic writer, and many of the highlights of the book are taken from her own journals and letters. In her later years she ran a School for Gallantry, where sons of the aristocracy were taught manners and inept lovers were made more ept. Among her precepts were such bons mots as:

True attachment begins where love ends.

A woman should not take a lover without the consent of her heart nor a husband without the consent of her reason.

Never tell a loved one of an infidelity . . . although one dislikes being deceived, one likes even less to be undeceived.

When asked how she had kept her striking beauty though nearly eighty, Ninon characteristically quipped, It is because I have never become addicted to wine, cards or women.

Historical oddities not found in schoolbooks enliven every page. Sparkling with wit, bubbling with amusing (and authentic) anecdote the heady history of this lively lady is as filled with joie de vivre as a glass of French champagne.

DORIS DAY

Receives 80 Pairs Of Pajamas For Her Effort

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

NEW YORK, Sept. 21 (AP) —The factory that supplied the pajamas for the movie version of "The Pajama Game" lavished 80 pairs of their choicest garments on Doris Day for her musical efforts in behalf of the industry.

They couldn't have picked a better booster.

Known for her wide-eyed beauty and boundless energy, Doris is also ranked as one of Hollywood's all-time great snoozers.

She fell asleep in the makeup chair when she made her first screen test nine years ago at Warner Bros. And has been insising on at least 10 hours sleep ever since.

"The makeup man had to wake me up to put that stuff in my eyes," she recalled while lounging prettily in a pair of black lounging pajames in her hotel suite here.

"I guess they all thought I was pretty icy-nerved for a newcomer, but after the hours I kept singing with a band I just wasn't used to Hollywood's early starting time and couldn't stay awake."

She still isn't completely attuned to the 8 and 9 a.m. shooting calls, but manages to steel herself against the ordeal by turning in at 10 p.m.

Failing that, she grabs a siesta in the afternoon or dozes off during a manicure, her favorite napping pastime.

Here for a round of personal appearances in connection with "The Pajama Game" opening, Doris managed to keep herself wide-eyed and effervescent by seeing to her shut-eye requirements. She chose a hotel overlooking Central Park and insisted on the 37th floor to be away from the bustle of traffic and construction.

Doris insists that the less hectic pace in Cincinnati, where she was born and grew up, has nothing to do with her capacity for slumber. She thinks it possibly dates back to the time when she was singing with the Les Brown band.

"It must have been that hotel room they gave me the first time we played New York," she said. "Somebody told me it once was the broom closet. I don't know. But it was small and dark as a crypt. Everything would be pitch black when I woke up, so I'd roll over and go back to sleep again. Finally, when I did go down to the street, the sun would be shining brightly and the kids coming home from school. I'd slept 12 maybe 14 hours."

Blueprints On Talking Excellent

The author of the best-selling Winning Your Way with People here blueprints the way to a happier, more rewarding life through better communication with friends family, and business associates.

Ingram gives tested methods which show how to get ideas across, how to understand people and the drives that motivate them. He explains why it is unreasonable to expect people to be reasonable, how to disagree agreeably, how to use the power of suggestion in persuading others, how to recognize and use the basic human drives that influence people, how to be a good listener, and much more clear, practical advice.

This is also a book about words and their importance as tools of communication. Ingram shows how to make effective use of words, by recognizing their flexibility — words have hidden meanings, and mean different things to different people, different things at different times.

The purpose of this book, admirably achieved, is to show how harmony, peace of mind, and the help of others can be won through better communication.

A man who has spent a lifetime as a professional practitioner in the field of communication, Ingram has been a writer for newspapers, magazines, and books. For many years he was assistant to the president of Southern Pacific Railroad, dealing with public and employe relations.

Camera Clowning Pays Dividends

By JOHN OLDENBURG
Camera Editor

Editor's Note: Below is an article written by Irving Desfor for the AP Newsfeatures which deals exclusively with camera information. Because of the many helpful suggestions it is printed in place of the usual Camera Notes.

Among serious photographers, Dan Wynn is the guy who has the most fun shooting high fashions, the one who can put a twinkle in the eye of a camera and produce a gay, light-hearted picture.

His high reputation as a clown with a camera has paid off well in the 10 years that he has been in the fashion field. It has enabled him to buy a former carriage house in New York City's mid-Manhattan, which he is currently remodeling into a unique photographer's studio.

"Just picture the change" he says, "from this two-by-four studio to a tremendous area where I can open the doors and drive a truck onto the set for a prop, if necessary."

One assistant, male, loaded and changed films, shifted lights and props throughout the sitting and developed the black-and-white films after the shooitng.

One assistant, female, helped the models in costume changes, interviewed a stream of would-be models for future assignment (with consultation and inspection by the boss) and started arrangements to procure proper accessories for the next day's assignment. This, I gathered, was to feature a ferocious gorilla costume and concerned the type of glamorous model to go with it.

The fashion director was concerned only with the present sitting: four costumes featuring monkey and raccoon fur. She predicted it was a trend which would soon be in vogue in the college girl set. Her assistant pulled, pinched and pinned the apparel to present a camera-eye view of perfect fit.

Throughout the preliminaries, Wynn was the final judge on costume and accessories, model makeup and hairdo but always with a light touch and gay banter. When the models stepped onto the camera stage, Wynn issued all the orders but without losing the prevailing good humor. He encouraged the models with a constant "Fine . . . fine!" as they got his ideas across. Often, he assumed the positions he wanted, sometimes ludicrously, and the response was even better.

He used studio electronic flash set-up and carefully checked the calibration with a large meter for shooting color.

"With speedlight," he explained, "I never have to worry about freezing an expression or motion with a 'Hold it!' command. After focusing and stopping the lens down, I shoot when the action is right kn wing that it'll stop the movement and get sharp detail in the important areas."

I noticed that Wynn went a step further and did a lot of "follow-up" shooting, that is, some seconds after models assumed the picture had been taken. He remained continually alert for natural or graceful poses the subjects might unconsciously fall into in unguarded moments.

Wynn's experimental nature was revealed when he noticed the new camera carried by his friend during a costume changing break. "It's only an inexpensive type . . . a Japanese Ricohflex," the latter said. "Well let's see what it can do," Wynn said. The assistant loaded it with color which Wynn shot to finish the day's sitting. At last report, the transparencies were good enough to be sent along with Wynn's other color shots for client consideration.

For those who would like to make fashion photography a career, Dan Wynn believes an art background, a thorough knowledge of camera technique and fundamentals and a genuine feeling and liking for clothes are essential.

THE SOUTHERNER

You May Not Agree, But It Is A Story You'll Read

THE SOUTHERNER By Douglas Kiker (Rinehart / Company, Inc., $3.95).

You may not agree with some of the theories advanced by this novel, but it is one you will read all the way through. It carries a terrific punch and shows what trouble can develop when the extremes on each side go at it.

Jess Witherow is a decent young man, easygoing and fair. He is also a southerner, born and raised in a little cottonmill town that is neither country nor city. There never is any particular dichotomy between these characteristics until Jess, a young reporter on a southern paper, becomes embroiled in the state's first school-desegregation test case.

While looking for some way to become the most promising young reporter on the Antioch Independent, Jess acts on a tip that a local Negro college professor will claim his rights as a citizen and attempt to enter his son in a white school. While tracking down the story he hopes will make him famous, Jess finds that being a southerner is not merely a state of mind but a way of life, and in the process he becomes entangled with:

Will Taylor — the sophisticated Negro who wants nothing more than to give his son a better chance at life than he had.

Miss Kate Bingham—the hysterical school principal who counters Will's claim with a suit for aggravated assault.

Otis Oldfield — crippled "rightist" who is the self - appointed leader of the white supremists and the organizer of the state's first White Citizens' Council.

Dugan Phillips — the contemporary southern aristocrat who cannot conceive of defying the society from which she came — even for the man she loves.

Cleve Hand — the "liberal" editor who sold his freedom to save his marriage.

Governor Alvin "Pitch" Kimball — the honest but incompetent head of state, confronted with a confounding situation.

Judge Hamilton — who said, "You can't arrest an entire city . . . an entire state . . . We're living in dangerous times."

Randolph Gordon — chief assistant to the attorney general, who uses the incident to further his social and political ambitions.

Dramatically compelling, The Southerner is not merely a novel about a current social problem; it is the irresistibly engrossing story of a decent young man's moral dilemma and of how he meets it.

New Max Shulman Book Delightful

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

One of the most delightful living American humorists is Max Shulman and a new book from his typewriter is always hailed with delight by his many readers. This week we have a new one which promises to outdo many of his earlier books in popularity. The title is "Rally round the flag boys" and the action takes place in a Connecticut commuting village, where discontented country husbands live with their discontented country wives; where old Yankee settlers wish the commuters would vanish in a puff of smoke, but profit from them until they do; where teenagers prove that you don't have to be underprivileged to be delinquent. To completely disrupt the life of the community the army installed a Nike guided missle base, with results that are explosively funny. If you have a well - developed sense of humor, this book is for you. Here you will find Max Shulman at the top of his powers in a story that adds warmth and wisdom to the humor that has kept America laughing since he burst upon the scene with his "Barefoot boy with cheek" written thirteen years ago.

Have you actually wondered what is going on behind the iron curtain? If you would like a first hand account from a writer who is thoroughly familiar with the countries which he writes about, read "Louis Fischer's "Russia revisited". In this book he tells about the many changes that he found in Russia and the satelite countries since he was last there in 1938. Of course it is not a pleasant book, but it is certainly an informative one and should be read by those who attempt to keep abreast of the times.

Books For Young People

Within the last few years a very interesting development in the publishing field has been the development of a special literature geared to the interests of young people. This means books written especially for that large group of young people who come in the age group from 12 to 19 years. Within the last week we have added several titles for this group. "Daughter of the wild house" by Margaret C. Bell has its setting in the wild Northwest as does Elizabeth Howard's book "A girl of the North country." Another title which will appeal to girls is called "More than glamour" and was written by Grace G. Kisinger. Three titles will appeal especially to boys. They are: "Freshman backstop" by Lawrence A. Keating; "Man in a cage" by Jackson Scholz and the "Stubborn mare" by Jo Sykes.

Many delightful new books for children have also been added during the last few days. A very attractive book is "Anatole and the cat" by Eve Titus and "The cow who fell in the canal" by Phyllis Krasilovsky.

Other Adult Books

A writer who has been writing for many years and who has a large following is Kathleen Norris. Her many devotees will be happy to know that she has released a new novel this week. It is called "Through a glass darkly" and will be of special interest to women. It is not a great book, but it is one which fills a certain place with the reading public.

One of the outstanding foreign correspondents of our time is Robert St. John. He covered World War II in many theatres and has written several outstanding books about his experiences. His newest book is called simply "Foreign correspondent" and is an account of how war came to the Balkans. His adventures in Rumania, Bulgaria and the other countries of that region read like the most complete adventure stories, when in reality they are all true. If you want to read a highly exciting account of one man's impression of World War II, don't miss "Foreign correspondent" by Robert St. John.

New books are constantly being added to the book collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library and if you are not using its resources, we give you a most welcome invitation to do so at the earliest opportunity.

Flycatcher birds have got the new look. They have long liked to use dried snakeskin in making their nests. Recently, say bird watchers, they also have been using cellophane.

What's Your Safety I.Q.? Here's A Test To Find Out

EDITORS NOTE: Your life may depend upon swift execution of lessons well or poorly learned. Do you rush out to save a person floundering in icy water after breaking through the ice? Or do you go for additional help? Here is a novel self-quiz to test your "safety I.Q."

AP Newsfeatures

When you kick a dog, he forgets it. Next time he sees you, he'll come frisking up as happily as ever — instead of sinking his teeth in your leg.

True or false?

More than 4,000 children in the fifth and sixth grades at school have pondered that question in a new type of safety quiz sponsored by the National Safety Council. Forty-one per cent of fifth graders and 34 per cent of sixth graders came up with the wrong answer. They thought the dog would forget.

"Misconceptions about safety can cause injury or death," says Joseph C. Dzenowagis, associate professor at Michigan State University and designer of the "safety preparedness" quiz. Naturally, some misconceptions are far more dangerous than others.

To see how your safety I.Q. stacks up, take a pencil and mark answers to the following questions selected from the quiz:

1. The only good way to help a drowning person is to jump in the water and save him. (True—; False—).

2. Oil, grease, gas fires should be put out with water. (True—; False—).

3. If your clothing catches fire, always run for water. (True—; False—).

4. Touching a light switch or light chain with wet hands is not dangerous. (True—; False—).

5. If you meet a dog that frightens you, it is always best to start running. (True—; False—).

6. Bicycle riders should always keep to the right. (True—; False—).

7. Clear, cold spring water is safe to drink. (True—; False—).

8. People should walk on the right hand side of the road if there are no widewalks. (True—; False—).

9. The best place for shelter during a thunderstorm is under a tree. (True—; False—).

10. Wire or tinsel string should not be used for kite-flying. (True—; False—).

Now look on Page — for the answers.

ANSWERS TO SAFETY QUIZ

Only two numbers on the entire "safety I.Q." quiz should have been marked TRUE: Nos. 6 and 10. All of the others are FALSE. According to the National Safety Council, if you checked as true any items from No. 1 through No. 5 you have some "extremely harmful misconceptions. If you have checked items from No. through No. 9 as true, you have some 'very harmful" misconceptions. If you checked either No 6 or 10 as false, you have "extremely harmful" misconceptions.

Book Groups Plan Drive To Make Everybody 'Wake Up And Read'

By W. G. ROGERS
Associated Press Arts Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — Do you go to school or college, or does your child? Do you belong to a church? Do you listen to radio or look at TV? Are you a member of a trade union, a veterans' organization, a ladies' club, a men's group? Do you read magazines or newspapers? Do you frequent libraries and stores, or even look in store windows? Do you wear a uniform? Do you not wear a uniform? Do you live in the city? Do you live in the country?

If you do, then watch out! Through one of these groups, by one of these means of communication, the world is booby-trapped, it is laid out everywhere with mines, snares and pitfalls triggered to make you read, read and read.

"People who read some can read more, people who don't read at all can read some."

That's straight from the director of the National Library Week, scheduled for next spring.

Won't Miss A Trick

Director John S. Robling, a hard reading young man himself, is in charge of the first united reading campaign ever instituted by the entire book industry, and it won't miss a trick in reaching for your attention through church, club, radio and the like.

This is to be a "really concerted effort to make the community book conscious," says Robling.

There will be state and local committees. After a presidential proclamation, mayors will make proclamations. During the big week, there will be open house in your library, street exhibits, and endless other activities to din into you the pleasure and profit offered by the written world.

"We have all the leisure and wealth required for a new Renaissance," says enthusiastic Robling, and he speaks in behalf of the two chief sponsoring agencies, the American Library Assn. and the National Book Committee, headed by Gilbert Chapman, president of the Yale & Towne Manufacturing Co. Also participating directly in this war to keep the printing press humming are numerous other organizations, including the American Book Publishers Council, the American Booksellers Assn., and the Children's Book Council.

"Wake Up And Read"

"Wake up and read!" is the theme of the campaign.

The sponsors point with shame to figures like these:

Sixty per cent of us grownups read no book, except the Bible, in 1955.

Half of us live within a mile of a public library but only a fifth of us visit it.

The habit of reading, they warn, is losing ground to other leisure-time activities.

Do you want to get along in this world? Then read a book, they say. Do you want fun? Then read a book. Do you want to make friends and influence people? Then read a book again.

There are too many homes, and wealthy ones, too, in which there is hardly shelf space for the Bible and the cook book, let alone less specialized works, so the wake-up-and-read campaign is aimed also at decorators and architects.

NINON OF FRANCE

Brilliant Novel About A Courtesan Of Quality

NINON A Courtesan of Quality By Lillian Day (Doubleday, $4.50).

This is the brilliant story of a risque Cinderella—Ninon de Lanclos, who became the most desired woman in France ruled by Louis XIV.

Ninon de Lanclos possessed neither avarice nor frigidity, two qualities considered necessary for a courtesan's success. Nevertheless, she became the most famous and captivating symbol of seduction of the seventeenth century. This was no easy distinction to come by . . .

Intelligent kindhearted, and gaily entertaining, Ninon conducted a "salon for love and conversation" where wit was the watchword. Among her close friends were the brilliant men and women of her day, luminaries of the Sun King's century: Mazarin, Richelieu, Moliere, Racine, Mesdames Montespan and Maintenon, Scarron, La Rochefoucauld, Louis de Bourbon, and many others. Not quite all of them were her lovers . . .

There was the wealthy Marquis de Villarceaux, by whom Ninon had a son. Ninon actually lived with Villarceaux in his chateau—and lived in a secret closet when his wife was at home.

They never quarreled over me wrote Ninon of her admirers. They had confidence in my inconstancy. Each one waited his turn. After one jealous lover, La Chastre, demanded a note from Ninon pledging her faithfulness to him while he went away to war, un bon billet de La Chastre became the synonym for any worthless document.

Ninon was a brilliant and profilic writer, and many of the highlights of the book are taken from her own journals and letters. In her later years she ran a School for Gallantry, where sons of the aristocracy were taught manners and inept lovers were made more ept. Among her precepts were such bons mots as:

True attachment begins where love ends.

A woman should not take a lover without the consent of her heart nor a husband without the consent of her reason.

Never tell a loved one of an infidelity . . . although one dislikes being deceived, one likes even less to be undeceived.

When asked how she had kept her striking beauty though nearly eighty,. Ninon characteristically quipped, It is because I have never become addicted to wine, cards or women.

Historical oddities not found in schoolbooks enliven every page. Sparkling with wit, bubbling with amusing (and authentic) ancedote the heady history of this lively lady is as filled with joie de vivre as a glass of French champagne.

DORIS DAY

Receives 80 Pairs Of Pajamas For Her Effort

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

NEW YORK, Sept. 21 (AP) —The factory that supplied the pajamas for the movie version of "The Pajama Game" lavished 80 pairs of their choicest garments on Doris Day for her musical efforts in behalf of the industry.

They couldn't have picked a better booster.

Known for her wide-eyed beauty and boundless energy, Doris is also ranked as one of Hollywood's all-time great snoozers.

She fell asleep in the makeup chair when she made her first screen test nine years ago at Warner Bros. And has been insisting on at least 10 hours sleep ever since.

"The makeup man had to wake me up to put that stuff in my eyes," she recalled while lounging prettily in a pair of black lounging pajames in her hotel suite here.

"I guess they all thought I was pretty icy-nerved for a newcomer, but after the hours I kept singing with a band I just wasn't used to Hollywood's early starting time and couldn't stay awake."

She still isn't completely attuned to the 8 and 9 a.m. shooting calls, but manages to steel herself against the ordeal by turning in at 10 p.m.

Failing that, she grabs a siesta in the afternoon or dozes off during a manicure, her favorite napping pastime.

Here for a round of personal appearances in connection with "The Pajama Game" opening, Doris managed to keep herself wide-eyed and effervescent by seeing to her shut-eye requirements. She chose a hotel overlooking Central Park and insisted on the 37th floor to be away from the bustle of traffic and construction.

Doris insists that the less hectic pace in Cincinnati, where she was born and grew up, has nothing to do with her capacity for slumber. She thinks it possibly dates back to the time when she was singing with the Les Brown band.

'It must have been that hotel room they gave me the first time we played New York," she said. "Somebody told me it once was the broom closet. I don't know. But it was small and dark as a crypt. Everything would be pitch black when I woke up, so I'd roll over and go back to sleep again. Finally, when I did go down to the street, the sun would be shining brightly and the kids coming home from school. I'd slept 12 maybe 14 hours."

Blueprints On Talking Excellent

The author of the best-selling Winning Your Way with People here blueprints the way to a happier, more rewarding life through better communication with friends family, and business associates.

Ingram gives tested methods which show how to get ideas across, how to understand people and the drives that motivate them. He explains why it is unreasonable to expect people to be reasonable, how to disagree agreeably, how to use the power of suggestion in persuading others, how to recognize and use the basic human drives that influence people, how to be a good listener, and much more clear, practical advice.

This is also a book about words and their importance as tools of communication. Ingram shows how to make effective use of words, by recognizing their flexibility — words have hidden meanings, and mean different things to different people, different things at different times.

The purpose of this book, admirably achieved, is to show how harmony, peace of mind, and the help of others can be won through better communication.

A man who has spent a lifetime as a professional practitioner in the field of communication, Ingram has been a writer for newspapers, magazines, and books. For many years he was assistant to the president of Southern Pacific Railroad, dealing with public and employe relations.

THE SOUTHERNER

You May Not Agree, But It Is A Story You'll Read

THE SOUTHERNER By Douglas Kiker (Rinehart / Company, Inc., $3.95).

You may not agree with some of the theories advanced by this novel, but it is one you will read all the way through. It carries a terrific punch and shows what trouble can develop when the extremes on each side go at it.

Jess Witherow is a decent young man, easygoing and fair. He is also a southerner, born and raised in a little cottonmill town that is neither country nor city. There never is any particular dichotomy between these characteristics until Jess, a young reporter on a southern paper, becomes embroiled in the state's first school-desegregation test case.

While looking for some way to become the most promising young reporter on the Antioch Independent, Jess acts on a tip that a local Negro college professor will claim his rights as a citizen and attempt to enter his son in a white school. While tracking down the story he hopes will make him famous, Jess finds that being a southerner is not merely a state of mind but a way of life, and in the process he becomes entangled with:

Will Taylor — the sophisticated Negro who wants nothing more than to give his son a better chance at life than he had.

Miss Kate Bingham—the hysterical school principal who counters Will's claim with a suit for aggravated assault.

Otis Oldfield — crippled "rightist" who is the self - appointed leader of the white supremists and the organizer of the state's first White Citizens' Council.

Dugan Phillips — the contemporary southern aristocrat who cannot conceive of defying the society from which she came — even for the man she loves.

Cleve Hand — the "liberal" editor who sold his freedom to save his marriage.

Governor Alvin "Pitch" Kimball — the honest but incompetent head of state, confronted with a confounding situation.

Judge Hamilton — who said, "You can't arrest an entire city . . . an entire state . . . We're living in dangerous times."

Randolph Gordon — chief assistant to the attorney general, who uses the incident to further his social and political ambitions.

Dramatically compelling, The Southerner is not merely a novel about a current social problem; it is the irresistibly engrossing story of a decent young man's moral dilemma and of how he meets it.

New Max Shulman Book Delightful

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

One of the most delightful living American humorists is Max Shulman and a new book from his typewriter is always hailed with delight by his many readers. This week we have a new one which promises to outdo many of his earlier books in popularity. The title is "Rally round the flag boys" and the action takes place in a Connecticut commuting village, where discontented country husbands live with their discontented country wives; where old Yankee settlers wish the commuters would vanish in a puff of smoke, but profit from them until they do; where teenagers prove that you don't have to be underprivileged to be delinquent. To completely disrupt the life of the community the army installed a Nike guided missle base, with results that are explosively funny. If you have a well - developed sense of humor, this book is for you. Here you will find Max Shulman at the top of his powers in a story that adds warmth and wisdom to the humor that has kept America laughing since he burst upon the scene with his "Barefoot boy with cheek" written thirteen years ago.

Have you actually wondered what is going on behind the iron curtain? If you would like a first hand account from a writer who is thoroughly familiar with the countries which he writes about, read "Louis Fischer's "Russia revisited". In this book he tells about the many changes that he found in Russia and the safelite countries since he was last there in 1938. Of course it is not a pleasant book, but it is certainly an informative one and should be read by those who attempt to keep abreast of the times.

Books For Young People

Within the last few years a very interesting development in the publishing field has been the development of a special literature grearred to the interests of young people. This means books written especially for that large group of young people who come in the age group from 12 to 19 years. Within the last week we have added several titles for this group. "Daughter of the wild house" by Margaret C. Bell has its setting in the wild Northwest as does Elizabeth Howard's book "A girl of the North country." Another title which will appeal to girls is called "More than glamour" and was written by Grace G. Kisinger. Three titles will appeal especially to boys. They are; "Freshman backstop" by Lawrence A. Keating; "Man in a cage" by Jackson Scholz and the "Stubborn mare" by Jo Sykes.

Many delightful new books for children have also been added during the last few days. A very attractive book is "Anatole and the cat" by Eve Titus and "The cow who fell in the canal" by Phyllis Krasilovsky.

Other Adult Books

A writer who has been writing for many years and who has a large following is Kathleen Norris. Her many devotees will be happy to know that she has released a new novel this week. It is called "Through a glass darkly" and will be of special interest to women. It is not a great book, but it is one which fills a certain place with the reading public.

One of the outstanding foreign correspondents of our time is Robert St. John. He covered World War II in many theatres and has written several outstanding books about his experiences. His newest book is called simply "Foreign correspondent" and is an account of how war came to the Balkans. His adventures in Rumania, Bulgaria and the other countries of that region read like the most complete adventure stories, when in reality they are all true. If you want to read a highly exciting account of one man's impression of World War II, don't miss "Foreign correspondent" by Robert St. John.

New books are constantly being added to the book collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library and if you are not using its resources, we give you a most welcome invitation to do so at the earliest opportunity.

Camera Clowning Pays Dividends

By JOHN OLDENBURG
Camera Editor

Editor's Note: Below is an article written by Irving Desfor for the AP Newsfeatures which deals exclusively with camera information. Because of the many helpful suggestions it is printed in place of the usual Camera Notes.

Among serious photographers, Dan Wynn is the guy who has the most fun shooting high fashions, the one who can put a twinkle in the eye of a camera and produce a gay, light-hearted picture.

His high reputation as a clown with a camera has paid off well in the 10 years that he has been in the fashion field. It has enabled him to buy a former carriage house in New York City's mid-Manhattan, which he is currently remodeling into a unique photographer's studio.

"Just picture the change" he says, "from this two-by-four studio to a tremendous area where I can open the doors and drive a truck onto the set for a prop, if necessary."

One assistant, male, loaded and changed films, shifted lights and props throughout the sitting and developed the black-and-white films after the shooitng.

One assistant, female, helped the models in costume changes, interviewed a stream of would-be models for future assignment (with consultation and inspection by the boss) and started arrangements to procure proper accessories for the next day's assignment. This, I gathered, was to feature a ferocious gorilla costume and concerned the type of glamorous model to go with it.

The fashion director was concerned only with the present sitting: four costumes featuring monkey and raccoon fur. She predicted it was a trend which would soon be in vogue in the college girl set. Her assistant pulled, pinched and pinned the apparel to present a camera-eye view of perfect fit.

Throughout the preliminaries, Wynn was the final judge on costume and accessories, model makeup and hairdo but always with a light touch and gay banter. When the models stepped onto the camera stage, Wynn issued all the orders but without losing the prevailing good humor. He encouraged the models with a constant "Fine . . . fine!" as they got his ideas across. Often, he assumed the positions he wanted, sometimes ludicrously, and the response was even better.

He used studio electronic flash set-up and carefully checked the calibration with a large meter for shooting color.

"With speedlight," he explained, "I never have to worry about freezing an expression or motion with a 'Hold it!' command. After focusing and stopping the lens down, I shoot when the action is right knowing that it'll stop the movement and get sharp detail in the important areas."

I noticed that Wynn went a step further and did a lot of "follow-up" shooting, that is, some seconds after models assumed the picture had been taken. He remained continually alert for natural or graceful poses the subjects might unconsciously fall into in unguarded moments.

Wynn's experimental nature was revealed when he noticed the new camera carried by his friend during a costume changing break. "It's only an inexpensive type . . . a Japanese Ricohflex," the latter said. "Well let's see what it can do," Wynn said. The assistant loaded it with color which Wynn shot to finish the day's sitting. At last report, the transparencies were good enough to be sent along with Wynn's other color shots for client consideration.

For those who would like to make fashion photography a career, Dan Wynn believes an art background, a thorough knowledge of camera technique and fundamentals and a genuine feeling and liking for clothes are essential.

Flycatcher birds have got the new look. They have long liked to use dried snakeskin in making their nests. Recently, say bird watchers, they also have been using cellophane.

What's Your Safety I.Q.? Here's A Test To Find Out

EDITORS NOTE: Your life may depend upon swift execution of lessons well or poorly learned. Do you rush out to save a person floundering in icy water after breaking through the ice? Or do you go for additional help? Here is a novel self-quiz to test your "safety I.Q."

AP Newsfeatures

When you kick a dog, he forgets it. Next time he sees you, he'll come frisking up as happily as ever — instead of sinking his teeth in your leg.

True or false?

More than 4,000 children in the fifth and sixth grades at school have pondered that question in a new type of safety quiz sponsored by the National Safety Council. Forty-one per cent of fifth graders and 34 per cent of sixth graders came up with the wrong answer. They thought the dog would forget.

"Misconceptions about safety can cause injury or death," says Joseph C. Dzenowagis, associate professor at Michigan State University and designer of the "safety preparedness" quiz. Naturally, some misconceptions are far more dangerous than others.

To see how your safety I.Q. stacks up, take a pencil and mark answers to the following questions selected from the quiz:

1. The only good way to help a drowning person is to jump in the water and save him. (True—; False—).

2. Oil, grease, gas fires should be put out with water. (True—; False—).

3. If your clothing catches fire, always run for water. (True—; False—).

4. Touching a light switch or light chain with wet hands is not dangerous. (True—; False—).

5. If you meet a dog that frightens you, it is always best to start running. (True—; False—).

6. Bicycle riders should always keep to the right. (True—; False—).

7. Clear, cold spring water is safe to drink. (True—; False—).

8. People should walk on the right hand side of the road if there are no widewalks. (True—; False—).

9. The best place for shelter during a thunderstorm is under a tree. (True—; False—).

10. Wire or tinsel string should not be used for kite-flying. (True—; False—).

Now look on Page — for the answers.

ANSWERS TO SAFETY QUIZ

Only two numbers on the entire "safety I.Q." quiz should have been marked TRUE: Nos. 6 and 10. All of the others are FALSE. According to the National Safety Council, if you checked as true any items from No. 1 through No. 5 you have some "extremely harmful misconceptions. If you have checked items from No. 7 through No. 9 as true, you have some 'very harmful" misconceptions. If you checked either No. 6 or 10 as false, you have "extremely harmful" misconceptions.

AT MEANY

New Defiance Hurled By Beck

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Sept. 21 (AP)—In a new show of defiance, Dave Beck, retiring president of the Teamsters Union, told the AFL-CIO today that it is up to the Teamsters' membership to decide whether top officials have been guilty of wrongdoing.

He also denied charges made by the AFL-CIO Ethical Practices Committee and, in effect, rejected an invitation to appear at a hearing on them before the AFL-CIO Executive Council in New York Tuesday.

In a letter to George Meany, AFL-CIO president, Beck said the entire matter will be presented to the Teamsters convention which opens here Sept. 30.

"Consistent with our democratic traditions," Beck said, "we shall be guided by the wishes of the majority of our members."

The letter, approved unanimously by the Teamsters General Executive Board yesterday, was released here today as Beck and other officials continued their pre-convention conferences.

Meanwhile, James R. Hoffa of Detroit, Midwest Teamster boss who was linked with Beck in the committee's charges and is a leading contender to succeed him as Teamster president, expressed confidence he will be elected on the first ballot at the convention.

In the letter to Meany, Beck suggested that the AFL-CIO delay action on the charges against the Teamsters.

"We do believe," Beck wrote, "that a situation having such great significance to the entire labor movement should not be the subject of precipitated and hurried action."

The Teamster boss added that "we emphatically deny the validity of the so-called findings of the (ethical practices) committee. We assert that there is no basis whatsoever for the committee's conclusions that our great international union does not meet the standards for ethical union practices set forth in the AFL-CIO constitution."

However, Beck said, "we do not believe that it is consistent with decent trade union practices and principles to fight a matter of this importance in the press."

PLAN LEGISLATIVE PROGRAM

Municipalities Group To Meet At Jackson In Week

JACKSON, Miss., Sept. 21 (AP)—Mayor Allen Thompson's idea of boosting Jackson's city sales taxes probably will win no hurrahs at a small gathering in the capital city Wednesday.

Thompson is a member of the executive committee of the Mississippi Municipalities Assn., which meets Wednesday to get its legislative program under way.

The cities of Mississippi need more tax revenue. But the MMA position, for more than a decade, has been that it shouldn't be done by raising city taxes.

MMA argues that the division of revenue among state, county and city governments has been left unchanged during the state's transition from a largely rural toward an urban population.

Mayor Thompson says he may ask the Legislature to raise the city sales tax ceiling from ½ per cent to 1 per cent. He said Jackson is in the tightest financial squeeze since the first two years of his service as mayor.

$156 Million In Taxes

State-collected taxes last year totaled more than 156 million dollars. Of that total, $13,456,000 was returned to the counties, under laws passed when most of Mississippi's population was rural. The state returned less than 1½ million to the cities.

How are the cities going to get a larger share of state-collected revenue? MMA makes these suggestions:

1. Although the cities must maintain the fire departments, taxes on fire insurance premiums are paid to the state. Return them to the cities.

2. Twenty-one per cent of the gasoline used in Mississippi is burned on city streets, but the cities get only 3 per cent of the tax. MMA says give the cities a fair share.

3. Some of the privilege taxes collected by the state, such as those on pinball machines, could be given to the cities.

4. The city of Meridian and MMA recently lost a test case in which Meridian sought to collect a 2 per cent revenue tax from Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co. for use of cities.

Southern Bell has always contended it doesn't object to paying the tax but that the law is faulty. Some way could be worked out so Southern Bell could put into effect its expressed willingness to give cities this revenue.

'FRIENDSHIP CALL'

Two Red Warships Visit Syria's Main Port City

DAMASCUS, Syria, Sept. 21 (UP)—Two Soviet warships — a cruiser and a destroyer — sailed into Syria's main Mediterranean seaport of Latakia today on a significant "friendship" visit at the invitation of the Syrian government.

The Soviet cruiser Zhadanov and escorting destroyer Svobodny exchanged a 21-gun salute with Syrian naval vessels as they arrived in the Syrian port just 35 miles down the coast from the Turkish frontier. Both Syria and Russia have accused Turkey of holding troop maneuvers along the Syrian frontier.

(A Damascus radio broadcast, heard in Cyprus, announced that an immediate curfew had been imposed on highways linking Syria's main cities.

Interrupt Programs

(Regular programs were interrupted for the military declaration which said the 9 p. m.-5 a.m. ban on civilian traffic was "due to general movements and maneuvers to be carried out by the Syrian army." The broadcast, as heard in Nicosia, said the curfew affected Damascus, Latakia, Homs, Hamah and Aleppo — the latter near the Turkish border).

The two Russian Navy vessels, attached to Russia's Black Sea fleet, received a formal welcome from Syrian authorities as they docked at Latakia after making calls at Yugoslav and Albanian ports.

The Latakia governor, commanders of the city garrison and Syrian navy chief were on hand to greet captains of both Soviet warships as they disembarked.

Syrian officials again described the visit as a strict "courtesy" call at Syria's invitation. They said it has "no connection with current NATO maneuvers in the Mediterranean."

Charge Misuse Of Funds By County Chief

JACKSON, Miss., Sept. 21 (AP)—The Legislative Investigating Committee said today it found evidence a Grenada County supervisor mis-used $10,782 in county road funds and the state auditor said he would demand immeadiate repayment.

(Auditor Boyd Golding said he "investigated this case personally and it's slick scheme. That money should have gone into the county road fund to pay for wear and tear on the county machinery building the roads."

The committee report stated that "The sum of $10,782 was placed in the pockets of Ollie Clark, brother of Albert Clark, a member of the Board of Supervisors of Grenada County."

The committee said mis-use of the funds came about this way:

Ollie Clark was contact man for engaging trucks for hauling sand and gravel. He contracted at 25 cents a yard for sand and $1.25 a yard for gravel.

Ollie Clark then obtained cunty warrants totaling 5 cents a yard for sand and $2.40 a yard for gravel, the amounts approved by the state aid road division for the Gore Springs-Gum Road project.

Ollie Clark had the haulers sign and cash the warrants and return the money to him. Then he gave the haulers 25 cents a yard for sand and $1.25 a yard for gravel.

Society Dedicate Their Bodies To Medical Work

NAGASAKI, Japan, Sept. 21 (AP)—An unusual society in which the living dedicate their bodies to medical science is winning thousands of converts in this city, smashed by an atom bomb 12 years ago.

The society of Yoko-kai has a single, simple requirement for membership — a formal pledge guaranteeing that after death the body of each member will be turned over to pathologists for autopsy and scientific study before cremation or interment.

Founded late in 1952 by Dr. Takeji Morokuma, a well-to-do physician, Yoko-kai now boasts 10,000 members and more are signing up daily.

The spry 74-year-old doctor is hopeful that local chapters will be organized soon in all major cities of Japan—and someday perhaps throughout the world.

Dr. Morokuma says his society isn't even an indirect outgrowth of the bomb which on Aug. 9, 1945, killed at least 73,884 here. Yoko-kai's membership includes only what he considers a normal number of those who survived inside the blast area.

The bright-eyed, smiling physician conceived the idea for Yoko-kai while a teen-age medical student in a country where autopsies were a medical rarity.

"Doctors must find out exactly why patients die," he declared in an interview. "Only with this knowledge can medical science find ways to help the living live longer and in better health."

There is no English equivalent of the word Yoko-kai. The Japanese character 'yoko" means literally "quite enough," but as used by Dr. Morokuma it could be translated as meaning to help mankind in every possible way. "Kai" means society or association.

Since the society was formed in December 1952, the bodies of some 700 members have been autopsied at the Nagasaki University School of Medicine or at the Atom Bomb Casualty Commission laboratores here.

One immediate result, says Dr. Morokuma, has been a drop in the number of deaths attributed to tuberculosis and a sharp increase in the number of diagnosed cancer deaths. In past years, presumably, some hard-to-diagnose cancer deaths were attributed to tuberculosis, long a serious problem in Japan.

The findings of each autopsy are being scientifically catalogued for future use.

Dr. Morokuma acknowledges that the society's membership of persons exposed to radiation may gave ABCC pathologists working here valuable additional information on the long-range effects of the atomic bomb.

Cadet Corps Conversion To Be Effected

Reorganization of the Northeast State Cadet Corps to the new light weight, fast - moving and hard-hitting army concept is announced by Lt. Col. H. P. Landry, professor of military science and tactics at the college.

The cadet battalion has gone out of existence and has been replaced by the cadet battle group. The new organization is a close parallel to the army infantry units throughout the world that are deployed as mobile striking forces ready for any emergency, Colonel Landry explained.

Through his work within the cadet battle group, the cadet will be better trained and more familiar with the type combat unit he will serve as a second lieutenant, the officer said.

Key officers of the battle group have been announced as follows: Cadet James H. Shell of West Monroe, full colonel as battle group commander: Cadet Vincent J. C. Marsala of Monroe, lt. col. as executive officer: Cadet Robert R. Townley of Monroe, major as adjutant.

Cadet Jesse E. Felter of Wisner, major as group plans and training officer; Cadet Thomas C. Dansby of Lafayette, major as suply officer.

In command of companies, the following have been appointed: Cadet Capt. Charles R. Bigelow of Oak Grove, Company A; Cadet Max S. Smilow of Lake Providence, Company B: Cadet Capt. Emmil L. Brown of Rayville, Company C; Cadet Capt. Raymond E. Funderburk of Memphis, Company D; Cadet Capt. Alton J. McCready of Monroe, band.

The cadet corps includes over 500 college students who will receive training which will enable them to serve as second lieutenants in the United States army.

Negro Slugs White Youths At Detroit

DETROIT, Sept. 21 (AP)—A policeman patrolled the halls of two Detroit schools periodically today after two teachers were slugged by a Negro youth.

Police inspector Leroy Dickenson revealed that Central High School and adjacent Durfee Junior High have been under police surveillance for the past 10 days because of reported strongarming of students by teen-age non-students.

Police Lt. Gideon Tukacs said the patrolman on duty in the neighborhood was instructed to walk through the halls and grounds of the two schools at regular intervals after the two faculty members at Central were felled yesterday by an unidentified Negro youth. Neither was seriously hurt.

Irene Sokoran, 14, and Delores Talberg, 15, said they were on monitor duty in the hall at Central yesterday when the youth attempted to engage them in conversation. They requested his school identification and asked him to leave when he could not produce any.

John Hornkohl, 30, a counselor, then asked the Negro to leave. Police said the youth knocked him to the floor and slugged Thomas Wolf, 52, an education teacher, who came to Hornkohl's assistance. The youth fled.

The girls and the teachers are white. The schools are located in a mixed neighborhood and many of the students are Negroes.

Jury Convicts Driver In Death Of Mrs. Perez

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 21 (AP)—A five-man Criminal District Court jury today found Edward Leathem Jr., guilty of negligent homicide in the death of Mrs. Leander Perez Jr. last March.

The jury returned the verdict after deliberating for almost one hour. The trial began last Tuesday.

Mrs. Perez was riding with her husband when their car collided with another driven by Leathem. He testified he was driving about 40 miles per hour and did not see a stop sign, but officers said Leathem told them he was traveling between 50 and 60 miles per hour when the accident occurred.

Perez is the son of the district attorney in St. Bernard and Plaquemines parishes.

AN APPLE A DAY . . .

WASHINGTON (UP) — This year's apple crop is 15 per cent more than last year and five per cent above average, the U. S. department of agriculture reports. The department expects the 1957 harvest to be 115.6 million bushels, enough to provide everybody an apple a day anyway.

Fashion Show Highlights Week For Social Monroe

An air of sophistication set the mood for the "Forward Look In Fashions" presented last evening at the Crystal Ball Room of the Virginia Hotel by members of the Junior Charity League.

A backdrop of a metropolitan skyline formed the setting for the [illegible] and elaborate style [illegible] modeled by members of the League and moderated by Miss Ann Garner, of Dallas, Texas, fashion coordinator. Miss Garner was wearing a gown of black lace designed for the cocktail hour.

To introduce the sport clothes, Mrs. Benton Wakefield Jr. and Mrs. Joe Ryan executed an open [illegible] for the production. They [illegible] suitable for the [illegible] [illegible] of harmonizing tweed.

Original suits, designed by Larry Aldrich, Herbert Sondheim, Harvey Berin, George Carmel and Paul Parnes took the spotlight for a few moments. The audience was enraptured by the Paris inspired Adele of California creation, modeled by Mrs. Sol Courtman. The hipbone length jacket topped the full pleated skirt, both being shown in the newest of grays, accented with red.

During intermission entertainment was provided by Mr. [illegible] and Mr. McMillan, of the Arthur Murray Studio. They revealed the latest of the most popular dances.

To open the second division of the show, [illegible] [illegible]

Next came the group of afternoon dresses. [illegible] in a black wool dress of [illegible] complemented by [illegible] Broadtail jacket of the [illegible]

Mrs. Robert Downing, wearing a slate blue sheath, presented the Junior League members and their guests with a look into the fashions for evening. As Mrs. Downing introduced the models, she delighted the audience with her rendition of "Diamonds are a Girl's Best Friend." Mrs. Jack Taylor was attired in a black crepe cocktail dress designed by Ceil Chapman, which showed the new plunging neckline. To accent the dress she chose a Lily Dache cocktail hat and a black fox muff. Mrs. Jamar Adcock was also charming in an emerald green peau de soie original by the designer of the wardrobe of "My Fair Lady".

Mrs. Robert Wood and Mrs. James Ewing, III, performed in a humorous skit, including a showing of chapeaus.

To close the production Mrs. William Dent, the general chairman, modeled a full length evening gown of white satin with panels of rhinestones and pearls.

Providing the background music was Mark Bloch.

Additional Junior League members who modeled were: Mrs. Evans Ethridge, Mrs. Foster Wallace, Mrs. Charles Garretson, Mrs. Amos Smelser, Miss Polly Riley, Mrs. Roy Ledbetter, Mrs. John Clay, Mrs. Jack T. Jackson, Mrs. Harold Woods Jr., Mrs. Paul Ranson, Mrs. Lee Edwards, Mrs. Doyle Hamilton, Mrs. John Hart, and Mrs. Ivy Jordan.

The following committees staging the cocktail - style show were: General chairman, Mrs. William Dent; invitations, Mrs. Theo Terzia, Jr., Mrs. T. J. Ryan, and Mrs. Sillman Bernhardt; program, Mrs. Robert Downing; staging, Mrs. Jack Easterling and Mrs. Doyle Hamilton; decorations, Mrs. Joe Powell, Mrs. John Clay, and Mrs. R. W. Dickenhorst; food, Mrs. Brooks Dawkins.

Country Club Is Setting For 'A Pink Tea' Given Saturday For Linda Noe

With the approach of fall, the social scene of Monroe is at it's gayest. Among yesterday's festivities was a "Pink Tea" given at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club with Mrs. A. L. Harrington, Mrs. J. Hunter Thatcher and Mrs. Robert Layton, hostesses. The affair was honoring Miss Linda Noe, a popular bride - elect of October.

In the foyer a large wedding ring a pink satin ribbons was suspended from the ceiling, further carrying out the pink theme were large arrangements of pink caladium leaves and pampas grass. In the lounge a profusion of pink gladioli and asters were used. An opened pink fan at the base of these blossoms was particularly beautiful on the piano. Tall standards of pink tapers formed a pathway to the porch, overlooking the bayou, where pink punch was served.

Miss Noe received with her three hostesses and her mother, Mrs. James A. Noe and Mrs. James A. Noe, Jr., Miss Carolyn Dansby, Miss Sylvia Gentry and Miss Jo Marie Ellett. They all wore lovely afternoon frocks in shades of pink.

A floor length pink satin cloth covered the tea table where an epergne of silver held equisitie blush pink roses.

Assisting with the hostess duties, were Mrs. R. C. Sparks, Mrs. Clifford Johnson, Mrs. Henry Guerriero, Mrs. Thomas Mundholland, Mrs. D. X. Ellett, Mrs. Roy Skillman, Mrs. A. Dent Tisdale, Mrs. Claire Chennault, Mrs. Edward Seymour, Mrs. Bridger Thornhill, Mrs. Shelby Meek, Mrs. Frank Gordon, Mrs. S. E. Huey, Mrs. W. A. Walker, Mrs. Aller Guthrie, of Ruston, Mrs. Vernon Maish, Mrs. George Wright, Jr., Mrs. Dewitt Milam, Mrs. Herbert Dickard, Mrs. Mattie Stewart, Miss Katie McGee, Mrs. W. E. Leigh, Mrs. E. T. Lamkin and Mrs. Maurice Frazier, of Waverly.

Some five hundred guests attended.

Dallas Wedding Of Interest To Monroe Friends

Of interest here is the announcement of the wedding of Miss Dorothy Jo Overall and Beverly Odell Fulson which took place at 7:30 o'clock in the evening at St. Johns Episcopal Church in Dallas.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Joe F. Gentle and Mr. Fulson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fulson, of this city.

Wearing a ballerina length dress of ice-blue satin, the bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Samuel D. Houston, of Richardson. Mrs. Houston was her sister's only attendant and Horace G. Presley served the bridegroom as best man. J.E. Willis, of Richardson and Davis Foster were the ushers.

Following their wedding trip to Colorado and New Mexico, Mr. and Mrs. Fulson will be at home at 10533 Dunaway Drive in Dallas.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fulson, Mrs. Edward Venable and children, Edward, Susan and Sally returned from Dallas Sunday, following the Saturday wedding.

Don't sprinkle clothes in hot, humid weather unless you can iron them in a day. They may mildew.

Mrs. Leech Is Entertained During Visit

Mrs. Fred Culpepper entertained at luncheon this Tuesday honoring Mrs. Herbert Leech, of St. Louis, Mo. during her visit with friends in Mer Rouge.

Fall flowers in shades of yellow and brown centered the table at the La Casa Tea Room where the party was given.

The guests included with the honoree and Mrs. Culpepper were, Mrs. Shelby White, of Oak Ridge, Mrs. L. H. Hemler, of Alto, and coming from Mer Rouge were Mrs. E. M. Clark, Mrs. Willis Montgomery, Mrs. C. M. Clark, Mrs. Jessie Graves and Mrs. R. C. Winsor. The Monroe guests included Mrs. W. H. McKelvy and Mrs. Estelle Sanders.

FOR THE SWEET TOOTH

NEW YORK (UP) — A simple yet nourishing sweet for after-school snacks are cinnamon-sugared prunes. Plump the prunes, remove the pit and stuff with a walnut, almond or maraschino cherry. Roll the prunes in a mixture of cinnamon and sugar. They also make good extras for the lunch box.

Fruit juice may be canned if inconvenient to make into jelly when it is first extracted. Jelly from juice stored six months may have as good texture as that made from the fresh juice, though the color and flavor may not be quite so good, especially in the case of red fruits.

What Makes Men Look At Women

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor

Most women dress, make up, use perfume, and cultivate a winning way to attract and please men. But sometimes they object when a man offers suggestions as to how they can improve themselves. Once in a while a man may come up with some very useful pointers for women, however, if they'd but listen, as a letter to this column from a retired army colonel indicates. His advice seems to be worth passing on to readers for their amusement or amazement . . .

"A woman should buy the clothes she wants and do her own color matching, but should have an impartial man (not a husband, because he will not look, and not a wolf because he'd like her in anything) look her over. Women stress sex but they are not subtle enough, like a couple of women I noticed just this morning. One was perfect down to the hemline. It was four inches too long to really set off her legs. The other was perfect up to the hemline.

"If the first woman had her hemline up to the level of the other, even her husband would whistle. The second needed to start all over, although she was pretty enough. As it was, I yawned.

What Women Need

"What women need to shoot for is to set their figures off so that their father or brother would be proud of them, and so that another man realizes he is not their father or brother and looks again and again.

"Women should practice petting children, too, until they develop an automatice smile. A lot of women have pretty figures and nice clothes but we meet them in the store and they have that little hard look of being preoccupied in their faces.

"My wife is lovely, but when she is occupied with household chores and has that faraway look, I never pay any attention to her.

"The other day I saw a beautiful blonde in a clothing store in Daytona, Fla. She was dressed perfectly with a figure that was out of this world, but she never changed her expression for a half - hour. Her face seemed to be frozen. I would have given her some advice as a big brother only my wife was just a few counters down the aisle. If I was sure she wouldn't have slapped my face (the blonde) I'd have given her a few bad minutes so she could improve her personality in the future.

"French girls have developed a look that seems to say they are going to fall right in your arms. But they do not really do that or anything more forward than American girls, except they manage to avoid that hard look. A man can buy a statue anywhere. He doesn't want to marry one.

"Why doesn't a woman take off into a grocery chain store some day just as if she were breezing into a cocktail party to test my theory. She would smile at all the males she knows in the store, and she'll be amazed how they respond. Then she can keep up that same attitude all day, until her husband comes home from work. She'll be surprised at the pleasant reaction.

MISS HELEN MARIE BARNETT

Helen Marie Barnett Is Fiancee Of K. N. Cheek

Announced today by Mr. and Mrs. Alson J. Barnett, of West Monroe, is the engagement of their daughter, Miss Helen Marie Barnett, to Keneth Newton Cheek, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald A. Cheek, of Transylvania.

A late afternoon wedding, October 19, in the Ridge Avenue Baptist Church is being planned.

The bride - elect is a graduate of the West Monroe High School. Mr. Cheek is a graduate of the Lake Providence High School and at present is a senior in geology at Northeast State College.

Miss Barnett has chosen her sister, Mrs. Eva Ruth Barber, as her matron of honor and the other attendants will include Mrs. Sophia Paul, another sister, as bridesmaid, and Mrs. Jerry Woodard, sister of the groom, and Mrs. Carolyn Laws. Miss Linda Ruth Roberts and Miss Sherry Ann Cheek, will serve as candlelighters.

Edward C. Cheek will be his brothers' best man and the groomsmen and ushers will be Alson J. Barnett, Jr., John E. Barber, Donald E. Paul, Dave Wal-

Young Married Couples Form New Cotillion Club

The first business meeting of the Cotillion Club whose motto is "Unis en Gaiete" met Thursday morning at the United Gas Corporation. Mrs. R. G. Hart, Jr., chairman of the nominating committee, presented a slate of officers which was unanimously accepted. The officers are: Mrs. W. E. Smith, Jr., president; Mrs. Grant Boardman, vice-president; Mrs. Fred Millsaps, treasurer; Mrs. Thomas Henry, Jr., secretary; and Mrs. R. H. Easterling, publicity chairman. Mrs Grant Boardman reported three vacancies and the membership voted Dr. and Mrs. Faheam Cannon, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Oliver, and Dr. and Mrs. Rabun Smith to fill the membership.

The dates for the two dances this year are Octobr 19 and April 26. The October 19th dance is to be a membership only informal Halloween dance.

The Cotillion Club is a dance club made up of 75 married couples of the Twin City area. The name of the club will be familiar to the old timers of Monroe as it was taken from an old club of the same name that was formed in early 1900. The Club Crest was designed by Mrs. Tom Henry.

Those present at the meeting were: Mrs. Sam Rubin, Jr., Mrs. Allen Jones, Mrs. C. Casey, Mrs. Sidney Gill, Mrs. Jack Masur, Mrs. Leo Terzia, Jr., Mrs. Lon Huer, Mrs. Fred Fudickar, Jr., Mrs. Ed Miller, Mrs. Mortimer Raphael, Mrs. Cavitt Cookston, Mrs. Cyril Yancey, Mrs. N. Klam, Mrs. Ralph Einhorn, Mrs. Nelson Abell, Mrs. Malcolm Smith, Mrs. Jack Peat, Mrs. Beatle Eason, Mrs. Charles Petrus, Mrs. R. H. Easterling, Mrs. George Mouk, Mrs. Roy Johns, Mrs. Ben Cobb, Mrs. F. H. Hammonds, Mrs. Grant Boardman, Mrs. Tom Henry, Mrs. W. E. Smith, Jr., Mrs. Fred Millsaps, Mrs. Frank Eason, and Mrs. R. G. Hart.

CALL FOR SECONDS

NEW YORK (UP) — Here's a sandwich spread which packs well in the school lunch pail. Combine chopped, hard - cooked egg, chopped walnuts and thinly sliced celery mixed with salad dressing.

MISS BARBARA HAZEL'S engagement to William Cecil Deal, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Deal, of Lake Providence, is announced by her mother, Mrs. James Cecil Hazel, of Jennings. Both are seniors at Louisiana College in Pineville and their vows will be said in November.

A new fashion for the back-to-school looks like a cross between a skirt and shorts. Designers offer six variations: The "skort", a knife - pleated Jamaica length skirt with attached flannel panties; the "skirlotte," pleated Bermudas with an overlapping fringed front panel resembling kilts; the "skirmuda," a side-pleated Bermuda - length skirt with matching shorts; the "Bermuda - skirt," a pleated skirt with separate pantaloons; and the "kiltie," a bias pleated Bermuda skirt with bloomer - type panties.

Men Dress For Men, Not Gals Says Expert

If women dress for other women, as the experts say, for whom do American men dress? You guessed it — other men!

The most sought after prize in the lives of most men today is business and professional success, according to Michael Daroff, president of a major manufacturer of men's clothing. And men know it is other men who hand out these prizes, says Daroff.

Further bolstering his contention that men dress for men are the results of a survey his firm conducted recently among top corporations. The study shows that where there is a choice of candidates, all possessing equal experience, for a job or promotion, the plum usually goes to the man with the best appearance. And this factor is recognized by the boys who are moving ahead, said Daroff.

As to feminine reaction? He gave it full credit for influencing male dress and pointed out that any smart young wife knows that if she wants her husband to win a promotion, granted he is bright enough, he must also look the part. The result, he said, is that even the women are helping their men dress to impress other men.

Lora Jean Willis And Maurice Wayne Jones Are Wed In Afternoon Rites

Clad in ivory cloud silk peau de soie, Miss Lora Jean Willis, in an afternoon ceremony Sunday, in the First Methodist Church, was married to Maurice Wayne Jones.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Eugene Willis and Mr. Jones is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Dean Jones, of West Monroe.

The Reverend James T. Horton officiated at the double ring ceremony. The church was decorated with large baskets of white gladioli and greenery and white cathedral tapers burning in branched candelabra. The same blossoms were used down the center aisle of the church with a single candle arranged on each pew. Mrs. B. D. Allbritton presented a program of nuptial music.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her princess styled gown was fashioned with long shirred sleeves that tapered to points over the hands. A band of crystal and pearl embroidery formed a yoke in front, below the bateau neckline, and followed down the sides onto a short back peplum from which fell the full chapel length train. Her tiered veil of silk illusion was attached to a coronet of delicate pearl flowers. She carried a bouquet of white roses and stephanotis.

The bride was attended by Miss Mary Jo Ware, of El Dorado, Ark., as maid of honor and Miss Dorothy Jo Jones, sister of the bridegroom, Miss Pat Ruple, Miss Nancy Lee, of New Orleans and Miss Sarah Sneed, of Shreveport, as bridesmaids.

Their waltz length dresses of gold chiffon over taffeta, were made with slightly rounded necklines, shirred at the shoulders with deep V in the back and a full skirt. A matching satin sash crossed, Empire fashion, in the front and looped in the back, hanging to the bottom of the skirt. Matching bandeaux of satin were worn in their hair and they carried bouquets of bronze chrysanthemums. The maids' dresses were of a lighter shade of gold than the honor attendant.

Judy Addison and Linda Coates, of West Monroe acted as flower girls. Their frocks resembled the other attendants and they carried gold baskets of bronze chrysanthemums. Miss Carol Ulmer, of St. Joseph and Miss Mary Pearl Coates were the candlelighters.

Robert Kirby, of Baton Rouge, served as best man and the groomsmen and ushers included Bill Nelson, of Houston, Texas, Bill Carr, Phil Boykin, of Borger, Texas, Freddy Hall, West Monroe Gary Kilpatrick, of Bartlesville, Oklahoma, and Keith Kirby, of Baton Rouge.

The parlours of the church were the scene of the reception which followed the ceremony. Mrs. Willis chose for her daughter's wedding a sheath dress of green silk taffeta made with a lace inset over a flowing panel of the same material in the back. With this she wore a small green hat and a corsage of two bronze chrysanthemums. Mrs. Jones was dressed in beige lace trimmed in matching satin worn with matching accessories and a corsage of bronze cymbidiums.

Bronze chrysanthemums were used about the rooms and the same flowers with yellow candles entwined with gold leaves and grape decorated the cake and punch tables. Miss Ada Mae Hicks served the cake and taking turns at the punch services were Mrs. Myron Kilpatrick, Mrs. Robert Kirby, Mrs. James Bruce, of Rayville and Mrs. Harry Addison. Miss Margaret Ballard registered the wedding guests. Others assisting were Miss Mabel Hood, Mrs. Allen Coates, Mrs. Hugh Murry and Mrs. Maurice Lindsay. Kathy Addison and Nancy Kilpatrick, of Bartlesvilles, Okla., passed out dainty bags of rice.

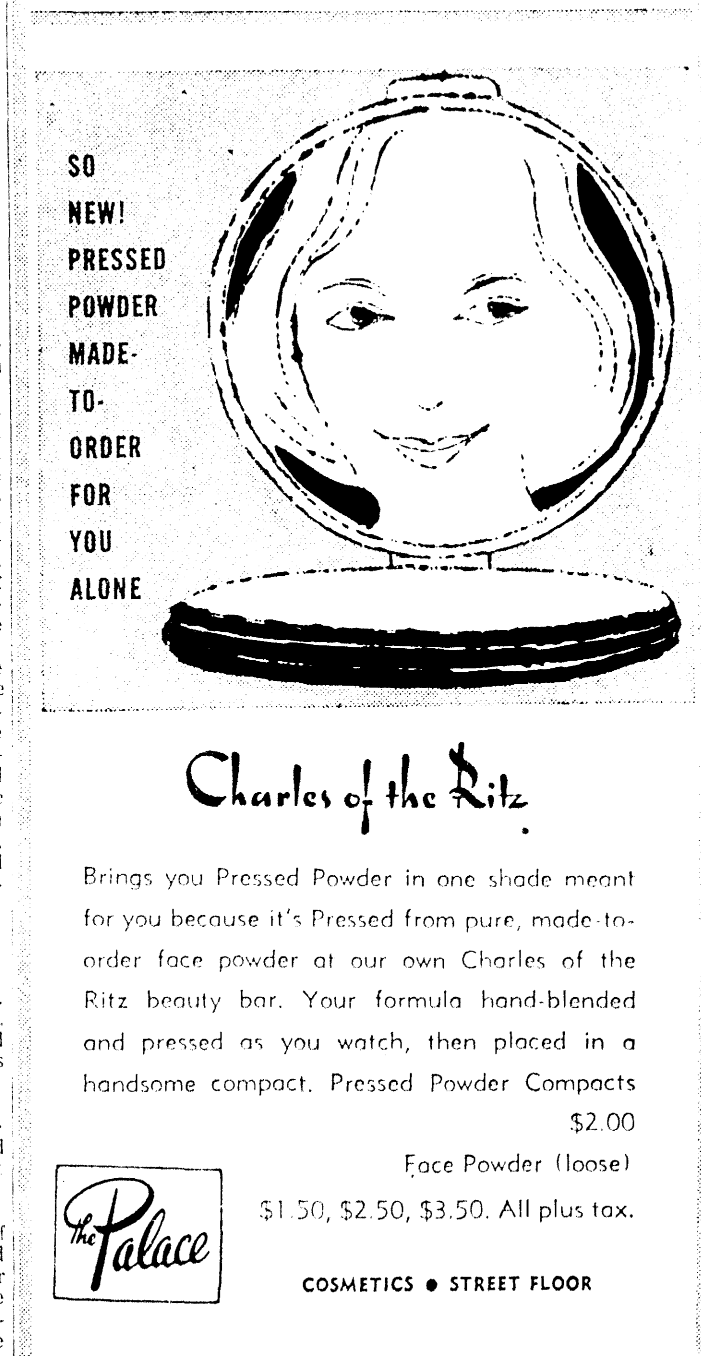
After a motor trip to the Ozarks, Mr. and Mrs. Jones will live in Borger, Texas. The bride left in a biege wool costume suit with which she wore a small matching hat and brown accessories.

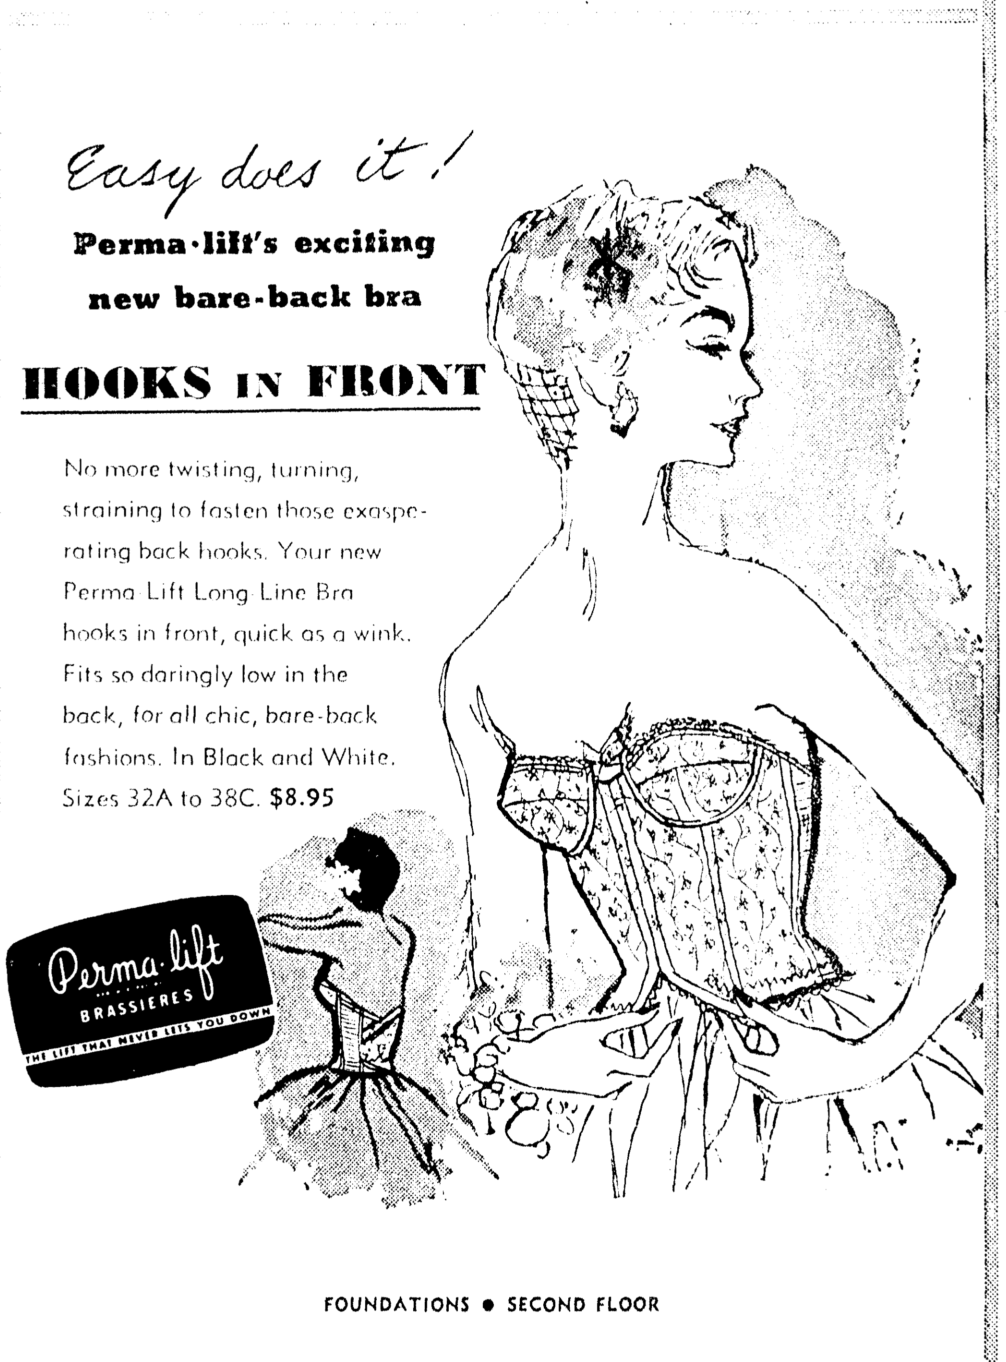
Household Hints

Conserves are cooked like jam. They contain a mixture of fruits, generally including lemons and oranges, and sometimes raisins and nuts.

If you yeast bread does not have as good a texture as you would like, it may be that you are not kneading the dough enough.

One way to give the illusion of a low ceiling in a high - walled room is to paint the ceiling either a dark color or the color of the carpet. Horizontally striped draperies or wallpaper will do the same trick.





MISS HELEN MARIE BARNETT

Helen Marie Barnett Is Fiancee Of K. N. Cheek

Announced today by Mr. and Mrs. Alson J. Barnett, of West Monroe, is the engagement of their daughter, Miss Helen Marie Barnett, to Keneth Newton Cheek, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald A. Cheek, of Transylvania.

A late afternoon wedding, October 19, in the Ridge Avenue Baptist Church is being planned.

The bride - elect is a graduate of the West Monroe High School. Mr. Cheek is a graduate of the Lake Providence High School and at present is a senior in geology at Northeast State College.

Miss Barnett has chosen her sister, Mrs. Eva Ruth Barber, as her matron of honor and the other attendants will include Mrs. Sophia Paul, another sister, as bridesmaid, and Mrs. Jerry Woodard, sister of the groom, and Mrs. Carolyn Laws. Miss Linda Ruth Roberts and Miss Sherry Ann Cheek, will serve as candlelighters.

Edward C. Cheek will be his brothers' best man and the groomsmen and ushers will be Alson J. Barnett, Jr., John E. Barber, Donald E. Paul, Dave Wal-

Young Married Couples Form New Cotillion Club

The first business meeting of the Cotillion Club whose motto is "Unis en Gaiete" met Thursday morning at the United Gas Corporation. Mrs. R. G. Hart, Jr., chairman of the nominating committee, presented a slate of officers which was unanimously accepted. The officers are: Mrs. W. E. Smith, Jr., president; Mrs. Grant Boardman, vice-president; Mrs. Fred Millsaps, treasurer; Mrs. Thomas Henry, Jr., secretary; and Mrs. R. H. Easterling, publicity chairman. Mrs Grant Boardman reported three vacancies and the membership voted Dr. and Mrs. Faheam Cannon, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Oliver, and Dr. and Mrs. Rabun Smith to fill the membership.

The dates for the two dances this year are Octobr 19 and April 26. The October 19th dance is to be a membership only informal Halloween dance.

Miss Harris Is September Bride

MRS. JACK SKINNER BLAKEMAN

The marriage of Miss Nancy Caroline Harris and Rev. Jack Skinner Blakeman was solemnized at the Trinity Methodist Church in Alexandria, on Wednesday mor nigant 10:30 a.m. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Overton C. Harris of Alexandria, La. and Rev. Blakeman's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Blakeman of Rayville, La.

The couple exchanged their vows before the alter which was adorned with lemon leaves against a background of palms banked with baskets of gladioli and ivy-entwined candelabra with burning white tapers. The ministers officiating the ceremony were Rev. William F. Mayo, pastor of the Methodist Church of Tallulah, and Rev. Earl B. Emmerich, pastor of the Methodist Church of Lake Charles.

Mrs. Ward-Steinmann, organist played selections including "This Is My Beloved" and "Clair de Lune." Mr. Rick Norman sang "I Love Thee" preceeding the ceremony. Prior to the entrance of the wedding party, Mr. Kenneth Luton, Jr. of Knoxville, Tenn. lighted the alter tapers. Miss Betty Jayne Corbell of Nashville, Ark. was maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Miss Jamey Ney Poulan of Monroe, La. and Miss Beth Luton of Knoxville, Tenn. They were identically attired in princess style, waltz length, pale pink silk organza dresses with matching satin slippers, and each wore a single strand of pearls which were a gift from the bride. Their Juliet caps were camellia pink with halos of net. Their cascading bouquets were of mauve Fuji mums. Master Richard Jennings, Jr. of Shreveport, was the ring bearer.

Mr. Arel Sumner Riddle of Cotton-port, served as Rev. Blakeman's best man and the ushers were Henry Warren Blakeman, Jr. and Harrison Kelly Jordon, both of Rayville.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her bridal gown was of hand-clipped Chantilly lace over Italian silk taffeta with sweeping court train. The bodice of the gown had a portrait neckline. The sleeves with covered buttons came to petal point over the hands. The full gathered butterfly back of the skirt formed the train. Her veil of illusion fell from her Juliet cap of Chantilly lace trimmed with tiny seed pearls. She carried a white Bible on top of which a white orchid was nestled in lilies of the valley. A shower of streamers tied with lovers' knots and lilies of the valley cascaded down from the bouquet.

Mrs. Harris chose for her daughter's wedding a Dior-blue lace over taffeta with blue feathered toque. Her corsage was of pink feathered carnations with entertwined seed pearls. Mrs. Blakeman, mother of the groom chose a gown of dove gray chiffon with inserts of matching lace and a pink feathered toque. Her corsage was the same as Mrs. Harris'.

Following the ceremony, the bride's parents were hosts at the reception held at the Bentley Room of the hotel. Pedestal baskets of white gladioli and stock stood near where the bride and bridegroom their parents and their attendants formed a receiving line. Guests were asked to sign the guest book by Mrs. Richard L. Rider of Kansas City, Mo., who is an aunt of the bride, and were served punch and wedding cake by Mrs. Ruth Rape of Gulfport, Miss. and Mrs. John Swart. The bride's table was laid with a lace cloth over pink satin. The lace cloth was made by the brides paternal grandmother. The table featured as its central ornament a silver five branched candelabrum with tapers of petal pink. The wedding cake was decorated with bells, lilies of the valley and pink roses and was placed in a circle of gardenias and lemon leaves. The same decoration encircled the silver punch bowl at the other end of the table.

For traveling the bride selected an Italian silk suit of Madonna blue with matching feathered toque and accessories. Her corsage was the white orchid from her wedding bouquet.

Immediately following the reception the bridal couple left for Atlanta, Ga. where they will reside while Rev. Blakeman continues his studies toward his doctors degree.

The out of town guests were: Rev. William Mayo, Tallulah, Rev. and Mrs. Earl B. Emmerich, Lake Charles, Mr. Richard Morris, Shreveport, La., Richard Jennings, Shreveport, Mrs. Kenneth Luton, Knoxville, Tenn., Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone Waldrip and son, Paul Bascom of St. Louis, Mo., Mrs. Elizabeth Bucher, Memphis, Tenn., Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Rape, Gulfport, Miss., Mrs. Richard L. Rider, Kansas City, Mo., Mrs. Lawrence Jamison, Shreveport.

HOT-DOG VARIATION

NEW YORK (UP) — Use frankfurters left over from fall barbecues as basis for sandwich fillings. Chop a hot - dog and combine with a chopped hard - cooked egg, 6 or 8 ripe olives cut into pieces and a dab of mayonnaise. Serve on pumpernickel bread.

No Time Like Present For Gift Cookery

NEW YORK — (UP) — Started your Christmas cooking yet?

If not — you already may have missed the boat on summer fruits and berries that make such tasty jams, jellies and preserves.

But with the fall harvest just starting and the children traipsing off to school, now is the time to create delicious Christmas gifts in your kitchen.

First of all, shop for inexpensive colors of jellies and preserves.

Apothecary jars, for instance, come in many attractive sizes and shapes, all practicable for preserving when you seal them with paraffin.

Water Goblets

Egg cups, individual molds and custard cups also make good containers for jellies and preserves, their small capacity perfect for the person who lives alone and likes variety in meals from day to day.

Don't pass up the goldfish bowl as too large. You may not want to fill it with plum preserves, but it will come in handy as a cookie jar to be packed just in advance of Christmas for a youngster who wants to start his own aquarium later.

For slightly more expensive containers, use footed water goblets. Half a dozen, filled with assorted jellies, make a dazzling rainbow display to put beneath a Christmas tree.

And earthenware casseroles, with or without covers, are ideal for mincemeat or plum puddings.

Apples and Pears

Here is what to put in your containers:

September: purple plums, for preserves, jams and jellies; also Concord grapes, used the same way, or in a preserve mixture with less sugar, suitable as pie filling or ice cream topping.

The first apples will come on the market this month, as will pears and quinces. The latter, like cranberries, mix well with other fruits and need no pectin.

October, look for greater supplies of apples and pears, and take advantage of lower citrus fruit prices for marmalades and candied peels.

October's also a good time to bake fruit cakes and plum puddings, to give them time to ripen fully for holiday eating.

P. S. To every bachelor girl who reads this far: there's no kitchen too small for putting up a few jars of premium flavor preserves as a Christmas gift to impress the beau who thinks "modern girls can't cook."

Sweeten whipped cream with baked apples; add a little of the grated orange rind, too.

Woman's Club Committees Are Chosen For Year

Rev. William E. Clark, pastor of the Lake Providence Presbyterian Church was guest speaker at the recent meeting of the Carroll Woman's Club, held at Carrollton Plantation, home of tte R. K. Howards. His topic was "The Value of Christian Living."

Serving as co - hostesses with Mrs. Howard were Mrs. R. S. Reed and Miss Eunyce Howard.

Mrs. E. H. Ragus, president, presided at the meeting which was opened with a unison recitation of the Lord's Prayer, the Club Collect, led by Mrs. H. L. Van, and the Pledge of Allegiance.

A special vote of thanks was given to Rev. and Mrs. C. R. McCammon for preparing the Club Yearbook.

The president announced the appointment of the following committees — Program, Mrs. C. R. McCammon, chairman; Mrs. W. J. Erwin, Mrs. W. B. Ragland, Mrs. H. L. Kennedy, Mrs. K. E. Mangum; membership, Mrs. T. J. Slagie, chairman, Mrs. J. E. Peeler, Mrs. H. L. Van, Mrs. S. K. Mitchiner; National and Civil Defense, Miss Eunyce Howard; music, Mrs. W. B. Ragland, Jr.; activities, Mrs. K. E. Mangum, chairman; Mrs. A. S. Herzog, Mrs. Grady Wyly.

Prior to Rev. Clark's talk, Mrs. H. L. Van Fossen presented an interesting current event, centered around the six hundred million dollar industry which has been developed in Mississippi, that is getting oil from pine stumps in the cutover forests of the state.

Telling Time In Color Coming Next

CHICAGO (UP)—Colored watch dials from "mandarin red" to "bamboo brown" will invade the jewelry field soon, a leading color processing firm predicts.

M. J. Silbert and Co. researchers said surveys have been made indicating the "public is ready" for colored watch dials, just as they were when the "pastel trend" hit the automobile industry.

Its developers said advantages of the colored watch dial are many. They said it was first a fashion accessory, with women preferring lighter shades and men darker ones.

Miss Jamey Nay Poulan Will Be Autumn Bride

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Thomas Poulan announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Miss Jamey Nay Poulan and Cecil Calvin Belgard, II, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil C. Belgrade, of Colfax.

Their vows will be solemnized at 7:30 o'clock in the evening, November 23, in the First Baptist Church with the Reverend James Horton officiating.

Miss Poulan is the granddaughter of Mrs. Hattie Phillips and the late Josh Phillips, of this city and Mrs. Mamie Burk and Mr. Dave Burk, both of Rayville. She is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High School and attended Northeast State College and Northwestern. She has completed a year internship at Confederate Memorial Hospital, School of Medical Technology, in Shreveport and will receive a bachelor of science degree from Northwestern College, in January. She is a member of Beta Sigma social sorority and Beta, Beta, Beta, Biological Society at Northwestern.

Mr. Belgard is the grandson of the late Rev. and Mrs. James Ezekial Wakefield, of Pineville and the late Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Belgard, of Buckeye.

He attended Louisiana Polytechnic Institute in Ruston and Northwestern State College in Natchitoches.

The bride-elect has chosen Mrs. William Phillips as her matron of honor and serving as bridesmaids will be Miss Mary Evelyn Belgard, of Colfax and Miss Thad Ouchley of Monroe. Mr. Belgard will be his son's best man and the groomsmen and ushers will include Tom Poulan, brother of the bride, Robert Wakefield, Robert Murrell and Ed Cheek.

Standard jelly glasses come in a variety of shapes in six - ounce and eight - ounce sizes.

Miss Harris Is September Bride

MRS. JACK SKINNER BLAKEMAN

The marriage of Miss Nancy Caroline Harris and Rec. Jack Skinner Blakeman was solemnized at the Trinity Methodist Church in Alexandria, on Wednesday mor nigant 10:30 a.m. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Overton C. Harris of Alexandria, La. and Rev. Blakeman's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Blakeman of Rayville, La.

The couple exchanged their vows before the altar which was adorned with lemon leaves against a background of palms banked with baskets of gladioli and ivy-entwined candelabra with burning white tapers. The ministers officiating the ceremony were Rev. William F. Mayo, pastor of the Methodist Church of Tallulah, and Rev. Earl B. Emmerich, pastor of the Methodist Church of Lake Charles.

Mrs. Ward-Steinmann, organist played selections including "This Is My Beloved" and "Clair de Lune." Mr. Rick Norman sang "I Love Thee" preceeding the ceremony. Prior to the entrance of the wedding party, Mr. Kenneth Luton, Jr. of Knoxville, Tenn. lighted the altar tapers. Miss Betty Jayne Corbell of Nashville, Ark. was maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Miss Jamey Ney Poulan of Monroe, La. and Miss Beth Luton of Knoxville, Tenn. They were identically attired in princess style, waltz length, pale pink silk organza dresses with matching satin slippers, and each wore a single strand of pearls which were a gift from the bride. Their Juliet caps were camellia pink with halos of net. Their cascading bouquets were of mauve Fuiji mums. Master Richard Jennings, Jr. of Shreveport, was the ring bearer.

Mr. Arel Sumner Riddle of Cottonport, served as Rev. Blakeman's best man and the ushers were Henry Warren Blakeman, Jr. and Harrison Kelly Jordon, both of Rayville.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her bridal gown was of hand-clipped Chantilly lace over Italian silk taffeta with sweeping court train. The bodice of the gown had a portrait neckline. The sleeves with covered buttons came to petal point over the hands. The full gathered butterfly back of the skirt formed the train. Her veil of illusion fell from her Juliet cap of Chantilly lace trimmed with tiny seed pearls. She carried a white Bible on top of which a white orchid was nestled in lilies of the valley. A shower of streamers tied with lovers' knots and lilies of the valley cascaded down from the bouquet.

Mrs. Harris chose for her daughter's wedding a Dior-blue lace over taffeta with blue feathered toque. Her corsage was of pink feathered carnations with entertwined seed pearls. Mrs. Blakeman, mother of the groom chose a gown of dove gray chiffon with inserts of matching lace and a pink feathered toque. Her corsage was the same as Mrs. Harris'.

Following the ceremony, the bride's parents were hosts at the reception held at the Bentley Room of the hotel. Pedestal baskets of white gladioli and stock stood near where the bride and bridegroom their parents and their attendants formed a receiving line. Guests were asked to sign the guest book by Mrs. Richard L. Rider of Kansas City, Mo., who is an aunt of the bride, and were served punch and wedding cake by Mrs. Ruth Rape of Gulfport, Miss. and Mrs. John Swart. The bride's table was laid with a lace cloth over pink satin. The lace cloth was made by the brides paternal grandmother. The table featured as its central ornament a silver five branched candelabrum with tapers of petal pink. The wedding cake was decorated with bells, lilies of the valley and pink roses and was placed in a circle of gardenias and lemon leaves. The same decoration encircled the silver punch bowl at the other end of the table.

For traveling the bride selected an Italian silk suit of Madonna-blue with matching feathered toque and accessories. Her corsage was the white orchid from her wedding bouquet.

Immediately following the reception the bridal couple left for Atlanta, Ga. where they will reside while Rev. Blakeman continues his studies toward his doctors degree.

The out of town guests were: Rev. William Mayo, Tallulah, Rev. and Mrs. Earl B. Emmerich, Lake Charles, Mr. Richard Morris, Shreveport, La., Richard Jennings, Shreveport,. Mrs. Kenneth Luton, Knoxville, Tenn., Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone Waldrip and son, Paul Bascom of St. Louis, Mo., Mrs. Elizabeth Bucher, Memphis, Tenn., Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Rape, Gulfport, Miss., Mrs. Richard L. Rider, Kansas City, Mo., Mrs. Lawrence Jamison, Shreveport.

Woman's Club Committees Are Chosen For Year

Rev. William E. Clark, pastor of the Lake Providence Presbyterian Church was guest speaker at the recent meeting of the Carroll Woman's Club, held at Carrollton Plantation, home of tte R. K. Howards. His topic was "The Value of Christian Living."

Serving as co - hostesses with Mrs. Howard were Mrs. R. S. Reed and Miss Eunyce Howard.

Mrs. E. H. Ragus, president, presided at the meeting which was opened with a unison recitation of the Lord's Prayer, the Club Collect, led by Mrs. H. L. Van, and the Pledge of Allegiance.

A special vote of thanks was given to Rev. and Mrs. C. R. McCammon for preparing the Club Yearbook.

The president announced the appointment of the following committees — Program, Mrs. C. R. McCammon, chairman; Mrs. W. J. Erwin, Mrs. W. B. Ragland, Mrs. H. L. Kennedy, Mrs. K. E. Mangum; membership, Mrs. T. J. Slagle, chairman, Mrs. J. E. Peeler, Mrs. H. L. Van, Mrs. S. K. Mitchiner; National and Civil Defense, Miss Eunyce Howard; music, Mrs. W. B. Ragland, Jr.; activities, Mrs. K. E. Mangum, chairman; Mrs. A. S. Herzog, Mrs. Grady Wyly.

Prior to Rev. Clark's talk, Mrs. H. L. Van Fossen presented an interesting current event, centered around the six hundred million dollar industry which has been develloped in Mississippi, that is getting oil from pine stumps in the cut-over forests of the state.

Telling Time In Color Coming Next

CHICAGO (UP)—Colored watch dials from "mandarin red" to "bamboo brown" will invade the jewelry field soon, a leading color processing firm predicts.

M. J. Silbert and Co. researchers said surveys have been made indicating the "public is ready" for colored watch dials, just as they were when the "pastel trend" hit the automobile industry.

Its developers said advantages of the colored watch dial are many. They said it was first a fashion accessory, with women preferring lighter shades and men darker ones.

Miss Jamey Nay Poulan Will Be Autumn Bride

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Thomas Poulan announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Miss Jamey Nay Poulan and Cecil Calvin Belgard, II, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil C. Belgrade, of Colfax.

Their vows will be solemnized at 7:30 o'clock in the evening, November 23, in the First Baptist Church with the Reverend James Horton officiating.

Miss Poulan is the granddaughter of Mrs. Hattie Phillips and the late Josh Phillips, of this city and Mrs. Mamie Burk and Mr. Dave Burk, both of Rayville. She is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High School and attended Northeast State College and Northwestern. She has completed a year internship at Confederate Memorial Hospital, School of Medical Technology, in Shreveport and will receive a bachelor of science degree from Northwestern College, in January. She is a member of Beta Sigma social sorority and Beta, Beta, Beta, Biological Society at Northwestern.

Mr. Belgard is the grandson of the late Rev. and Mrs. James Ezekial Wakefield, of Pineville and the late Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Belgard, of Buckeye.

He attended Louisiana Polytechnic Institute in Ruston and Northwestern State College in Natchitoches.

The bride-elect has chosen Mrs. William Phillips as her matron of honor and serving as bridesmaids will be Miss Mary Evelyn Belgard, of Colfax and Miss Thad Ouchley of Monroe. Mr. Belgard will be his son's best man and the groomsmen and ushers will include Tom Poulan, brother of the bride, Robert Wakefield, Robert Murrell and Ed Cheek.

Standard jelly glasses come in a variety of shapes in six - ounce and eight - ounce sizes.

No Time Like Present For Gift Cookery

NEW YORK — (UP) — Started your Christmas cooking yet?

If not — you already may have missed the boat on summer fruits and berries that make such tasty jams, jellies and preserves.

But with the fall harvest just starting and the children traipsing off to school, now is the time to create delicious Christmas gifts in your kitchen.

First of all, shop for inexpensive colors of jellies and preserves.

Apothecary jars, for instance, come in many attractive sizes and shapes, all practicable for preserving when you seal them with paraffin.

Water Goblets

Egg cups, individual molds and custard cups also make good containers for jellies and preserves, their small capacity perfect for the person who lives alone and likes variety in meals from day to day.

Don't pass up the goldfish bowl as too large. You may not want to fill it with plum preserves, but it will come in handy as a cookie jar to be packed just in advance of Christmas for a youngster who wants to start his own aquarium later.

For slightly more expensive containers, use footed water goblets. Half a dozen, filled with assorted jellies, make a dazzling rainbow display to put beneath a Christmas tree.

And earthenware casseroles, with or without covers, are ideal for mincemeat or plum puddings.

Apples and Pears

Here is what to put in your containers:

September: purple plums, for preserves, jams and jellies; also Concord grapes, used the same way, or in a preserve mixture with less sugar, suitable as pie filling or ice cream topping.

The first apples will come on the market this month, as will pears and quinces. The latter, like cranberries, mix well with other fruits and need no pectin.

October, look for greater supplies of apples and pears, and take advantage of lower citrus fruit prices for marmalades and candied peels.

October's also a good time to bake fruit cakes and plum puddings, to give them time to ripen fully for holiday eating.

P. S. To every bachelor girl who reads this far: there's no kitchen too small for putting up a few jars of premium flavor preserves as a Christmas gift to impress the beau who thinks "modern girls can't cook."

Sweeten whipped cream with baked apples; add a little of the grated orange rind, too.

Membership Tea Opens Year's Work For A.A.U.W.

The American Association of University Women opened the 1957-1958 year's work with the lovely membership tea at the beautiful new home of the organization's president, Mrs. J. W. Musselwhite, at 601 Lakeshore Drive. Arrangements of early fall flowers were used throughout the reception rooms.

The members and guests were greeted by the hostess, Mrs. J.W. Musselwhite, assisted by Miss Gertrude Gregory, Mrs. Jake B. Humphries, Mrs. James R. Catchings and Mrs. H. B. McClendon, who are the officers for the year. Dr. Julia Hunter presided at the punch bowl and Mrs. Sara Hollingsworth and Miss Katherine Oliphant assisted with the serving of dainty refreshments. The center of decor used on the punch table carried out the white-green-yellow theme used in the reception area.

The attractive year books were distributed by the Year Book Chairman, Mrs. Jane Arnold. The theme of the programs for the year is "Pioneers in Progress: The Past, Our Heritage; The Present, Our Responsibility; The Future, Our Hope."

The A. A. U. W. is an organization of university graduates for the promotion of higher standards of education and equal status for women in the educational field.

During the conversational hour the members enjoyed renewing friendships and welcoming the many new guests who are potential members.

Chairmen of the standing committees are: Art, Miss Carrie Dee Drew; Education, Mrs. H. C. Moffett; Fellowship, Dr. Julia Hunter; International relations, Mrs. P. L. Crowell; legislation, Mrs. Paul Bauer; membership, Miss Gertrude Gregory; program, Mrs. A. L. Tatum; publicity, Mrs. John P Zoll; radio-tv-Miss Kathryn Oliphant; social, Mrs. Tina G. Clark; social studies, Mrs. Herbert Steed; status of women, Mrs. Paul R. Smith; year book, Mrs. Jane Arnold.

Entertaining Can Be Pleasure Not A Chore

In present day, servantless homes, most entertaining is being done on a less elaborate scale Yet the large dinner party or buffet supper need be no less festive. The woman who fills the roles of cook, maid and hostess, simply must utilize all of the modern tricks at her disposal to make entertaining a pleasure rather than a chore.

In the matter of table appointments, there has been a good deal of relaxation on the correctnes of setting and linens to be used. For instance, place mats and colored cloths which are easy to launder are being used more and more in homes. Growing in usage too, are some of the paper napkins which homemakers have discovered are not only practical but every bit as attractive as conventional linens.

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

As we said, last week was the starting point for most of last year's troops. It's good to see how many of them have interested leaders who are making tentative plans for a year of fun and worthwhile activities.

The first neighb rhood meeting of the fall was the college neighborhood, made up of the adults working in Sherrouse, Lakeshore, and Our Lady of Fatima schools. An enthusiastic group made tentative plans for establishing new troops and for training for new leaders. They set October 9, at Memorial Methodist Church, for a workshop on crafts, to include pottery, basketry, and leathercraft. Hours will be from 9:30 until 2:00, with participants coming for as short or as long a time as they can spare. The group also initiated plans for the annual work and play day at Pine Wood in October. Other neighborhoods will add to the plans initiated at this meeting.

Other neighborhood meetings to be held this week include West Monroe at Highland School on Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 and the Northside of Monroe on Wednesday afternoon at 1:00 o'clock, leaders to be notified of the place. Mrs. Wade Pearson, chairman of the West Monroe group that includes Millsaps, Highland, and Kiroli Woods schools, seems to have been quite busy lining up the needed new troops in these schools. A good bit of readjustment was needed because of the new school at Kiroli Woods and the reassignment of pupils.

One troop that is off to a flying start is Brownie Troop 33, Mrs. Frank Halpin and Mrs. C. E. Vaughan, leaders. Congratulations to this group for being the first to reregister this fall. It proves that the girls had good program last year. Many of them went to day camp and had a wonderful time and the leaders are looking forward to using that experience to help enrich troop program.

Troop 18, which is made up of seventh grade girls and has our good old camping friend, Lucy Huckabee as leader, is looking forward to an overnight to Pine Wood to spend their time planning their year's program, which will be concerned with progress toward first class rank. We'll look forward to hearing what they decided.

As a result of the training given by Mrs. Boyd Arthur, we expect to see still more enthusiasm for our neighborhood meetings. Remember, leaders, training for fly-up leaders Wednesday morning, for our second and third year intermediate leaders Thursday morning — both at the office at 9:30.

Fashionettes

The newest coats for town and evening wear go for plaids with a city look, say fashion analysts of Women's Wear Daily. Plaids come in tweeds and shaggy woolens the color of stained glass windows and Byzantine mosaics.

Designer Anne Fogarty recommends the mantilla, or lace chapel veil, for many occasions. Wear it at sports events to protect your hair from the breezes, as a hat for church, or as a triangle or stole for dinner, the theater or formal parties.

Save the necks and backbones from broiler-fryers for stock.

MRS. CARL MARION WILLIAMS

Williams-Jacola Vows Exchanged In Afternoon

The St. Matthews' Catholic Church was the scene Thursday, of the wedding of Miss Vita Marie Jacola, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Jacola, and Carl Marion Williams, son of Mrs. C. Y. Williams and the late Mr. Williams.

The Reverend Michael C. Hannon heard the exchange of vows at 5 o'clock in the afternoon. White gladioli and candlelight formed a beautiful background for the ceremony. Mrs. Della Williams presented the nuptial music and accompanied Miss Lena Sciara, the soloist. Jimmy Balsamo, Jr. and Michael Cernigliaro served as altar boys.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of shimmering bridal satin. Re-embroidered Alencon lace and irridescents trimmed the crescent neckline of the tight fitting bodice. The billowing skirt of satin swept into a cathedral train. A Juliet cap of lace embroidered in pearls held her veil of illusion and she carried a white orchid encircled with white roses.

Her attendants were Mrs. John Roberts, matron of honor, Miss Sally Hays, maid of honor, and Miss Margaret Costanza, Miss Helen Barnett and Mrs. Calton Yeager, bridesmaids. They wore ballerina length gowns in cotillion blue taffeta fashioned along princess lines with high jewel neck line ending in deep V in back with floating panels of silk from the shoulder to the hemline. Feathered half hats of matching blue were worn in their hair and they carried bouquets of Venice carnations. Sylvia Jo Zagone was the flower girl and her frock was identical to the other attendants. Carey Messina Jr., acted as ring bearer.

Joseph M. Jacola was the best man to the bridegroom and the groomsmen and ushers included Phillip Lisotta, Calton Yeager, George Fontana, John Roberts, James Balsamo, Carey Messina.

Mrs. Jacola wore a dress of soft blue lace complimented with an orchid corsage. The bridegroom's mother chose navy French crepe with neckline of leaf lace and her corsage was an orchid.

A reception followed at the Progressive Men's Club with Mrs. James Balsamo, Mrs. Rose Costanza, Mrs. Alma Roberts, and Mrs. Clifford Smith, hostesses. Mrs. Carey Messina registered the guests.

Need Of Etiquette In Our Schools Vital

The shocking frequency with which stories of puvenile delinquency appear in the press has at last aroused the public to the need for the training of our boys and girls in the fundamentals of proper behavior.

Ideal training in behavior, we all know, is that of the example set by admirable parents. The present epidemic of bad behavior is naturally ascribed to the incompetence of parents to guide their children.

The unrestrained freedom of undisciplined adolescents is in a great many cases, caused by the fact that boys have lost the comradeship, and girls the guidance, of their fathers; boys and girls both are missing the care of their mothers who are working, with the result that their behavior has become a problem for our schools — in particular the overcrowded puplic schools in the great cities.

What these schools will — or can — do about it is a question to which only the rarest few are able to give the assuring answer. Most of them are handicapped by lack of teachers at this very time when double pressure is put on skill and character. The point that must be made is that etiquette is inseparable from ethics and that both are fundamentals of education quite as important in every school's curriculum as history or mathematics.

The qualifications necessary for each teacher of these subjects are far from easy to meet, since her own personality is the example of her teaching! The more they admire her the more closely they will pattern themselves upon her. They will copy her in every way they can — her speech, her manners, her point of view. An admired teacher can exert an extraordinary influence over pupils to whom she has been able to give particular attention. And this presents the problem. Classes are so overcrowded that training in behavior is limited to the quelling of disturbances in the classrooms.

It is true that all of the children who go to Sunday School or other curch classes or who belong to the Scouts or similar organizations which meet once a week are given disciplinary training in the moralities (ethics) and in behavior (etiquette). But to produce dependable results this training has to be carried on through the other days of the week: which brings us back to the need for specially qualified teachers who devote their entire time to supervising such training. Where special behavior classes are held it might be possible for an expert teacher to teach in several schools every day — just as music and drawing teachers do. But whatever plan is made, training should begin in primary school. To be able always to do or say the right thing without giving it a thought has a great advantage over information consciously learned later on.

To illustrate this point I want to quote part of a letter which I printed in this column several years ago, from an executive of a great chemical company who wrote me:

"Ordinarily it is taken for granted that the highest scholarship automatically wins the top job, but this is not quite true; it wins a job of course and a good one, but the job that holds out the best promise of opportunity is given to the student who has technical training plus — meaning by this an engaging personality and accomplished manners that inspire confidence.

"The point that you, Mrs. Post, can help solve is how to give all students, no matter how lacking in home advantages, sufficient training in perfect behavior to make their technical training complete."

The reason I have quoted this is that there has always been among us Americans a tendency to associate crudeness with strength and to overlook the fact that lack of cultivated speech and of social polish is actually a lack of an elementary branch of education!

What size should table napkins be, and how should they be folded? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but you will find the answers to these questions included in leaflet E-32, "Table Linen." To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to Dept. EP c-o this paper, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Should table linen be monogrammed, and if so, where should the monogram be placed? This information and many other suggestions about the types of linen for various occasions are included in leaflet E-23, "Table Linens." Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to Dept. EP, c-o this paper, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Soap And Water Best Cleaner

By BETH BLAIR

Imitation-leather handbags these days are so well done that it's difficult to tell them from the real thing. Moreover your "leather-like" bag can be cared for much more simply than the more expensive leather. A reader writes —

Dear Miss Blair:
I have a brown grained fall handbag that's marked "leather-like." How can I preserve the finish and keep it from smudges? Is there some special preparation to use?

Your textured pocketbook may be amazingly leather-like but actually it is a durable plastic. Like all plastic, the only preparation needed to clean it is ordinary soap and water. Wipe your bag clean with a sponge or cloth dipped into thick soap or detergent suds. Then wipe with clear water followed by a dry cloth. This should be done often so that the dirt doesn't have a chance to become imbedded in the grain.

Dear Miss Blair:
I have been given a pair of purple wool tapered pants, to wear at home. I love the color, but wonder what kind of blouse would be right to wear with them. I have never worn much purple. I have light brown hair, medium complexion and blue eyes.

Purple is a good color for you. With the slacks, you could wear a silk shirt in pale lavendar. Or, for a more striking combination, try a pale pink (be sure it's a true pink, without a peach or orange cast). To be really daring, you might try a brilliant green satin cummerbund with the pink shirt; a bright blue with the lavendar. If you don't feel up to these color combinations, either white or beige is a safe choice for a shirt.

Ever add grated carrots to potato salad? Gives pleasant color, especially when diced green pepper or parsley accompany the carrots.

MISS MARY CATHERINE GORDY'S engagement to Gene Hopper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Grady Hopper, of Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Gordy, of Wisner. The wedding will be an event of October 6, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon at the Methodist Church in Wisner. A reception will follow at the home of the bride's parents.

MISS ESTELLE AINSWORTH'S engagement to Buford Cripps, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Cripps of Harrisonburg, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Ainsworth, of West Monroe. The exchange of vows will take place in the early fall.

Teenagers Need Own Rooms

DALLAS, Tex. (UP) — Many educators and psychologists feel the biggest problem of the growing teenager is lack of privacy.

In the early teens a youngster is usually extra sensitive and moody. He wants a chance to think things out for himself to get away from other people at times and to enjoy his own radio and TV selections.

He wants a place to entertain friends, to unleash his vivid imagination, even to do his homework. He wants privacy.

One solution to the problem is to give him some part of the home for his own personal use—a room of his own if possible. If he must share a room, let him know exactly which parts of the room and furniture are his, and let him be responsible for them.

Experts also suggest a teenager be allowed to help decorate and furnish his room. Many youngsters like to buy unpainted furniture and paint it in colors of their own choice.

A divan-type bed with a dark spread is an ideal place for lounging during the day. A good desk, lamp and portable typewriter will help his progress at school by providing excellent study facilities. Simple open bookshelves are the favorite for books and hobby collections.

The teenager meets many new problems, some of which are unexpected and unpredictable. Most educators and psychologists feel that a good study area, properly furnished, with privacy and comfort can do a lot to help him.

Laundry countertop space should be covered with a really durable, stainproof material.

MRS. CARL MARION WILLIAMS

Williams-Jacola Vows Exchanged In Afternoon

The St. Matthews' Catholic Church was the scene Thursday, of the wedding of Miss Vita Marie Jacola, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Jacola, and Carl Marion Williams, son of Mrs. C. Y. Williams and the late Mr. Williams.

The Reverend Michael C. Hannon heard the exchange of vows at 5 o'clock in the afternoon. White gladioli and candlelight formed a beautiful background for the ceremony. Mrs. Della Williams presented the nuptial music and accompanied Miss Lena Sciara, the soloist. Jimmy Balsamo, Jr. and Michael Cernigliaro served as altar boys.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of shimmering bridal satin. Re-embroidered Alencon lace and irridescents trimmed the crescent neckline of the tight fitting bodice. The billowing skirt of satin swept into a cathedral train. A Juliet cap of lace embroidered in pearls held her veil of illusion and she carried a white orchid encircled with white roses.

MISS EVELYN FAY HUMPHREYS

Miss Humphreys To Wed Harold Keliehor Quinn In October Ceremony

Of interest today is the announcement of the engagement of Miss Evelyn Fay Humphreys of Baton Rouge to Mr. Harold Kelichor Quim of Shreveport.

The couple plan to be married at 2 o'clock in the afternoon on Saturday, Oct. 12. The Rev. Daniel J. Becnel is to officiate at the ceremony to be held at the St. Aloysius Catholic Church.

The bride - elect is the daughter of Mrs. Herbert Ernest Burnham Jr. of Baton Rouge and the late Mr. William Oxley Humphreys of New Orleans and Baton Rouge. Mr. Quinn is the son of Mrs. Annete Barnhart Quinn and the late Mr. Joseph McMahon Quinn.

Miss Humphreys received a bachelor of science degree from L. S. U. and also attended the University of Wisconsin. She was a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma Sorority and Delta Gamma Delta Intersorority. Miss Humphreys was a member of the Shreve Island School Faculty.

Mr. Quinn received a bachelor science degree from Centenary College and was a member of Kappa Alpha Order. He is now ii the insurance business in Shreveport.

Miss Humphreys has chosen as her attendants Mrs. H. Dan Kendricks of Shreveport, who will be matron of honor, and Miss Gay Ann Quinn, Miss Bennie Nell Delaune, Miss Charlotte Lamo of Winnsboro, Mrs. Harry W. Barber and Mrs. Charles McInnis, both of Baton Rouge, bridesmaids.

Mr. Quinn has asked Richard G. Hicks of Birmingham, Ala., to serve him as best man, and William O. Humphreys of Baton Rouge, Robert K. Mayo, Thomas G. Carmody, Glen Flournoy, Thomas F. Ruffin, Russell W. Peterson and Sam B. Grayson to be ushers.

Stains from peaches, pears, cherries and plums should be removed with cool water. Sponge the stain and then work glycerine or a soapless shampoo into the spot, rubbing lightly. Let stand for several hours and then apply a few drops of vinegar. Rinse thoroughly. Avoid using soap and never use boiling water.

Bold designs come to slips this fall. One nylon tricot sheath sports black and white stripes and jet buttons. Another model comes in shrimp or blue stripe on white. And there's a half- slip in a grey and gold paisley print.

How To Know Talented Child

Today's bright children are our greatest natural resource. They are tomorrow's leaders, creators, inventors, scientists, engineers. The kind of world we will have depends upon the chances we give these bright youngsters to develop their talents.

Abraham H. Lass writes that the bright child can be distinguished by certain characteristics:

1. He's an early starter — walking, talking and reading.

2. He has an insatiable curiosity —asks more questions than other children, pursues many interests, spends much time alone.

Miss Humphreys received a bachelor of science degree from L. S. U. and also attended the University of Wisconsin. She was a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma Sorority and Delta Gamma Delta Intersorority. Miss Humphreys was a member of the Shreve Island School Faculty.

Mr. Quinn received a bachelor science degree from Centenary College and was a member of Kappa Alpha Order. He is now ii the insurance business in Shreveport.

Miss Humphreys has chosen as her attendants Mrs. H. Dan Kendricks of Shreveport, who will be matron of honor, and Miss Gay Ann Quinn, Miss Bennie Nell Delaune, Miss Charlotte Luno of Winnsboro, Mrs. Harry W. Barber and Mrs. Charles McInnis, both of Baton Rouge, bridesmaids.

Mr. Quinn has asked Richard G. Hicks of Birmingham, Ala., to serve him as best man, and William O. Humphreys of Baton Rouge, Robert K. Mayo, Thomas G. Carmody, Glen Flournoy, Thomas F. Ruffin, Russell W. Peterson and Sam B. Grayson to be ushers.

Stains from peaches, pears, cherries and plums should be removed with cool water. Sponge the stain and then work glycerine or a soapless shampoo into the spot, rubbing lightly. Let stand for several hours and then apply a few drops of vinegar. Rinse thoroughly. Avoid using soap and never use boiling water.

Bold designs come to slips this fall. One nylon tricot sheath sports black and white stripes and jet buttons. Another model comes in shrimp or blue stripe on white. And there's a half- slip in a grey and gold paisley print.

How To Know Talented Child

Today's bright children are our greatest natural resource. They are tomorrow's leaders, creators, inventors, scientists, engineers. The kind of world we will have depends upon the chances we give these bright youngsters to develop their talents.

Abraham H. Lass writes that the bright child can be distinguished by certain characteristics:

1. He's an early starter — walking, talking and reading.

2. He has an insatiable curiosity —asks more questions than other children, pursues many interests, spends much time alone.

Amman Home On Island Dr. Setting For Silver Tea Given By C.A.R. Society

One of the loveliest functions of the early fall season was the Silver Tea given by the Lt. Joseph Bowmar Society of the children of the American Revolution in the home of Mrs. Fred Amman yesterday afternoon.

Guests were greeted at the door by Mrs. Amman and her two daughters, Evelyn and Dottie.

The receiving line, consisting of the officers of the society, welcomed the guests in the living room. Among these were Miss Peggy Pierce, president; Mrs. S. W. McLeom, senior president; Miss Jane Williams, state president; Miss Gay Demmary, vice president; Miss Ann Ridley, chaplain; Miss Patty Prophit, secretary; Miss Lynda Ellis, treasurer; Miss Sally Moore, registrar; Miss Alice Guyton, historian; and Miss Louise Gray, parliamentarian.

An air of festivity greeted the guests as they entered the dining room where they were met by the tea girls, Mary Coon, Dettie Dawson, Donna Guyton, Gail John, Suzonne Kellogg, Jane Moore, Patty Prophit, Nancy Snelling, Noel Sandy, Joellyn Thompson, Joyce Turpin, Lucy Turpin, Anna Williams, Sandra Wilder, Louise Morgan of Ruston and Myrtis Wyly of Tallulah. The table was beautifully appointed with cutwork linen cloth and an arrangement of pink chrysanthemums which blended well with the delicate decor of the room. Miss Frances Flanders and Mrs. C. S. Foster served from the silver punch bowl, an heirloom of the Turpin family.

Much charm was added to the occasion by the little colonial girls, Martha Guyton, Mary Louise Guyton, Gay Hargrove, Kay Jones, Cynthia Leigh, Paula Meek, Ann Murphy and Ann Armstrong, who curtsied to the guests as they arrived.

Soft organ music was played by Sandy Lawn during the afternoon.

Mrs. James Drew Hostess To Fort Miro D. A. R.

Mrs. James S. Drew was hostess to Fort Miro Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, on Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Duncan S. Cook, Regent, called the meeting to order and the assemblage was led in opening ritual by the regent and Mrs. C. E. Slade, chaplain. The Pledge of Allegiance to the flag was led by Mrs. H. M. Butler.

Miss Frances Flanders introduced the guest speaker, Mr. James Mathai, professor of geology at Northeast Louisiana State College, who gave an interesting and informative talk on the subject "The Heritage of Our Land—Our Natural Resources." Following the reading and adoption of minutes of the previous meeting, reports of various committees were heard; Mrs. W. H. McGee, delegate from Fort Miro to the 66th Continental Congress, held in Washington, D. C., gave a detailed report of the proceedings. The treasurer's report was presented by Mrs. Leia Loe Herndon. Mrs. Barlow Inabnet spoke on National Defense; Mrs. S. H. Alexander discussed plans for radio and television broadcasts.

Minutes of the executive board were read and recommendations adopted.

Mrs. Shelby Meek discussed the meeting of District Three which is to be held in Jonesboro and urged a large attendance. On behalf of the chapter, Mrs. Wharton Brown presented the Past Regent's Pin to Mrs. Aylmer Montgomery for her outstanding work as Regent of Fort Miro.

Hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. Austin Miller, chairman, Mrs. C. E. Faulk, Mrs. E. G. Calvert, Mrs. Robert L. Carson, Mrs. Lee F. Terzia, Sr., Mrs. Stanley Wyatt, Mrs. C. E. Slade, Mrs. Ray Junod, Mrs. Shelby Hill, Mrs. J. N. Harvey, Mrs. H. R. Speed, Mrs. Elmer Slagle, Mrs. J. H. Trousdale, Sr. and Mrs. Bradley Walder.

Other members in attendance were Miss Frances Flanders, Mrs. Leia Loe Herndon, Miss Annie L. Butler, Miss Carrie Dee Drew, Mrs. George C. Guier, Miss Harriett Boyle, Miss Edith Gunby, Mrs. J. B. Carlton, Mrs. O. C. Roddy, Mrs. Shelby Meek, Mrs. Aylmer Montgomery, Mrs. W. B. Inabnet, Mrs. Roland Brown, Mrs. John Filhiol, Sr., Mrs. Floyd Taylor, Mrs. Helen M. Mitchell, Mrs. W. A. Whitfield, Jr., Mrs. W. C. Oliver, Mrs. F. J. Cox, Mrs. W. H. McGee, Mrs. John R. Humble, Mrs. Wharton Brown.

And Mrs. C. E. Slade, Sr., Mrs. W. B. Matthews, Miss Eleona Brinsmade, Mrs. E. J. Brown, Misss Ina Merle Thomas, Mrs. Wesley Shafto, Mrs. Milling Bernstein, Mrs. Adelia Baylor, Mrs. W. L. Husted, Sr., Miss Mary Buckner, Mrs. H. M. Butler, Mrs. D. L. Agnew, Mrs. Fred Amman, Mrs. W. L. Alexander, Mrs. Briscoe Trousdale, Jr., Mrs. David Garrett, Mrs. Thomas Leigh, Mrs. O. R. Lewis, Mrs. O. M. Grisham, Mrs. Ernest Richard.

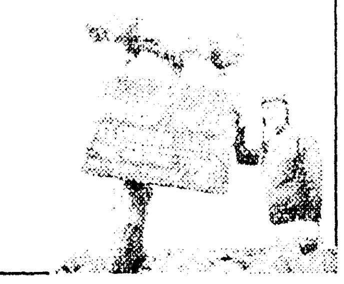
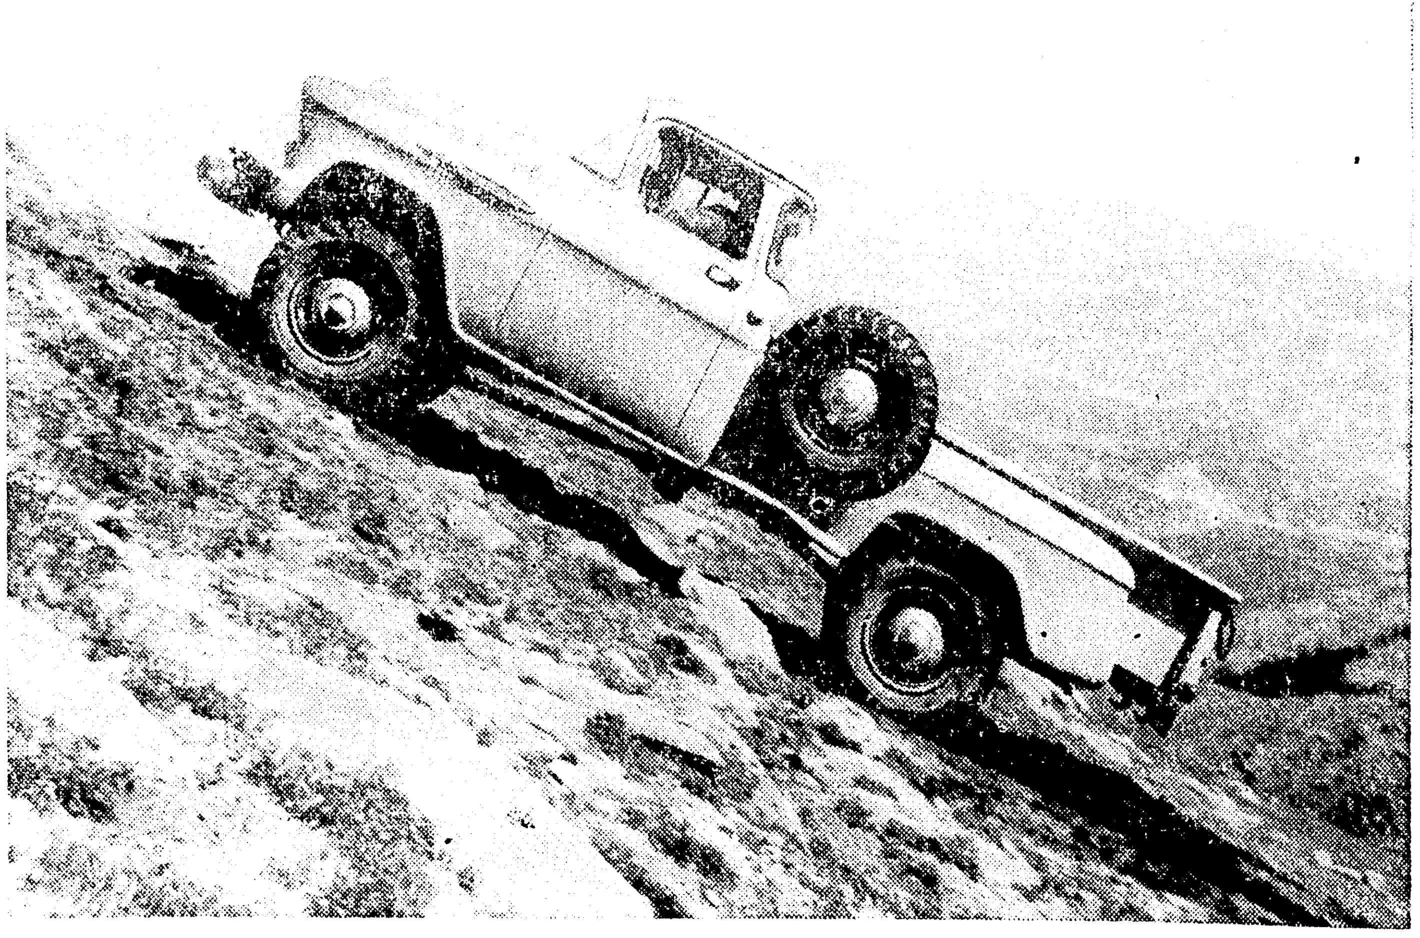
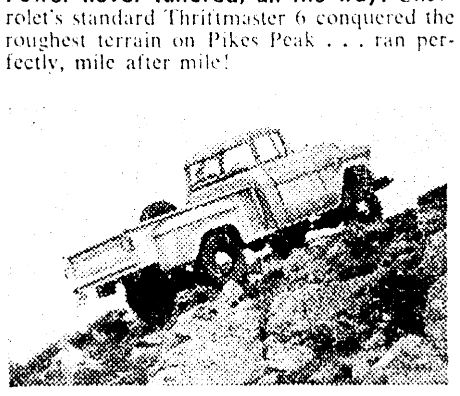
It climbed a mountain the hard way, off the road!

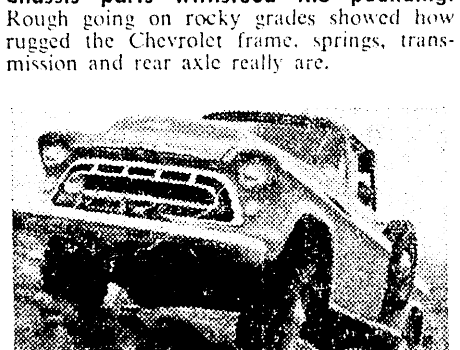




Power never faltered, all the way. Chevrolet's standard Thriftmaster 6 conquered the roughest terrain on Pikes Peak . . . ran perfectly, mile after mile!



Chassis parts withstood the pounding. Rough going on rocky grades showed how rugged the Chevrolet frame, springs, transmission and rear axle really are.



Body remained aligned, despite twisting. Sheet metal stayed tight and solid. That's evidence that the Chevy body will last through years of hard service.

PIKES PEAK CLIMB SHOWS WHY YOUR CHEVY WILL KEEP ON GOING...KEEP ON SAVING!

It takes a totally rugged truck to climb Pikes Peak to the top without using the road. Yet that's what a Chevrolet pickup did . . . kept on going up towering grades and through the thin air of altitudes up to 14,110 feet!

Starting low on the mountain, a production Chevrolet pickup with 4-wheel drive bulled its way upward through evergreen forests, over logs and stumps, to high, rocky terrain above timberline. In the thin air of cloud-high altitudes, the truck rolled and pitched over huge boulder piles, up breathtaking grades.

Every truck part took the worst the mountain had to offer. The standard Chevrolet Thriftmaster 6 gave flawless performance despite thin air. The chassis withstood miles of jarring impacts. This pickup actually achieved the top of Pikes Peak without using the road. See your Chevrolet dealer for a truck with the same brand of stamina!

MISS POLLY GIBSON'S betrothal to Donald Allen Hamilton, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hamilton, of Shreveport, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Wana Gibson, of Harrisonburg. The wedding is to be an event of Saturday, October 12, at 6 o'clock in the evening at the Harrisonburg Baptist Church.

MRS. MARGUERITE MEEK, president of the Business and Professional Women's Club, seated second from left, discusses plans for the National B & PW Week which opens today with a breakfast at Holiday Inn. With her left to right, are Mrs. Sara Kennon, first vice-president, Mrs. Glady Miles, chairman of the morning breakfast and Mrs. Bessie Skinner general chairman of Business Women's Week.

Week's Activities Listed For National BPW Week

The National Federation annually sponsors "National Business Women's Week" to spotlight all women who work. First "National Business Women's Week" in 1928 when there were 10 million women who worked. Today there are approximately 22 million.

Theme of 1957 Business Women's Week — "Salute To Women Who Work."

The National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, founded in 1919, is the oldest and largest national organization for women who work. There are 3300 BPW clubs in the 48 states, Alaska, Hawaii and the District of Columbia. Membership totals more than 170,000. The Federation is the only organization for women which includes all professions and occupations. National headquarters are in Washington, D. C.

The Federation is dedicated to promoting the interests of business and professional women. The Legislative Platform pledges members to work for: Equal Rights Amendment to the United States Constitution; Jury Service for women; Equal Pay for comparable work; Uniform retirement age under the Social Security Act; increase in the amount of earned income permitted to a person receiving Social Security benefits; removal of and prevention of discrimination on the basis of age, sex or marital status in both government and industry with special emphasis on civil service career, and appointive positions in local, state and national government, and women in the armed services.

Initial event in observance of Business Women's Week is a breakfast today at Holiday Inn, with members attending services at Jackson Street Church of Christ. Scheduled in recognition also are — Book Review at Ruston High school on Monday evening; Banquet at Bayou DeSiard Country Club, Tuesday night; Southern Bell Tel. and Tel. Tour for Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. and Induction of New Members at home of Charter member, Mrs. Laura Slator on Friday evening as the final event.

Attic Trunks May Yield High Fashion

By VIVIAN BROWN

FEEL OUT of the fashion picture at school, with middy blouses and raccon coats taking over the campus?

Don't let it throw you. Just get permission from Ma, Grandma or Aunt Tillie to dig through the attic and cellar trunks. Be sure you have a search warrant because after the owners see some of the buried treasures they may want 'em back.

Everything from old - fashioned daguerrotypes set in plush frames to shawls that once graced a piano have been carted to dormitories by young moderns.

You'll find the modern middy blouse is not cut too differently from the one Mom wore in her heyday. Sweaters are of that cut too, worn over pleated skirts. There are bold blanket plaid skirts that look right - from - the —stable in blue, black and green combinations, enormous bulky-knit sweaters — cardigans and pull-overs. Shetland sweaters in crewneck pull-overs are popular too, worn with pleated skirts.

New glamor - gams resemble leotards. There are bright colored or striped stockings that cover the entire leg, with feet in them to boot. These are worn with shorts, knee-high socks are still around, though. Tweedy colors are popular in skirts.

Blue jeans have hit the dust. (Smart school girls will pack them away for their daughters to wear 20 years hence.) The daytime look is definitely a baggy picture, but the evening is all dress-up.

Younger teens and short girls still adore the dress with the fitted waistline and full skirt. Dress up shoes are of Italian inspiration with pointed toe and heel although ballet - type shoes are still worn, particularly popular with tall girls.

Everyone is mad for costume jewelry, it seems, and the bigger, the better. Heraldic medals are worn on long chains around the neck. Ditto the Maltese cross in bright - colored enamel. Earrings are fun and take a top - drawer place in the school trunk.

Fashions go right into the bedroom with the craziest pajamas imaginable. Middy - blouse pajamas are chic, and big red baby baby sleepers (like junior wears) are all the rage.

Hair is worn either short or in a pony-tail. Girls who've been wearing it short seem to have switched to the pony-tail, and vice versa. But there are no long, stringy hairdos. You can't tell a permanent wave from a natural curl, these days. There are no more kinky tell - tale strands that give the hair corkscrew curls.

Wall To Wall Room Size? Is Rug Query

Every homemaker buying new carpeting faces the question. "Shall it be wall-to-wall carpet or room-sized rug?"

Each type has its advantages and there is a right size as well a sthe right color and design for a setting.

"Wall-to-wall when the room is small," is a good axiom, as an unbroken floor line enlarges the area visually and also helps to tie several rooms together. Full floor coverage is luxurious and provides the maximum in carpet's warmth and quieting effects.

Sometimes more flexibility in furnishings is required. Newlyweds and others with only semi-permanence in an apartment or house want to be able to move move easily. What can they buy that will serve immediate needs and continue to have a future in a new home?

A room - sized rug is the answer. It is easily transported and adapted to new locations and it costs a little less to begin with than the equivalent in wall-to-wall carpet.

Some of the multi - color tweeds or gentle abstract patterns are a wise choice when new homemakers are still forming decorating plans. These designs seem to go with everyting, lend themselves to changes in color schemes and look as right in a new bedroom or guest room as in the original living room.

Rugs can be turned around to equalize wear. They can be cut and bound to fit new spaces — such as an upstairs hallway, or the stairs themselves, or a dining alcove.

A rug can be of any size that fits the room in best proportions. It is economical to choose standard widths of nine, twelve, fifteen or even eighteen feet, but these dimensions can be trimmed to size, if required, and there are no limits on length. Any broadloom carpet can be bought as a rug.

Even in permanent homes, room size rugs may be preferred. A border of lovely wood around a rug has traditional charm. Some of the new rugs of distinctive pattern have decorative borders of their own, and center motifs.

Whether the choice is carpet or rugs, fall collections provide variety in color and design to suit any taste or budget.

Week's Activities Listed For National BPW Week

The National Federation annually sponsors "National Business Women's Week" to spotlight all women who work. First "National Business Women's Week" in 1928 when there were 10 million women who worked. Today there are approximately 22 million.

Theme of 1957 Business Women's Week — "Salute To Women Who Work."

The National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, founded in 1919, is the oldest and largest national organization for women who work. There are 3300 BPW clubs in the 48 states, Alaska, Hawaii and the District of Columbia. Membership totals more than 170,000. The Federation is the only organization for women which includes all professions and occupations. National headquarters are in Washington, D. C.

The Federation is dedicated to promoting the interests of business and professional women. The Legislative Platform pledges members to work for: Equal Rights Amendment to the United States Constitution; Jury Service for women; Equal Pay for comparable work; Uniform retirement age under the Social Security Act; increase in the amount of earned income permitted to a person receiving Social Security benefits; removal of and prevention of discrimination on the basis of age, sex or marital status in both government and industry with special emphasis on civil service career, and appointive positions in local, state and national government, and women in the armed services.

Initial event in observance of Business Women's Week is a breakfast today at Holiday Inn, with members attending services at Jackson Street Church of Christ. Scheduled in recognition also are — Book Review at Ruston High school on Monday evening; Banquet at Bayou DeSiard Country Club, Tuesday night; Southern Bell Tel. and Tel. Tour for Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. and Induction of New Members at home of Charter member, Mrs. Laura Slator on Friday evening as the final event.

Wall To Wall Room Size? Is Rug Query

Every homemaker buying new carpeting faces the question, "Shall it be wall-to-wall carpet or room-sized rug?"

Each type has its advantages and there is a right size as well a sthe right color and design for a setting.

"Wall-to-wall when the room is small," is a good axiom, as an unbrcken floor line enlarges the area visually and also helps to tie several rooms together. Full floor coverage is luxurious and provides the maximum in carpet's warmth and quieting effects.

Attic Trunks May Yield High Fashion

By VIVIAN BROWN

FEEL OUT of the fashion picture at school, with middy blouses and raccon coats taking over the campus?

Don't let it throw you. Just get permission from Ma, Grandma or Aunt Tillie to dig through the attic and cellar trunks. Be sure you have a search warrant because after the owners see some of the buried treasures they may want 'em back.

Everything from old - fashioned daguerrotypes set in plush frames to shawls that once graced a piano have been carted to dormitories by young moderns.

You'll find the modern middy blouse is not cut too differently from the one Mom wore in her heyday. Sweaters are of that cut too, worn over pleated skirts. There are bold blanket plaid skirts that look right - from - the —stable in blue, black and green combinations, enormous bulky-knit sweaters — cardigans and pull-overs. Shetland sweaters in crewneck pull-overs are popular too, worn with pleated skirts.

New glamor - gams resemble leotards. There are bright colored or striped stockings that cover the entire leg, with feet in them to boot. These are worn with shorts. knee-high socks are still around, though. Tweedy colors are popular in skirts.

Blue jeans have hit the dust. (Smart school girls will pack them away for their daughters to wear 20 years hence.) The daytime look is definitely a baggy picture, but the evening is all dress-up.

Younger teens and short girls still adore the dress with the fitted waistline and full skirt. Dress up shoes are of Italian inspiration with pointed toe and heel although ballet - type shoes are still worn, particularly popular with tall girls.

Everyone is mad for costume jewelry, it seems, and the bigger, the better. Heraldic medals are worn on long chains around the neck. Ditto the Maltese cross in bright - colored enamel. Earrings are fun and take a top - drawer place in the school trunk.

Fashions go right into the bedroom with the craziest pajamas imaginable. Middy - blouse pajamas are chic, and big red baby baby sleepers (like junior wears) are all the rage.

Hair is worn either short or in a pony-tail. Girls who've been wearing it short seem to have switched to the pony-tail, and vice versa. But there are no long, stringy hairdos. You can't tell a permanent wave from a natural curl, these days. There are no more kinky tell - tale strands that give the hair corkscrew curls.

TIPS ABOUT GARDENING

THE HOME SHIFT

Get The Caladiums Up Before The Season's Frost Gets Them

By Mildred Swift

Have you been hearing about "Green Plasma?" Promoters of the product have described it as sensational color-restorer for lawns. They claim that by sprinkling a small amount of the product on your lawn, presto — the grass is green and stays that way until that crop grows off. A release from the Federal Extension Service of U. S. Department of Agriculture says its scientists have not tested this "Green Plasma," and of course we'll stand by on our recommendations until we hear from them or our own L. S. U. Extension. Hope that answers your questions.

MR. STUART ORTLOFF ADVISES

Yes, this Monroe Garden Club lecturer advised us that we placed too much emphasis on horticulture, flower arrangement and conservation and not enough on landscape design. Many have become plant collectors and our gardens are horticultural zoos. He says, "you cannot create a pleasing composition in your garden by the "onezy," "twozy," method of planting."

The lecturer continued by saying that we can't select a plant because it is pretty but because it carries out your design and strengthens that design. A garden is not a place to grow flowers. In most gardens there is too much color. Form and foliage are much more important. Flowers disappear, but form is there through all seasons.

Mr. Ortloff told us to use the same principles in designing our gardens that we use in flower arrangement. Create a pattern; create a focal point or center of interest. One interesting example of this could be a paved, elevated (or lowered) place at the end of a line, in front of the enclosure plants or wall. Seats placed here help give a center of interest.

He added that plants can be too overpowering, such as too many camellias. "We've gone very far afield with foundation planting," he says. "Use accent plants to soften lines but not lined up like soldiers. The only excuse for foundation planting was to hide the space between the house and the ground. Now, with houses built low, there is no such space; yet we cling to the same plant-making a petticoat of shrubs around the house. There's no longer a need for this."

The speaker pointed out that the line of the plant is important, such as upright or sweeping. The texture is important, such as coarse, fine or medium foliage. Color of foliage is important, yellow, gray or blue greens.

GARDEN JOBS

Listen for the weatherman's frost warning. Get the caladiums up before the frost gets them. Dig carefully so as not to cut the bulbs. Let the tops dry and store in a cool dry place where they will not freeze. Vermiculite is excellent for storing these, or dry sand. Be sure the sand is dry. These plants just will not carry over in the ground.

Since last week, I've found several other gardeners who have the Empress Candle tree in their garden. Also, I've found some of the nurseries carry these plants in buckets. Too late to plant now, but it's good to know that next Spring. This tree will not carry over from year to year, even though you bank it. Also, the seed just do not mature during the fall season. Just like bananas do not have long enough summer to mature, these seed do not have enough warm weather for them to finish their cycle. So —no need to save the seed. That's what the authorities say. The coarse foliage of the plant is a nice contrast to most of our smaller leaf shrubs and trees. The long yellow spikes are lovely and the tree grows much like the mimosa.

FOOD IN THE NEWS

Collards, the long familiar leafy green vegetable of the South, deserves more appreciation. They rate high for vitamin A and C, as well as calcium and iron. By including enough greens, you can help build up your store of vitamin A. Vitamin C needs to be supplied in daily meals because it is not stored in the body.

To save the food value in these greens, cook in a small quantity of water, just until tender. Cover when they come to a boil. Lift the cover several times during cooking to let out some of the strong odor. You'll find fresh collards in your local market.

More and more broilers, fryers and stewing hens this Fall. Try this new-old receipe for chicken spaghetti to use some of this plentiful poultry:

Chicken Spaghetti

- 2 fryers or 1 large hen
- 4 onions
- 3 stalks of celery
- 2 cloves garlic
- 3 bell peppers
- ½ teaspoon chili pepper
- ¼ teaspoon red pepper
- ¼ teaspoon cayenne pepper
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice
- ½ teaspoon black pepper
- 3 bay leaves
- 2 cans tomato paste (Italian)
- 1 large can tomatoes
- 1 teaspoon tabasco sauce
- Dash of sage and ginger
- 1 teaspoon Paprika
- 1 pound pkg. spaghetti
- ½ pint salad oil
- Salt to taste
- ½ bottle Worcestershire Sauce

Cut up the chicken for frying—flour and brown quickly in Wesson oil (Not necessary to cook the chicken done; just brown it.) Take the chicken out of the oil and pour all the fat out of the skillet except 4 tablespoons. Cut up the onion, celery, garlic, bell pepper and brown it in the oil slowly—Add all ingredients including the chicken and steam in Dutch oven very slowly about 4 hours or until chicken falls from the bone. Cook the spaghetti until done, wash it, heat it. Serve the plates with spaghetti — put sauce over the spaghetti. Mushrooms can be added if pocketbook can afford it. Sprinkle Italian cheese on plate if desired.

This spaghetti sauce can be frozen for as long as six or eight months.

CLEANING YOUR STEAM IRON

Manufacturers of steam irons usually recommend that you use distilled water in order to keep down an accumulation of mineral deposit in the water chamber of the iron. Sometimes well water or water from the faucet will leave a lime deposit in the water tank and steam vents of your iron. You can keep your steam iron working efficiently by cleaning off the accumulation of lime. To do the cleaning job use distilled vinegar. Here's how. At night, pour in an amount of distilled vinegar —the clear, colorless vinegar — into the iron water chamber. Heat up the iron and steam it with the vinegar for 15 minutes. Unplug your steam iron and leave the vinegar in the tank overnight. Next morning, pour out the vinegar and thoroughly rinse out the tank of your iron with clear water. Cleaning out the lime deposit from the water tank of your steam iron when it needs it will give you quicker, finer ironing.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Your "Open House Programs" for next week are as follows: Monday, Manetta Harrel will make a dress form; Tuesday, Bonnie Gaddis will show us the new sewing equipment and how to use it. Wednesday flower arrangement and gardening; Thursday, TBA; Friday, Marketing and Food Preparation. See you next Sunday!

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

John Wright Delights Garden Center Visitors

By Mary M. Jardine

Visitors to the Garden Center were delighted with the colorful and interesting designs created by John A. Wright of Louisiana Tech in his first one-man show of the fall season.

The everyday materials found in our gardens at this season were combined in an unusual and effective manner. The emphasis was on color and texture.

For his first design Mr. Wright selected a brown pottery compote. A single stalk of red castor bean established the vertical pattern. Ginger lily foliage added strength to the line with bright red castor-beans in front of the green foliage. A graduated line of red spider lilies followed the established line. Bronzy red foliage of the acalypha (chenille plant) was placed low in the arrangement over the rim of the container.

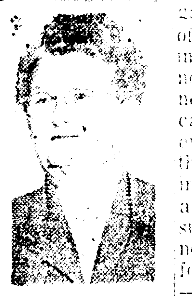
Fall Bounty might well be the title of the next design. A brass bowl on a low pdestal held the mass design. Velvety, dark red plume type celosia formed the background placements followed by small graduating to larger heads of the crested type celosia. Aspidistra foliage was skillfully placed to add depth to the design. Bronzy acalypha foliage was massed low in the design with a red and yellow pomegranate as the center of interest. Yellow crook-neck squash and yellow green cucumber were placed along the rim of the container. The blending of colors was most subtle and pleasing to behold.

A related color harmony shading from green-yellow into greens and featuring interesting foliage and marigolds, the next design was staged against a chartreuse background. The primary line placements, triangular in pattern were of yellow-green variegated privet. Strengthening the line were placements of variegated pittesporum (green with creamy tips). Glossy, gold-flecked aucuba foliage was placed on the left with green yellow marigolds massed in the center. The neutral tone free-form container was lined with chartreuse. Individuality was expressed in this unusual combination of materials. The aucuba plant is also called gold-dust.

A modified Hogarth curve was the feature of another design. A modern black compote was selected for this arrangement. Staging background was rose pink. The Hogarth line of beauty (lazy S curve) was achieved with the graceful, natural curves of spikes of plume celosia in a magenta red color. The line was continued with small crested celosia in a deeper shade. The lower placements of celosia were larger in size and the self-foliage was attached. The pointed leaves having a deep magenta rib down the center. Acalypha foliage was effectively placed within the curve adding depth and interest to the design. The design had great emotional appeal.

Fall is really here. Have you noticed in driving about the lovely bronzy tone the cypress trees are taking on, and the gradual change from green into brown on the pine cones. The dogwoods are lovely now with their red foliage. Each shower of rain brings down a shower of leaves from our trees, which reminds me if you have any space at all in your back garden be sure and start a compost heap. We'll talk more about it later, but now let me again remind you of Flower Show School II, next week, September 25, 26, and 27 at the United Gas Building. Registration begins at 8:00-9:00 a. m. on September 25. Horticulture lecture by Mr. C. G. Hobgood, La. Tech 9:00 a. m. to 1 p. m. Flower show practice, Mrs. M. B. Latham, Jackson, Miss. 2:00-4:00 p. m. Thurs. Sept. 26 flower arranging, design, color demonstration judging and little flower show, 9:00 a. m. to 3 p. m. Prorata charges will be made for anyone who desires to audit only a portion of the course.

EXTENSION NEWS



Taking Stock Of Our Job Is A Good Idea

By Euna Spielman

Each of us at sometime must take stock of our job, therefore a committee of agents have been selected to assist with work by L. S. U. Extension Service. Mrs. Audrey Dawson will work with the committee on job analysis for agents doing 4-H work and I will work with committee on job analysis of home demonstration agents. We will go to L. S. U. this afternoon (Sunday) and return Tuesday afternoon or Wednesday morning.

Ouachita Valley Fair

The dates of the Ouachita Valley Fair are October 7-12. All entries will be made Monday, October 7th. If you have not obtained a premium list, you may get one at the Agricultural Building in West Monroe or from the Home Demonstration Club president in your community. A fair is put on for the people, of the people and by the people. It can only be a good fair through your participation. Be sure you bring an exhibit to help make it. The Home Demonstration Club women are working diligently to make 1957 fair the best ever — help them.

The Homemaker's Test

The test of a good homemaker, as declared by many nutritionists is her ability to prepare and serve an attractive, appetizing, well-prepared breakfeast, eaten without haste by each member of the family. Time was when the entire family had breakfast together just as they did at dinner. Breakfast has become a seriously neglected meal in most homes. (Not all, for I recently visited in a home where, when the entire family was seated, and thanks given, the father served each plate and the family talked together as they leisurely ate — Wonderful!)

Surveys show that two out of nine children leave for school with nothing to eat in the morning; and four out of ten workers leave for work with no breakfast. A good breakfast is not just a pleasant way to start the day — it is the best way to get each member of the family started off on the right foot for the day. It makes working and thinking during the morning much easier by preventing that "all gone" feeling which goes with an empty stomach. Most of us agree that an appetizing, nutritious breakfast is a good thing — the trouble is many of us don't have one.

Reasons given for neglecting breakfast as given in the survey were: "Too sleepy; its hard to get started; we wake up too late; and who wants to get out of bed anyway?"

Tackling Breakfast

You must first decide you want to do something about developing a pleasant breakfast habit. Here are a few suggestions you may use to accomplish your goal: break the preparation into two parts. The night before there may be several things that can be done, as setting the table; to prevent that too sleepy feeling and go to bed earlier. Yes, it may be you will have to give up one television program to get the good breakfast habit established in your family. When morning comes everybody (not just the homemaker) might get up a little earlier and happier. Then share the jobs with other members of the family. After this breakfast, you (even father) might scrape out his dishes and put them to soak making mother's task of washing them much easier. The good brekafast habit brings even longer range benefits; a happier, healthier, more vigorous people.

This Is Honey Month

They say every dog has his day but honey has a month. Since it is a multi-purpose food, it deserves a month recognition. Facts are: Honey is a great energy food. Honey is a natural, unrefined food. Honey has two chief sugars, levulose and destrose. It has been clinically demonstrated that absorption takes place quickly. In addition to its contents of sugar, honey contains many of the minerals which are known to be necessary for the growth and health of the human body. The minerals in honey are iron, copper, sodium, potassium, manganese, calcium, magnesium, and phosphorous. Most of the important constituents of the vitamin B complex are found in honey and also some vitamin C. There are hormones and some amino acids. Recent research shows that honey contains some biotin and folic acid. Honey is a pleasant source of readily needed energy for growing children. Bacteria which cause diseases in human beings cannot grow in honey. Hence, it is considered a safe and wholesome food. Be sure to use some Louisiana honey this month in feeding the family.

HOME GROWN TROPICAL DELICACY—It's by no means the largest ever seen here, but this pineapple is fragrantly distinctive in that so far as can be determined, it is probably the first one every grown in Ouachita Parish. Potted pineapple plants have long been popular household decorations, but many persons had considered it impossible to induce one to produce fruit. However, Mrs. W. E. Driskill of 101 Conrad Street in West Monroe, has done the "impossible". Two years ago, she bought a fresh pineapple at the grocery store, cut off the cap, and set it in a flower pot of dirt taken from the yard. Much to her surprise, it bloomed late this Spring, and this miniature pineapple was the result. She believes that use of selected soil and plant food would have produced a normal size fruit. 'Male Animal' Readings Set At Northeast

Readings for roles in "The Male Animal," first major production scheduled this season by Northeast State's drama section are set for Wednesday and Thursday at 3:15 p.m. in Brown Auditorium on the campus.

The performance has parts for eight men and five women.

Rehearsals will begin Friday at a time to be announced by George C. Brian, assistant professor of speech and director of the play.

The production will have a two-night run on October 30 and 31 in Brown Auditorium.

The rollicking comedy, written by author and cartoonist James Thurber and writer Elliott Nugent, has been successfully revived on the Broadway stage. It was a popular movie and a stage production presented a few seasons ago by the Monroe Little Theatre.

Tulane University last year gave a performance of "The Male Animal."

The play is a fast moving comedy dealing with life on a college campus. The plot revolves around a college professor, his wife, and his wife's former sweetheart.

"The Male Animal" promises to be both timely and entertaining, Brian said.

YMCA Board Breakfast Meeting Set

A breakfast meeting at the Saddle and Spur is planned by the board of directors of the Young Men's Christian Association for tomorrow at 7:30 a. m.

John O. Clay, president of the Twin Cities YMCA, said that the agenda will include a report on the 1957 Blue Ridge Hi "Y"-Tri Hi "Y" leaders training congress. This will be presented by Bess Sharp, YWCA executive secretary; Herschel Abbott, and George Forman.

Jack R. Taylor, treasurer, will give the monthly financial statement, along with a report on the YMCA agreement with the United Givers Fund for 1958. The YMCA is a member of United Givers.

Introduction

Bob McKee, new associate YMCA youth secretary, will be introduced to the group by Branton H. Kellogg, chairman of the personnel committee, and Vernon McCoy will report on the 1957 YMCA-YWCA Day Camp. McCoy, is chairman of the YMCA camping committee.

Plans for the youth program this fall will be outlined by Bill Robinson, YMCA youth secretary. Charles A. Wood Jr., general sec- fall adult program.

Clay, who is also chairman of the YMCA building fund campaign execution committee, will give a progress report on plans for the 1958 YMCA building fund drive.

Annual Church Bazaar Arranged

Three Catholic parishes, St. Matthews, Our Lady of Fatima and St. Joseph, will hold their annual church bazaar Wednesday and Thursday, Nov. 6 and 7.

St. Matthews, the Mother parish of Our Lady of Fatima and St. Joseph, started the tradition here about 35 years ago, and since then it has become an annual project and festival time.

Profits from the bazaar are divided equally among the three for church improvements.

St. Matthews gynasium at 311 Grammont Street will again be the site for the affair, with food, handwork, games and surprise packages all contributing to the occasion.

Msgr. Marsh, Father Martinez and Father Hannon extend an invitation to the public to attend.

Sloped ceiling and dormers, often a decorating problem, can be pleasantly disguised by using the same wallpaper pattern on walls and ceilings. The pattern used should be a scattered, stylized flower, dot or check with no particular direction to it.

TIPS ABOUT GARDENING

THE HOME SHIFT

Get The Caladiums Up Before The Season's Frost Gets Them

By Mildred Swift

Have you been hearing about "Green Plasma?" Promoters of the product have described it as sensational color - restorer for lawns. They claim that by sprinkling a small amount of the product on your lawn, presto — the grass is green and stays that way until that crop grows off. A release from the Federal Extension Service of U. S. Department of Agriculture says its scientists have not tested this "Green Plasma," and of course we'll stand by on our recommendations until we hear from them or our own L. S. U. Extension. Hope that answers your questions.

MR. STUART ORTLOFF ADVISES

Yes, this Monroe Garden Club lecturer advised us that we placed too much emphasis on horticulture, flower arrangement and conservation and not enough on landscape design. Many have become plant collectors and our gardens are horticultural zoos. He says, "you cannot create a pleasing composition in your garden by the "onezy," "twozy," method of planting."

The lecturer continued by saying that we can't select a plant because it is pretty but because it carries out your design and strengthens that design. A garden is not a place to grow flowers. In most gardens there is too much color. Form and foliage are much more important. Flowers disappear, but form is there through all seasons.

Mr. Ortloff told us to use the same principles in designing our gardens that we use in flower arrangement. Create a pattern; create a focal point or center of interest. One interesting example of this could be a paved, elevated (or lowered) place at the end of a line, in front of the enclosure plants or wall. Seats placed here help give a center of interest.

He added that plants can be too overpowering, such as too many camellias. "We've gone very far afield with foundation planting," he says. "Use accent plants to soften lines but not lined up like soldiers. The only excuse for foundation planting was to hide the space between the house and the ground. Now, with houses built low, there is no such space; yet we cling to the same plants making a petticoat of shrubs around the house. There's no longer a need for this."

The speaker pointed out that the line of the plant is important, such as upright or sweeping. The texture is important, such as coarse, fine or medium foliage. Color of foliage is important, yellow, gray or blue greens.

GARDEN JOBS

Listen for the weatherman's frost warning. Get the caladiums up before the frost gets them. Dig carefully so as not to cut the bulbs. Let the tops dry and store in a cool dry place where they will not freeze. Vermiculite is excellent for storing these, or dry sand. Be sure the sand is dry. These plants just will not carry over in the ground.

Since last week, I've found several other gardeners who have the Empress Candie tree in their garden. Also, I've found some of the nurseries carry these plants in buckets. Too late to plant now, but it's good to know that next Spring. This tree will not carry over from year to year, even though you bank it. Also, the seed just do not mature during the fall season. Just like bananas do not have long enough summer to mature, these seed do not have enough warm weather for them to finish their cycle. So —no need to save the seed. That's what the authorities say. The coarse foliage of the plant is a nice contrast to most of our smaller leaf shrubs and trees. The long yellow spikes are lovely and the tree grows much like the mimosa.

FOOD IN THE NEWS

Collards, the long familiar leafy green vegetable of the South, deserves more appreciation. They rate high for vitamin A and C, as well as calcium and iron. By including enough greens, you can help build up your store of vitamin A. Vitamin C needs to be supplied in daily meals because it is not stored in the body.

To save the food value in these greens, cook in a small quantity of water, just until tender. Cover when they come to a boil. Lift the cover several times during cooking to let out some of the strong odor. You'll find fresh collards in your local market.

More and more broilers, fryers and stewing hens this Fall. Try this new-old receipe for chicken spaghetti to use some of this plentiful poultry:

Chicken Spaghetti

2 fryers or 1 large hen
4 onions
3 stalks of celery
2 c.oves garlic
3 bell peppers
½ teaspoon chili pepper
¼ teaspoon red pepper
¼ teaspoon cayenne pepper
1 teaspoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon black pepper
3 bay leaves
2 cans tomato paste (Italian)
1 large can tomatoes
1 teaspoon tabasco sauce
Dash of sage and ginger
1 teaspoon Paprika
1 pound pkg. spaghetti
1 pint salad oil
Salt to taste
½ bottle Worcehester Sauce

Cut up the chicken for frying—flour and brown quickly in Wesson oil (Not necessary to cook the chicken done; just brown it.) Take the chicken out of the oil and pour all the fat out of the skillet except 4 tablespoons. Cut up the onion, celery, garlic, bell pepper and brown it in the oil slowly—Add all ingredients including the chicken and steam in Dutch oven very slowly about 4 hours or until chicken falls from the bone. Cook the spaghetti until done, wash it, heat it. Serve the plates with spaghetti — put sauce over the spaghetti. Mushrooms can be added if pocketbook can afford it. Sprinkle Italian cheese on plate if desired.

This spaghetti sauce can be frozen for as long as six or eight months.

CLEANING YOUR STEAM IRON

Manufacturers of steam irons usually recommend that you use distilled water in order to keep down an accumulation of mineral deposit in the water chamber of the iron. Sometimes well water or water from the faucet will leave a lime deposit in the water tank and steam vents of your iron. You can keep your steam iron working efficiently by cleaning off the accumulation of lime. To do the cleaning job use distilled vinegar. Here's how. At night, pour in an amount of distilled vinegar —the clear, colorless vinegar — into the iron water chamber. Heat up the iron and steam it with the vinegar for 15 minutes. Unplug your steam iron and leave the vinegar in the tank overnight. Next morning, pour out the vinegar and thoroughly rinse out the tank of your iron with clear water. Cleaning out the lime deposit from the water tank of your steam iron when it needs it will give you quicker, finer ironing.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

John Wright Delights Garden Center Visitors

By Mary M. Jardine

Visitors to the Garden Center were delighted with the colorful and interesting designs created by John A. Wright of Louisiana Tech in his first one - man show of the fall season.

The everyday materials found in our gardens at this season were combined in an unusual and effective manner. The emphasis was on color and texture.

For his first design Mr. Wright selected a brown pottery compote. A single stalk of red castor bean established the vertical pattern. Ginger lily foliage added strength to the line with bright red castorbeans in front of the green foliage. A graduated line of red spider lilies followed the established line. Bronzy red foliage of the acalypha (chenille plant) was placed low in the arrangement over the rim of the container.

Fall Bounty might well be the title of the next design. A brass bowl on a low pdestal held the mass design. Velvety, dark red plume type celosia formed the background placements followed by small graduating to larger heads of the crested type celosia. Aspidistra foliage was skillfully placed to add depth to the design. Bronzy acalypha foliage was massed low in the design with a red and yellow pomegranate as the center of interest. Yellow crook - neck squash and yellow green cucumber were placed along the rim of the container. The blending of colors was most subtle and pleasing to behold.

A related color harmony shading from green - yellow into greens and featuring interesting foliage and marigolds, the next design was staged against a chartreuse background. The primary line placements, triangular in pattern were of yellow - green variegated privet. Strengthening the line were placements of variegated pittosporum (green with creamy tips). Glossy, gold-flecked aucuba foliage was placed on the left with green yellow marigolds massed in the center. The neutral tone free - form container was lined with chartreuse. Individuality was expressed in this unusual combination of materials. The aucuba plant is also called gold-dust.

A modified Hogarth curve was the feature of another design. A modern black compote was selected for this arrangement. Staging background was rose pink. The Hogarth line of beauty (lazy S curve) was achieved with the graceful, natural curves of spikes of plume celosia in a magenta red color. The line was continued with small crested celosia in a deeper shade. The lower placements of celosia were larger in size and the self - foliage was attached. The pointed leaves having a leep magenta rib down the center. Acalypha foliage was effectively placed within the curve adding depth and interest to the design. This design had great emotional appeal.

Fall is really here. Have you noticed in driving about the lovely bronzy tone the cypress trees are taking on, and the gradual change from green into brown on the pine cones. The dogwoods are lovely now with their red foliage. Each shower of rain brings down a shower of leaves from our trees, which reminds me if you have any space at all in your back garden be sure and start a compost heap. We'll talk more about it later, but now let me again remind you of Flower Show School II, next week. September 25, 26, and 27 at the United Gas Building. Registration begins at 8:00-9:00 a. m. on September 25. Horticulture lecture by Mr. C. G. Hobgood, La. Tech 9:00 a. m. to 1 p. m. Flower show practice, Mrs. M. B. Latham, Jackson, Miss. 2:00-4:00 p. m. Thurs. Sept. 26 flower arranging, design, color demonstration judging and little flower show. 9:00 a. m. to 3 p. m. Prorata charges will be made for anyone who desires to audit only a portion of the course.

Taking Stock Of Our Job Is A Good Idea

By Euna Spielman

Each of us at sometime must take stock of our job, therefore a committee of agents have been selected to assist with work by L. S. U. Extension Service. Mrs. Audrey Dawson will work with the committee on job analysis for agents doing 4-H work and I will work with committee on job analysis of home demonstration agents. We will go to L. S. U. this afternoon (Sunday) and return Tuesday afternoon or Wednesday morning.

Ouachita Valley Fair

The dates of the Ouachita Valley Fair are October 7-12. All entries will be made Monday, October 7th. If you have not obtained a premium list, you may get one at the Agricultural Building in West Monroe or from the Home Demonstration Club president in your community. A fair is put on for the people, of the people and by the people. It can only be a good fair through your participation. Be sure you bring an exhibit to help make it. The Home Demonstration Club women are working diligently to make 1957 fair the best ever — help them.

The Homemaker's Test

The test of a good homemaker, as declared by many nutritionists is her ability to prepare and serve an attractive, appetizing, well-prepared breakfeast, eaten without haste by each member of the family. Time was when the entire family had breakfast together just as they did at dinner. Breakfast has become a seriously neglected meal in most homes. (Not all, for I recently visited in a home where, when the entire family was seated, and thanks given, the father served each plate and the family talked together as they leisurely ate — Wonderful!)

Surveys show that two out of nine children leave for school with nothing to eat in the morning; and four out of ten workers leave for work with no breakfast. A good breakfast is not just a pleasant way to start the day — it is the best way to get each member of the family started off on the right foot for the day. It makes working and thinking during the morning much easier by preventing that "all gone" feeling which goes with an empty stomach. Most of us agree that an appetizing, nutritious breakfast is a good thing — the trouble is many of us don't have one.

Reasons given for neglecting breakfast as given in the survey were: "Too sleepy; its hard to get started; we wake up too late; and who wants to get out of bed anyway?"

Tackling Breakfast

You must first decide you want to do something about developing a pleasant breakfast habit. Here are a few suggestions you may use to accomplish your goal: break the preparation into two parts. The night before there may be several things that can be done, as setting the table; to prevent that too sleepy feeling and go to bed earlier. Yes, it may be you will have to give up one television program to get the good breakfast habit established in your family. When morning comes everybody (not just the homemaker) might get up a little earlier and happier. Then share the jobs with other members of the family. After this breakfast, you (even father) might scrape out his dishes and put them to soak making mother's task of washing them much easier. The good brekafast habit brings even longer range benefits; a happier, healthier, more vigorous people.

This Is Honey Month

They say every dog has his day but honey has a month. Since it is a multi - purpose food, it deserves a month recognition. Facts are: Honey is a great energy food. Honey is a natural, unrefined food. Honey has two chief sugars, levulose and destrose. It has been clinically demonstrated that absorption takes place quickly. In addition to its contents of sugar, honey contains many of the minerals which are known to be necessary for the growth and health of the human body. The minerals in honey are iron, copper, sodium, potassium, manganese, calcium, magnesium, and phosphorous. Most of the important constituents of the vitamin B complex are found in honey and also some vitamin C. There are hormones and some amino acids. Recent research shows that honey contains some biotin and folic acid. Honey is a pleasant source of readily needed energy for growing children. Bacteria which cause diseases in human beings cannot grow in honey. Hence, it is considered a safe and wholesome food. Be sure to use some Louisiana honey this month in feeding the family.

HOME GROWN TROPICAL DELICACY—It's by no means the largest ever seen here, but this pineapple is fragrantly distinctive in that so far as can be determined, it is probably the first one every grown in Ouachita Parish. Potted pineapple plants have long been popular household decorations, but many persons had considered it impossible to induce one to produce fruit. However, Mrs. W. E. Driskill of 101 Conrad Street in West Monroe, has done the "impossible". Two years ago, she bought a fresh pineapple at the grocery store, cut off the cap, and set it in a flower pot of dirt taken from the yard. Much to her surprise, it bloomed late this Spring, and this miniature pineapple was the result. She believes that use of selected soil and plant food would have produced a normal size fruit. Annual Church Bazaar Arranged

Three Catholic parishes, St. Matthews, Our Lady of Fatima and St. Joseph, will hold their annual church bazaar Wednesday and Thursday, Nov. 6 and 7.

Profits from the bazaar are divided equally among the three for church improvements.

St. Matthews gynasium at 311 Grammont Street will again be the site for the affair, with food, handwork, games and surprise packages all contributing to the occasion.

Msgr. Marsh, Father Martinez and Father Hannon extend an invitation to the public to attend.

Sloped ceiling and dormers, often a decorating problem, can be pleasantly disguised by using the same wallpaper pattern on walls and ceilings. The pattern used should be a scattered, stylized flower, dot or check with no particular direction to it.

'Male Animal' Readings Set At Northeast

Readings for roles in "The Male Animal," first major production scheduled this season by Northeast State's drama section are set for Wednesday and Thursday at 3:15 p.m. in Brown Auditorium on the campus.

The performance has parts for eight men and five women.

Rehearsals will begin Friday at a time to be announced by George C. Brian, assistant professor of speech and director of the play.

The production will have a two-night run on October 30 and 31 in Brown Auditorium.

The rollicking comedy, written by author and cartoonist James Thurber and writer Elliott Nugent, has been successfully revived on the Broadway stage. It was a popular movie and a stage production presented a few seasons ago by the Monroe Little Theatre.

Tulane University last year gave a performance of "The Male Animal."

The play is a fast moving comedy dealing with life on a college campus. The plot revolves around a college professor, his wife, and his wife's former sweetheart.

"The Male Animal" promises to be both timely and entertaining, Brian said.

Human Rights Commemorated With Stamps

Each year the United Nations postal administration issues a commemorative stamp honoring Human Rights Day. This year's set of two will make a first day appearance on Dec. 10. The 3-cent stamp will be green and the 8-cent stamp gray.

Depicted will be a flaming torch symbolizing "human rights and the endeavor to put into practice the Universal Declaration of Human Rights adopted by the General Assembly of the United Nations on Dec. 10, 1948."

The U. N. Postal Administration also announced that a third international panel of stamp designers has been named to serve as designers of U. N. issues for 1958.

Those named were S. L. Hartz of the Netherlands, Minoru Hisano of Japan and Renato Ferrini of Italy.

Four semi - postals have been issued by the Netherlands Antilles to honor the 8th Central American and Caribbean Soccer Championships held at Curacao. All three adhesives show men playing soccer.

The Australian War Memorial at Canberra will be depicted on new stamps to be issued early in 1958, says the Australian Post Office Dept. The central design will show the courtyard of the memorial with the dome of the Hall of Memory in the background.

A new set of commemorative stamps has been issued by Nicaragua to honor its Merchant Marine. The stamps are printed in three colors. The regular values are 4 c, 5 c, 6 c, 10 c, 15c and 50 c.

Western Germany is so proud of its television industry that it has issued a new 10 pfennig stamp honoring TV.

The design, however, is one of the oddest ever depicted on postage stamps. Featured is a video screen with a blur of light on it — but no picture. The designers claim the light is supposed to represent the television set "warming up before the picture appears."

Volume II of Scott's 1958 Standard Postage Stamp Catalogue gives particular attention to air-mail stamps. Prices of many airmails have been raised and a total of 33,588 prices have been revised in the 1,300 page book which covers the issues of Europe, Asia and Africa.

Some of the interesting revisions include: 1,003 changes in Austria, 429 for Israel, 287 for the Vatican. More prices were changed in Germany than in any other country — 1,704.

The 1958 edition has 24 more pages than last year. It sells for $6. Volume I, which covers the United States, British Commonwealth and Latin America, will be published in October. The combined edition is due in November.

John Wayne, Janet Leigh Starring In 'Jet Pilot'

One of the most dangerous, difficult and exciting projects in Hollywood history ended at Edwards Air Force Base on Muroc Dry Lake in California's stark Mojave Desert when a company of RKO Studio technicians and Army Air Force personnel bid each other goodbye following completion of 16 months of aerial filming on Howard Hughes' "Jet Pilot."

JOHN WAYNE

Their efforts and the remarkable film they secured was just a position of the overall production on this Technicolor drama of the modern air age, which co-stars John Wayne, Janet Leigh and the U. S. Air Force. The picture, which comes to the Jim Theatre on Thursday after more years of preparation and filming than ever before devoted to the production of any film, is a story of high adventure, espionage and bold intrigue, with sufficient romance and hilarious comedy to please all tastes.

To get some idea of its scope in depicting the thrilling activities of the men who fly faster than sound, it is important that an understanding of the problems faced and overcome in its filming be acquired.

Fourteen air bases throughout the United States participated in the operation, but it was at Muroc that filming started and at Muroc that it ended. The hard core of the "Jet Pilot" unit consisted of Jules Furthman, producer; Philip G. Cochran, director of aerial sequences; William Clothier, aerial photographer, and Captain J. S Nash, U. S. A. F., Project pilot. Together with studio technicians and Air Force personnel assigned to the unit, they usually traveled in a chartered airliner accompanied by their B-45 jet camera plane.

Early attempts to properly photograph jet fighters in flight met with failure.

Up With The Curtain

While the heat of Indian Summer still holds Twin City temperatures near the 90 mark, another season of music, drama and art is taking shape in the northeast Louisiana culture capital.

Little Theatre already has a play on the boards, Twin City Concerts kicks off a membership drive tomorrow night and late October will see the Twin City Symphony open its campaign for a sixth consecutive year.

Columbia is pushing another art festival — Caldwell parish's second in as many years, while over at suburban Ruston, the Louisiana Tech concert series has reached the proportions o, anything New Orleans has to offer.

For those who care to venture across the mountains of Arcadia, Shreveport offers some good, solid entertainment fare.

What is all this curtain raising about? Has the country gone off its rocker over fine arts? Not completely; to the Anglo-Saxon, the music made by the stock market reports furnish the depth of feeling and variety of moods which Beethoven or Tchaikowsky could not hope to compete with.

However, the fact that Arthur Fiedler walked away from Monroe last February with about a thousand dollars more in his tux pocket than when he walked in had a certain mercenary appeal. And the Boston Pops orchestra — which drew pay above and beyond the thousand Fiedler got for leading it — appealed to many who marvelled over the music for its own sake.

These concert series which are found in virtually every town and city of over 25,000 population in the country as well as virtually all college and university setups enable the top talent of the world to be brought to a local stage.

Sometimes billed as "a Carnegie Hall in every town," the organized audience plans to operate on a non-profit basis at the local level. In other words, some 150 interested persons in a town the size of Monroe prevail upon their friends at a ratio of one to ten and build up an audience of 1500-2000 members.

With the house thus a sell-out in advance of the season, the artists are assured their pay before they hit the road from New York, Paris or the back stretches of the Black Forest.

Of course, the New York managements get their share of the profits from the local series' non-profit efforts. But the system functions so well until the finest European artists now compete to tour America. And no one can deny that a subsidy pushed from the consumer level — where there is a demand — is better than one decided upon by the Washington planners.

So much for the imported talent except to mention that Twin City Concerts already has on its books the Chicago Opera Ballet and the Metropolitan Opera soprano, Eleanor Steber for the 1957-58 season.

The Little Theatre's Selman field playhouse is from all reports alive with rehearsals of the "Reluctant Debutante," and the increased enrollment at Northeast State promises a bigger Twin City symphony. The stepped up activity in the direction of violin playing — initiated by the college several years back — is definitely paying dividends in the case of the latter group.

So the curtain goes up for the fall season of live entertainment both roving and domestic in northeast Louisiana's culture center.

It seems paradoxical that declarer could avoid a ruff by postponing the drawing of trumps.

But declarer in today's hand managed to execute a simple little safety play when he diagnosed that the defense was trying to obtain a ruff to defeat his slam contract.

The six heart was the height of soundness. After North's response of two clubs, South made a jump shift of three diamonds, forcing to game and immediately suggestive of a slam. North was well primed to head toward slam but temporized momentarily with a return to three hearts, awaiting further information from partner. With hearts established as trumps, South took the precaution to check for aces, for North might have a very good aceless hand. When it was established that the enemy held only one ace, South resolved the issue then and there.

After listening to South's vigorous bidding, West concluded that a spade lead held forth no prospect for the defense and decided to play upon the theory that South, in addition to hearts and diamonds, had at least two cards in his partner's suit.

This would make it highly likely that East could obtain a second round ruff in clubs or conceivably the damage might be done on the first round. He therefore led the ten of clubs. Declarer suspected the enemy plot, though he could not tell from which side the ruff impended. An immediate trump lead would be fatal if the player with the long clubs held the ace of trumps.

So declarer cashed the ace of spades, ruffed himself into dummy with a second round of diamonds and discarded his remaining club on the king of spades. Now came time for the trump lead. West was in with the ace of hearts but realized that the club ruff was not available.

Dean Martin Carvorting With The Serious Actors

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 21 (AP)—Dean Martin, after 10 years in movies as Jerry Lewis' partner, is now cavorting with the serious actors.

He is co-starring with Marlon Brando and Monty Clift in "The Young Lions."

"I guess I'm doing okay," says Dean. "Eddie Dmytryk (the director) usually says 'print it' after a take or two."

But it's quite a transition.

"In all my pictures with Jerry, my dialogue just consisted of repeating whatever Jerry said. Like he would say: 'I'm going to take a bath.' Then my line would be: 'You gonna take a bath, Jerry?'

"I kept repeating like that for 10 years, and it's kind of hard to shake. The first day I'm in Paris for a scene with Monty, he says something like: "What time is it?" Instead of coming up with two o'clock, I kept saying: 'You askin' me what time it is, Monty?' "

Dmytryk says Dean is more than holding his own with Brando and Clift, who are capable actors. The director believes that Dean's performance may do as much for him as "From Here to Eternity" did for Frank Sinatra.

Martin and Lewis were doing great as a team. Then came the feud, and some predicted that both boys as singles would never reach their team peak.

A few months ago it was reported that Jerry would gross close to five millions this year. Dean, who has never worked as hard as Jerry, will gross as much as he wants to. He gets $200,000 for his role in "The Young Lions."

Starting Oct. 5, he will do the first of six television shows for NBC. On Nov. 20, he goes into the Sands Hotel in Las Vegas at $25,000 a week — the same figure that Martin and Lewis as a team used to get. Jerry also gets $25,000 per at the Sands as a single.

Dean will cut at least 50 records for Capitol and probably take another six weeks of night club engagements in Miami, Havana and Hollywood. He will do at least one more picture this year.

"I know I'm supposed to be a guy who doesn't like work, but I think I'll keep pretty busy for awhile," laughs Dean.

Hollywood (AP) — Here's how one university — with a famous alumnus — will add $250,000 to its endowment fund in a solid show business way.

The University is Gonzaga of Spokane, Wash., and the alumnus is Bing Crosby. When Bing and Frank Sinatra co-star next month on CBS-TV, Gonzaga will get producer credit — and deservedly so.

A source close to the project discloses how Gonzaga figured in the project.

"Gonzaga, like all private colleges, is having a tough time raising endowments," the source says, "so the administration of the school at a meeting one day explored new methods. Father Frank Corkery, S. J., former president and a classmate of Bing's, suggested that maybe Bing might go for the idea of his alma mater packaging a television show with the old groaner as star.

"Bing liked the idea and instructed George Rosenberg, his agent, to contact sponsors. Meanwhile, Sinatra dropped in Bing's house and when he heard about it, he said: 'You got me for nothing.' Bing was so pleased that he immediately offered to appear on Sinatra's TV series for nothing.

"Neither Bing nor Frank, who could command a pile, is taking a cent for the show. The sponsor, introducing a new car, wanted a blockbuster of a TV show, so he offered Rosenberg $350,000 for the package.

"Rosenberg waived his $35,000 commission for the benefit of the school. As a result, the $350,000 show will cost about $100,000 to produce. Gonzaga gets the rest."

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Charles Herbert is a featured actor in "Houseboat" with Cary Grant and Sophia Loren. He apparently is the only one on the set who isn't impressed with Miss Loren's famous figure.

When Sophia did a swimming scene, a reporter asked him if his sister looked that good in a bathing suit.

"She looks even worse," solemnly answered Herbert who is only eight years old.

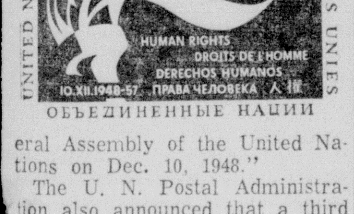
Human Rights Commemorated With Stamps

Each year the United Nations postal administration issues a commemorative stamp honoring Human Rights Day. This year's set of two will make a first day appearance on Dec. 10. The 3-cent stamp will be green and the 8-cent stamp gray.

Depicted will be a flaming torch symbolizing "human rights and the endeavor to put into practice the Universal Declaration of Human Rights adopted by the General Assembly of the United Nations on Dec. 10, 1948."



The U. N. Postal Administration also announced that a third international panel of stamp designers has been named to serve as designers of U. N. issues for 1958.

Those named were S. L. Hartz of the Netherlands, Minoru Hisano of Japan and Renato Ferrini of Italy.

Four semi - postals have been issued by the Netherlands Antilles to honor the 8th Central American and Caribbean Soccer Championships held at Curacao. All three adhesives show men playing soccer.

The Australian War Memorial at Canberra will be depicted on new stamps to be issued early in 1958, says the Australian Post Office Dept. The central design will show the courtyard of the memorial with the dome of the Hall of Memory in the background.

A new set of commemorative stamps has been issued by Nicaragua to honor its Merchant Marine. The stamps are printed in three colors. The regular values are 4 c, 5 c, 6 c, 10 c, 15c and 50 c.

Western Germany is so proud of its television industry that it has issued a new 10 pfennig stamp honoring TV.

The design, however, is one of the oddest ever depicted on postage stamps. Featured is a video screen with a blur of light on it — but no picture. The designers claim the light is supposed to represent the television set "warming up before the picture appears."

Volume II of Scott's 1958 Standard Postage Stamp Catalogue gives particular attention to airmail stamps. Prices of many airmails have been raised and a total of 33,588 prices have been revised in the 1,300 page book which covers the issues of Europe, Asia and Africa.

Some of the interesting revisions include: 1,003 changes in Austria, 429 for Israel, 287 for the Vatican. More prices were changed in Germany than in any other country — 1,704.

The 1958 edition has 24 more pages than last year. It sells for $6. Volume I, which covers the United States, British Commonwealth and Latin America, will be published in October. The combined edition is due in November.

John Wayne, Janet Leigh Starring In 'Jet Pilot'

One of the most dangerous, difficult and exciting projects in Hollywood history ended at Edwards Air Force Base on Muroc Dry Lake in California's stark Mojave Desert when a company of RKO Studio technicians and Army Air Force personnel bid each other goodbye following completion of 16 months of aerial filming on Howard Hughes' "Jet Pilot."

JOHN WAYNE

Their efforts and the remarkable film they secured was just a position of the overall production on this Technicolor drama of the modern air age, which co-stars John Wayne, Janet Leigh and the U. S. Air Force. The picture, which comes to the Jim Theatre on Thursday after more years of preparation and filming than ever before devoted to the production of any film, is a story of high adventure, espionage and bold intrigue, with sufficient romance and hilarious comedy to please all tastes.

To get some idea of its scope in depicting the thrilling activities of the men who fly faster than sound, it is important that an understanding of the problems faced and overcome in its filming be acquired.

Fourteen air bases throughout the United States participated in the operation, but it was at Muroc that filming started and at Muroc that it ended. The hard core of the "Jet Pilot" unit consisted of Jules Furthman, producer; Philip G. Cochran, director of aerial sequences; William Clothier, aerial photographer, and Captain J. S. Nash, U. S. A. F., Project pilot. Together with studio technicians and Air Force personnel assigned to the unit, they usually traveled in a chartered airliner accompanied by their B-45 jet camera plane.

Early attempts to properly photograph jet fighters in flight met with failure.

Up With The Curtain

While the heat of Indian Summer still holds Twin City temperatures near the 90 mark, another season of music, drama and art is taking shape in the northeast Louisiana culture capital.

Little Theatre already has a play on the boards, Twin City Concerts kicks off a membership drive tomorrow night and late October will see the Twin City Symphony open its campaign for a sixth consecutive year.

Columbia is pushing another art festival — Caldwell parish's second in as many years, while over at suburban Ruston, the Louisiana Tech concert series has reached the proportions of anything New Orleans has to offer.

For those who care to venture across the mountains of Arcadia, Shreveport offers some good, solid entertainment fare.

What is all this curtain raising about? Has the country gone off its rocker over fine arts? Not completely; to the Anglo-Saxon, the music made by the stock market reports furnish the depth of feeling and variety of moods which Beethoven or Tchaikowsky could not hope to compete with.

However, the fact that Arthur Fiedler walked away from Monroe last February with about a thousand dollars more in his tux pocket than when he walked in had a certain mercenary appeal. And the Boston Pops orchestra — which drew pay above and beyond the thousand Fiedler got for leading it — appealed to many who marvelled over the music for its own sake.

These concert series which are found in virtually every town and city of over 25,000 population in the country as well as virtually all college and university setups enable the top talent of the world to be brought to a local stage.

Sometimes billed as "a Carnegie Hall in every town," the organized audience plans to operate on a non-profit basis at the local level. In other words, some 150 interested persons in a town the size of Monroe prevail upon their friends at a ratio of one to ten and build up an audience of 1500-2000 members.

With the house thus a sell-out in advance of the season, the artists are assured their pay before they hit the road from New York, Paris or the back stretches of the Black Forest.

Of course, the New York managements get their share of the profits from the local series' monprofit efforts. But the system functions so well until the finest European artists now compete to tour America. And no one can deny that a subsidy pushed from the consumer level — where there is a demand — is better than one decided upon by the Washington planners.

So much for the imported talent except to mention that Twin City Concerts already has on its books the Chicago Opera Ballet and the Metropolitan Opera soprano, Eleanor Steber for the 1957-58 season.

The Little Theatre's Selman field playhouse is from all reports alive with rehearsals of the "Reluctant Debutante," and the increased enrollment at Northeast State promises a bigger Twin City symphony. The stepped up activity in the direction of violin playing — initiated by the college several years back — is definitely paying dividends in the case of the latter group.

So the curtain goes up for the fall season of live entertainment both roving and domestic in northeast Louisiana's culture center.

It seems paradoxical that declarer could avoid a ruff by postponing the drawing of trumps.

But declarer in today's hand managed to execute a simple little safety play when he diagnosed that the defense was trying to obtain a ruff to defeat his slam contract.

The six heart was the height of soundness. After North's response of two clubs, South made a jump shift of three diamonds, forcing to game and immediately suggestive of a slam. North was well primed to head toward slam but temporized momentarily with a return to three hearts, awaiting further information from partner. $10,000 Prize Offered For Pure White Marigold

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 21 — An offer of $10,000 for a white marigold was renewed today by David Burpee, President of W. Atlee Burpee Co., world's largest mail order seed house.

Mr. Burpee made the announcement after judges had inspected trials of marigolds grown from seed sent in by 352 gardeners from all parts of the United States, as well as Canada and Costa Rica. Each of the gardeners had hoped he had found the long - sought white marigold which has eluded professional plant breeders for more than 20 years.

Reporting on the trial inspections, Mr. Burpee said:

"We found no pure white marigold, but we were tremendously impressed with the progress made in this direction. The selections made by home gardeners are getting closer and closer to white each year. It's really just a matter of time now before someone finds a pure white marigold in his garden."

While no pure white marigold was found in the trials, conducted at Burpee's Floradale Farms, Lompoc, California, plants from seed sent in by seven gardeners had "outstanding merit." Receiving a special award for this achievement were:

Mrs. Eo. C. Hill, 1212 South Archer Ave., Mundelein, Ill.

Mrs. Vern Spotts, West Union, Ill.

Mr. John H. Foote, 403 West Colombia Ave., Champaign, Ill.

Mrs. Elsie B. Clark, Box 89, Star Route, Roanoke Rapids, N. C.

Mrs. Lillian G. Belt, Frederick Ave., Mt. Airy, Md.

Mrs. E. A. Harding, Box 52, Chester Heights, Pa.

Mrs. R. W. Blanchard, 609 Blair Road, Falls Church, Va.

Aiding Mr. Burpee in the judging were Dr. V. T. Stoutemyer, chairman of the Department of Floriculture and Ornamental Horticulture, U. C. L. A., Los Angeles, Calif., and Dr. John G. Seeley, head of the department of flouriculture and ornamental horticulture, Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y. Dr. Stoutemyer served as chairman of the judging committee.

The public search for a pure white marigold was launched in 1954. Gardeners are invited to send to the Burpee Co. about 100 seeds of what they believe to be white marigolds. Each entry is carefully recorded and planted in special trial beds at Floradale Farms. Judging takes place when the flowers are in full bloom.

To speed the search for a pure white marigold, Burpee each year makes available to gardeners new hybrids and new selections of the palest yellow and cream colors in a mixture called Nearest - to - White. A mutation in the next generation of any of these may produce the long - sought pure white.

Playlet Paints Moral: No Interests Are Aging

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

This little playlet took place in a restaurant. Similar ones no doubt occur many places every singe day. At the table next to mine two women were talking. I judged from the conversation that they had been in school together but had not seen one another for years.

First woman (poorly groomed, poor posture, a defeated look and too many pounds): "I just can't get over running into you like this! I have thought of you many times duing the years since we were in college together . . . but you know how it is."

Second woman (well-groomed, alert, lovely figure): "Yes, indeed. I don't know where the time goes! I never am able to do half the things I want to do. But I did want us to keep in better touch. I was sorry you did not join that class in ceramics with me. You always loved that sort of thing, and I never could get you to go swimming after your first baby arrived."

First woman. "I don't know! It just seemed impossible at the time to take those classes or to go anywhere, with the children and all. Of course I did have some help but——"

Second woman. "It still isn't too late. Our children are school age now and the classes are in the morning. They are starting some beginning courses next week."

First woman. "You know, you haven't changed one bit. You don't look a day older. I don't know how you keep your figure and find time to do all of those things you do, but I guess you have a maid. That makes a big difference."

Second woman. "I haven't had a maid for years. We can't afford one."

First woman. "How did you get along with your painting? You used to love that but I suppose you have dropped it, what with the children and all."

Second woman. "Nope! I don't have any real talent but my technique has improved and I have exhibited a few of my pictures."

First woman. "That's great! Honestly I cannot get over you. You look so young and I have aged so much."

Second woman. "Oh, stop it! All you have to do is to lose a few pounds and get out of the house once in a while and you will bloom."

First woman. "I'd really like to but I just don't see how I can find the time."

At this point they left the table and left me newly impressed with the moral — when women lack a keen interest in the world about them, if they fail to develop old interests and add new ones, they almost always age rapidly.

I am awfully afraid this lady stayed in her rut. Why? I don't know! Perhaps because of discouragement, or timidity, or habit, or maybe because of lack of energy due to a poor state of health. BUT boredom can make one feel ill!

Tomorrow: Take a Tip from the Past and Have a Leisurely Bath."

New Mexico Youngster Trying Well-Gloved Hand At Falconry

By JACK SAMSON

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP)—A young New Mexico boy is trying his hand at the "Sport of Kings."

And no mean trick it is, this mastering of the medieval sport of falconry.

The young enthusiast is John Griggs, 13, who has raised a prairie falcon and plans to train it for hunting.

The boy and his father, Roy L. Griggs, a geologist with the U.S. Geological Survey, took the young hawk from a nest on a cliff near Tucumcari this spring. Named Buccaneer and nearly full size now, the fierce-looking bird stays on a perch either in the garage of the Griggs' home or on the lawn of the back yard.

John, who became interested in the sport several years ago, has left nothing to chance. He has corresponded with professional falconers in Europe and the United States, and obtained all necessary equipment.

In his collection of paraphernalia are leather hoods with feathered plumes, made from ancient patterns, leather gauntlets, metal bells from Pakistan and Europe, leather game bags made by British falconers, jesses (leg leashes) and special metal swivels for falcons' leashes.

When fully trained — as John hopes his bird someday will be —a hunting falcon is an impressive sight.

Unlike most hawks, which capture their prey in the air and kill it on the ground, falcons kill by striking in mid-air with a closed claw.

When game is sighted, the falconer removes the hood from the falcon's head. The hood keeps the hawk from seeing and therefore quiet. As soon as the falcon sights its prey, it takes off from the falconer's wrist and begins to circle for altitude. When the desired altitude is reached, the hawk takes off after the fleeing bird. From high above it, the falcon half closes its wings, drops in a whistling dive, "pulls out" just above its prey and strikes with clenched feet. The blow usually breaks the neck or the back of the fleeing game and it tumbles to earth. The falcon swoops and perches on the dead game until the falconer arrives.

Practiced by the nobility of Europe and before that by royalty of Asia and the Near East, falconry began to go out of vogue with the invention of firearms. Only a handful of enthusiasts practice it today.

Jonesboro Okays Two Proposals

JONESBORO (Special) — Possibility of the newly proposed recreation center and Negro swimming pool here grew nearer this week as the voters of Jonesboro went to the polls and voted unanimously to approve a combination bond issue and tax levy.

The ratio was more than 6 to one in favor of the bond issue. Wednesday's election topped off the highly proposed planning for the construction of one of the states top-flight recreation centers.

Only 18 taxpayers voted against proposition one, which called for the issuance of bonds in the amount of $120,000 to run a period of 15 years. The property vote against this was $336,930 to $59,730 against.

Only 19 taxpayers voted against proposition two which called for levy of a tax of one mill to provide funds for public recreation. The property vote for this one was $390,550 to $55,940.

After the voting the city council met and decided that the next step would be to advertise the sale of the bond early in 1958 with the hope that the proposed pool and recreation center may be placed in use by next summer.

Gorky Park No Heaven, But For Ivan It's Next Best Thing

By STERLING SLAPPEY

MOSCOW (AP)—There is no heaven for a Communist.

Instead, he tries to spend as much time as he can in Gorky Park.

The mile long area on the banks of the Moscow River, officially called Gorky Central Park of Culture and Rest, is a combination of politics, pleasure and soda pop. The mixture lacks subtlety.

Here on a warm Sunday the ardent party man can stroll among merry - go - rounds, ferris wheels and games. He also can get his refreshing fill of political slogans and production statistics.

Reminder of Reality

After a comrade has an exhilarating ride on a merry - go-round he is brought back to reality by a nearby sign which says, "If every worker loses one minute from his job it would cost 500 million rubles — enough to build 10,000 two - room apartments."

The favorite play on the boards of Gorky Park's open air theater during the summer of 1957 was "Summer in the Village," a gripping story about a painter who falls in love with a collective farm worker.

Texas and Russia are fare apart but they have in common a love of superlatives. Russia's most recent claim is for a modernistic ferris wheel in the center of Gorky which either is the largest in Europe or the largest in the world.

No statistics on its size are available so no one can determine its true distinction. However, 42 cabins hold six riders each, making it a very big contraption.

Down near the straddled feet of the silently turning wheel is a silently circling carousel. With few exceptions, entertainment at Gorky could have been found in most any American or European amusement park 25 or 30 years ago.

Book kiosks are frequent and dispense either free or for loan, pamphlets, magazines, books and newspapers. Most of the publications deal in Communist glories and capitalist horrors.

Throughout the park are dozens of large signs with such messages as, "By 1960 the Soviet Union will be producing two automobiles every minute."

Another sign tells about production of cast iron in the Soviet Union, by 1960.

Accent on Future

Placed obviously at many of the most conspicious intersections of walkways are signs telling of the wonders to come during the sixth five - year plan.

The signs are in the future tense with the writer apparently preferring to tell what communism will do instead of what it has done.

The Order of Lenin has been awarded the park for furthering, as the citation read, 'Communist education and organizations."

It is unlikely any other Order of Lenin ever was more richly deserved.

Haynes Heads United Drive In W. Monroe

William G. Haynes, Jr., West Monroe banker, has been appointed chairman of the West Monroe business division of the United Givers Fund, according to an announcement made today by R. M. Troy, campaign chairman.

Simultaneously, Haynes announced his four area chairmen for the division would be J. W. Roberson, West Monroe banker; Gordy Roy, insurance executive; Jeff Burnett, Jr., West Monroe banker; M. L. Owens, Jr., Monroe banker.

"We are very fortunate to have men of this caliber devote their time and talents to our United Fund drive. Such outstanding leadership, coupled with the customary generosity of the business firms of West Monroe, assures us that Mr. Haynes' group will receive an outstanding response," Troy said.

Haynes stated that all business men in West Monroe should expect a call from one of his solicitors in the very near future and he urged that all firms give serious consideration to the amount of their gift in order that solicitors might not have to make repeated calls.

Members agencies of United Fund are the American Red Cross, the Boy Scouts of America, Colored Community Welfare, Carolyn Rose Strauss Rehabilitation Center, the Retarded Children's organization, Monroe Area Guidance Center, the Girl Scouts, Louisiana Mental Health Association, the Salvation Army, the YMCA and YWCA.

$10,000 Prize Offered For Pure White Marigold

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 21 — An offer of $10,000 for a white marigold was renewed today by David Burpee, President of W. Atlee Burpee Co., world's largest mail order seed house.

Mr. Burpee made the announcement after judges had inspected trials of marigolds grown from seed sent in by 352 gardeners from all parts of the United States, as well as Canada and Costa Rica. Each of the gardeners had hoped he had found the long - sought white marigold which has eluded professional plant breeders for more than 20 years.

Reporting on the trial inspections, Mr. Burpee said:

"We found no pure white marigold, but we were tremendously impressed with the progress made in this direction. The selections made by home gardeners are getting closer and closer to white each year. It's really just a matter of time now before someone finds a pure white marigold in his garden."

While no pure white marigold was found in the trials, conducted at Burpee's Floradale Farms, Lompoc, California, plants from seed sent in by seven gardeners had "outstanding merit." Receiving a special award for this achievement were:

Mrs. Eo. C. Hill, 1212 South Archer Ave., Mundelein, Ill.

Mrs. Vern Spotts, West Union, Ill.

Mr. John H. Foote, 403 West Colombia Ave., Champaign, Ill.

Mrs. Elsie B. Clark, Box 89, Star Route, Roanoke Rapids, N. C.

Mrs. Lillian G. Belt, Frederick Ave., Mt. Airy, Md.

Mrs. E. A. Harding, Box 52, Chester Heights, Pa.

Mrs. R. W. Blanchard, 609 Blair Road, Falls Church, Va.

Aiding Mr. Burpee in the judging were Dr. V. T. Stoutemyer, chairman of the Department of Floriculture and Ornamental Horticulture, U. C. L. A., Los Angeles, Calif., and Dr. John G. Seeley, head of the department of flouricuture and ornamental horticulture, Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y. Dr. Stoutemyer served as chairman of the judging committee.

Grecian Student Makes Long Air Journey Here To Study

By MARY ANNE CORPIN
Staff Writer

From Athens Greece — ancient before America was discovered or Monroe was founded — a lovely 17-year-old Grecian girl has come here to study at Northeast Louisiana State College.

Olga Kokinos arrived in Monroe a week ago Friday night, after a 32-hour flight. "From the air, the lights of Monroe made it look like a magic city," Olga revealed, adding that she arrived here at 8 p.m., after changing planes at Brussels, Belgium; Manchester, England; New York City and Memphis, Tenn.

"For two years, I'll study here. Then I'll attend a university," she stated. The prospect of six years away from home might be dismal, if her uncle Gus Kokinos of 817 St. John street, and her cousin, Mrs. Despina Cascio, were not living in Monroe.

Olga is majoring in chemical engineering at Northeast. "We have courses for architects, contsruction engineers, mechanical engineers — but not chemical engineers in Greece. I think I'll go back after I finish my studies, because if you are a scientist, you can have a good job and live well in Greece," she explained.

Used to hard work, Olga studied 15 subjects each year while in the Sixth Gymnasium (high school) For Girls in Athens, plus language lessons three hours each night.

Father is Judge

Left in her hometown were her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Kokinos, and four younger sisters. Her father is a judge, and her mother teaches in a co-educational elementary school. Separate high schools for boys only or for girls are maintained.

The United States is very much as Olga exected it to be, howerer — she saw many American motion pictures, and had the opinion that movies always depict a country as just a little bit better than it actually is — so she is not a "complete stranger" to the way of life here.

Olga is staying in the Freshman Dormitory I. "I'll need more than a few months to learn to study in English, without having to open the dictionary again and again," she laughed. She has already discussed many details of life in Greece with her housemother, Mrs. Lucy Chapman, who is very interested in foreign customs.

Weekends, she will be able to spend with her relatives, and have the opportunity to eat food prepared in the Grecian way.

"The food here is different—we use more olive oil in Greece—the country is third in olive oi production," she mentioned. "In Greece, we don't drink milk at meals. Only the children drink it, and just in the mornings. We eat a large quantity of fruit — oranges, apples, watermelon. We don't have any gardens in the town, because the houses are built side by side, and Greece has too many mountains, so there are just small fields for growing fruit and vegetables," she added.

Different Pattern

Romance follows a different pattern, also. Young unmarried people do not date, and engagements are arranged by families. The average age that girls marry is 23.

Olga stated that boys are not permitted to date high school girls. "In America, girls feel like women at 16. At that age in Greece, we are children, and we do not wear any makeup until we are 20."

"I don't think that your schoolwork will be good if you have two or three boyfriends — that way, you don't study, you are just dating all day," she explained, and said that she does not expect to date any while she is in college.

In Greece, young men expect their fiancees to have a good job and a house. Once married, divorces are not obtained easily, she stated, and added that in the U.S., just a little quarrel often results in divorce. Olga believes that any marriage "just for love" will end in divorce within six months.

Although Greece is famous for athletics and the Olympic games, the firm-spoken girl stressed that sports are not a main form of recreation although swimming is a popular summer pasttime.

Sunday Recreation

With only Sunday as a time for pleasure in Greece during school terms, Olga revealed that this seems enough to students. "All boys and girls in Greece have a dream — to study and achieve a position better than was attained by the last generation. You can't find a good job unless you are well educated. But if you do, you can live comfortably."

"To me, it seems that here people work hard, but do not enjoy themselves as much as people do in Greece, once they have a good job."

Revealing a brilliant and outspoken personality, Olga expresses her opinions on topics readily and forcefully. She was amazed at the custom which upperclass men perpetuate at the college — giving freshmen boys "unusual" haircuts.

"I saw something very strange yesterday — one boy had his hair all cut off in the center, so that he looked like a priest," she remarked, and questioned the head-shaving custom.

She expressed pleasure with the room she is assigned to in the dormitory, and with her roommate, Peggy Lee Williams of Oak Grove, who is a business major. "Peggy seems like a very intelligent, quiet girl, and I like her," Olga confided.

Once students thirsting for knowledge flocked to scholarly Greece to gain an education. Now, a fascinating Grecian girl has come to Northeast State College—and those who have met her forecast that she will succeed in all she undertakes.

Monroe Recreation Center Sparks Expression Of Art

By JIMMY HATTEN
Staff Writer

Every Thursday afternoon a number of ladies gather in a 15- by 16-foot room in the Monroe recreation center to express their innermost feelings.

They are art students. And painting, they agree, is a method of putting what they feel into a form of expression — to keep, and remember.

One student, Mrs. James Yonker, drives 33 miles from her home in Ruston every Thursday to attend the class. Another, Mrs. Dollie LaGrone, who has 12 grandchildren, faithfully embarks on a long ride on a city bus, her painting accessories in hand, to receive a few hours instruction, and put on canvas the ever - continuing cycle of human endeavors.

Under the instruction of Mrs. Courtney Oliver, who is employed by the City of Monroe at the recreation center, they find a release from their daily lives while studiously recreating scenes, whether it be of the materialistic present or the nostalgic past.

Mrs. Oliver, an adept artist herself, studied under Mrs. Dora Bennett and Madame Christian in McComb, Miss. She earned two diplomas from Mississippi State College for Women where she was instructed by Miss Mary Pinnell, whose brother Joseph is famous as an artist, and Miss Betty McArthur, who taught applied design.

Total attendance for the year in the art class is paralleling last year's, according to Mrs. Oliver.

Grandeur Recaptured

The grandeur of the Old South is recaptured in the paintings of Mrs. Sam Rizzo, who says she "depends on my imagination and some of the places I've seen," for her interpretations.

She said she is particularly interested in painting scenes as they were during the ante-bellum south because "it was a unique and interesting way of life that can never be duplicated except in interpretations, such as paintings.

Mrs. Sam Rizzo says her favorite subject is children.

The first painting Mrs. H. S. Tammell did won an award at the Columbia art festival. Mrs. Johnny Regan also won an award with her first painting. Her work won at the Magnolia, Ark., art festival.

Exhibits scheduled

Works by students here will be exhibited at the Columbia art festival Oct. 12. Mrs. Yonker will display a painting at the Louisiana Art Commission exhibit on Oct. 6.

Most of the art students, according to Mrs. Oliver, could sell their paintings, and a few have sold a number, but most do not want to part with them after they have been finished.

Some of the paintings done by the ladies may be found on the walls of their homes or in the homes of relatives or friends.

Regardless of what happens to the works after completion, they have served as a medium of self-expression, and fulfilled one of a person's innermost desires — the joy of creating.

Yarborough Blasts Ike On Inflation

AUSTIN, Tex., Sept. 21 (UP)—U. S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough tonight accused Eisenhower Administration leaders of ignoring the real threat of inflation, and said they were worried "about their political hides, not the people's stomachs."

Government workers, he said, represent the classic example of "the person on a fixed income in the runaway Republican inflation."

In a speech prepared for delivery at an Austin chapter meeting of the National Federation of Federal employes, Yarborough charged the Eisenhower Administration with ignoring "this tragic withering away of the buying power of the dollar," and called it a major threat "to our way of life today."

Endorses Pay Hike

Yarborough, who endorsed pay-raise legislation for federal employes, said backers of the bill were "blocked, and shunted, and stalled and ignored, and yes, even this too—vetoed—at every turn of the road. . ."

"Everytime there is a wage increase, the administration screams, 'look at that horrible increase — it caused the inflation.'

Meetings Set For Educators

JACKSON, Miss., Sept. 21 (AP)—The Mississippi Education Assn. today scheduled nine district meetings from Sept. 26 to Oct. 10 to consider possible recommendations for legislation of importance to school officials and to the public.

The schedule includes:

Sept. 26 at Southwest Junior College in Summit; Sept. 30 at Mississippi Southern College in Hattiesburg; Oct. 1 at Perkinston Junior College; Oct. 2 at East Central Junior College in Decatur; Oct. 3 at Mississippi State College in Starkville; Oct. 7 at Northeast Junior College in Booneville; Oct. 8 at University High School at University; Oct. 9 at Delta State College in Cleveland; and Oct. 10 at Millsaps College in Jackson.

Barber's Son Faces Charges

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 21 (UP) — A 19 year-old barber was charged today with hurling rocks through the windows of nine barber shops because, he said, they wouldn't raise their prices from 75 cents to $1, same as his father's shop charged.

Grecian Student Makes Long Air Journey Here To Study

By MARY ANNE CORPIN
Staff Writer

From Athens Greece — ancient before America was discovered or Monroe was founded — a lovely 17-year-old Grecian girl has come here to study at Northeast Louisiana State College.

Olga Kokinos arrived in Monroe a week ago Friday night, after a 32-hour flight. "From the air, the lights of Monroe made it look like a magic city," Olga revealed, adding that she arrived here at 8 p.m., after changing planes at Brussels, Belgium; Manchester, England; New York City and Memphis, Tenn.

"For two years, I'll study here. Then I'll attend a university," she stated. The prospect of six years away from home might be dismal, if her uncle Gus Kokinos of 817 St. John street, and her cousin, Mrs. Despina Cascio, were not living in Monroe.

Olga is majoring in chemical engineering at Northeast. "We have courses for architects, contsruction engineers, mechanical engineers — but not chemical engineers in Greece. I think I'll go back after I finish my studies, because if you are a scientist, you can have a good job and live well in Greece," she explained.

Used to hard work, Olga studied 15 subjects each year while in the Sixth Gymnasium (high school) For Girls in Athens, plus language lessons three hours each night.

Father is Judge

Left in her hometown were her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Kokinos, and four younger sisters. Her father is a judge, and her mother teaches in a co-educational elementary school. Separate high schools for boys only or for girls are maintained.

The United States is very much as Olga exected it to be, howerer — she saw many American motion pictures, and had the opinion that movies always depict a country as just a little bit better than it actually is — so she is not a "complete stranger" to the way of life here.

Olga is staying in the Freshman Dormitory I. "I'll need more than a few months to learn to study in English, without having to open the dictionary again and again," she laughed. She has already discussed many details of life in Greece with her housemother, Mrs. Lucy Chapman, who is very interested in foreign customs.

Weekends, she will be able to spend with her relatives, and have the opportunity to eat food prepared in the Grecian way.

"The food here is different—we use more olive oil in Greece—the country is third in olive oi production," she mentioned. "In Greece, we don't drink milk at meals. Only the children drink it, and just in the mornings. We eat a large quantity of fruit — oranges, apples, watermelon. We don't have any gardens in the town, because the houses are built side by side, and Greece has too many mountains, so there are just small fields for growing fruit and vegetables," she added.

Different Pattern

Romance follows a different pattern, also. Young unmarried people do not date, and engagements are arranged by families. The average age that girls marry is 23.

Olga stated that boys are not permitted to date high school girls. "In America, girls feel like women at 16. At that age in Greece, we are children, and we do not wear any makeup until we are 20."

"I don't think that your schoolwork will be good if you have two or three boyfriends — that way, you don't study, you are just dating all day," she explained, and said that she does not expect to date any while she is in college.

In Greece, young men expect their fiancees to have a good job and a house. Once married, divorces are not obtained easily, she stated, and added that in the U.S., just a little quarrel often results in divorce. Olga believes that any marriage "just for love" will end in divorce within six months.

Although Greece is famous for athletics and the Olympic games, the firm-spoken girl stressed that sports are not a main form of recreation although swimming is a popular summer pasttime.

Sunday Recreation

With only Sunday as a time for pleasure in Greece during school terms, Olga revealed that this seems enough to students. "All boys and girls in Greece have a dream — to study and achieve a position better than was attained by the last generation. You can't find a good job unless you are well educated. But if you do, you can live comfortably."

"To me, it seems that here people work hard, but do not enjoy themselves as much as people do in Greece, once they have a good job."

Revealing a brilliant and outspoken personality, Olga expresses her opinions on topics readily and forcefully. She was amazed at the custom which upperclass men perpetuate at the college — giving freshmen boys "unusual" haircuts.

"I saw something very strange yesterday — one boy had his hair all cut off in the center, so that he looked like a priest," she remarked, and questioned the head-shaving custom.

She expressed pleasure with the room she is assigned to in the dormitory, and with her roommate, Peggy Lee Williams of Oak Grove, who is a business major. "Peggy seems like a very intelligent, quiet girl, and I like her," Olga confided.

Once students thirsting for knowledge flocked to scholarly Greece to gain an education. Now, a fascinating Grecian girl has come to Northeast State College—and those who have met her forecast that she will succeed in all she undertakes.

RPM WITH AA1-RATING
. . . the nation's fastest growing major producer of aluminum coatings and heavy duty protective paint products is now undergoing the largest sales expansion program in the history of the Company. Immediate opening for a capable senior salesman with promotional sales experience—resourceful and creative—a self-starter.
Men with sales ability earn $10,000—$15,000 and more annually.
We are a promotion minded organization with many years of experience. Our sales in April 1957 increased 70 per cent over sales of April 1956. National advertising provides outstanding leads resulting in commissions of over $1,000.00 on individual orders. This is a real chance to join top money makers in our organization.
Call: RPM Suite—Frances Hotel—E. A. Thornton. Interviews Wednesday afternoon and evening.

The entrance hall and living room and dining room have wall-to-wall carpeting, and the house is cenerally heated. Four air conditioners are included and cool the whole house which is wonderfully insulated. You'll love the bright, cheerful kitchen which has a dining area by a window overlooking the garden. With closets galore inside the house, there are also 3 separate storage rooms (and maid's toilet) at the rear of the double carport. Please call for an appointment, and I'll gladly show today.

Syrian Foreign Minister To Address UN Assembly

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Sept. 21 (AP) — Syrian Foreign Minister Salah Bitar reached New York today to address the U.N. General Assembly. He denied Secretary of State Dulles' notion that Soviet arms in Syria threaten Turkey.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko meanwhile, in a memorandum published by the U.N. attempts to "impose their will on the peoples of several countries in Africa and the Near East by military means." He did so in asking formally that the Assembly put on its agenda an item on peaceful coexistence and urge governments to follow that principle.

The U.S. delegation's press secretary Francis W. Carpenter, said Gromyko had raised "old baseless charges against the West." He added in a statement, "They will be answered." Secretary of State Dulles meanwhile left New York to return to Washington.

In a general policy speech Thursday, Dulles told the 82-nation U.N. Assembly Turkey "faces growing military danger from the major buildup of Soviet arms in Syria." He reserved the United States' right to introduce "concrete proposals" on the Middle East later.

Raps U.S.

In his policy speech here yesterday, Gromyko charged the United States was interfering in Syria's affairs and trying to turn the Middle East "into a tinderbox." He declared the Soviet Union could not "watch impassively over a situation that affects its own security."

When he arrived at Idewild Airport from Damascus today, Bitar told reporters the Middle Eastern situation was serious now but would not be so "if the matter is left with the peoples of the Middle East."

"Syria does not constitute a danger to Turkey in any way," he said. "Turkey has not expressed this worry that Syria constitutes a danger."

He declined to say before studying Gromyko's speech whether he thought Russia was exercising a "stabilizing influence" in the Middle East.

He said Syria was arming to meet a danger to her existence from Israel. He added, "Syria can not look favorably at any state that is taking the side of Israel" and declared the United States "supports Israel throughout."

Bitar said Western Powers were committing aggression against the Arab world in Algeria—an obvious reference to France—and Oman and Yemen — A reference to Britain.

Conservation Experts Slate Texas Talks

FORT WORTH, Sept. 21 (UP) —Two of the nation's foremost conservation experts in their respective fields will address the 38th annual meeting of the Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association Oct. 1 and 2.

William McChesney Martin Jr., chairman of the board of governors of the Federal Reserve System, will address the group Oct. 2. Martin gained the tag "boy wonder" in the field of finance by becoming the first paid president of the New York Stock Exchange at 31.

Lt. Gen. Ernest O. Thompson, senior member of the Texas Railroad Commission, will speak on Oct. 1. Thompson was appointed to the Railroad Commission in 1932. He is nationally known for his support of oil conservation laws and regulations.

Two oil men will be honored at the mid-continent meeting. Distinguished service awards will be presented to Fort Worth independent oil producer Robert F. Windfor and Ohio Oil Co. President James C. Donnell II.

Oil Executive

Windfor has served as president of both the Texas Mid-Continent and the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Associations. The last group embraces several states. He was also chairman of the steering committee for the general gas committee, an industry-wide organization for the passage of the Harris-Fulbright gas bill.

Donnell has been president of the Ohio Oil Co. since 1948. He has been a director of the American Petroleum Institute since 1945 and a member of the API executive committee since 1948.

An independent oil producer and a major company executive are honored annually in recognition of outstanding contributions to development of the oil and gas industry.

Auto Theft Suspect Is Apprehended

A 17-year-old Monroe youth, who escaped arrest on a car burglary charge at 8 p.m. Friday, was apprehended later in the night and charged with auto theft after he was caught driving a pick-up truck which he claimed to have borrowed.

Dwane E. Nugent of 1200 St. John street was arrested at the corner of Jackson and DeSiard streets shortly after 11 p.m., charged with auto theft and burglary, and transferred to the parish jail.

Monroe Chief of Police James C. Kelly, Jr. said that Nugent stated he had been given permission to use the truck by an unnamed friend. The one-half-ton vehicle was loaded with $500 worth of merchandise, including paint, a complete set of bathroom fixtures, and plumbing supplies.

Thomas G. Smith of St. Joseph who reported the theft of the truck, said it was taken from N. Fourth and Louisville avenue at approximately 9 p.m.

Earlier, Glenn E. Kitchell of 2404 N. Seventh street, West Monroe, said he had caught Nugent rifling his car in the 300 block of Walnut. Nugent walked away from that, but when Kitchell checked his car, he discovered that two packs of cigarettes, a long hunting knife and a pocket knife were missing. He notified police and described the man, then identified Nugent when the youth was arrested on the theft charge.

Driver Injured In Car Wreck

One man suffered only bruises on the left side yesterday afternoon when his station wagon ran a red light on the Sterlington road, was hit by another vehicle, flipped onto one side, then turned over in a ditch, according to police.

Newell S. Herrin of 502 McGuire avenue, who suffered the injury, was charged with reckless driving by Monroe police who investigated.

Herrin was driving north on the Sterlington road, when he went through the red light at the intersection with Franklin. Charles M. Bass, 17, of 301 Sheridan avanue, who was heading east on Franklin, and had the ight of way, smashed into the left side of the station wagon, which skidded 35 feet before ending up in the ditch.

The Herrin vehicle was a total loss, and the front of the Bass car was damaged

Soviets Deny Charges Of Israeli Envoy

MOSCOW, Sept. 21 (UP)— The Soviet government today rejected as a "provocative fabrication" an Israeli diplomat's charge that he was seized illegally by Russian police and asked to spy for the Soviet intelligence service.

A statement by the Soviet foreign ministry's press department said that Eliyahu Hazan, an attache at Israel's Moscow embassy, was detained "momentarily" on charges of passing out anti-Soviet literature.

The Israeli foreign ministry charged in Tel Aviv Monday that Hazan was abducted, questioned for 26 hours and threatened with death unless he agreed to spy for Russia. Hazan, his wife and baby girl returned to Israel this week.

Asked To Comment

Asked to comment on the Israeli charges, the Soviet foreign ministry said that "the whole story was a provocative fabrication."

The ministry's press department charged that Hazan was guilty of "impermissible conduct directed against the interests of the Soviet Union."

It accused the Israeli attache of "dissemination of anti-Soviet propaganda, distribution of illegal anti-Soviet literature and attempts to use certain Soviet citizens for purposes not connected with official diplomatic activities.

Denies Reports

In denying the Tel Aviv reports, the press department gave the following Soviet account of the incident.

It said Hazan was caught in Odessa Sept. 7 in the act of handing anti-Soviet literature to a Russian citizen.

According to the Soviet statement, he refused to show any identifying document and was then detained for one hour, questioned and released upon showing his diplomats card.

Federal Court Jury Recessed In Bribe Case

DALLAS, Sept. 21 (UP)— A federal court jury was recessed for the weekend today after it told Federal Judge T. Whitfield Davidson it had not yet reached a decision in the bribery solicitation case of Howard Edward Taub of Fort Worth.

The jury of 10 men and two women had told Judge Davidson today it didn't believe it could reach a verdict "at any time soon." But the judge gave the jury an "allen charge," or instructions for the minority to reconsider in view of the majority opinion.

Taub, 37-year-old Fort Worth jewelry salesman, is accused with soliciting and receiving a $500 bribe with the understanding it would influence his testimony before a tax agent in an investigation of the tax liability of Barney and Dave Greenburg, Corpus Christi jewelers.

The prosecution played a tape recording today over strong objection by defense attorneys taken from a radio transmitter secreted in a coat pocked of Samuel Ziegler, Dallas CPA and attorney.

Ziegler testified Friday he made the payoff to Taub in the Republic National Bank of Dallas.

A voice identified as Taub's said in the transcription:

"I don't want a check. I had enough on Dave in 1950 to hang him. I don't want to do nothing underhanded to hurt them."

Taub, who testified for himself, didn't disown the voice on the tape. He contended the Greenburgs, for whom he worked at one time, owed him $1,000 and the money he took from Ziegler was part of that debt.

M'Keldin's Knowledge Of Race Dispute Questioned

DEALE, Md., Sept. 21 (AP) — A militant woman lawyer today questioned Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin's knowledge of the racial climate in his own state.

But, otherwise, quiet pervaded this little fishing village off Chesapeake Bay where segregationists forced the withdrawal of a 6-year-old Negro boy from a white school this week.

Anne Arundel County and Maryland state police reported no signs of trouble. They also said they had made no arrests in a series of incidents which included window-smashing, motorcades and a cross-burning.

Mrs. Paulina W. Remey of Deale, only woman member of the County Board of Commissioners, fired criticism at the governor for the second time in two days. McKeldin only yesterday condemned the incidents as the "moronic" work of "a few community misfits."

Oppose Admission

Mrs. Remey estimated that 93 per cent of the residents of Deale were against admission of Harry Jones Jr., son of a Negro physician, to the first grade of the white elementary school.

"If Mr. McKeldin stayed at home more, he would find out that his state reacts differently to integration in different sections," Mrs. Remey said. "It can be pursued more rapidly in some places than in others."

A supporter of states' rights, Mrs. Remey saids he thinks the Supreme Court decree banning school segregation was political. But she said so long as it is the law of the land she does not advocate violence.

Noting McKeldin's promise to Dr. Jones of police protection if he would re-enroll his son in the school, Mrs. Remey said: "No one, not even Gov. McKeldin, could promise Dr. Jones wouldn't be harmed. I feel it was not fair to Dr. Jones for Gov. McKeldin to make that statement."

Jones, the only resident physician in Deale, repeated today a statement made after a cross was burned on his lawn Thursday night. He said he would not send the boy back to school under any circumstances, but would enroll him somewhere out of the area next week.

Gov. McKeldin was not available for comment. He is an Atlanta enroute to the Southern Governors' Conference which begins tomorrow at Sea Island, Ga. He recently returned from a trip to Europe and carries on a rather active speaking schedule.

10 In Texas Reported Dead By Violence

By UNITED PRESS

Fire, automobile and drowning accidents started the week end off on a tragic note for Texans Saturday.

Ten persons die dviolently, two by drowning, seven in highway smashups, and one by fire, a United Press survey started at 6 p.m. Friday showed.

Four persons were injured, one severely, when a private plane tried to land with a failing engine at Atlanta, Tex., and crashed short of the runway.

Joe O. Davila, 38, and Pablo Castro Cantu, 53, were drowned early Saturday in the Colorado River near Austin. Davila went into the water, got into trouble, and Cantu tried to save him. The bodies were recovered.

Fire Swept Home

Mildred Summage, 30, Houston Negro woman, died when a fire swept through her four-room home. Firemen found her stretched out, unconscious, on the floor, hands reaching toward the door. She died in a hospital.

Jerry Lemon Hunter, 17, and his sister, Lillian Mae Hunter, 8, of Windham, Tex., were killed near Bonham when the automobile they occupied collided with a truck shortly before noon Saturday.

Randolph Blackman, 26, of Trinity, and Mrs. Ellen Smith, 58, of Riverside, were killed when two automobiles collided near Trinity Friday night.

Crashed Into Bridge

Gene Luster, 8, of Pampa, was killed Friday night when the automobile driven by his mother, Mrs. Wanda June Luster, 25, crashed into a bridge near Sayre, Okla.

Joseph Williams, 25, a Negro man, died in a hospital Saturday of injuries he suffered when his car climbed a tree and turned back over on him near Houston.

Charles McNutt, 67, of Olney, was killed Friday in a two-car accident four miles west of Mankins, near Wichita Falls.

The plane was en route to Shreveport when it crashed at Atlanta. Aboard were Mrs. Rose Burgess, Betsy Madlock, and Tommy Roberts, Texarkana, and W. E. Alexander of Little Rock.

Mrs. Burgess suffered possible internal injuries.

Reds Announce New Airliner

LONDON, Sept. 21 (AP) — Radio Moscow said a production model of a Russian airliner capable of carrying 100 passengers nonstop for 3,000 miles at speeds up to 404 miles an hour completed a long experimental flight today.

The broadcasts said the Moskva, powered by four turbo-prop engines, "can compete with any foreign passenger aircraft."

Mildred Summage, 30, Houston Negro woman, died when a fire swept through her four-room home. Firemen found her stretched out, unconscious, on the floor, hands reaching toward the door. She died in a hospital.

Jerry Lemon Hunter, 17, and his sister, Lillian Mae Hunter, 8, of Windham, Tex., were killed near Bonham when the automobile they occupied collided with a truck shortly before noon Saturday.

Randolph Blackman, 26, of Trinity, and Mrs. Ellen Smith, 58, of Riverside, were killed when two automobiles collided near Trinity Friday night.

Crashed Into Bridge

Gene Luster, 8, of Pampa, was killed Friday night when the automobile driven by his mother, Mrs. Wanda June Luster, 25, crashed into a bridge near Sayre, Okla.

Joseph Williams, 25, a Negro man, died in a hospital Saturday of injuries he suffered when his car climbed a tree and turned back over on him near Houston.

Charles McNutt, 67, of Olney, was killed Friday in a two-car accident four miles west of Mankins, near Wichita Falls.

The plane was en route to Shreveport when it crashed at Atlanta. Aboard were Mrs. Rose Burgess, Betsy Madlock, and Tommy Roberts, Texarkana, and W. E. Alexander of Little Rock.

Mrs. Burgess suffered possible internal injuries.

Reds Announce New Airliner

LONDON, Sept. 21 (AP) — Radio Moscow said a production model of a Russian airliner capable of carrying 100 passengers nonstop for 3,000 miles at speeds up to 404 miles an hour completed a long experimental flight today.

The broadcasts said the Moskva, powered by four turbo-prop engines, "can compete with any foreign passenger aircraft."
